To a Gloomy Cell in an Ottawa Police Station.

OTTAWA, Oct. 16.—Thomas McCormick, a farmer's son, aged 20, hailing from Canaan, Russell County, came here to-day expecting to meet an American from whom he fondly imagined he would receive a big sum of counterfeit money for a small consideration. He met instead Inspector Dan O'Leary of the Dominion police and is now in custody.

Government Detective Sherwood has a list of 300 Canadians who have responded to the carefully-worded circulars with which the New York crooks are flooding the country. This information reached him from Anthony Comstock, postoffice inspector in New York. The victims included several prominent business men. Young McCormick bit at the bait like so many others. The letter he wrote the New York green goods men was intercepted by Mr. Comstock. It reads as follows:

MY DEAR FRIEND: I greatly regret having to send for the medicine, as I would far rather have a personal interview, but I find that I am not able to raise enough to meet you face to face, so I am sending you all I can raise. I thought when I telegraphed for instructions that I would be able to raise $300. So I hope you will excuse this one error, for, believe me, I would far rather invest a large amount if I could. You will find enclosed five $10's, for which you will kindly send two $50's, five $20's, twenty $10's and twenty $5's. I would like to have them look old, also let me know if I will follow the instructions you sent me, or will I telegraph for more instructions. Trusting you will forward without delay, I remain, in honor and gratitude, THOMAS MCCORMICK.
Canaan P. O., Russell County,
Ontario, Canada.

Chief Sherwood thereupon wrote McCormick a type-written letter dated and mailed from New York, and arranged to meet McCormick at the Windsor Hotel, Ottawa. The guileless youth met the inspector in room 72 to-day and was taken into custody.

YEE QUON IN DEATH ROBES.

Silk and Cambric and Tinkling Golden Bells Make Up the Outfit

PITTSBURG, Oct. 16.—Yee Quou, the Quantstreet Chinaman, who died of consumption at the Homeopathic Hospital, lies in state at the public morgue.

Yee's remains make anything but a pleasant picture as they lie on the morgue slab. His long, attenuated body has an uncanny appearance, and ugly scars of disease and riot sear his face. From head to foot he is dressed in Chinese fashion; in fact, "his best suit of clothes" are on him.

The funeral director laid out the remains yesterday. A short white shirt of fine cambric was first put on. Then Quou's feet were encased in white cambric hose, on which fantastic figures in blue silk were worked. His dark red blouse, with grotesque images representing the satellites of Joss, god of the Chinese, which meant an indirect appeal for mercy on poor Quou's soul, was then put on the dead Chinaman. His blue muslin trousers, on the ends of which were small tinkling bells, followed next. The pantaloons were held in place with a girdle of dark green cloth and gold binding, and on this Joss was again importuned to save Quon from hades, or the place where wicked Chinamen go. Yee's shoes were diminutive bits of flowered cloth, leather, wood and muslin. These and his great coat of blue broadcloth, fastened by buttons of gold, were placed in position.

Quou then needed nothing but his cap to complete his burial outfit. When the cap was put on his head it gave Quou a funny appearance. He looked as if about to say: "Checkee, or no washee!" The cap was a polo, the inside red flannel and the outside black silk surmounted by a tassel of pink beads. One side was inscribed in Chinese language the final appeal to Joss for Quon's salvation. Translated into English, it read: "Wicked in life, but repentant. Great Joss, mercy for Yee Quou." On this writing the dead man's friends bank all their hopes for Quou's future happiness.

JACK THE HAIRCUTTER.

Two More Detroit Girls Assaulted by the Knight of the Shears

DETROIT, Oct. 16.—Two more girls have been assaulted by the rascal or rascals who are making a collection of maidens' tresses. Miss Libbie Merrill, the 13-year-old daughter of Henry Merrill, who lives at No. 127 Abbott-street, is the seventh victim. The girl had beautiful auburn tresses, reaching below her waist, and the ruthless stealer of locks clipped off about half their length. Miss Oreta Wendal, a young woman who resides with her parents at No. 29 Napoleon-street, was walking along Mullet-street Monday evening when she was assaulted by a young man, who attempted to cut her hair, but she made such a determined resistance that he was foiled. She plucked a stout hairpain from her braids and used it with such telling effect on his face that he was glad to get away.

Miss Louise Steinbrecher, a typewriter in a downtown office, who is the possessor of a beautiful head of hair, has been approached on two occasions by a young man, who, she thinks, covets her tresses, and several letters have been written to young ladies with abundant tresses signed "Jack," threatening to cut their hair, but they are mostly regarded as fakes.

Killed by a Train.

WINDSOR, Oct. 16.—When the Canadian Pacific freight train leaving Windsor at 7 o'clock last evening had reached a point about half a mile west of Lake Erie and Detroit River railroad crossing, the engineer saw the body of a man lying across one of the rails. The engine passed over the body, cutting it in two. From books and papers found in the pockets the coroner decided the remains were those of Frank E. Allen, a lockkeeper at Oulette's mill at McGregor station.

Another Victim of the Ill Fated Yacht Keewatin

WINNIPEG, Oct. 16.—Capt. Matthew Watts, whose sufferings on Lake Winnipeg after the wreck of the yacht Keewatin created intense interest about a month ago, and who has been under treatment at the general hospital here since his rescue, succumbed to the effects of the exposure and strain on his nervous system last evening. Watts had been very weak the past few days and was frequently delirious. Arrangements for the burial of the deceased have been made by Lieutenant-Governor Schultz, who has taken great interest in the welfare of the man and surrounded him during his illness with every delicacy.

Transferring the Remains.

BERLIN, Oct. 16.—The coffins containing the remains of Emperor Frederick, Prince Waldemar and Prince Sigismund were removed to-day from the Frieden-Kirche at Potsdam and deposited in the new mausoleum erected there.

Greek Churches to be Closed.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 16.—The Greek Patriarchate has ordered all churches in Turkey under its jurisdiction closed as a protest against the Porte's action toward the church.

Supposed to Have Been Drowned.

BRANTFORD, Oct. 16.—Yesterday morning a young man named Roger Andrews, from Delhi, who has been employed as a laborer on the sewers, left his boarding-house, 66 Queen-street. When Andrews left the house he had on his working clothes and his dinner pail with him. When last seen he was following the canal bank towards the work near the Mohawk church. There can be no good reason given for the disappearance of the young man. At his boarding-house he leaves a quantity of clothing valued at $75.

Belknap Buried.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—The remains of ex-Secretary of War William W. Belknap were to-day interred in the Arlington National Cemetery in ground tendered by the war department. The religious services were conducted in St. John's Episcopal Church by Rev. Dr. Douglass.

AS THE Cold Weather
CREEPS ON US

We naturally begin to think of Underwear and the kind to buy. We look first for an article that is Comfortable, then Durable and not liable to shrink very much in washing. We mention more particularly to-day Ladies' Underwear. It is gratifying to be able to state that our manufacturers have made marvellous strides lately towards perfecting of these goods. We show to-day a full range of what is known as Boltonian Underwear.

They are made of fine natural Cape Wool and are in wide and narrow ribs like boy's hosiery. One of the chief points in their favor is that they are being sold by us at the same price as ordinary common stuff.

Our range of men's and boys Underwear is also very large. We know we have the best and cheapest in the country. Having examined carefully the products of all the leading mills before making selections, as we want our customers to feel when they come to trade with us they do not need to look around to see if they can find anything better or cheaper.

Our Millnery, Mantle, Dress-Making and Tailoring departments are now in full operation.

All the new Materials and Trimmings are to be seen.

We have an immense stock of Mantles of all descriptions, both ladies and children.

We show some very pretty shades in Beaver Cloths in Light and Dark Fawns, Greens, Grenat and Browns.

Purify Your Blood

The importance of keeping the blood in a pure condition is universally known, and yet there are very few people who have perfectly pure blood. The taint of scrofula, salt rheum, or other foul humor is hereditary and transmitted for generations causing untold suffering, and we also accumulate poison and germs of disease from the air we breathe, the food we eat, the water we drink, to which is added the taint that causes catarrh, neutralizes the acidity and cures rheumatism, drives out the germs of malaria, blood poisoning, etc. It also vitalizes and enriches the blood thus overcoming that tired feeling, and building up the whole system. Thousands testify to the superiority of Hood's Sarsaparilla as a blood purifier. Full information and statements of cures sent free.

IN THE CLOTHING ARENA

On account of our having bought the KIDD BANKRUPT STOCK at 50c. on the dollar, we will hold during the next 30 days a ROARING, RUSHING, ROCKING SALE, in order to break up and clear out the stock. You might ask, why are Gough's anxious to sell? Here's a pointer. The Montreal Wholesale Clothing Market was never so low as at present. Owing to the McKinley Bill, English Manufacturers are shipping all their goods to the United States. Consequently it is a matter of impossibility to get goods wholesale. Goughs saw this squeeze coming, and bought $25,000 worth of the finest goods to be had in Canada. The goods are here. They have to be paid for. You have to pay for them, by paying us for your share. We'll give you Value Galore. Not only in Clothing but in BOOTS AND SHOES, for we are shoeing half the Country.

THE COURT OF ENGLAND.

HER MAJESTY QUEEN VICTORIA AND HER DAILY LIFE.

Some of the Secrets of the English Courts —The Queen's Private Life—Her Business Engagements and Her Private Fortune—Duties of Attendant Ladies.

The Queen works persistently until luncheon. This informal meal served at 2 o'clock is usually eaten in the private breakfast room at Windsor or out of doors in pleasant weather in company with such of the members of the royal family as may happen to be at the castle. The Queen is waited upon at this meal by one of the pages of the backstairs, or by one of her favorite Indian attendants, who now do a considerable portion of the work formerly devolving on the pages of the back stairs. One page is on duty outside her door from 8 in the morning until she retires for the night. The pages of the presence are the next grade below and they attend upon the lords and ladies in waiting and are in turn themselves taken care of by the upper footmen. These footmen eye the pages every morning with interest, for a vacancy means promotion.

A thoroughly English characteristic is the Queen's love for the open air, and she spends as much time as is possible in this trying climate, with no roof between her and the clouds nor walls but the horizon. In the grounds at Frogmore, near Windsor, are favorite spots of her's where a tent is erected and a table set up. There she sits alone for hours, industriously working, her grand collie often lying at her feet, and within call a page and one of her companions. She continues her love for the open air at her Scottish home and there is less trouble taken to maintain isolation than in more crowded England. While the grounds of Balmoral are not indiscriminately open to every one, yet it happened last year that a careless party of Americans tramping over the hills came suddenly upon an elderly lady sitting all alone before a table and writing away for dear life. "Tell me, madame," said one, politely lifting his hat, "are we far from Balmoral?"

"You are on the grounds now," said the lady, "and I greatly fear you are trespassing."

Visions of Highland cruelties flitted through the heads of the party and they trembled, for trespassing is a serious thing in Britain. They respectfully announced their intention of getting into the public road at the first opportunity. Thereupon the lady wrote a line and handed it to them, saying, smiling, "Here is safe conduct if you meet a bailiff." They walked off pleased with the stately courtesy of the charming old lady, and unfolded the "pass" to read if possible her name.

"Victoria R." was all the slip contained. The party have since that hated themselves of not recognizing the Queen. Such an experience is unusual. The queen has become shy of strangers, she fears them and their presence. It is only when absolutely necessary that she emerges from retirement to conduct the functions of state. Oft-times she delegates to her statuesque daughter-in-law, who will one day be Queen consort, duties that her subjects would far rather she herself performed.

Let us, however, get back once again to the luncheon. After the meal comes work again, mostly with those despatch boxes. They come from every department, and include all sorts of papers, from drafts of important communications and despatches down to mminute communications requiring signature. All these time letters and telegrams are arriving in numbers. These latter are sent to Windsor over a private wire while to the Isle of Wight extends a special cable. Her majesty is always thus in closest touch with the capital. Many of the telegrams are in cipher, especially those from the prime minister, the other members of the cabinet, the commander-in-chief of the army, etc.

From 4 o'clock in the afternoon until the dinner hour business again occupies the time of the Queen excepting for the two hours' drive. Rain or shine she takes that drive, usually in the little pony carriage, which I suppose is so called because it is generally drawn by a donkey. A native of Aix-le-Bains, the long-earned one has grown as round and fat and deliberate as are most of his two-legged brethren who attend upon the court. Another hour or so of the afternoon may be cut into by an audience granted to some representative body, or some important personage, or perhaps it may be a meeting of the privy council, or the premier, hastily summoned may attend with his portentous dispatch boxes and indulge in serious conferences with her majesty. Then also during the afternoon are the private affairs to be looked into. The Queen has an enormous private fortune, invested in land and securities of various kinds. As a breeder of high-class cattle and sheep, she is successful, and she has developed some wonderful strains of stock. Her Herefords, whose white faces and red coats are now so familiar throughout the United States, have attained world-wide celebrity as ideal milk and meat making machines. With every detail of the management of these farms the Queen is familiar.

In her afternoon drive the Queen is usually accompanied by the Princess Beatrice and perhaps by one or two of her grand-children.

The drive over and the elaborate dinner toilet made the state meal of the day is enjoyed. Seldom does the Queen sit down alone with such members of her family as may be at court, and with such officials and ladies of the court as are entitled by by virtue of their office to this prandial honor. There are usually one or more guests who have been "commanded" to dine; for royalty never "requests," it "orders." A "command" to dine and sleep at Windsor is the highest social honor that can be bestowed on a subject. The happy recipient is ever after regarded with due sensation of envy. The dinner menu is of the choicest possible description. The Queen herself eats moderately, but the food must be of the best to suit her royal palate. The wines are of the rarest, although of late years the queen's medical man has prohibited her indulging in Burgundy, claret or port wine, of which she was once moderately fond, and of which she is a dainty judge. Champagne was never her favorite wine, and she drinks it usually in deference to the preferences of guests, for the Queen is mistress of the arts of tact and delicacy as hostess. Latterly a little Scotch whisky in apollinaris water is her usual beverage. When, by the way, she has finished each course, the guest also make a hurried end of the viands before them, for court etiquette never allows a guest to lag behind the Queen. There is less stiffness at the Queen's dinner table than at any other aristocratic dinner table in England. Conversation is kept up in a lively shuttle-cock and battledore fashion, and many a laugh ripples musically above the subdued clink of the changing plates. No one ventures to address the Queen initiatively, but so all embracing is her interest in each guest that conversation is sparkling and most edifying throughout the meal. The dinner service is of the most elaborate description.

The Queen retires about midnight from the drawing-room. She then devotes an hour or so to reading before she retires, selecting books of a quiet and poetic character. We shall say that her much bereaved majesty does not often spend that hour in reveries over the past, when her adored husband and accomplished friend and confident was at her side, to minister to that dependent woman's nature which is so sweetly hers by "divine right," not of kings, but of all womanhood!

Annie Wakeman.

Somewhat timid and conservative, the creole girl does not "go in for culture" quite so energetically as the American girl; she does not belong to so many clubs and classes for mental improvement; she does not want to vote; nor does she yearn for a mission. Like the French jeune fille, she is apt to look forward to marriage as the feminine destiny, being eminently fitted for wifehood by her sweetness of nature and domestic tastes. As a mother she errs on the side of over devotion to her children. That she grows stout—alas!—with increasing years is the only dark spot in the picture; but you will find that the creole matron, though she may have lost the lithe grace of maidenhood, has preserved much of her beauty of face, most of her lightness of heart, and all of her smiling good temper.

Although the creole girl is not addicted to delving among dead languages, she has often three or four modern languages at her disposal, and is also clever with brush and pencil. An excellent taste in music is common to all, and there are many who are distinguished by musical talent which is cultivated to a pitch far beyond the limits of a drawing room accomplishment.

To see the creole belle in their glory you must visit the French Opera House in New Orleans of a Saturday night. At such times the horseshoe curve of the balcony might well be styled the line of beauty. There one may note the lovely Legardeur sisters; Miss Delvaille and her sister, Mrs. Legayer, both pretty blondes; the charming Burthe and Villere sisters; the Pitots, brune and piquant; the Boulignys, distinguished for their personal attractions; beautiful Mignon Cartier, now the wife of an American; charming Miss Aldige, Miss Laure Lanaux, tall and of stately figure; Miss Castellancos, a golden-tressed Juno, and her pretty brunette sister, Mrs. Fernand May—these are but a few of the bewitching faces that seem, under the spell of light and perfume and music, to blossom into redoubled beauty.

Not so many diamond necklaces to dazzle the gazer, as may be seen at the New York Metropolitan; but the shoulders are as white as any in all the broad land, and a single glance will convince you that the creole girls have not lost their family jewels—those lustrous, brilliant eyes that have come down to them from generation to generation.—Jules Dayot.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

"If it be well to wash the skin—and we never heard the proposition questioned—it is well also that we should be familiar with the means by which that purpose may be most efficiently attained.

"We once knew a beautiful woman, with a nice complexion, who had never washed her face with soap all her life through; her means of polishing were, a smear of grease or cold cream; then a wipe, and then a lick with rose water. Of course we did not care to look too closely after such an avowal, but we pitied her, for soap is the food of the skin.—

Soap is to the skin what Wine is to the stomach;

a generous stimulant. It not only removes the dirt, but the layer which carries the dirt; and it promotes the displacement of the old cuticle to make way for the new, to increase the activity of change in the skin. Now turn we to Toilet Soaps and there we find

Life Insurance Policy Holders SHOULD READ THIS!

THE PERCENTAGE OF LAPSES.

The large increase in the amount of life insurance written by purely Canadian companies, and terminated by surrender or lapse, during the past year, has naturally attracted the attention of insurance men. So unexpected and unwelcome an increase $1,709,612 in the amount of lapsed policies credited to Canadian companies during a period when American companies doing business in this country showed a decrease under this heading of $318,304, could not fail to excite comment; so that the figures have been eagerly scanned to discover how such a condition of affairs was brought about.

Perhaps this is most easily shown in tabular form by giving the net amount of insurance in force on the books of each of our principal Canadian companies and the percentage of lapsed and surrendered policies they are responsible for. In this case they rank as follows:—

Company.	Net amount in force.	Percentage of Surrender and Lapse.
Canada Life	$48,664,376	3.07
Confederation	17,574,823	5.31
Ontario Mutual	13,071,400	10.29
Federal	10,058,337	10.35
Sun Life	11,670,817	10.36
North American	8,470,620	10.88
Temperance and General	2,984,972	17.84
Citizens	2,097,956	29.15
Manufacturers' Life	5,723,100	30.12
London Life	1,644,285	30.61

From this table we can see that while such companies as the Canada Life and Confederation have actually decreased the amount of their lapses, some of the weaker companies have largely increased theirs, so that, although one company shows under four per cent., one under six, and four under eleven, the average percentage of lapses for the whole ten companies is 15.78 per cent.

The only moral we can draw from these figures is that the stronger and more widely known a company is, and the more of its patrons it will retain permanently on its books, while the weaker companies must, perforce, witness the defection of a certain proportion of their customers to their more powerful rivals. That so large a proportion as 30 per cent. of policy holders should entirely abandon the advantages of insurance in one year is hardly probable in these days of popular education. We can therefore only fall back on the hypothesis that the bulk of the lapses of the weaker companies must arise from their policy holders transferring their allegiance elsewhere. It is in fact a case of the wealthier and more widely known (even if not more progressive) companies absorbing the cream of the permanent business, and leaving only the transitory, and therefore less desirable risks, to their humbler competitors. By the aid of clever management and attractive methods, a weak company may be able to absorb a fair share of new business; but it is evident from these figures that the superior prestige of their older established rivals is certain to attract a proportion of their customers in the long run, and that thus their percentage of lapses will always be heavier.

On Sunday morning Mr. Lithgow's house, at Bobcaygeon, the Independent says, was entirely destroyed by fire. Owing to the neighbors being at church it was impossible to save any of the furniture. Mr. Lithgow's loss will be quite heavy, though we believe he is insured. A disastrous fire also took place on Mr. Pat. Hartnett's farm last Friday, destroying the house, barn and contents. The visitors expressed themselves as thoroughly satisfied and pleased with the premises and the town, and spoke gratefully of the conduct of the corporation in this matter and the kindness of its representatives. This afternoon Mr. Belcher is receiving full instructions from the Edison Co.'s managers regarding the erection of the buildings.

Resolution of Condolence.

At the last regular meeting of Branch 20, C.M.B.A., Peterborough, it was moved by Chancellor McIlmoyle, seconded by Bro. Vicette, that the Recording Secretary draft resolution of condolence to the family of the late Bro. M. Halpin,

Whereas, Almighty God has been pleased to summon from our midst, after a very brief illness, one of our charter members in the person of our most esteemed Bro. Michael Halpin, to that great and unknown future, but we fervently pray to a brighter and happier home beyond the grave; be it now

Resolved, That we, the officers and members of St. Peter's Branch, No 30, Catholic Mutual Benefit Association, desire to place on record our most fraternal feeling for our deceased Bro., and also to tender his afflicted wife and family our most cordial and heartfelt commiseration, and pray that God may assist them to bear their loss with true Christian resignation; be it further

Resolved, That the Charter of our Branch be draped in mourning for the space of one month in respect to the memory of our departed Bro., and that prayers be offered up that God may concede him eternal rest and happiness.

That a copy of these resolutions be published in our official organs, the local papers of our town, and a copy submitted to the bereaved wife and family, and the same spread on the minutes of our Branch. "May his soul rest in peace."

Rec. Secretary.

Ladies' Aid Social,

A Pleasant Entertainment in the George Street Church Thursday Night.

Owing to the very disagreeable weather, only a fair audience appeared at the Ladies' Aid social in the George street church. Those who did attend were given a good treat in more ways than one. The early part of the evening was spent in social amusement, in which all were made to feel at home. In the absence of the pastor, who had another meeting to attend, Dr. Goldsmith was asked to take the chair and call for the different numbers of the programme. As a result of the wet night some who were to take part did not get there, but a good number were given, and all were pleased with the evening's entertainment. The first item was a vocal duet by Miss. Seward and Mr. Manning, entitled "Good Night," which was given in their usual good style. Next in order came a reading by Mr. F. H. Dobbin, which was a quaint arrangement of his own of over one hundred familiar proverbs run into a discourse about "A Gentleman." It was original in its composition, pleasing to the audience, and contained many useful suggestions. A vocal duet, called "Murmuring Seas," was well sung by the Misses Sperry. Everyone was pleased with this. Their voices blended nicely and their execution of the selection was worthy of much credit.

A very important item came next, namely, refreshments, after which the balance of the programme was called for. The opening piece was a well executed instrumental duet by Misses Edith and Abbie Robinson, which was well received by those present. Dr. Clarke then gave a reading from Bret Harte's writings, "The natural Bridge." Mrs. Seward and Miss Lumsden were next called and sang a duet, "I sing because I love to sing," which was much appreciated.

At this point the chairman called on a number of young men in the audience for two minute impromptu speeches on subjects handed them by him as they came to the platform. The greater number called on were not equal to the occasion and preferred their chair to the platform. Messrs York and Scott being the only ones who tackled it. Miss Seward concluded the programme with a song entitled "Banbury Cross," which was thoroughly enjoyed by all.

The very pleasant entertainment was brought to a close by the singing of a hymn. Much credit is due Mr. Seward, who accompanied all the singers, for his able support in their different pieces.

Sunday School Association.

The County Executive Meets—An Invitation to be Extended to the Provincial Association.

A meeting of the Executive Committee of the County Sunday School Association was held in Peterborough Thursday afternoon. There were present:—Rev. Jas McFarlane, Keene, president; Rev. Jno. McEwen, Lakefield, secretary; Rev. Messrs. E. F. Torrance, J. H. Locke, A. C. Wilson and S. J. Shorey; and Messrs. Dr. Harrison, Keene; R. Graham, Lakefield; Mr. Robinson, Selwyn; and H. S. Griffin, Peterborough.

The financial reports were considered and found satisfactory.

Rev. Mr. McFarlane and Mr. Graham were appointed delegates to the annual meeting of the Provincial Association at Brantford, Oct. 28th, 29th and 30th.

A committee was also appointed to arrange a programme for the meeting of the County Association at Norwood the first Tuesday in December.

The question of inviting the Provincial Association to meet here next October (1891) was discussed and decided in the affirmative. An invitation will, therefore, be extended to the Association. If it is accepted, the occasion will bring together in Peterborough next October three or four hundred delegates of different denominations from all parts of the Province.

Horses on the Track

And the Gravel Train Placed Hors du Combat No Human Lives Lost.

Rumors were flying thick about the streets to-day, concerning an accident which occurred on the Grand Trunk line a few miles from town. Like a snowball rolled along the ground, the reports gathered fresh force and exaggerated importance as they were bandied from mouth to mouth. It was first stated that one man had been killed and another injured; but before long the accident, which was really of a slight nature, had been magnified into a terrible disaster in which 48 people had met a sudden and awful death. The facts of the case are these.

Shortly after 9 o'clock a gravel train, consisting of a van pushed from behind by an engine, left Peterborough for the pits between here and Lindsay. There were probably eighteen or twenty men aboard. At McQuade's crossing, near Best's, the train which were standing loose upon the tracks. One of the animals was killed outright and the other had a leg broken. The carcass of the dead horse threw the van off the track. The car lay on its side crosswise of the rails, while the locomotive tender was also thrown into the ditch. The engine was not upset. Of course the men in the van were in a perilous predicament, and it is almost miraculous that no one was killed. Strange to say, the worst injury was a broken leg, Wm. Godfrey, of Lindsay, having his leg fractured near the knee joint. Mr. Clark, foreman of the gang, a Mr. Gray, and several others were more or less cut and bruised, but

NONE SERIOUSLY HURT.

Most of the men, of whom a number were Italians, belonged to Peterborough. A special wrecking train immediately left Peterborough, among the passengers being Dr. King, who on arriving at the scene of the accident set the broken limb and attended to other injuries. Godfrey was taken to Lindsay and the other men brought back to town.

The auxiliary train and a large gang of men are clearing up the wreck, and the track will be open by this evening. The noon train from Toronto went around by Bethany, and Conductor Stanton ran down to Millbrook for the Peterborough passengers, arriving here at half-past one, just in time to leave for Belleville.

The Lights in the East.

Brightening the Lodge Room With the the "Counterpart Presentments" of Past Masters.

A short time ago the idea suggested itself among some of the brethren of the Masonic fraternity of the town, that it would be a graceful recollection of the services of, and associations with, the past masters of Corinthian and Peterborough Lodges, and a brightening and cheering effect to have their portraits placed upon the walls of the beautiful Lodge room used in common by both Lodges. A joint committee was appointed, charged with the duty of effectuating this idea, and though a great deal of correspondence was necessary and a great deal of difficulty experienced in securing likenesses of the several past masters, many of whom have received their demits to the Celestial Grand Lodge, while many are scattered abroad over the continent, yet the energy of the committee secured such a number, that Bro. G. B. Sproule was commissioned to produce enlarged photographic portraits, and he performed his duty in the satisfactory manner characteristic of him and his work, and now a large number of finely finished, handsomely framed photographic portraits of Past Masters adorn the lodge rooms.

In addition to the portraits mentioned, a valuable portrait, though of small size, donated by Bro. Rev. V. Clementi, has a prominent place. It is that of Grand Master Wilson, first Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Canada.

It will be a matter of interest to give the names of the Past Masters of the respective local lodges since their organization. Those names to which an asterisk (*) is affixed are the names of those whose pictures have been secured and placed:

A Girl's Downfall,

She Stole a Shoulder Cape and Now Languishes in Gaol.

Mary Powers, a neatly dressed and not unprepossessing looking girl about 19 years, was arrested at 10 o'clock this morning for the larceny of a dog skin cape. The circumstances show that the theft was a bold one. The particulars of the case are about as follows. At eight o'clock this morning constable Stewart was telephoned for from the Grand Trunk station, and he at once went down. There he met Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Quinn, of Parry Sound, who claimed that a fur shoulder cape had been stolen from their valise while it was lying in the station. It seems that Mr. and Mrs. Quinn, who had a small child with them, reached town from the east on the early C.P.R. train, intending to change routes and proceed homeward by the Grand Trunk. They brought their luggage to the G.T.R. station, and left it inside, while they came up town for breakfast. Among the luggage was a valise, in which was stowed away the cape. The valise was not locked but simply closed. On their return to the station

THE CAPE WAS MISSING.

Suspicion at once fell on a young woman, who was the only person (besides the janitress) in the waiting room at the time. Mr. Quinn immediately concluded that the girl had observed them place the cape in the valise, and after they had gone away abstracted it. She was nowhere to be found, so the police were telephoned for. With a full description of the girl obtained from Mr. and Mrs. Quinn, the janitress, and a hackman to whom she had been speaking about her brother in Lakefield, Constable Stewart came up street in search of her. At ten o'clock he met her on the street, wearing the stolen article on her person. The officer shadowed her as far as Fairweather's store, where she entered and was in the act of inspecting some fur coats, dropping hints meanwhile to the effect that her father-in-law was in town and she wanted to see him to get some money, when Constable Stewart and the Chief, who had been notified, put a stop to further negotiations by

ARRESTING HER FOR LARCENY.

The girl had very little to say, but appeared to be considerably crestfallen and to feel her position keenly. She carried a small parcel in her hand, and a sin-type taken only a short time before at Sproule's gallery, in which she appeared in full regalia, shoulder cape and all. A special session of the police court was held to deal promptly with the case. When asked by the magistrate to plead to the charge, the girl replied in a broken voice, "I'm guilty." The magistrate then remanded her till Monday for judgment.

Mary Powers said she formerly worked at the Auburn mills, but was doing nothing now except getting ready to go to her relatives in Winnipeg. Chief Reesel had a confidential chat with the girl for the purpose of gaining an insight into her character and habits. She will spend the time between this and Monday in gaol.

Mr. and Mrs. Quinn did not remain in town to see the outcome of the affair, but left on the 8.15 train for their home. The cape will be forwarded to them.

Hymeneal.

Wednesday evening Mr. J. S. Anderson, of Vancouver, B.C., was married to Miss Aggie Diamond, youngest daughter of the late Abraham Diamond, P.M., of Belleville.

All the beauty and fashion of Millbrook met Wednesday afternoon, says a correspondent to the Guide, to witness a marriage ceremony. The contracting parties were Mr. Joshua Whitfield and Miss Edie, daughter of George Hetherington, Esq. Shortly after four o'clock, the time appointed for the ceremony to take place, the church was well filled. The bride looked lovely. She was escorted by her brother, Mr. W. G. Hetherington; Mr. W. J. Gardiner supported the groom, and Miss Maggie Whitfield acted as bridesmaid. The beautiful and impressive marriage ceremony of the Methodist church was then read by the pastor of the church, Rev. W. Burns, President of the Bay of Quinte Conference, and the two were firmly united in the bonds of matrimony. After congratulations the happy couple left for their wedding tour, taking the C.P.R. train at Cavanville for New York.

Trip Around the World.

The Inaugural Journey of the New Canadian Pacific Steamships.

MONTREAL, Oct. 13.—Some months ago an exchange foretold a grand trial trip or excursion around the world as soon as the Empress of India and her sister ships, the Empress of Japan and the Empress of China, were ready to undertake the service between Vancouver and the ports of the great countries just named. Further details of this novel voyage were placed at the disposition of your correspondent this forenoon. The Empress of India will leave Liverpool on the 15th of January, and during her 65-day trip to Vancouver will call at Gibraltar, Naples, Port Said, Suez, Colombo, Penang, Singapore, Hong Kong, Shanghai, Nagasaki, Kobe and Yokohama. The first to engage a passage around the world is a wealthy Ontario gentleman, and his example is being followed so rapidly by applicants from Canada and Great Britain that no doubt the Empress of India will steam down the Mersey with her full quota of first-class passengers. Mr. H. Maitland Kersey, who has been looking after these magnificent steamers on the other side, has recommended that the Empress of India be given in charge of Capt. Marshall, who is a member of the royal navy reserve, and a gentleman well known to the Pacific trade. Capt. Lee will command the Empress of Japan, which will leave Liverpool on February 15, and the third and last one month later. Consequently Capt. Marshall's appointment to the command of the finest steamship afloat has been confirmed by cable by the Canadian Pacific authorities in Montreal.

It may be said that the passenger agent of the great transcontinental line while in England engaged full cargoes for the three ships to China and Japan, consisting of hardware and Manchester bales. The Empress of India will carry out about 3,000 tons, and after discharging at Yokohama she will have room for 4,000 tons of tea for Vancouver. On the way out the ships will stay about ten days in Hong Kong and ten days in the Suez canal to give the passengers time to take a flying trip to Cairo and the Pyramids. Six hundred dollars will be the price of all this fun.

Professor Dorenwend's Only Visit This Season.

In another column of our paper will be found the announcement of a visit by Prof. Dorenwend, of Toronto. We were somewhat at a loss to understand how it was that he did not visit us sooner, but enquiries made at the Paris Hair Works, Toronto, bring the information that on account of the vast increase of business at Toronto it is not possible for him to make as many visits to outside places as formerly. So our ladies and gentlemen who patronize the Prof. will have to make it a point to see him this time, as his visit will be the only one of the season. He has always proved himself to be up to the times, his goods in style and workmanship have always given the highest satisfaction. There should be big business awaiting him this visit. He has some new styles which both old and young will admire. His stay is limited, as he has many places to visit, so call on him early. He will be at Phelan's Hotel, Peterborough on Friday and Saturday, 17th and 18th October. dw

TROUBLED IRELAND.

BALFOUR VIGOROUSLY DEFENDS THE GOVERNMENT'S POLICY.

Was Parnell Opposed to the Flight of Dillon and O'Brien?—A Convention of the Tenants' Defence League to be Held at Cork The Gladstonian New Home Rule Policy.

LONDON, Oct. 17. A meeting of the Northern Conservative Union was held at Newcastle and attended by 4000 persons. Among those present was Mr. Balfour, Chief Secretary for Ireland, who was presented with a number of addresses. He was given an enthusiastic welcome by the meeting. A resolution was adopted by the union welcoming Mr. Balfour and declaring his ability and untiring energy had saved the union between Great Britain and Ireland. The Duke of Northumberland delivered an address in which he praised Balfour's services in the cause of law, justice and order.

This evening Mr. Balfour was entertained at a banquet attended by over 1000 guests and presided over by Lord Londonderry. In a speech Balfour said no agreement existed among the Gladstonians as to what would be the new home rule, but every eulogy they passed on the Parnellites carried with it a pledge of a future policy which it was impossible to redeem except by obstructing ordered government in Ireland. He defended himself from Morley's reproach of not consulting the Parnellites on the subject of remedial legislation on the ground that the bulk of that party were Parnell's nominees for the admirable fighting machine in the House of Commons, but were opposed to any beneficial measure, only desiring that Irish discontent should continue as fuel to their agitation. Balfour said he had listened with deep disgust to the pointless scurrility which Parnellites had poured on the occupants of the treasury bench. He had never heard anything approaching a suggestion coming with real difficulties such as the population question in the west of Ireland. So long as that was the governing principle in Irish politics it would be criminal lunacy for English statesmen to make the Parnellites arbiters of English policy toward Ireland. The Parnellites had a peaceful policy attested by three judges and proved by the events of many years. A feeling of anarchy which would prove disastrous to Ireland. If supposing Mr. Morley should come into office to-morrow he had not the same amount of crime to deal with that the present Government had it would only prove that crime was factious and that the Gladstonians were accessories in this disgraceful Parnellite comedy. On the other hand, if crime was not factious how would Mr. Morley deal with it? So surely as Mr. Morley practices the anarchistic principles of his allies, just so surely would he bring hopeless disaster to Ireland.

A convention of the Tenants' Defence League has been called for Oct. 2; at Cork.

T. D. Sullivan, Timothy Harrington and T. P. O'Connor will join Dillon and O'Brien in Paris. They intend to sail on the 25th inst.

The Paris Boulangist organ La Presse says it has authoritative evidence that Parnell opposed the flight of Dillon and O'Brien.

Edmund Leamy, Nationalist member of Parliament for South Sligo, in a speech at Ballina today, admitted that but for recent events the rift within the lute at home might have extended. Dillon and O'Brien, he thought, would have upnill work in a swing funds in America.

A Tenant for 90 Years.

TIPPERARY, Oct. 17. At the conspiracy trials today Tenant Quinlan testified that he lived on a farm belonging to Smith Barry which had been occupied by his father and after his death by himself, the total period of their tenancy being 90 years. Neither he nor his father had ever been molested until last December after he had paid his rent, when four shots were fired into the house.

BRADSTREET'S WEEKLY REVIEW.

Still More Pronounced Gain in the Volume of Trade.

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—A still more pronounced gain in the volume of trade distribution is indicated by special telegrams to Bradstreet's this week. Reports of an enlarged trade in drygoods and clothing, boots and shoes and groceries and manufactures of iron and steel come from points west, south and southwest, but notably from Chicago, Cincinnati, Omaha, St. Louis, Dallas and New Orleans, while at St. Joseph, Houston, Philadelphia and Boston the movement is of large and satisfactory proportions. Leather is steady in most markets, with a further accumulation of rough grades. Receipts of cattle and hogs at Omaha and Kansas City are smaller and prices are up 10 cents. Iron and steel are steady and unchanged in the east, while active and tending upward in the west, except for Lake Superior pig iron. Collections rule fair to good. The paper trade is active and production is increasing. Spruce and pine lumber is $1 off. Owing to the removal of the Canadian export tax, dealers in Maine ice have lost money this year. Liquidation of foreign holdings of American stocks caused further decline in share values, but at the close of the week speculation assumed a stronger tone and advancing tendency. Net railway earnings for August make a poor showing, reflecting the unfavorable influences of low rates, large operating expenses and backward movement of the reduced yield of wheat and corn in important producing sections. The total net earnings of 105 roads for August aggregate $10,592,206, a decrease from August last year of $1,110 per cent. Cotton mills are busy and goods are generally in good position. Print cloths are the only goods in unsatisfactory shape. Prices are unchanged. Men's wear woolen manufacturers are well supplied with orders for light weights. Wholesale clothiers have had a good year. The cloak trade has opened well. Wool is less active at the east, but still moves freely in all markets. It is a sellers' market and prices are strong and weak. Liverpool and Continental advices, with free receipts, have depressed. Cotton values fell 1-16 cent this week on account of rumors of frost and damage to the growing plant. Speculation was active at the decline. Good crop reports, increased receipts and long selling depressed wheat and corn early in the week, but the loss was regained later on light receipts, wet weather, better cables and shorts covering. Oats are 1½ cents up on the week. Speculation at New York was very light. The increase of available wheat last week was 2,326,151 bushels. Hog products were dull and weak early in sympathy with grain, but straightened later on smaller receipts at the west. Raw sugar is 1-16 cent higher on large meltings, light receipts and rapidly decreasing stocks, which are now so small as to restrict business. Refined is unchanged. There was a lull in foreign trade in August. The total was six per cent. less than in August, 1889. Eight months' trade is 5 per cent. ahead of last year. Business failures reported to Bradstreet's number 177 in the United States, against 183 last week and 203 this week last year. Canada had 29 this week, against 30 last week. The total number of failures in the United States Jan. 1 to date is 7765, against 8244 in a like portion of 1889.

An Ancient Italian Cathedral Damaged by Fire—Secretary Balfour on the state of Ireland Big Strike of Vienna Tramcar Employes.

ROME, Oct. 17.—A fire which proved difficult to control broke out in the dome of the cathedral at Siena to-day. It owed its start to the carelessness of plumbers engaged on repairs. The flames spread rapidly to the roof of the central nave, which, with the cupola, finally collapsed. Owing to the arduous exertions of a fire brigade from Florence the building and all art treasures it contained finally escaped destruction.

The city of Siena is the capital of a central Italian province of the same name, in Tuscany. The cathedral was built in the 13th century.

THEIR FATAL ZEAL.

Death of Brave, But Irrational Missionaries.

LONDON, Oct. 17.—The British Minister has transmitted to the department of state a letter from the Governor of Sierra Leone, inclosing a report from the colonial surgeon at Freetown, Dr. Palmer Ross, relative to the case of certain American missionaries at that place. Dr. Ross reports that the superintendent of the party, Mr. Kingman arrived there on Feb. 25, 1890, and was followed on June 13 by Mrs. Kingman, Miss Dick and Messrs. Helmick, Jaderguist Codding, Tryce (a negro), Gates and Harries. It is stated that upon their arrival they began to live in native fashion eating native food, cooking and washing for themselves and even collecting their own fuel in the rainy season, hoping thus to gain the confidence of the natives. On July 9 Mr Kingman informed Dr. Ross that two of his party had died that day. Upon enquiry Dr Ross learned that no doctors had attended the deceased, Messrs. Gates and Harries, the whole party being staunch believers in "faith" healing. They had taken no medicine and disdained Dr. Ross, knowing that tropical fever if neglected is apt to assume a malignant form among new arrivals of white people, ordered the bodies to be buried as soon as possible and sent the sanitary policeman to see the orders carried out, to disinfect the house and destroy all bedding, clothing, etc., used by the deceased. That officer reported that others were sick in the house, a fact which the missionaries had not stated, and on the next day sent for the doctor to see Mr King man's wife. She was found to be in the last stage of exhaustion from neglected fever having been ill for nine days, and in spite of all that could be done she died on the evening of the 15th. On the previous day Mr Kingman was found to be ill, but refused to accept medical assistance. That evening Mr. Tryce, who was also sick, sent for the doctor and consented to be taken to the hospital for treatment.

The Cession of Kassala.

CAIRO, Oct. 17.—The Khedive has addressed an earnest remonstrance to Great Britain against the cession of Kassala to Italy. The feeling in Egypt on the subject is very strong, as Kassala is regarded a Egyptian territory, although at present held by the rebel dervishes. The British commander at the Zanzibar station has been ordered to proceed immediately to punish the Sultan of Vitu, who, late advices show, was clearly implicated in and probably directed the recent massacre of Germans at Vitu.

Killed His Whole Family.

BERLIN, Oct. 17.—At Reinkendorf, a suburb of this city, today, a builder named Schanf, who at one time was wealthy, but who lost his money and is now heavily in debt, attacked his wife and five children with a hatchet and hacked their heads in a terrible manner. Three of the children have died from their injuries and Frau Schan and the remaining two children are unconscious. They will die. The murderer escaped.

Gladstone and the Jews.

LONDON, Oct 17. Mr. Gladstone, replying to an appeal from the editor of The Jewish Chronicle, writes to that paper as follows: I have read with feelings of pain and horror the terrible statements that have been made concerning the cruel persecution in Russia. The only recommendation that I can give is to invite the most strenuous exertions of the press to first sift the reports and then, if the facts be established, to arouse the conscience of Russia and of Europe on the subject.

German Workmen's Homes

BERLIN, Oct 17. The dwellings for the workmen to be built by the Government in North Berlin are to cost £300 each and are to be purchasable at £150 and a payment of a crown weekly until the whole sum is paid. Cholera Declining in Spain.

Bury Her as Sune as Ye Can.

SARATOGA, Oct. 17.—For some time past an aged woman, widow of the late Frank Trowsi, has been residing in one of the houses known as Myers' row, in Brunswick street. She was utterly destitute, and latterly was unable to work, suffering with tumor or cancer. She was allowed $1 per week by the council. Yesterday the woman died, and, disgusting to relate, two hours after her breath ceased she was buried. The large-hearted Christian chairman of the Board of Relief was informed of her death, and his instructions were to "Gang to Auld Hepburn and get a coffin for the auld body, and bury her as sune as ye can, in the potter's field." This was done literally as ordered. A man went to the house and with the assistance of another the body was put in the coffin, no attempt being made to clean or enshroud or even decently cover the remains, beyond a ragged sheet which was on the bed being thrown over them. Not a prayer was said or thought of, but the remains were hustled into a wagon and rattled off to the cemetery.

FATAL CHURCH PANIC.

1500 CHILDREN BECOME PANIC STRICKEN AT A FIRE.

A Score of Persons Injured, Many of Them Fatally—Children Trampled Upon in the General Crush—Steps and Carpets Saturated with Blood.

CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—While Rev. Father Barzensky was conducting a service for children in St. Stanislas Catholic Church this morning the altar draperies took fire from a candle, and a panic ensued. In the wild rush about 20 of the children were crushed and trampled on, and some of them received fatal injuries.

There were about 1500 children, accompanied by their mothers, in the church at the time. The women and children became panic-stricken and rushed pell mell to the exits. Those in front were pressed upon by those behind and lost their footing on the stone steps in front of the building, where they were trampled upon by the fleeing multitude. The arrival of the fire department added to the stampede, and in a few minutes 10,000 people had gathered in the neighborhood. The fire was quickly extinguished and the police, with much difficulty, rescued the wounded children. Joseph Jazak, 12 years old, has a fractured skull and will probably die; Stanislaus, Kaminska injured internally; Frank Drewyki received a severe cut on the head; Stanislaus Furgot, 9 years old, injured internally; Martin Klodzi, 10 years old; Frank Sick, 10 years old, and Leon Skowlowski, 11 years old, were sent to the hospital, and four other children were taken to their homes. The scene after the panic was over was terrible. The stone steps at the entrance were covered with blood. The carpets on the floor of the church and many of the pews were torn up, and the church looked as though some bloody riot had taken place.

FRAILTY, THY NAME IS WOMAN.

A Chapter in the Life of Abscouder A. M. Macrae.

HAMILTON, Oct. 17.—There is a chapter in the life of A. M. Macrae, the defaulting treasurer of the Security Loan & Trust Company of St. Catharines, which has never yet been published. Early in the spring of 1889 Macrae came to this city in company with a woman whom he introduced as his sister. The woman was tall, dark and good-looking, with a quiet, refined manner that was quite taking. Macrae and the woman, whom he called Mrs. Land, rented a house in Hess-street.

In due course of time Mrs. Land furnished the house and moved in, her household consisting of herself, an elderly woman, presumably her mother, a bright little boy 6 or 7 years old, a servant and a large dog. Mrs. Land lived very quietly, and the neighbors saw but little of her. She had a telephone put in the house and kept a horse and trap at one of the livery stables. Her only amusement seemed to be driving. Macrae came up regularly every week to see her, and they drove out together. Mrs. Land some months ago left this city and took up her residence in Waterdown, where she purchased a house and appeared as Mrs. Macrae.

Macrae visited Mrs. Macrae, as she was now called, quite frequently and she usually drove to Dundas station to meet him. Mrs. Macrae managed to delude his wife in St. Catharines is a mystery, but he evidently did so and, according to accounts, everything went smoothly. Mrs. Macrae of Waterdown told Detective Hess, who arrived in this city about herself that she was a Southerner, and that her father had been a Confederate general. This is believed to be true. Macrae lavished money upon her. It is said he first met her in Macon, Georgia. She is said to be living in St. Catharines now under another name.

A Tailor Expires While Engaged at Work at His Trade.

BRANTFORD, Oct. 17.—To-day about 1 o'clock an old resident of West Brantford named William Walkinshaw was found lying dead at his home in Balfour-street. He was a tailor by trade and when found was lying in a cramped position on his work bench. His wife, who is very sickly and feeble, states that yesterday morning she arose and discovered her husband lying as he was when found. She tried to arouse him, but was unable to do so. She lighted a fire and made some coffee but could not get him to drink it. Today she went out and called to a neighbor to come in, saying that she thought something was wrong with her husband. Mrs. Stevens went in and found the old man lying dead. It is supposed the wife remained in the house with the corpse all day yesterday and up to 1 o'clock to-day. The poor woman is slightly demented. There are four sons living but all are away from home at present. They are John and William, who live in Hamilton, and Edward and Charles, whose whereabouts could not be ascertained.

Could Not Restore Life.

COLUMBIA, S.C., Oct. 17.—Primus Jones colored, was killed on Sunday morning at Sumter, S.C. The testimony showed that in a perfect frenzy of fanaticism Jones was killed by Rev. A. H. Durant, the negro pastor, and one Richard Campbell, a prominent member of the church, because the deceased had expressed doubts about the supernatural power of Durant to kill and restore to life, and that it was a test case, but the experiment failed. Durant and Campbell were jailed.

All Afflicted With Scurvy.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 17.—The ships R. H Thomas from New York and Alex. McCullom from Baltimore arrived here yesterday with scurvy on board. The sailors on the McCullom were in a horrible condition, their bodies being covered with runni g sores. Their gums were black and swollen and hid their teeth. The men said that during the 134 days' passage they had not tasted vegetables and the meat given them was putrid. Thomas Hayes and James Massure became blind as a result of the disease. The quarantine officer will report the cases to the United States authorities.

The Baptist Convention.

WOODSTOCK, Oct. 17.—The annual convention of the Baptists of the Dominion opened in the Baptist Church here yesterday. The president, Mr. D. E. Thomson of Toronto, delivered a short address outlining the work of the convention. These officers were elected: President, Mr. Bently, Montreal first vice-president, Rev. Dr. Thomas, Toronto; second vice-president, Rev. E. W. Dodson, Woodstock, secretary treasurer, James Grant; superannuated ministers board, A. L. Laflamme, C. Raymond, M. Harris and W. H. Cline.

To-day the principal business transacted was the reception of the reports of the treasurer and the Board of Home Missions, both of which were very satisfactory. These subjects were also on the program for discussion: "The place of Evangelism in H. M. Work." The discussion will be led by Rev. D Hutchinson and Rev. E. Harris, B.A. "The men required for H M Work." Led by Rev. Thomas S. Johnson. "Home Mission Finances." Led by D. E. Thomson, Q.C.

A platform meeting this evening was addressed by Rev J. F. McEwen, Supt. H. M.; Rev. Dr. Fulton, Rev. Dr. Thomas.

His family consists of a wife and [illegible] children, the eldest a girl of 14 years. He became despondent over the [illegible] but had enough to eat, and promised to kill the children. Original Packages Go Here.

TOPEKA, Kan., Oct. 17.—A decision was rendered in the U. S. Circuit Court to-day that has created consternation among the friends of prohibition in Kansas. The decision allows the re-opening of "original package" liquor houses in this state and in effect declares that the Wilson bill enacted by Congress does not restore the power of the Kansas prohibitory law as against original package saloons.

The Great Majority

Of cases of scrofula and other blood diseases are hereditary, and therefore difficult to cure. But we wish to state in the most positive, emphatic manner that Hood's Sarsaparilla does cure scrofula in every form. The most severe cases too terrible for description, have yielded to this medicine when all others failed. If you suffer from impure blood in any way, take Hood's Sarsaparilla.

THE ILL-FATED CHINESE.

Human and Divine Agencies in the Yellow River Floods.

CANTON, Oct. 15.—The latest floods of the Yellow River have spread despair throughout the whole Empire. It is not that the eruption was more extensive or more destructive than some former catastrophes. But it occurred unexpectedly in a new place, which had been deemed perfectly safe, and was altogether invested with features of horror and hopelessness. The scene of the latest outbreak is in Shantung, at a place called Lung-wang-mios, near where the Grand Canal crosses the river and about 150 miles from the point where the great outbreak of 1887 occurred. The embankments gave way on July 12, and in a few hours more than 7000 square miles of fertile and populous country was transformed into a seething and turbid lake. Forthwith the quiet waters of the Grand Canal were transformed into a raging torrent, which bore the muddy floods of the Yellow River into the Peiho, and thence through the Metropolitan Province of Chili, almost to the gates of Pekin itself. The city of Tungchow, only twenty miles east from Pekin, was completely surrounded by a lake, and the gates of the city had to be closed and covered with huge embankments of earth to keep the flood from penetrating within the walls. Other suburbs of the capital were actually flooded, and the roads about Pekin were so much damaged that the city was actually cut off for some time from all communication with the rest of the Empire.

All the telegraph lines and other means of communication between Pekin and the outer world, and also between the flooded district and the rest of China, were swept away. While therefore the immediate loss of life was not so great as in 1887, the situation was really more startling and alarming, and it is no exaggeration to say that in Pekin and elsewhere the panic-stricken people, and even members of the Government, believed that the end of the world had come, and that the entire Empire was about to be submerged and destroyed. Moreover, the actual loss of life was very heavy and the destruction of property incalculable. Those who escaped death by drowning must now face the imminent danger of death through famine. Even after the floods have subsided, the immediate lands will not be fit for occupation for several years, since they are covered to a depth of many feet with silt, wreckage and other debris, while the number of dead human and other bodies scattered about everywhere will threaten the entire region with pestilence.

Not the least terrible feature of this catastrophe is the belief, which has gained wide currency on seemingly excellent ground, that these periodical floods are not altogether the work of nature. It has been thought that they were caused by the vast quantities of sediment brought down by the Yellow River and deposited in its channel, thus raising the bed of the river above the surrounding country. It is now openly charged and widely believed that the flood of 1887 and that which has just occurred were caused by artificial means, that, in brief, the embankments were secretly broken by men. It is shown that people who live along the first and second lines of embankments in Shantung and elsewhere have a very strong selfish interest in keeping the level of the river low by spreading its waters over the plains. That they have been thus tempted to cut the embankments and cause the floods would seem incredible to anyone not acquainted with the Chinese character. There is, however, in the Chinese character an extraordinary indifference to pain and suffering. The Chinaman is a thorough stoic. He will endure in his own person the most terrible sufferings with scarcely a sign of emotion, and with equal coldness will look upon the misery of others. It is therefore entirely within the probabilities of belief that these floods were caused by the depravity of man rather than by the natural forces of the elements. The Government is accordingly being urged by the press in the strongest manner possible to remove all inhabitants from the banks of the river, both to insure their own safety and to remove them from the temptation of bringing ruin upon their fellows.

In the meantime the most extraordinary efforts are being made to propitiate the deity who is supposed to rule over the rivers and the rain. During the month of July an intense drouth prevailed throughout all the northeastern provinces, and for several week the officers of the Government at Pekin and elsewhere resorted daily to the temples and offered up prayers for rain. In Pekin the Emperor himself took the lead in these acts of worship, and at Tsinanfu, the capital of Shantung, the Governor, Chang Yao, spent many days and nights in the temple in earnest supplication. For a time the prayers seemed to be unanswered. Then there suddenly came a tremendous rainstorm which lasted many days, and produced the highest summer freshet ever known in the Yellow River. Then the banks broke and the flood came. There is not the slightest doubt in any pious Chinese mind that these rains were sent in answer to prayer. Consequently, as soon as the flood occurred, there was a tremendous rush of the faithful to the temples to pray for the rain to stop. The Emperor again set the example. The image of Tama, the River Dragon, was carried in imperial state through the streets of Tientsin and enthroned in the great temple of Tama Miao. Then all the high officers of the government worshipped it and implored its aid in stopping the floods and rain. Chief among them was the greatest statesman of China, Li Hung Chang, who burned many joss-sticks and spent many hours in a prostrate attitude before the idol. It must be recorded, however, that all these earnest supplications had little or no effect, for the rain continued to fall and the floods to rise.

Not even yet have means of communication with the devastated region been fully restored and it is impossible to make any accurate estimate of the loss of life and property. It will doubtless, however, be found within limits to say that more than 10,000 people were drowned at once by the outbreak of the river, and that several thousands more died from famine and exposure soon afterward, while fully 1,500,000 have been rendered homeless and utterly destitute.

Died on the Eve of His Wedding.

HAZELTON, Pa., Oct. 17.—James Phillips, a miner, met a horrible death in the mines at Auburned shortly after midnight Tuesday night. A sip occurred in the gangway and caught him, and the sharp edges of the coal almost cut him to pieces. In the same mine at 7 o'clock a young man named Kelly was killed by a fall of coal. The laborer, who had only been in the country a few months, had saved up sufficient money to pay the passage of his sweetheart from Hungary and was to have been married to her to-morrow. She landed at New York yesterday and was to reach Audenrie to-day. The girl, who is said to be beautiful, is the daughter of a wealthy farmer, and on account of her passion for the poor peasant was discarded and driven from home.

Tunneling the Irish Channel.

BELFAST, Oct. 17.—At a public meeting to-day Engineer Barton submitted a plan for a tunnel under the Irish Channel. He estimated the work could be completed in 12 years and would cost £5,000,000. The meeting passed a resolution urging the Government to assist in the undertaking.

Nat Goodwin's Nerve.

Found Dying in a Swamp

FLESHERTON, Oct. 17.—Tuesday afternoon, while Mr J. H. Campaign was driving along the road leading north from Loucks' mill, his dog began making a fuss. Upon dismounting and entering the bush to find the cause he discovered lying between two cedar trees the emaciated body of a young woman, probably about 25 years of age. After considerable effort he succeeded in arousing her. She was assisted to the buggy and driven to Mr. Loucks' residence. It is supposed that she lay out in the storm all night on Monday, as her clothing was completely saturated. She gave her name as Maria Irwin of Walter's Falls, and explained the cause of her terrible condition by saying that she lost her way, took sick and was unable to go further. She cannot live.

Fraser in Luck.

LONDON, Oct. 17.—John C. Fraser, the traveler who was arrested on Tuesday on a charge of neglecting to support his wife and family in Forest, Ont., pleaded guilty at the police court this morning. Mr. McKillop stated an agreement had been arrived at between husband and wife. He would ask that sentence be suspended on the defendant and his liberty allowed him. The magistrate acted accordingly.

AS THE Cold Weather
CREEPS ON US

We naturally begin to think of Underwear and the kind to buy. We look first for an article that is Comfortable, then Durable and not liable to shrink very much in washing. We mention more particularly to-day Ladies' Underwear. It is gratifying to be able to state that our manufacturers have made marvellous strides lately towards perfecting of these goods. We show to-day a full range of what is known as Boltonian Underwear.

They are made of fine natural Cape Wool and are in wide and narrow ribs like boy's hosiery. One of the chief points in their favor is that they are being sold by us at the same price as ordinary common stuff.

Our range of men's and boys Underwear is also very large. We know we have the best and cheapest in the country. Having examined carefully the products of all the leading mills before making selections, as we want our customers to feel when they come to trade with us they do not need to look around to see if they can find anything better or cheaper.

Our Millnery, Mantle, Dress-Making and Tailoring departments are now in full operation.

All the new Materials and Trimmings are to be seen.

We have an immense stock of Mantles of all descriptions, both ladies and children.

We show some very pretty shades in Beaver Cloths in Light and Dark Fawns, Greens, Grenat and Browns.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 18, 1890.

THE Manitoba Government has acted wisely in determining to open a general agency for the Province in Great Britain. Mr. McMillan, who has been appointed to it, has been the special agent in Ontario for some time, and is a very active and capable man. Mr. Greenway left for England with Mr. McMillan Friday. They will probably plant their general agency in Liverpool, as the place best adapted for carrying on immigration work. Manitoba should have no difficulty in securing population from the old country. This new venture is a step in the right direction, and we hope it will be crowned with success.

THE Ottawa Free Press, which has taken a keen interest in the fate of the export duty on logs, says:—

"The imposition of an import duty upon logs, the restrictionist organs declared was going to build up the lumber industry by compelling the manufacture into lumber of all the pine and spruce logs taken out of our forests. But Sir John Macdonald has declared that a reduction of one dollar per thousand feet in the American lumber duty is of more value to Canada than an export duty upon logs, and has thereby, perhaps unwillingly, admitted the soundness of the policy of complete reciprocity; for if a slight reduction in the duties levied by the Americans upon Canadian products is a good thing for the Dominion, would not the total abolition of those duties be a great deal better?"

Quite so. "The Old Man is losing his grip" has been muttered by many a Tory of late, and the removal of the export duty will the Globe thinks be taken as fresh evidence of it.

THE municipalities are beginning, says the Globe, to stir in the matter of obtaining repayment from the Dominion of the bonuses which they voted to railways that have been taken over by the Federal Government. Quebec got a snug sum from the Dominion Treasury on the ground that she had built the North Shore road which had become part and parcel of the Canadian Pacific. Mr. Blake moved, seconded by Mr. Laurier, that "regard should also be had to the past local expenditure in other Provinces on railways, almost all of which have been declared to be for the general advantage of Canada," and regretting "that the Government, whilst proposing a measure of relief to one Province, has not taken steps with a view to a fair and proportionate measure of relief in respect of all local expenditure in the other Provinces." Mr. Blake meant, of course, that the municipalities should be recouped as well as the Provinces of Ontario, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Manitoba. Since then Sir John has distributed subsidies with a lavish hand to all sorts of railway schemes, some of them like the Gloucester road belonging to Mr. Burns, M.P., of little use to anybody. These grants, or the money borrowed on their account, become a charge, of course, upon the Ontario farmers who built or helped to build their own lines. A Government that goes about the Eastern Provinces seeking whom and what to subvention, and which in the case of Quebec has already recognized the principle of repayment, should do justice to the Ontario people without waiting to be driven.

Eggs and the Egg Trade.

I suppose few people are aware of the enormous extent to which this home industry of egg raising is carried on in the Dominion. England has to draw her supplies from Ireland and France. England imports every year from this latter country $3 000,000 of eggs alone, not saying anything of dressed poultry. In the last census of France she had 45 000,000 fowls, 3 500 000 ducks, the same number of geese, and 1 000 000 turkeys.

England imported in 1850 105 500,000 eggs. It rose in 1860 to 167 500 000 in 1870 to 430 750 000, in 1880 to 747 500 000, and last year it was over 1,035 000,000 eggs.

Now let us come to Canada and see what we are doing in this most essential industry of our country. In the last Blue Book on Trade and Navigation we find "that Canada imported last year a total of 413,989 dozen of eggs from different countries."

She, in the same time, exported the enormous number of 14,170,859 dozens of eggs, which were valued at $2 122 283. This amount represented the sum total of 170,050,308 individual eggs. A large production, when we consider our young country.

Let us see now to what countries we sent this large amount of eggs. Quebec Province sent to Britain 142 dozen only; whilst Nova Scotia sent 2,237 dozen, the other Provinces none.

On the other hand, Ontario sent to the United States the vast number of 10 144 611 dozen eggs. Quebec sent 909,069 dozen. Nova Scotia sent 684,490 dozen, whilst the little Province of Prince Edward Island sent no less than 1,943,418 dozen of eggs!

Again to Newfoundland, Nova Scotia exports 6 946 dozen and Prince Edward Island 1,716 dozen, whilst the former sent to the French Islands in the gulf of St. Lawrence 9,250 dozen and the latter 1,716 dozen.

Canada is, therefore, one of the great egg producing countries of the world. But the production might easily be multiplied tenfold, especially in the province of Quebec, and if the farmers did so to even the amount they would not reach the exportation of the sister province, Ontario, last year. Let her farmers then be up and doing. They will find that a systematic fowl rearing and egg producing will pay them well.

The whole quantity that Canada produced last year, a little over fourteen million dozen falls (even this immense number of eggs) far short of Britain's consumption for the same period. The American cities use large quantities of eggs. Last year 25,000 000 dozen were sent to the New York markets. Philadelphia consumes 80 000 eggs daily. Boston receipts annually, 6,500 000 dozen, and so with the other cities. The total production of the United States is 9,000,000 000 of eggs annually, still she absorbs every year over 168 000 000 of Canada eggs.

Eggs are greatly used in the manufactures. They are employed in calico printing, in photographing, in gilding, in clarifying various liquors and the book binder uses them on the leather previous to lettering and stamping.

A large business has sprung up in the preparation of photographic paper with salted albumen. Some idea can be gained of the proportions of this trade when we find one establishment alone using upwards of 2 000,000 eggs in six months to furnish the required quantity of albumen.

The high price of photographic albumen led to several other materials being tried to replace it. Animal casine and vegetable gluten were used, then the roots of ferns. But although a price of $2 000 has been offered thirty years ago by an English society for the discovery of a material or process for replacing albumen in this respect in colour printing, the prize still remains unawarded.

"It is lucky that so many whites of eggs are used in the manufactures, the yolks are not wholly thrown away. They are also used in both arts and sciences and a manufacturer in Austria solidifies the yolks. For this he received a prize medal at the Vienna exhibition of 1872.

Factory Fed Calves.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR,—Having been an exhibitor and prize-winner in yearling grade heifer class at Keene, I wish to state that my heifer was not factory fed. I do, indeed, send my milk to a factory; but the heifer that took the prize was one of two calves that sucked one cow during the summer of 1890. You will please correct mistake in your editorial of Oct. 16th.

Respectfully yours,
JOSEPH H. TAYLOR.

[Our correspondent is mistaken in attributing the statement referred to to the EXAMINER; it was given on the authority of, and at the express wish of, a prominent member of the agricultural society, and an active cheeseman. The point raised, as we understand it by the note in question, was not on the respective merits of the animals exhibited, so much as upon the value of cheese factory feed.—ED EXAMINER.

Norwood Notes.

Mr. F. H. Birt had a valuable cow killed on the C.P.R. track on Tuesday. It was struck by the noon express.

On Friday evening, at the family residence, Peterborough street, Mr. Stanley V. McLaughlan died, in the 25th year of his age. Although not unexpected, it is none the less sad, and the grief-stricken relatives have the profound sympathy of the entire community.

Henry Vansickle, a former resident of the township of Asphodel, died in Methuen on 9th October, in the 87th year of his age. Deceased was well-known and highly respected in this section. He was one of Asphodel's oldest settlers. Born in Vermont in 1803 he emigrated to Asphodel in 1836, where he resided until 1870, when he removed to Methuen and resided with his son, John, until the time of his death. Deceased was a consistent member of the Methodist church. The funeral took place on Sunday to the Rockdale cemetery and was largely attended. We extend our sincere sympathy to the bereaved relatives.

Annie Fife, the thirteen-year old daughter of Mr. A. Fife, of Asphodel, witnessed a strange combat the other day. She was going to the back part of the farm for the cows when a large hawk swooped down and attacked a large dog which was accompanying her. A terrific battle ensued, the dog proving no match for the hawk. The little girl seeing that her four-footed companion was coming out second best, armed herself with a stick and waded in, with the result that his hawkship was soon placed hors de combat. The bird was a very large one, measuring four feet from tip to tip of wings. Its claws, when extended, covered four and a half square inches. The little girl is to be commended for attacking, under the circumstances, so large a bird.—Register.

Purify Your Blood

The importance of keeping the blood in a pure condition is universally known, and yet there are very few people who have perfectly pure blood. The taint of scrofula, salt rheum, or other foul humor is hereditary and transmitted for generations, causing untold suffering, and we also accumulate poison and germs of disease from the air we breathe, the food we eat, or the water we drink. There is nothing more conclusively proven than the positive power of Hood's Sarsaparilla over all diseases of the blood. This medicine, when fairly tried, does expel every trace of scrofula or salt rheum, removes the taint which causes catarrh, neutralizes the acidity and cures rheumatism, drives out the germs of malaria, blood poisoning, etc. It also vitalizes and enriches the blood, thus overcoming that tired feeling, and building up the whole system. Thousands testify to the superiority of Hood's Sarsaparilla as a blood purifier. Full information and statements of cures sent free.

M. ÉMILE ZOLA, REALIST.

HIS HABITS, HIS HOME AND HIS PLANS.

The French Prophet of Realism Unfavorably Criticizes Tolstoi—The Russian Author's Ideas Pronnced Anti-Natural—Zola at Home.

M. Emile Zola has again been brought prominently before the world by his recent unfavorable critique of the "Kreutzer Sonata" of Count Tolstoi. The interviewer found Zola resting one of his long afternoon marches, and in answer to a question the French prophet of realism said:

"Fair weather or foul" said M. Zola, "I leave home after luncheon and tramp along as you saw me doing just now until nearly dinner time. I am immensely benefited by it, and indeed the specter looked the picture of robust health.

Although the Paris register can show that M. Zola first saw the light in 1840, his age might be guessed at anything between 30 and 40. Long before the correspondent and Zola reached the ornate villa in which he resides at Mendon, and passed into the drawing room through a large open window, of which the eye travelled over an extensive garden, well kept and bright with flowers, down to where the silken of the Seine could be seen at intervals between alder-fringed banks, the distinguished Frenchman had given his opinion of Tolstoi, his estimate of George Eliot, and had passed on to discuss the promise held forth at the beginning of the century, which he said had been belied. The room entered merits a word of description. High up in the west wall, furthest from the Seine, was a large window of stained glass, through which the sun, then setting, poured variously tinted beams on the mosaic marble floor and on the suits of quaint armor and trophies of curious weapons gathered from the four quarters of the globe. Equally representative of all climes and all times were the musical instruments arranged on the walls. There were pipes on which Pan might have played, the lute with which Romeo might have serenaded Juliet, instead of talking nonsense about the "rosy morn" and the blush on her damask cheek; there were Spanish castanets and mandolins, flutes, clarionets, violins, every sort of instrument from which sound can be extracted, down to the cottage piano standing by a window. On several tables and cabinets were bric-a-brac, not of the kind one often sees in drawing rooms, and made by the thousand, but the genuine articles. The drawing room is also the billiard room, for one of those necessaries of country life stood under the stained glass window.

I asked M. Zola if, like M. M. Ludonic, Halleyy and Molhac, he was anything of a cueist.

"Anything but that," was his reply. "I got the billiard table for my friends. I can't play myself. I am too nervous, and for some reason I am not overcurable also. I should do a lot of shooting if I could manage to hit something now and again, so as to relieve the monotony of missing."

FUTURE PLANS.

In reply to further inquiries M. Zola told me that he worked every morning on a volume which is to continue the "Rougon Macquart" series, and which is to portray financial life. In accordance with his custom, he got all his material ready and classified, and his plot planned out even to minute details before writing out a single line of copy. Despite this his work is giving him a great deal of trouble, and although one-third is finished, he does not expect to complete it before the end of the year. "After that," he continued, "I have only two books to write to complete my Rougon series. Then I can consider my work done and I shall be content to stand or fall by it in the judgment of those who came after me. No, I have not a really decided preference for any one of my works, although, generally speaking, I might say, I set the highest value on 'L'Assommoir' and 'L'Oeuvre.' My next book after 'L'Argent' will be a kind of extension of 'L'Oeuvre,' and after that I shall write a volume resuming, as it were, the whole of the series."

OPINION OF TOLSTOI.

"In the 60's," began M. Zola, "I thought then, as now, that Tolstoi was a writer of vast powers sublime conceptions, striking originality—in a word a genius. But with those who were trying to force Tolstoi, and nothing but Tolstoi, down the throats of the reading public of France I had no sympathy. Tolstoi was merely a card in their hands—a card to be played against us. We were pariahs who must be stamped out of literary existence at any cost. The Marquis de Vogue thought that Tolstoi was a nasmyth hammer with which to crush us—outraught by the experience which befallen M. Scherer. M. de Brandtur and others who had some years before tried the same tactics with George Eliot

"Instead, however, of being a creative genius, Count Tolstoi was merely a receptive mind, which had been impressed by the truth—the realism, if you like—of our writings. He had followed our lead. He is a Russian disciple of the French school which saw light in the days of 1848."

From Count Tolstoi's writings in general M. Zola was turned to the particular work regarding which he opinion had been asked.

A NIGHTMARE.

The 'Kreutzer Sonata' is a nightmare,' he said, 'born of a diseased imagination. Since reading it I have yet the slightest doubt that the author is cracked. The theory developed in this book is anti-natural. Here is a man—there is a woman. It is nature's ordinance that they should seek one another, and you cannot more hope to keep them apart by their seeing and philosophizing than you can hope to keep the wind from blowing or the tide from rising or the trees from budding in the springtime, and what is the use of theorizing and philosophising on an act which admits of neither, and which you are as powerless to stop as you are to stay the rush of a locomotive by throwing yourself in its path? Tolstoi has tried to stop the locomotive and he lies crushed, and the engine dashes along and will continue to do it along to the end of time."

EN ROUTE FOR THE TURNIP FIELD.

Eleven Parisians End Their Lives in a Single Day.

PARIS, Oct. 16.—The city is horrified at what seems to be a suicide epidemic. For some time past as many as twelve to eighteen suicides have been reported daily. On Sunday the total was eleven. In the Rue Berthe a woman suffering from a nervous affection swallowed a quantity of tincture of iodine. A diamond merchant named Cohen, in the Rue Manhesuge, blew out his brains for some reason which has not yet transpired. Another man of about sixty committed suicide on the Rue St. Martin in a similar manner. In the Rue des Hanlets a man hanged himself. He left behind him a paper on which the following words were written: "No work; no bread; not eaten anything two days. Enough of this. En route for the turnip field." Starvation also induced a widow in the Rue Falikas to suffocate herself and her daughter, a girl of 13, by means of charcoal. Two young women were found drowned in the Seine. An individual in the Rue des Pyrenees poisoned himself with laudanum.

TORONTO TOPICS.

Voting on Money Bylaws—Rumor About Hon. Oliver Mowat.

TORONTO, Oct. 17.—The bylaws to expend $424,000 and $144,000 in general improvements were both defeated.

The old saying that bad news travels fast was fittingly exemplified yesterday, when a rumor spread rapidly around town that Hon. Oliver Mowat had been stricken with paralysis. The rumor was not confined to the city alone, for several gentlemen who arrived on the trains last night enquired anxiously at the hotels if the alleged news was true, one gentleman saying that he had heard it as far east as Belleville.

The rumor turned out to have no foundation in fact, as the Premier was reported last night to be in his usual health.

Disappearance of a Prospective Bridegroom on the Eve of His Wedding.

ALBION, Mich., Oct. 16.—Dr. C. H. Johnson of New Jersey, who has been here for two weeks and was to marry Miss Cora Benham, an estimable young lady of this place, yesterday evening, has suddenly disappeared. He retired as usual Tuesday night. Nothing more has been seen of him. Miss Benham is greatly shocked over the matter, as wedding cards were out and all arrangements made for a big wedding.

Robbed the House of its Dead.

DENBIRK, Oct. 16.—Mrs. Ben Ayres of Riverview dropped dead Tuesday. The following night some scoundrel made his way into the cellar belonging and stole four jars of fruit.

Great Increase of Juvenile Crime.

TORONTO, Oct. 16.—The boy thief is multiplying at an alarming rate. Nearly every day several cases of juvenile delinquency, ranging from burglary to sneak thieving from stalls and back yards, engage the attention of the Police Magistrate. From Aug. 1 to Oct. 15 there were 38 boys between the ages of 7 and 15 before His Worship, and all except two or three were convicted. The number of prisoners between the ages of 16 and 20 was fully as large. Whipping is advocated by many people as a deterrent for the boys beginning in thieving. Many of the lads, young in years, are old offenders.

ON SOAP,

IN RELATION TO THE COMPLEXION.

FROM AN ARTICLE BY

Dr. ANDREW WILSON, F.R.S.E.,

Lecturer on Health under the "Combe Trust;"
Lecturer on Physiology at the Edinburgh University;
Editor of "Health."

"One important caution should be given, and that is concerning the use of soaps. I would strongly advise all who care for their skin to eschew the use of common soap, which simply roughens and injures the skin, and, if you will be advised by me, I would say never buy those artificially coloured and odoriferous abominations commonly sold under the name of 'Scented' or 'Fancy Soaps' which are the frequent causes of skin eruptions. If I am prepared to recommend any one soap to you, as a satisfactory and scientifically prepared article, I would certainly advise you to buy and use 'Pears' Soap.' Not merely from personal use can I recommend this soap, but I am well content to shelter myself under the names and authority of the late Sir Erasmus Wilson, F.R.S., President of the Royal College of Surgeons; of Doctor Stevenson Macadam, or of Professors Redwood and Attfield, the eminent analytical and chemical lecturers at the Pharmaceutical Society of Great Britain, who testify to its entire purity. Furthermore, I believe it to be very economical, for it contains no free water, and in this respect differs from all other soaps; hence a cake of 'Pears' is really all soap and not soap and water. I know cases of irritable skin which the whole tribe of much-vaunted 'Fancy Soaps' failed to allay, but which disappeared under the use of Pears' Soap, and for the nursery and for the delicate skin of infancy no better or more soothing soap can possibly be used. There can be no doubt that in respect of the care of children, attention to the skin is specially required. If common soaps are irritating to the skin of the adult, (as they unquestionably are), they are doubly and trebly injurious to the delicate skin of the infant and young child. I can vouch that the soap I am recommending is not merely a safe but an advantageous one. It does not irritate the skin; but, while serving as a detergent and cleanser, also acts as an emollient."

Life Insurance Policy Holders

SHOULD READ THIS!

THE PERCENTAGE OF LAPSES.

The large increase in the amount of life insurance written by purely Canadian companies, and terminated by surrender or lapse, during the past year, has naturally attracted the attention of insurance men. So unexpected and unwelcome an increase $1,709,612 in the amount of lapsed policies credited to Canadian companies during a period when American companies doing business in this country showed a decrease under this heading of $318,304, could not fail to excite comment; so that the figures have been eagerly scanned to discover how such a condition of affairs was brought about.

Perhaps this is most easily shown in tabular form by giving the net amount of insurance in force on the books of each of our principal Canadian companies and the percentage of lapsed and surrendered policies they are responsible for. In this case they rank as follows:—

Company.	Net amount in force.	Percentage of Surrender and Lapse.
Canada Life	$48,664,376	3.07
Confederation	17,574,828	5.31
Ontario Mutual	13,071,400	10.29
Federal	10,058,837	10.35
Sun Life	11,670,817	10.36
North American	5,470,620	10 68
Temperance and General	2,984,972	17.84
Citizens	2,097,956	29.15
Manufacturers' Life	5,723,100	30.12
London Life	1,644,285	30.61

From this table we can see that while such companies as the Canada Life and Confederation have actually decreased the amount of their lapses, some of the weaker companies have largely increased theirs, so that, although one company shows under four per cent., one under six, and four under eleven, the average percentage of lapses for the whole ten companies is 15.78 per cent.

The only moral we can draw from these figures is that the stronger and more widely known a company is, and the more of its patrons it will retain permanently on its books, while the weaker companies must, perforce, witness the defection of a certain proportion of their customers to their more powerful rivals. That so large a proportion as 30 per cent. of policy holders should entirely abandon the advantages of insurance in one year is hardly probable in these days of popular education. We can therefore only fall back on the hypothesis that the bulk of the lapses of the weaker companies must arise from their policy holders transferring their allegiance elsewhere. It is in fact a case of the wealthier and more widely known (even if not more progressive) companies absorbing the cream of the permanent business, and leaving only the transitory, and therefore less desirable risks, to their humbler competitors. By the aid of clever management and attractive methods, a weak company may be able to absorb a fair share of new business; but it is evident from these figures that the superior prestige of their older established rivals is certain to attract a proportion of their customers in the long run, and that thus their percentage of lapses will always be heavier.

New Steel Works.

The prospects of Peterborough becoming a manufacturing centre are bright. The Edison Company will be followed by a large Steel Works of immense capacity which will give increased population to the town and create a brisker demand than ever for hawley bros. choice teas, splendid coffees and beautiful glassware.

Drowned at Blairton.

Very recently, says a correspondent of the Campbellford Herald, a girl 12 years of age, daughter of Mr. Johns, north of Marmora, when going to school got into a boat in Beaver creek, and was pulling out from shore in a playful way when the boat capsized and she was drowned. The family has the genuine sympathy of numerous friends.

Secret of Birchall's Nerve.

The astonishing "nerve" shown by Birchall during his recent trying experiences was the wonder of all. A Woodstock gentleman writing to a friend in town, says the secret of Birchall's nerve is the fact that he drinks the same brand of tea kept for sale by hawley bros., soothing to the nerves pure, strong and fragrant. dw

An Obliging Horse.

A farmer's horse attached to a covered buggy created a little sensation about noon to-day. He slipped his bridle and ran away along Hunter street at racing speed. In turning the corner of Hunter on to Bethune he backed a tree but suddenly becoming tired he brought up between two box cars and stayed their contented till his owner arrived.

Erin Real Estate.

Mr. Wm. Fitzgerald is disposing of his desirable "Erin" quite readily. The latest purchase is that of Mr. Spence, of Dummer, who intends giving up farming and moving into town next March. Mr. Fitzgerald's west end lots are meeting the public wants; they are cheap, well situated, houses first class and of convenient size, altogether desirable properties in every way. The "Erin" settlement will in a short time be a thriving suburb.

A Jockey Killed.

At the Belleville horse races Thursday the afternoon's sport was marred by a shocking accident. In the second heart of the running race the mare Eudia, owned by Pat McLaughlin, of Kingston, after being injured in a breakaway by Chandos, broke her right hind leg and fell. The rider was thrown with such force that his skull was broken and the mare rolled over him. The boy breathed for but a few minutes. His name was James Andrews. His age was about 16, and he was the son of a widow who lives in Kingston. The mare had to be shot.

Market Items.

This morning's market was an unusually large one. The space for wagons is materially increased by the removal of the old building. There was some grain and hay moving, though the Saturday offerings are always small, the bulk of the business being done through the week. Prices are about stationary. Apples sold at 70c. and 80c. a bag; potatoes 70c., butter 18c. to 20c. per lb; eggs 16c. and 17c. a dozen, chickens 40c. and 50c. a pair, ducks 60c. per pair, geese 60c. and turkeys 70c.

Lakefield's New Hotel.

Lakefield will soon be able to boast of the best hotel accommodation of any village of its size in the province. In addition to the already excellent provision for public entertainment, Capt. Dion, Lakefield's old and most respected hotelkeeper, has decided to erect a new house, the contract for which has been awarded to Mr. James Moore. The new hotel will be a three story brick building, 60x50 feet in dimensions, and will be located near the water, on a lot between the railway station and the government wharf. Capt. Dion will equip the house in fine style. There will be some 23 bedrooms. He expects to be open for business early in the spring. Capt. Dion's hotel will be most convenient for tourists and campers en route to the back lakes.

Hunting Parties

A small party, consisting of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. McIntyre and Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Lundy, left this morning for a couple of weeks' outing among the lakes and forests of the north county.

Early Monday morning a party of old campers, who have followed the deer every fall for many years back, will leave for the Eagle lake district to take a couple of weeks' enjoyment of their favourite sport. The party comprises Messrs. R. A. Morrow (capt.), H. LeBrun, H. C. Winch, Chas. Winch (Montreal), F. E. Bradburn, Wm. Crane (Belleville), Fred. and Alex. Patterson, with Mr. Alex. Simpson custodian of the dogs and dogs which will accompany them, and a cook. Other town gentlemen will join the hunters next week. Among those expected are Messrs. H. W. Kent, A. Elliots, J. W. Taylor and H. Phelan. This hunting party has always been very successful in the past, and no doubt they will, as usual, bag a large quantity of game on the present trip.

Winch Bros.' Meat Mart.

By reference to advertisement in another column it will be seen that Messrs. Winch Bros. have opened out business in their splendidly equipped meat mart, in the new market building. Their new premises will admit of their affording better service to the numerous patrons that have proved their superiority in supplying the choicest of meats. A new department is the opening of the shop the whole day. This will permit ladies who are down town in the afternoon to place their orders in person for the following day. Mr. R. J. Winch, of the firm, will be present at all times and personally superintend the filling of orders and also secure the prompt delivery of goods to all parts of the town. To ensure the greatest promptitude of delivery two delivery carts are kept in commission constantly. Persons wanting the choicest cuts of meat afforded in the town will secure their desires by leaving their orders at Winch Bros.' Meat Mart, market building.

From Cobourg to Peterborough

The Cobourg World says:—Cobourg loses another worthy citizen in the person of Mr. R. J. Winch, who left town on Tuesday to enter into partnership with his brother at Peterborough. From Good Friday, 1858, till Good Friday, 1890—42 years, Mr. Winch carried on business as a butcher in this town. His honourable conduct and square dealing with all classes, earned for him the confidence and patronage of numerous customers, who feel very sorry when he went out of business last spring. As a citizen he has played an active part in promoting the welfare of the community. As farmer, buyer and shipper he has left thousands of dollars among the people. At one time he was also interested in the carrying trade, and owned a share in several schooners that sailed from this port. As a member of the Masonic Brotherhood, he has reached the highest pinnacle, having been master of the Blue Lodge and Z of the Chapter. He was elected a member of the Grand Lodge and wears the title of "Very Worshipful." In the Division street Methodist church, of which he has been a consistent member four years, he will be greatly missed—especially at the Bible class, prayer and class meeting, where he was instrumental in doing much good. We are sorry to lose you, Bro. Winch, but our loss is Peterborough's gain. We learn that Mr. Winch's family will continue to reside in Cobourg for a few months longer.

Married at Millbrook.

A very happy event took place at "Sunny Brae," the residence of John D. Armstrong, Esq., Millbrook, on Tuesday evening, 14th inst., being the marriage of his daughter, Miss Tillie, to Mr. R. J. Doak, one of Millbrook's successful merchants. The Rev. Dr. Armstrong, of Ottawa, brother of the bride, officiated. The bride was attired in a handsome costume of cream brocade satin and crepe, with the customary veil and orange blossoms. She was attended by Miss Eakins, town; Miss Lindsey, Ottawa; Miss Annie Hamilton, Peterborough. Miss Eakins and Miss Hamilton wore handsome costumes of Empress and Email satin, and Miss Lindsay wore an equally handsome costume of blue Henrietta cloth. The groom was supported by Mr. W. C. McIntosh. After congratulations, the guests adjourned to the dining room, where a sumptuous dejeuner was provided. Sentiment to the health and prosperity of the bride and bridegroom was proposed by Dr. Armstrong and ably responded to by the bridegroom. Also the health of the bridesmaids, which was responded to by the groomsman. The bride was the recipient of many handsome and costly presents, which showed the high esteem in which she was held by her many friends. The happy couple left by the 9 30 train for the east, amidst showers of rice and best wishes.—[Reporter.

Frank Wilkinson, grain buyer at Hamilton, says: "I used several medicines and found no relief until I tried Wilson's Compound Syrup, Wild Cherry." Less than one bottle cured him of a long standing and painful cough, and tightness of chest and short breath. Sold by all druggists. dw

Personal.

Mr. J. M. Ferris, ex-M.P.P., Campbellford, gave the EXAMINER a call to-day on his way home from the west.

Mr. F. A. Jordan, of Bridgeport, Conn., is in town, a student at Mr. F. J. Lynch's private school, Rubidge street.

Mr. J. T. Clarke, one of Millbrook's most estimable young business men, having decided to remove to Campbellford, the members of the Home Circle Lodge, could not allow him to depart without expressing their regard for him, and entertained him at an oyster supper in Young's restaurant in that village on Saturday evening last.

Mr. J. S. H. Matson, who has ably represented the Provident Life Assurance Company of New York in Peterborough for several months past, left last evening for the coast, where he will place the merits of his company before the public. BIRCHALL AND MANN.

A Well-Known Elgin Thief's Record Recalled After 20 Years.

WOODSTOCK, Oct. 17.—Birchall continues to receive a very heavy mail. About 40 copies of "The Lord's Dealings with the convict Daniel Mann" (who was hanged in Kingston Penitentiary several years ago) have been sent him with many marked passages. A lady in Parkhill has sent him a book entitled, "A Life in a Look," with the request that Birchall shall write her after he has read it. Other religious matter is received almost every mail, but the prisoner does not take much interest in this kind of literature. He prefers to read English sporting papers.

Daniel Mann, who is referred to above, was a well-known desperado of Malahide, Elgin county, two or three decades since. He was the ringleader of a gang of thieves who stole horses from farmers between Chatham and Simcoe, all through the belt of the southern counties, and ran them over to Detroit and Buffalo, where the gang disposed of them. So frequent and barefaced became the depredations that the farmers organized a vigilance committee and after many days' watching surrounded the gang. Mann and his companions opened fire on their pursuers, and it was not until a number of them had been riddled with buckshot that they surrendered. One of the gang who was wounded nigh unto death squealed on the remainder of the gang, and those who escaped arrest became fugitives from justice. Mann was among those secured, but he had only been in St. Thomas jail a few weeks when he organized a scheme with another convict to kill Jailer John King (now an alderman of St. Thomas). They had by some means obtained possession of an iron bar and had partially effected a road to liberty when their plot was discovered. Mann was subsequently convicted and sentenced to 20 years imprisonment. After his transference to Kingston Penitentiary he killed one of the guards and with a companion escaped. After a pursuit of three days, during most of which time Mann concealed himself in a small swamp-bog, remaining in the water two days and nights with only his nose, through which he breathed, above the surface of the water, he was recaptured and in due time was hanged for his crime within the penitentiary walls.

ITALIAN MURDERERS.

Assassination of the New Orleans Chief of Police.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Oct. 17.—The assassination of Chief of Police Hennessy by members of an Italian murder society has caused a great deal of excitement. Mayor Shakespeare has detailed a large force of police to take every suspicious Italian living in Hennessey's neighborhood. A number of arrests have already been made, and the authorities think they have captured the assassins. Among them is the Italian from whose alleyway the murderers opened fire—one Pietro Mastero, a recently arrived Sicilian, who was found suffering from a wound in his head. Three others of the arrested men have been identified as among the assassins. The actual murderers are recognized as merely hired bravos or men who acted under orders from headquarters. Hennessy is the last of his family, all of whom have died with their boots on while in police service. His father, who was on General Weitzel's staff during the war, became afterwards a noted detective in New Orleans, where he was assassinated in 1877. His cousin, Mike Hennessy, with whom he was a partner for years, was assassinated in Houston, Tex., of which he was chief of police.

Antonio Scaffidy, identified as one of the assassins, was shot and mortally wounded to-day in the parish prision by Thomas H. Duffy. Duffy is 28 years old and is married. Duffy said that if the Italian died he was willing to hang. He remarked, "I only wish there were about 55 more men like me. More than fifty arrests have been made of parties believed to be implicated in the assassination of Chief Hennessy and to-day another Italian, Pedro Natal, was identified as one of the murderers.

THIS MAN DESERVED DEATH.

Shot By a Detroit Policeman he Dies at the Hospital.

DETROIT, Oct. 17.—William Moore was shot last evening by Patrolman O'Donnell while resisting arrest for assaulting his wife and died at the Harper Hospital this morning. Moore belongs to Toronto and served a term in Central Prison some years ago for stabbing his father-in-law. He had threatened to kill his wife a few hours before being shot. Burglary at Mitchell.

MITCHELL, Oct. 17.—The store of R. W. Keller was broken into Tuesday night and goods to the value of $350 stolen.

Two Brothers Shot.

CHARLOTTE, N.C., Oct. 17.—John Dixon, a prosperous young farmer of Allegheny county, discovered that an intimate relation was existing between his young wife and Marshall Halsey, almost a stranger in the county. Dixon a few days ago told Halsey of his suspicions, and warned him if he did not cease calling at his home while he was away he would kill him. Yesterday Dixon was away from home and on his return he saw his wife leaving the house. She did not see him, but he got his rifle and followed her at a distance. She went into some woods near by, and her husband watched her. Halsey came up and Dixon soon had his suspicions confirmed. Then he crept slowly through the woods until he was near enough to fire, and taking aim he pulled the trigger. The ball took effect in Halsey's temple, and he fell dead by the side of his slayer's untruthful wife. Dixon then told his wife he intended to kill her also, but her piteous pleadings caused him to desist. He contented himself by pummelling her with his fists, and declared they would separate by Halsey's dead body never to meet again. They parted, each going in a different direction. Late in the evening Charles Halsey, an elder brother of the dead man, hunted Dixon down and found him at the house of a friend. Halsey pulled out a large revolver to shoot Dixon, but others interfered, saying if he wanted to fight he would have to fight fair and give Dixon a chance. Ten paces were stepped off and the two men put in position with their weapons in hand. At the signal both men emptied their revolvers and Halsey was killed. Dixon has not been arrested.

ANOTHER ATTEMPT ON THE LIFE OF THE CZAR.

Furious Storms on the North British Coast —Trouble Feared in Vienna as the Result of the Strike of Tramway Operatives.

VIENNA, Oct. 19.—The strike of tramway employes began to-day. The service is entirely suspended. The conductors demand an increase of pay and the other hands struck to support the conductors. The tramway stations are occupied by police, and the troops are held under arms in their barracks in readiness for any emergency.

WENT DOWN IN THE GALE.

While the Sailors Danced Their Fleet Was Driven Out to Sea.

LONDON, Oct. 19.—A severe storm prevails along the north British coasts. The wind blew with such fury that the British fleet lying at Scarborough was compelled to run to sea to escape being blown ashore. The Admiral and 240 officers and men belonging to the fleet were left on shore. The officers had been dancing all night at a ball given by the mayor of the town and this morning when they attempted to board their vessels before they put to sea they found it impossible, owing to the heavy sea that was running. Three sailors were washed overboard and drowned.

Sir Henry Drummond Wolff Insane.

LONDON, Oct. 19.—A report has reached here that Sir Henry Drummond Wolff, the British minister to Persia, in addition to his physical illness has become insane, and that it is impossible to move him from Teheran at present.

Italian Torpedo Boat Missing.

LONDON, Oct. 19.—An Italian torpedo boat which left Naples some time ago for Spezzia is missing. Nothing has been heard of her since her departure and she is believed to have been lost.

On the Bourses.

LONDON, Oct. 19.—On the Stock Exchange yesterday the tone was more cheerful than for a week past. American railway securities were extremely depressed on Thursday when New York buying altered. The tone encouraged a small flow of English buying. The reaction upward was most marked yesterday.

PARIS, Oct. 19.—The past week witnessed a general decline in prices on the Bourse. The downward movement was slightly checked yesterday, however.

BERLIN, Oct. 19.—On the bourse business was stagnant during the week past. There was a steady fall in quotations.

IT RESULTED FATALLY.

A Prominent Hamilton Citizen Killed in Muskoka

HAMILTON, Oct. 19.—Last Tuesday, in company with Thomas Walker and R. N. Sterling, Mr. Samuel Slater, treasurer of the Standard Banking & Loan Company, went to Muskoka on a hunting expedition, intending to remain away about 10 days. Yesterday a despatch was received from Novar, Muskoka, 14 miles north of Gravenhurst, stating that the men had reached camp about 12 miles from Novar. One of the guides named William McDonogh of Novar was testing the accuracy of Mr. Slater's rifle on a target and deceased was standing at some distance to one side when the ball grazed a small sapling and also struck Mr. Slater in the forehead, killing him instantly.

Deceased came from England 11 years ago and was one of the best known and most popular men in Hamilton. He leaves a widow and two children. Before becoming connected with the Landed Banking & Loan Company deceased was with the Great Western Railway Company for some years.

A Cool $2000.

WOODSTOCK, Oct. 19.—A representative of a New York paper is in town negotiating with Birchall for his autobiography. The prisoner has a very retentive memory and in writing a history of his life has been able to recall so many thrilling incidents that he thinks now the manuscript ought to be worth more than $2000.

Birchall still maintains his appearance of indifference, although his thoughts have taken a somewhat more serious or religious turn.

The prisoner keeps a black cat in his cell and it is said he refuses to let it be removed.

Dr. Chamberlin, the newly appointed inspector of prisons, visited the jail yesterday.

The transcript of the shorthand notes taken by Nelson R. Butcher, the Government reporter at the Birchall trial, was completed late on Saturday and has been transmitted by Mr. Justice MacMahon to the Secretary of State, Ottawa. It contains a verbatim record of Mr. Osler's opening to the jury, the evidence of witnesses, His Lordship's charge, the verdict and sentence of the court, also all legal points raised by Mr. Blackstock or Mr. Osler during the conduct of the trial and the ruling of the court thereon. The report is comprised in two volumes aggregating 967 pages, or about 250,000 words. A verbatim report of the proceedings in all cases of conviction of capital offences is forwarded by the presiding judge, so that the Government have fully before them, in considering each case, really a photograph of what took place at the trial together with the judge's private report. It will be remembered this was one of the answers to the suggestion made after the Maybrick case, that in a criminal matter there was no appeal. It was pointed out that the Government, when considering such cases, reviewed them from every standpoint, not being hampered by legal technicalities.

Baptists in Session.

WOODSTOCK, Oct. 19.—At yesterday's session of the Baptist convention these members were elected to the board of governors: Mr. J. Short McMaster, Hon. John Dryden, Mr. A. A. Ayer, Chancellor Boyd, Rev. E. W. Dodson, Rev. J. McLaurin.

At the evening session addresses were delivered by Principal Huston, Dr. Saunders and Dr. Rand.

An Heroic Remedy.

Mrs. Cumso—My husband suffers so from insomnia. I really don't know what to do for him.

Mrs. Fangle—You should try Dr. Sullivan.

Mrs. Cumso—Sullivan! Who is he?

Mrs. Fangle—I don't know, but I'll ask Mr. Fangle. He says Sullivan can put any man to sleep.—West Shore.

BISHOP O'CONNOR.

An Impressive Service at London Yesterday—Large Concourse of Priests and Laity in Attendance.

LONDON, Oct. 19.—The consecration of Very Rev. Denis O'Connor, president of Assumption College, Sandwich, as Bishop of London took place at St. Peter's Cathedral to-day, and despite the rain was attended by a vast concourse of people, many of whom came from Windsor, Detroit, Sandwich and Chatham to witness the interesting ceremony.

The sacred edifice, which had been lavishly decorated, was well filled with Londoners before the special train bearing the visitors arrived in the city, and the proceedings were well under way when the excursionists reached the cathedral, where shortly afterwards standing room was at a premium.

Archbishop Walsh of Toronto was consecrating bishop, and among the ecclesiastical dignitaries in attendance were Archbishop Cleary of Kingston, Bishops Maes of Covington, Ky., Foley of Detroit, O'Mahony of Toronto, Richter of Grand Rapids and O'Connor of Peterboro. The attendance of visiting vicars-general, deans and priests comprised representatives from Detroit, Munro, Kalamazoo, Montreal, Buffalo, Hamilton, Toronto, Ottawa, Quebec and other dioceses, whilst with few exceptions all the clergymen of the Roman Catholic diocese of London were present to do honor to their chief pastor.

High mass was celebrated by Archbishop Walsh, assisted by the visiting clergy and local priests. At the expiration of the mass consecration took place according to the forms laid down by the Roman Catholic Church. It was a most impressive occasion.

After Bishop O'Connor had been installed the laity of London presented him with an affectionate address promising fealty to him. He made a brief reply thanking all for their kindness in attending, and especially the people of London for their unsought procession.

The 21st Battalion band of Essex and "D" School of Infantry band were present and added interest to the proceedings. The Knights of St. John, gaily uniformed, and the C. M. B. A. Society were met at the station and escorted to the cathedral by the local brethren.

Bishop Foley of Detroit preached a powerful consecration sermon in an eloquent manner and in the evening Bishop Maes preached to a large congregation which completely filled the spacious cathedral.

MATCHES LOADED WITH DEATH.

A St. Catharines Boy Burned to Death With Phosphorus.

ST. CATHARINES, Oct. 19.—Roy, the 7-year-old son of James Gillespie of Townwanda, late of St. Catharines, was coming home from school with other children and stopped to gather hickory nuts near a building formerly used as a match factory. The little fellow picked up some small pieces of phosphorus which had carelessly been swept out and put them in his pants pockets with the nuts. After going home he went into a bedroom to play with the baby, who was on the bed, when the phosphorus burned him terribly and set fire to the bed clothes. The boy was so badly burned that he only lived a short time.

Wished his Cigar was 4 Feet Long.

MONCTON, N.B., Oct. 19.—James Maxwell, the murderer of farmer Hocker, was hanged in the jail yard here by Sheriff Schwebel at 10 o'clock yesterday morning. A few minutes before he was led out to execution he was handed a cigar, and while smoking it the Sheriff told him that he was ready to take him out to the gallows, but he asked the Sheriff to let him have time enough to finish smoking his cigar, and when the sheriff remarked that he could have time he answered that he wished the cigar was four feet long. He walked to the scaffold with a firm step.

The barber who called to shave him during the afternoon used a patent razor. Maxwell did not like this kind of precaution, saying it was entirely unnecessary. The barber also cropped off some of his hair. "Cut it short, said the doomed man. "It will have a long time to grow under ground." He also apologized to the barber at not being able to pay him.

DEATH OF J. M. DUNN.

A Well-Known Educationalist Passes Away at Welland.

WELLAND, Oct. 19.—Mr. J. M. Dunn, headmaster Welland High School, died here last night after a short illness.

Deceased was one of the oldest high school masters in the province, and was also a writer of considerable power. A quarter of a century ago he was head master of the Guelph Collegiate Institute, and in 1874, in conjunction with Mr. Walker of the Guelph Academy, purchased The Guelph Daily Advertiser from its founder, J. Wilkinson, at present proprietor of The St. Thomas Daily Times. The new firm did not make a success of the newspaper business, however, and after a year or two they retired, and the paper subsequently became merged in The Mercury. Mr. Dunn afterwards obtained the position of headmaster of Welland school.

Senator Archibald No More.

HALIFAX, Oct. 13.—Senator T. D. Archibald died suddenly at Sydney Mines Saturday of heart failure, aged 76.

Mr. Archibald was appointed to the Senate at Confederation. He was a Conservative and was largely interested in the Cape Breton coal mine trade, being one of the chief owners of the Gowrie mine at Cow Bay. He was a brother of the late Sir Edward Archibald, for many years British consul-general at New York, and of the late Judge Archibald of England.

30,000 Spindles Ruined.

LOWELL, Oct. 16.—The Perseverance Cotton mill near Belton has been burned. Thirty thousand spindles were ruined.

AN HEIRESS ELOPES.

With a Discharged Employe of Her Uncle Who is Old Enough to be Her Father

CORNWALL, Oct. 19.—Miss Bella Forestelle, daughter of Mrs. Forestelle of this town and niece of Mr. P. Purcell, M.P., has eloped with her uncle's bookkeeper.

Miss Forestelle has dwelt with her uncle and aunt at Fairfield since childhood. Her life has been a happy one and money has been lavishly expended on her education and nothing that she has desired was ever denied her. Three months ago it became apparent to her guardians that a warm friendship had sprung up between the young lady and her uncle's bookkeeper, George Stewart, a man many years her senior. From that time she was strictly forbidden to have anything to do with him and he was dismissed. After this all passed smoothly enough until Saturday, when the young lady started for town on an ostensible visit to her mother. She told her mother that her aunt had given her permission to return with some young lady friends (on a visit to her) to Ottawa and that she would start that evening. Her friends, she said, would drive from Fairfield to the depot, where she would meet them. All the afternoon was devoted to packing her trunks and when the cabman drove up to the door to take her to the 10.57 train her mother and sisters kissed her goodbye and wished her a pleasant visit.

Nothing wrong was suspected until Sunday afternoon, when Mr. Milden, the present bookkeeper for Mr. Purcell, called at Mrs. Forestelle's to take Bella down to Fairfield. Explanations and enquiries brought out the facts that the young lady had gone west in company with Stewart. Her mother is nearly heartbroken over the affair. Mr. Purcell is in New Brunswick and knows nothing of the occurrence. He idolized his niece, and it is said that the misguided girl would have fallen heir to Fairfield and its extensive grounds as well as a large amount of money had she remained with her uncle. It is not known where the couple have gone to.

A MAN WITH A NEW SKIN.

Skinned Alive and Resupplied With Cuticle From Big Frogs.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 15.—Wesley Kellar, "the man who was skinned alive," returned to work to-day. His case is curious. As an illustration of the nice powers of modern surgery it will be talked about from one end of the country to the other.

On Wednesday, July 30, Kellar fell into a steam vat at the Indianapolis Veneer Works. He was taken out as quickly as possible, but he had been scalded from the soles of his feet to the middle of his chest. One arm was all right, but the other arm was blistered to the shoulder. Huge blisters puffed up all over the man's body, and the fluid which had exuded from the flesh to fill them had been cooked to a jelly. In removing his clothes great strips of the outside or scarf skin came off, leaving exposed the true skin underneath, cooked until it looked like a parboiled lobster. His toes and ankles were so blistered and swollen as to lose nearly all resemblance to human members.

As soon as his fellow-workmen got Kellar out of the vat they telephoned for the company's surgeon, Dr. Ralph Perry. "There is, perhaps, one chance in a thousand of saving this man," said the surgeon when he had looked at the burns. He set to work, however, and greased Kellar from top to toe with a mixture of linseed oil and lime water. Then he swathed the body in cotton wadding, from which all possible impurities and disease germs had been removed by chemicals.

For two days and nights the case hung without loss or gain. A teaspoonful of brandy was given every few hours. Then a change came. Kellar seemed to be choking. The throat became swollen, but this swelling was checked. The man's temperature rose a little. Fever set in. This gave great hope. The next morning Kellar asked for something to eat, and actually ate a piece of pie and drank some coffee. The news of this shocked the surgeon at first; but he said:

"I guess we'll win this fight, for a man who can eat pie with no skin on him has life enough left to grow a new one."

When suppuration began great care was taken to let out the pus at every point. The first dressing took three hours; the second still longer. Five days were consumed in taking off the bits of old skin, four hours each day being spent with the forceps, scissors and scalpel removing the skin layer by layer. Not a piece as big as a dime was forced. Kellar's pluck was marvelous. The raw surfaces were dressed with an iodoform mixture and bandaged with soft stuffs.

Meanwhile the swamps of South Bend were being scoured for two-pound frogs. A bushel basket of these were cleaned with a germicide mixture and fed on pure food. The raw surfaces of Kellar's body were tenderly washed with clean warm water, then with peroxide of hydrogen, which destroys pus. The utmost cleanliness and wholesomeness was insisted upon. Just before applying the frog skin the raw surface was washed with a weak solution of corrosive sublimate. Everything ready, the first frog was brought out. With a quick snip of the scissors its spinal cord was severed at the back of the neck. Then the loose, pearly white skin from over the abdomen was quickly taken out and thrust into a dish of water which had been boiled, but which was now merely warm.

In the water had been dropped a little of the corrosive sublimate solution. Being cleansed, the skin was cut up into bits about a tenth of an inch square and applied to Kellar's body—inside in, outside out. Powdered iodoform was dusted over the graft, which was sealed tightly from impurities.

Dr. Perry made grafts on 32 occasions. Thirty-two operations were unsatisfactory, 10 were satisfactory. From each of the 10 centres healthy skin radiated, until now Kellar is "as good as new."

So to-day Kellar went to work—the only man in the world who has been boiled and skinned alive, and who has frog skin where he once wore his own.

The Canadian Oarsman Will Likely Reach Toronto To-day.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—The steamship Umbria of the Cunard Line arrived here to-day with Oarsman William O'Connor on board. The American champion looked extremely well after a somewhat rough ocean voyage and the almost complete circumnavigation of the globe, he having left for Australia via San Francisco about a year ago. O'Connor went directly to the St. James Hotel, where he was stunned on receiving a telegram announcing that a brother had died a few days ago at his home in Toronto. He will leave for Canada to morrow.

Struck By a Train.

STREETSVILLE, Oct. 19.—The evening passenger train on the C.P.R. struck a man lying on the track a short distance west of Cooksville last evening. The train was stopped and the injured man was placed on board and brought to Streetsville, where he was left off and medical aid secured. His head and clothing were covered with blood but it was thought that his injuries would not prove fatal. The man hails from Montreal. He was under the influence of liquor.

Fooling with a Revolver.

LONDON, Oct. 19.—Yesterday afternoon while a young lad named George Gall, son of Mr. G. Gall of William-street, was examining a revolver in the yard of his father's house, the firearm by some means was discharged and the bullet entered the right side of young Gall, a little below the ribs. The bullet has not been recovered.

[Personal Liberty vs. Physical Slavery.

We are all free American citizens, enjoying our personal liberty; but most of us are in physical slavery, suffering from scrofula, salt rheum or some other form of impure blood. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the great blood purifier which dissolves the bonds of disease, gives health and perfect physical liberty.

DISASTROUS RAILWAY WRECK.

Several Freeman Men Seriously Injured at Peterboro.

PETERBORO, Oct. 18.—Yesterday a gravel train, consisting of a van pushed from behind by an engine, left Peterboro for the pits between here and Lindsay. There were probably 15 or 20 men aboard. At McQuade's crossing, near Beatty's, the train crashed into a pair of horses which were standing loose upon the tracks. One of the horses was killed outright and the carcase of the dead horse threw the van off the track. The car lay on its side on one of the rails, while the locomotive leaped over and was also thrown into the ditch. Of course the men in the van were in a perilous predicament, and it is almost miraculous that no one was killed. William Godfrey of Lindsay had his leg fractured near the knee joint. Mr. Clark, foreman of the gang, a Mr. Gray and several others were more or less cut and bruised.

HORRIBLE IF TRUE.

How Emil Ziemske Obeyed the Mandate of the Suicide Club.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Oct. 19.—Another member of the Suicide Club has carried out the edict of that order. This time it is Emil Ziemske, who took his life with cyanide of potash. Ziemske came from Ansonia and joined the club nine months ago, when the order was without members other than its president and secretary. The club was started about two years ago. Early last spring William F. Maby, United States letter carrier, killed himself; Windle Baum next shot himself, and Joseph Kopp followed by hanging himself. All were members of the Suicide Club. These suicides reduced the membership to the president and secretary, who are exempt from self-destruction. Ziemske, with three others, was then pledged to the secret order. A ballot resulted in ordering Ziemske to destroy himself before the next meeting. Saturday night, Oct. 15, and Ziemske has fulfilled his vow. He was 47 years old. At the meeting to-night the Suicide Club will commemorate Ziemske's taking off with a fitting memorial to be placed in the archives of the order. Then a ballot will be taken appointing the next brother who must destroy himself.

AN ACTRESS' TROUBLE.

Says She Was Pursued and Plundered by Her Jealous Actor-Husband.

NIAGARA FALLS, Oct. 19.—Aimee Hercht the actress, was taken before Magistrate Hill yesterday on a warrant accusing her of stealing $300 from her actor-husband, Archille Philion. The girl was discharged. Philion failing to appear against her. Philion had been playing at London with his Philion Spiral Tower combination and his wife was treasurer. She got tired of him, wrote him a note saying so, paid their hotel expenses, sent him a $50 bill and left for Buffalo.

The woman's side of the story has not been told yet. Since her arrest Mrs. Philion was confined in the Queen's Hotel at Fort Erie. She was hysterical all the time and was able to sit up for the first time yesterday. Her story disagrees with that told by Philion very materially. "The papers say," said she, "that I stole my husband's money and ran off with it. That is wrong. I did not. Some time ago my husband was in financial difficulties and I pawned my diamonds to help him out. The $300 that he gave me was to redeem them. He gave me the money along while ago and I had it in my possession for months. We have not lived happily at all. He is of an insanely jealous disposition, has a fiendish temper, and the truth of it is he loves me more than I do him. We were married three years ago. I was traveling with his vaudeville company and fell in love with him. I soon found out that marriage was a failure with me. Philion would not let me out of his sight. He seemed to think that all of the men were in love with me. We were in London playing for two weeks. Last Saturday I was not feeling well and went for a walk. In two hours I returned. He was furious and accused me of all sorts of things. He said that I went out to meet a man and he used horrible language to me. I then thought that the best way to end my misery was to leave him and go to my friends in New York, and this I will now do."

Killed by a Tree.

KINGSTON, Oct. 19.—A young man named Delbert Haines, aged 20, working for the Canada Lumber Company at Crotch Lake went to the woods yesterday and engaged in felling a pine tree. In its fall it struck a hemlock, which was thrown backward, and before Haines could get out of the way it struck him. He remained in an unconscious state for six hours and died.

Found Dead in Bed.

LONDON, Oct. 19.—Augustus Deppe, an old German, was found dead in bed at his house, 376 Waterloo street, yesterday. The deceased was an old resident of the city and formerly kept a furniture and undertaking establishment. Of late he has been working at odd jobs around the city in the furniture repairing line. An inquest will be held.

They Want Divorces.

OTTAWA, Oct. 19.—Two more divorce applications for next session were duly filed to-day. Thomas Bristow, farmer, of the Township of Collingwood, County of Grey, will apply for a bill of divorce from his wife Olivia Emeline Bristow of Midland, County of Simcoe, on the ground of adultery and desertion. Mrs. Isabel Carpenter, assistant matron of the House of the Friendless Hamilton, will apply for a bill of divorce from her husband, William H. Tapley of Montreal, on the grounds of desertion and adultery.

Six Years For Horse Stealing.

LONDON, Oct. 19.—William and Lyman Clough were found guilty by Judge Elliot on the charge of stealing a span of horses from A. R. Mackenzie of London West and they were sentenced to 6 years' imprisonment each.

The Warship Buzzard Also Badly Damaged in a Storm.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., Oct. 19.—The warship Buzzard, which was sent to North Sydney to tow the abandoned torpedo boat to Halifax arrived back to-day. She sailed from North Sydney on Friday morning and the same evening encountered a terrific N.N.E. gale. The wind blew with hurricane force and was accompanied by a heavy sea. During the height of the storm the torpedo boat tore away and was totally lost, breaking in two and sinking. Those on the ship say it was the worst gale they ever experienced and it was thought at times the Buzzard would succumb. She weathered the storm, however, but without damage, the gibboom being broken off short and also her foretopmast.

The Governor-in-Chief, Sir Samuel B. Crane, which picked up the torpedo boat and towed her into North Sydney, has been awarded $500 for her rescue.

DR. CARROLL TRANSFERRED.

It is Not Always Profitable to Tell What You Think.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—Mr. Philip Carroll, consul at Palermo, Italy, and Mr. H. C. Pugh of Indiana, consul at Newcastle, England, have been directed to exchange places.

[Mr. Carroll was for a short time U.S. Consul at Simcoe and subsequently was for several years stationed at St. Thomas. It was while there that, under the Garfield regime, he was transferred to Sicily. The circumstances connected with his present transfer are peculiar. Some time ago he wrote a letter to the Washington bureau advising Americans not to come to Palermo owing to the prevalence of the brigandage. Upon the publication of this order the Italian Prime Minister communicated with the department at Washington notifying the U.S. government that owing to this report, which was prejudicial to the interests of Sicily, Mr. Carroll's papers as U.S. consul would no longer be recognized and he must be recalled if the United States Government desired representation at Palermo. The transference is the outcome of this correspondence.]

CREEPS ON US

We naturally begin to think of Underwear and the kind to buy. We look first for an article that is Comfortable, then Durable and not liable to shrink very much in washing. We mention more particularly to-day Ladies' Underwear. It is gratifying to be able to state that our manufacturers have made marvellous strides lately towards perfecting of these goods. We show to-day a full range of what is known as Boltonian Underwear.

They are made of fine natural Cape Wool and are in wide and narrow ribs like boy's hosiery. One of the chief points in their favor is that they are being sold by us at the same price as ordinary common stuff.

Our range of men's and boys Underwear is also very large. We know we have the best and cheapest in the country. Having examined carefully the products of all the leading mills before making selections, as we want our customers to feel when they come to trade with us they do not need to look around to see if they can find anything better or cheaper.

Our Millnery, Mantle, Dress-Making and Tailoring departments are now in full operation.

All the new Materials and Trimmings are to be seen.

We have an immense stock of Mantles of all descriptions, both ladies and children.

THE DOMINANT ENGLISH TONGUE.

There are not a few persons who from interested reasons, or from panic, fear that the English language in Canada will be overrun by and subordinated to the French language. But there is very little fear of that event. The Anglo-Saxon enterprise and spirit of commerce take along with them the English tongue. Wherever the British flag floats the English tongue is heard, and every day the aggressive Anglo-Saxon is opening new ports to the "meteor flag," and familiarizing new ears with the sturdy tones of the English tongue. A Canadian exchange, referring to the groundlessness of a fear of English becoming extinct, shows that the total of the United States census is close upon 65 000 000, giving, with our own country, upwards of 70 000, 000 English speaking people on this continent. It is estimated that the British census of 1891, will carry the number of English-speaking people to 120,000 000. The figures are startling; the increase wonderful. It is an increase of 20 millions since 1881. Is not English the most spoken tongue? Certain it is that no continental European tongue may compete with it—neither Spanish nor Russian, the two most spoken. Some will have it that more men speak Mandarin than English. But they have only guess-work for it, the speakers of Mandarin never having been numbered. It has been shown that many of the dialects of the Chinese are practically separate languages, whereas English is one and the same throughout at Manchester and Melbourne, Chicago and Calcutta. The Widest Spoken Tongue, at any rate, is unquestionably English. More than a third of the whole human race is under the direct influence of the English-speaking people, whose language is native and dominant throughout an area of more than 10,000,000 square miles—more than a fifth of the whole habitable globe. In the United Kingdom, in the United States, in British America, in Jamaica, and numerous other West India islands, in South Africa nearly up to the Zambesi, in Australia, in Tasmania, in New Zealand, in the isles of the Pacific, English has become the mother tongue of the millions. It is, moreover the official tongue of India, where the knowledge of it is daily spreading among the 260 millions. It is the language of international commerce of China and Japan, and the language, also, of the high seas, being spoken in every maritime port on earth. It has the greatest literature, and more than half the entire world's newspaper press is printed in it. Yet in Shakespeare's time English was confined so three Kingdoms, and spoken only by 5,000,000 folk.

MANY persons are apt to consider that farmers, from living in the country, are "green," and consequently easily taken in. But the average farmer is as sharp in natural parts, though he may not know as much wickedness as the average of city men, and every day is affording evidence that some farmers are getting the boot on the other foot. A young man from the country has been convicted in Toronto of the crime of attempting to buy counterfeit money, and in Russell County another young farmer has got into trouble for a similar offence. In the matter of guilt the man who buys counterfeit money is equally guilty with the person who sells it. The law assumes that the man who buys counterfeit money does so for the purpose of passing it and thus perpetrating a fraud upon some person. Nobody in this age can be ignorant of what contraband money is and how great a crime it is to make, utter it, or have anything to do with it in any way. As a rule the "short cuts" to wealth are by very crooked ways and as a rule disaster and disgrace or at the best only temporary prosperity lie at the end of them.

Burleigh, Anstruther and Chandos Prize List.

The annual exhibition of the Burleigh and United Townships Agricultural Society was held at Apsley on Tuesday, the 14th of October. There was a fair attendance of visitors, amongst others Thos. Blezard, Esq., M.P.P., who, in his own genial way, presented the treasurer with five dollars for the funds of the society. The morning being wet, it prevented some at a distance from getting out. The exhibits on the whole (with the exception of horses and cattle) were up to former years. It is to be trusted that, by careful management, this show will go on prospering, as it has done for the last few years.

Purify Your Blood

The importance of keeping the blood in a pure condition is universally known, and yet there are very few people who have perfectly pure blood. The taint of scrofula, salt rheum, or other foul humor is hereditary and transmitted for generations, causing untold suffering, and we also accumulate poison and germs of disease from the air we breathe, the food we eat, or the water we drink. There is nothing more delusively proven than the positive power of Hood's Sarsaparilla over all diseases of the blood. This medicine, when fairly tried, does expel every trace of scrofula or salt rheum, removes the taint which causes catarrh, neutralizes the acidity and cures rheumatism, drives out the germs of malaria, blood poisoning, etc. It also vitalizes and enriches the blood, thus overcoming that tired feeling, and building up the whole system. Thousands testify to the superiority of Hood's Sarsaparilla as a blood purifier. Full information and statements of cures sent free.

MEASUREMENT OF LAND.

SOME SIMPLE TOOLS WITH WHICH IT CAN BE ACCURATELY DONE.

Straight Stretches—Curved and Winding Ways Triangular Fields—All Within the Scope of These Simply Constructed Land Measures That any Farmer's Boy Can Use.

Certain simple tools, for measuring both garden and farm crops, or the contents of fields, are sometimes a great convenience. For moderate distances, a light pole (Fig 1) may be used to advantage and with much accuracy. It is eleven feet long, so that three lengths will make thirty-three feet or two rods. It is made of light, stiff wood, or of the material used for making fishing rods.

A small handle of round iron to carry it may be screwed into it near one end, for convenience in measuring by one person. This handle is easily made and the screw cut by a common blacksmith. When used, small slits of tin are placed against the ends to show its exact position as moved onwards.

Fig. 2 represents a measuring machine which we constructed some twenty years ago, for the rapid measuring of fields, and which has the advantage over the surveyor's chain or tape line, in that it is always used by one person. The spokes of the wheel are a little larger than common lath. These spokes form a wheel of such size that one revolution measures exactly one rod. This will be effected if each one is thirty-two and one-half inches long. The hub is made of two circular pieces of inch board screwed face to face together, holding the spokes firmly into grooves previously cut. There are eight spaces between the points, and 3, they are just long enough for each space to be twenty-four and three-fourths inches the implement will measure accurately one rod. The points should not be so sharp as to sink into soft ground. The axle is an iron rod with a nut on each end, and a sole-leather washer is placed between. A suitable size for the spokes is half an inch thick and one-and-a-half inches wide at the hub, tapering to an inch or less at the point. Sometimes a wagon wheel has been used, but it is too heavy, and the jerks which its weight causes, makes it inaccurate. Or a smooth surface we have found the measuring of our wheel not to vary more than half an inch in a rod, and on grass land not over an inch in a rod. A common carpenter made the machine.

Fig. 3 shows how a triangular field or piece of ground, b, c, d, may be easily and accurately measured. As a right-angled triangle contains exactly one-half as much as a square or rectangle, divide the three-sided piece into two right-angled triangles, as represented by fig. 3; the common square, a, being used to form the right angles. Multiply the two shorter sides of the two triangles thus formed together, add the products and divide the sum by two, and the quotient will be the area. Use feet for small pieces and rods for fields.

Fig 4 represents the way in which an irregular four-sided field may be measured, by dividing it into four right angled triangles, and measuring each in the way just described. A few light stakes inserted into the ground at the right places will mark the division distinct while the measuring is going on. It will be more convenient to set the square used for finding the right angles, in a stake as shown by Fig. 5.

It becomes desirable sometimes to lay out curved lines on ornamental grounds or for walks or carriage drives, where if badly done with breaks or angles they will have a very bad or broken appearance. True curves with any degree of deviation from the right line, may be laid out by using the rod represented by Fig. 6. An iron pin at the middle A, holds it from sliding on the ground while used, where also is an open socket to receive the marking stake C. It is a graduated cross bar for varying the curve. Fig. 7 shows how it is used for making the curve, the greater the deviation at each move, the shorter the curve. At each move a peg or stake is inserted and the curve is thus regularly marked.

FIG. 5.

FIGS. 6 AND 7.

A short curve may be reduced or run gradually into a longer one, and vice versa, by a regular increase or decrease on the short scale at each measurement with the pole. Such curves as are represented by Fig 8 are thus accurately laid out.

A convenient measurement, which the farmer or gardener wants to use often perhaps than any other, is the one represented by Fig. 9, which enables him rapidly to lay off drills or rows of hills three feet apart, or three and a half or four feet. Holding it in his hand, a single placing on the ground gives the desired distance, which is better than the common practice of guessing how far apart are the rows of corn, potatoes, etc., or measuring by spreading the feet.

SCIENCE AND PROGRESS.

Lightning Sometimes Proceeds From the Earth as Well as the Clouds.

During the progress of electrical storms in this State it was noted in several places that electrical discharges passed from the earth to the clouds, as well as from the clouds to the earth. The Post-Express described this phenomenon as observed at Iro ndequoit Bay. A gentleman who recently returned from the Adirondacks observed the same electrical action. Discharges passed from the hills across Star Lake to the clouds, and from the clouds to the hills. Similar observations were made in this city in 1885 or 1886. Preceding and during the volcanic eruptions in New Zealand, June 11, 1886, electric fireballs or meteors were observed to pass from the earth. These electrical discharges were from regions considerably removed from the volcanic craters.

It has been urged that the eye cannot detect the direction of a lightning flash, and that the passage of a discharge from the earth to the sky is only apparent, an optical illusion. This objection is employed mainly to support a theory that the passage is always from the sky to the earth. If the reasoning of the objection be correct, what is there to support the theory that the passage is always from the sky to the earth? The statement that discharges are invariably from the sky to the earth is based on observation, and has no other basis. An object on the earth may be shattered by a bolt passing from the earth to the sky as well as by passage from sky to earth. The shattering force is shown when the fluid passes from one medium to another. The testimony of sight must be accepted in case of apparent passage of the bolt from earth to sky if it is accepted in the passages from sky to earth.—Rochester (N. Y.) Democrat.

Mineral India Rubber Asphalt.

According to the Practical Mechanical Electrician, another article formerly considered worthless has been added to the useful products, and is known as mineral India rubber asphalt. It is produced during the process of refining tar by sulphuric acid, and forms a black material very much like ordinary asphalt and elastic India rubber. When heated so that the slimy matter is reduced to about 60 per cent. of the former size, a hard substance is produced resembling ebony. It can be dissolved in naphtha, and is an excellent non-conductor of electricity, and therefore, valuable for covering telegraph wires and other purposes where a non-conducting substance is needed. Dissolved, the mineral India rubber produces a good water proof varnish. The manufacture of the material is said to be very profitable, and to pay the inventor 400 to 500 per cent.

The Moon's Influence on the Weather.

La Nature commenting on an article on the influence of the moon on weather by Dr. G. Meyer says that although such investigations have hitherto given a negative result, the author thought that with the materials furnished by synoptic charts he might eliminate local influences, and he gives tables extending over a number of years which seem to show the influence of the moon in lowering the height of the barometer in the months of September to January at the time of full moon, and in raising it during the first quarter. The Deutsche Seewarte, which communicates the article, points out that a similar result has been independently arrived at by Capt. Seemann, one of the assistants of the institution. The same effect or any other is not perceptible in other months.

The Old Reliable.

In these days of humbug it is a relief to hear of something that can be depended upon. Wilson's Wild Cherry has been tested as a remedy for the cure of all diseases of the Throat, Chest and Lungs, for nearly twenty years with such success as to earn for itself the title of The Old Reliable cure or Coughs, Colds, Croup, Asthma, Bronchitis and other affections of the respiratory system. THE ONLY TESTIMONIAL HE EVER GAVE.

"If it be well to wash the skin—and we never heard the proposition questioned—it is well also that we should be familiar with the means by which that purpose may be most efficiently attained.

"We once knew a beautiful woman, with a nice complexion, who had never washed her face with soap all her life through; her means of polishing were, a smear of grease or cold cream; then a wipe, and then a lick with rose water. Of course we did not care to look too closely after such an avowal, but we pitied her, for soap is the food of the skin.—

Soap is to the skin what Wine is to the stomach;

a generous stimulant. It not only removes the dirt, but the layer which carries the dirt; and it promotes the displacement of the old cuticle to make way for the new, to increase the activity of change in the skin. Now turn we to Toilet Soaps and there we find a name engraven on the memory of the oldest inhabitant—PEARS.

PEARS' SOAP! an article of the nicest and most careful manufacture, and the most refreshing and agreeable of balms to the skin.

Life Insurance Policy Holders

SHOULD READ THIS!

THE PERCENTAGE OF LAPSES.

The large increase in the amount of life insurance written by purely Canadian companies, and terminated by surrender or lapse, during the past year, has naturally attracted the attention of insurance men. So unexpected and unwelcome an increase—$1,709,612 in the amount of lapsed policies credited to Canadian companies during a period when American companies doing business in this country showed a decrease under this heading of $318,304, could not fail to excite comment; so that the figures have been eagerly scanned to discover how such a condition of affairs was brought about.

Perhaps this is most easily shown in tabular form by giving the net amount of insurance in force on the books of each of our principal Canadian companies and the percentage of lapsed and surrendered policies they are responsible for. In this case they rank as follows:—

Company.	Net amount in force.	Percentage of Surrender and Lapse.
Canada Life	$48,664,376	3.07
Confederation	17,574,528	5.21
Ontario Mutual	13,071,400	10.29
Federal	10,058,837	10.35
Sun Life	11,670,817	10.36
North American	8,470,620	10.68
Temperance and General	2,984,972	17.84
Citizens	2,097,956	29.15
Manufacturers' Life	5,723,100	30.12
London Life	1,644,285	30.61

From this table we can see that while such companies as the Canada Life and Confederation have actually decreased the amount of their lapses, some of the weaker companies have largely increased theirs, so that, although one company shows under four per cent., one under six, and four under eleven, the average percentage of lapses for the whole ten companies is 15.78 per cent.

The only moral we can draw from these figures is that the stronger and more widely known a company is, and the more of its patrons it will retain permanently on its books, while the weaker companies must, perforce, witness the defection of a certain proportion of their customers to their more powerful rivals. That so large a proportion as 30 per cent. of policy holders should entirely abandon the advantages of insurance in one year is hardly probable in these days of popular education. We can therefore only fall back on the hypothesis that the bulk of the lapses of the weaker companies must arise from their policy holders transferring their allegiance elsewhere. It is in fact a case of the wealthier and more widely known (even if not more progressive) companies absorbing the cream of the permanent business, and leaving only the transitory, and therefore less desirable risks, to their humbler competitors. By the aid of clever management and attractive methods, a weak company may be able to absorb a fair share of new business; but it is evident from these figures that the superior prestige of their older established rivals is certain to attract a proportion of their customers in the long run, and that thus their percentage of lapses will always be heavier.

The new business of the SUN LIFE was the largest ever secured in the Company's history and was equalled by but one Canadian life company. The surplus accumulated during the THREE years of the current quinquennium far exceeds the amount earned during any previous FIVE years, and the profits to Policy-holders cannot fail to be highly satisfactory. The prosperity of the Sun Life is no doubt largely due to its issuing unconditional policies and paying its claims promptly. Canadians should also remember that by patronizing a Home Institution, which invests all its funds in the Dominion, they are benefiting themselves by reducing the rate of interest here, and are helping to build up our own cities rather than those of foreign states.

Champion Canoeist

On Saturday the Globe gave a list of the victories of Harry F. Mackendrick, the young Canadian canoeist who holds the title of champion paddler of America, and closes the article with the statement that his racing canoes, of which he has seven, have all been built by Mr. William English, of this town. This speaks well for the English make of canoes. Mr. English was present this year at the A.C.A. meet, Long Island, when Mr. Mackendrick, with one of his make of canoes, carried off the championship mug, over eight crack paddlers, by ten lengths.

George Street Methodist Church.

The services at the George street church Sunday evening were of a rather more elaborate musical character than usual. The proceedings were interspersed by several anthems, in one of which Mrs. W. Daly sang a solo in her customary beautiful voice. "Consider the Lilies." The choral renditions displayed an admirable taste in their selection as well as great strength and finish in their execution. The programme was carried out as published, to the edification of an immense congregation, among whom were quite a number of people from other denominations. Mr Seward, it is safe to say, has the largest and perhaps the best choir in town. There were forty voices, in well balanced parts, in the choir Sunday evening. Rev. Mr. Locke's sermon was pointed directly at young people, whom he warned to avoid the beginnings of evil, as, in the words of the text,—"behold how great a matter a little fire kindleth"—the first false step might result in their utter ruin.

Sunday morning at the George street church Rev Dr. Poole, the author of "Anglo Israel," preached an excellent sermon.

A Carrier Pigeon's Flight.

Mr. G. B. Sproule, who has been quite a pigeon fancier in his day, was approached on Saturday by a boy named Richardson who had a handsome carrier pigeon for sale. It was of the variety known as the blue carrier. The boy said he bought the bird from another lad in Millbrook for 10s. It seems the bird had dropped in Millbrook during a storm last spring, since which time it had moulted its feathers so that the usual marks of identification upon the bird's wings and tail were obliterated. Upon the pigeon's leg was a small silver band engraved with these characters: "z 14,452." The pigeon is believed to belong to some foreign government. It was probably caught in a storm and carried out of its course, finally dropping at Millbrook. Correspondence has passed between Dr. Bell and the owners of carrier pigeon in Canada, but none of them claimed the missing bird. This leads to inference that the pigeon belongs to the United States or some Old Country government. Mr. Sproule is certain it is an official bird from the evidence of the characters on the silver ring. Master Richardson (George St.) has the bird in his possession.

Guilty of Procuring.

The Toronto World says:—At the criminal assizes on Saturday Frederick C. McNamara had several indictments against him under Sir John Thompson's Act, which became law on June 1st last. The prisoner was charged with procuring and inducing a girl under 21 years of age; also with inciting her to enter a house of ill-fame. W. H. Riddell, Q.C., appeared for the Crown, and N. Gordon Bigelow for the defence. Ella McIntosh and prisoner met in Peterborough. She came to Toronto to work and here McNamara found her and induced her, under promise of marriage, to live with him. In a few weeks he tired of her and neglected to pay her board. The landlady seized her trunk and turned her out. Prisoner then took her to a house in Edward street, and, as she alleged, made the indictable proposals to her. She refused to lead the life he suggested and informed the police. Chief Justice Galt charged strongly against the prisoner. On the first indictment of procuring the jury returned a verdict of guilty. On the other charge the prisoner was acquitted. The prisoners found guilty at this court will be sentenced this morning. Prisoner announces his intention of appealing.

He Fell Among Thieves.

Sunday morning, about one o'clock, Dr. Pigeon, Charlotte street, was roused by the ringing of his door bell, and, on answering the alarm, found a young man standing on the steps, in a state of great fright and excitement, holding his overcoat in his hand. It appears that he had tasted the same experience as that which befell the Hebrew of old, who, while journeying towards Jerusalem, fell among thieves and was stripped of his raiment. The young man stated that he had been pounced upon by a couple of footpads, who handled him pretty roughly and relieved him of his overcoat, and were intent upon performing other kind offices of a like nature. He, however, managed to jerk the garment from their hands and get over the fence into Dr. Pigeon's yard, where he was comparatively safe. As he was afraid to venture forth again alone, a policemen was telephoned for, and under the escort of the "cop" he went to his hotel. The young man is from the country and could not give any clue to the identity of his assailants. His statement of the assault is believed to be true, as the wrangling on the sidewalk was heard by persons living close by. An attempt at highway robbery is a new phase of crime for our peaceable town.

Telephone Talk.

The New Trunk Line and the Local Exchange.

The EXAMINER on Saturday evening had a few minutes chat with Mr. Dunstan, the Inspector of the Bell Telephone Company, who was in town on business. His visit at the present time naturally creates unusual interest. He was asked several questions telephonic, among other things he was asked in reference to the talked of new line between Montreal and Toronto, through Peterborough, and Mr. Dunstan said that it was intended to build a copper metallic line of the highest class, between the two big cities of Canada following the line of the Grand Trunk Railway. This would necessitate building a loop from Port Hope here in order that the town might have the great advantage of connection with this circuit. Mr. Dunstan, in reply to further inquiry said that it would depend entirely upon the state of affairs in Peterborough next year whether this loop would be built or not. The exchange, he explained, are the great feeders to the trunk line, and if as the result of the present fight, the exchange here is much injured, it would not pay to bring the line to Peterborough. Mr. Dunstan says there is no doubt as to the ultimate result of the struggle in telephonic circles in Peterborough, as now that the hand had been put to the plough, there will be no turn-back. The business is he pointed out, of such a character as to make it a natural monopoly in a place of the size of Peterborough, and the establishment of an opposition company is an attempt to blot the Bell company out of existence, leaving this town without an exchange, and if, without an exchange, then, as a natural result, without any of the many trunk lines which now connect it with all places of any importance in Canada. This is the view of a gentleman whose relations to the Bell company make it entirely probable that he is speaking their sentiments

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

The Saturday night and Sunday meetings were well attended, the Sunday meeting especially so. These evidences of the increase of public interest in the work are most gratifying. Saturday night there were forty or fifty young men at the meeting. Mr. Hamilton gave an address.

Sunday afternoon the usual out-door meeting was withdrawn on account of the damp weather. The attendance at the rooms was good. Messrs. Richardson and Cunningham were the speakers. In the evening the rooms were crowded to overflowing. Mr G. J. Early conducted the services, and Mr. G. M. Roger gave an earnest and impressive address.

Mr. R. J. Colville, the General Secretary, will be out of town this week. On Sunday he assisted other Y. M. C. A. workers who occupied the pulpits of the churches in Lindsay, in laying the claims of the Association before the people of that town. This week he will be in Toronto and Hamilton on Association business.

OBITUARY.—We are sorry to announce to the readers of the EXAMINER the death of Isabella Smyth, wife of Mr. Chas. Crowe, who died recently in Peterborough with the dropsy. She was very highly esteemed, an ardent worker in the Methodist church, and had a large circle of acquaintance who will now mourn her departure. The funeral took place from the family residence, Cedar street, Peterborough, on Sunday, Oct. 19 30 a.m. and proceeded to the cemetery south of Fraserville for interment. Her friends and relatives, together with her husband will have the sympathy of this neighborhood in their bereavement.

Reports of the Secretary and Treasurer —Progress of the Past Year.

Appended are the reports presented at the annual meeting of the Peterborough Protestant Home, which were withheld from publication at the time. They will be found full of interest to philanthropical persons:—

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE PETERBOROUGH PROTESTANT HOME.

The Peterborough Protestant Home year has just expired, and we now have to report the progress made and assistance given since October, 1889

There have been a great many applications made for admission during the year, some of which were granted, but others refused from various reasons. However, the rooms are all occupied at present, there being twenty-one inmates.

Happily there have been no deaths amongst the inmates this year, nor any serious illnesses, although one or two have been sent to the hospital for a short time to receive necessary nursing and attendance.

We, as a committee, would return thanks to our Heavenly Father for all that he has enabled us to do for the relief and comfort of so many old people, although our funds have been extremely low at times. We would extend our grateful acknowledgments to all those who have sent donations; to the clergy, laymen, and secretary and members of the Y.M.C.A., for the very enjoyable services which have been held continuously during the year; to the doctors who so kindly attended the inmates month by month free of charge; to the editors of the papers for so generously inserting all notices and for copies of the papers received daily.

It is our sad duty to record the death of our second vice-president, Mrs. A. Smith, who was for so many years connected with the Home. Her helpful words of advice have been very much missed at our weekly meetings, and her constant visits to the old people here, which were always looked forward to, and will long be remembered by them, have left a blank which cannot readily be filled.

Another of our kind and thoughtful friends has been taken from us, but her memory will be cherished by many, as she has been the means of easing aching and troubled hearts. Mrs. Nicholls' handsome legacy of $20 000 to the Home will be a lasting benefit, the interest of which will enable the committee to have some much needed improvements made.

We regret very much that so few appear to take an interest in this work. When we think what a comfort and blessing such a refuge affords to those old people who have no homes of their own, we feel sure that none will regret anything they may have done towards the relief of others.

Our matron, Mrs. Dillon, deserves much praise for the way in which she has kept everything so neat and clean, and for the great care taken of the little children who have been here at different times.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

M. C. ROPER,
Secretary P. P. Home.

Peculiar Infatuation.

Different Methods of Following the Injunction "Love One Another."

Do men ever fall in love with each other? Women do. Not long ago a young woman in New Jersey was married to a youthful laborer on her father's farm. Some time afterward it was discovered that the husband was a female; the young wife refused, however, though earnestly entreated by her friends, to give up her chosen consort. The strong at part of the discovery was the fact that the bride knew her husband was a woman before she was led to the altar.

If men do not exhibit this strange infatuation for one of their own sex, they at least oftentimes give evidence of the fact that they love one another. There are many more instances were men have given life to another.

It is a proud possession—the knowledge that one has saved a precious human life. Meriden Conn., is the home of such a happy man. John H. Preston, of that city, July 11th, 1890, writes: "Five years ago I was taken very sick, I had several of the best doctors, and one and all called it a complication of diseases, I was sick four years, taking prescriptions prescribed by these same doctors, and I truthfully state that I never expected to get any better. At this time I commenced to have the most terrible pains in my back. One day an old friend of mine, Mr. R. T. Cook, of the firm of Curtis & Cook, advised me to try Warner's Safe Cure, as he had been troubled the same way and it had effected a cure for him. I bought six bottles took the medicine as directed, and am to-day a well man. I am sure no one ever had a worse case of kidney and liver trouble than I had. Before this I always was against proprietary medicines, but not now, oh, no"

Friendship expresses itself in very peculiar ways sometimes; but the true friend is the friend in need.

The marked and steady decrease of the export trade in Russian grain is exciting the serious attention of the government. The total shipments from all the Russian ports for the first six months of the present year only reached 25,000,000 poods, the pood being equal to thirty-six pounds, as against 310,000,000 poods in 1889 and 346,000,000 in 1888. In view of these facts the Russian economists are awaking to the fact that American, Indian and Egyptian grain are driving the Russian product out of the market and depriving their country of its former title of the granary of Europe.

ST. THOMAS, Oct. 19.—A man who gave his name as W. Stewart of Yarmouth died very suddenly at the Wilcox House Saturday morning. He came there yesterday afternoon about 3 o'clock and was given a room. This morning between 7 and 8 o'clock he was sitting in the front room adjoining the bar talking with several persons who were in the room when he complained of feeling unwell, his nose began to bleed and his head dropped forward. Some of those who were present pronounced him dead, and a doctor who was sent for confirmed this opinion. Nothing was found in his pocket by which to identify him.

Woman in the Witness Chair.

A woman in the witness chair in a court of justice is a source of perplexity to a good lawyer. To the indifferent practitioner it makes little difference whether the witness is a man or a woman. With equal perversity he pitches into everybody who appears against him, and often succeeds in prejudicing his client's cause. A shrewd attorney handles proof in petticoats very gingerly. When a pretty woman's name is called in court, she rustles to the stand, looks modest and out of place, kisses the Bible—the same holy book whose leathern covers are incrusted with grease—with an oh-I've-got-to expression, and then waits expectantly for the trouble to begin. If she is trifling with the truth, and the lawyer knows it, he cannot browbeat her as he would a man, but he must smile, behave courteously, and dismiss her with a bow; otherwise the jury will fight against him in their deliberation room. If she is homely, and he cross-examines her too much and too truculently, she will brace herself and tell him more in a minute than he wants to know from her in a lifetime. The prettiest way for a lawyer to hand over a female witness to the body politic is by some such expression as, "That is all, my dear miss," if she is 40, or, "I have no further questions, madam; then with a sudden show of recollecting himself, propound a question big with results, and dollars to cents she will fall into the trap and hurt the side of the cause she was called to aid. An old practitioner says that his invariable rule has been not to cross-examine a woman to any extent.—New York Times.

BURNING OF A PROPELLOR NEAR SARNIA

Nine of the Crew of the Annie Young Drowned While Attempting to Escape in a Small Boat. The Vessel Burned to the Water's Edge.

SARNIA, Oct. 20.—The propeller Annie Young of the Lake Superior Transit Company, from Buffalo for Duluth, left here this morning at 9 o'clock. About 1½ hours later off Lexington she was discovered to be on fire aft. The flames spread rapidly and 10 of the crew including the mate took to one of the small boats, which they launched, but did not clear off the ropes after lowering. The mate climbed up to adjust the ropes and clear the small boat, and on looking down at the boat found she had swamped. The 9 men were drowned. The remainder of the crew, 17 in number, were rescued, being taken off the burning steamer by the barge Edward. They were landed at Port Huron to-day about noon. The boat burned to the water's edge and is now tumbling about on Lake Huron 15 miles from Huron.

The drowned are McManard of Port Huron, J. Donnelly, J. Crosby, J. Gallagher, J. Connelly and three deck hands, names and residences unknown. The Young was of 695 tons burden and valued at $30,000. The mate was very badly burned about the face and hands. The Young was bound up with a cargo of coal and general merchandise for Escanaba and Gladstone.

LONDON, Oct. 20.—The Spanish bark Villa de Llanes, Capt. Onato, with a crew of 12 men from Liverpool, Oct. 14, for Laguna, has probably been lost in the gales off Ormes Head. A large quantity of wreckage from her and two bodies have been washed ashore in the Mersey.

OARSMAN O'CONNOR AT HOME.

He Tells of His Brace of Races in Australia. The Spins Were on His Trial Tracks.

TORONTO, Oct. 21.—William O'Connor, champion oarsman of America, completed his circuit of the globe yesterday at noon after spending about a year in the journey. He left Sydney, N.S.W., Aug. 18 on the Peninsular and Oriental steam company's boat, and went direct to Italy and from thence overland to London. The air was so oppressive in the Red Sea that the vessel was obliged to steam back two hours at a time at intervals to catch a cooling breeze. O'Connor described it as simply awful to bear, and would not take the route again. But he declared after all the ports along the route were great spectacles and worthy of some discomfort to see. At Ceylon the natives would toss coppers for anything from a rag to a gold watch.

O'Connor was almost paralyzed on learning of the death of his brother and sister-in-law, which plainly showed on his features, notwithstanding his swarthy complexion and solid sevenpounds.

"The misfortune has changed all my plans," said the tourist to The World reporter last night. "I intended going directly to California, but now must remain here until affairs are straightened out." Of course his recent races were referred to and his opinion of the result was given frankly.

"The Spencers, Crane and Carter were behind me and I did not go into the event without being fully prepared. The climate suited me fairly and I progressed well on the Canamatta course. Just previous to the first race I went out for a trial, but scouts were on my track all day and I postponed it until nightfall. Away I started to see what was my speed in the tidal course. Bang went a rifle shot on the bank but I did not notice that. When I got a mile another report came and so at the two and turn. My trial was excellent. But to my great surprise I read my record fully in all the newspapers next morning. The shots were fired for the purpose.

"I pulled the greatest mile of my life at the start of the first race I won the toss, and on my side of the river were moored all the spectators' steamers. On making the turn at the end of the mile Stanbury miraculously took an eddy in the course and was just in an instant and scraped my boat. You know the result. I was placed on the other side in the next race and curiously the pleasure steamers also all went over. I got the start as before and was passed with the same celerity. Oh! they are cursing over there and Australians 'pull' uniformly for their man. I think it almost impossible to lick an antipodean on his own course.

"They have great memories, too. You remember how Bubear fouled Beach on the Thames. Well, I saw him row on the Paramatta, and how he was hissed!

"Stanbury is an almost perfect counterpart of Gaudaur, pulling exactly the same stroke. He is a great 'stayer,' but I think Kemp the faster of the two. Stanbury and Kemp will leave Australia about Dec. 30 and sail direct to San Francisco, where I will likely have a race in March."

O'Connor asked anxiously after Denny Deachine of Hamilton and was surprised when told that he had not been competing with Gaudaur, Teemer et al. "I met Muldoon and Kilrain coming from New York. They are with a show and I guess making some money and I hope more than is taken from the calling of a professional oarsman," said O'Connor discouragingly. He declared that the Spencers lost fully £30,000 on him, but they are game and have taken up McLean with the hope of downing the Kemp-Stanbury crowd.

A Wife of Ten Days Elopes.

HARRISTON, Oct. 20.—James Gibson arrived home to-day from Port Huron with his repentant wife. Ten days after her marriage to Gibson the woman eloped with a man named Shoultz, a mason. The Port Huron police got on the track of Shoultz and found him living with a woman. Gibson confronted the woman and discovered that sure enough it was his wife.

The Quebec Incendiaries.

QUEBEC, Que., Oct. 20.—The case of the Queen against Delamare Georgiana Binet, his wife and his bartender, Gauthier, for murder and arson was opened this morning. On July 16 last, Delamare set his bar-room on fire at midnight. In ten minutes the flames had enveloped the whole building. Five persons who were sleeping in a room in the upper story of the house were burned to death. Delamare is pale and looks anxious. His wife is in a prostrated condition. The court-room was crowded, many ladies occupying the galleries.

The Grand Old Man Takes the Road.

LIVERPOOL, Oct. 20.—Mr. Gladstone and his wife left on their Scotch tour this morning. They were loudly cheered as the train pulled out of the station.

At Carlisle 1500 people were awaiting the arrival of the train. Mr. Gladstone addressed them. He said he had no fear for Scotland, and hoped England would do as well in the Home Rule movement as the people of the former country. There was great applause.

EDINBURGH, Oct. 20.—Mr. Gladstone reached here this evening. He received a large number of leading Scotch politicians. There was a large crowd at the station and he was given an ovation. He bowed his thanks.

CAVALRY'S OCCUPATION GONE.

Troopers' Future Employment in Warfare to be Outpost Duty.

BERLIN, Oct. 20.—The Neue Freie Press publishes an article which is likely to attract general notice. The writer declares that the time for brilliant cavalry attacks upon infantry is past, and that the future duties of cavalry will be to serve as outposts, to conceal infantry, to escort single detachments, and so forth. An attack cannot be risked by cavalry except upon a body of the enemy's cavalry, and whenever it is not stronger than the enemy it would do better to dismount and protect itself by firing. If the cavalry of the future is to be efficient, continues the writer, it should be armed with rifles and instructed in quick firing. The lance, which is being introduced again in France and Germany, is an absolutely useless weapon, and in the age of repeating rifles and smokeless powder the cavalry will never have an opportunity of using them.

CHALLENGED IN THE CHAMBER.

A Hot-Blooded Frenchman Who Objected to Being Dubbed "a Lackey."

PARIS, Oct. 20.—In the Chamber of Deputies to-day De Rouiede created a scene by forbidding M. Reinach, whom he described as "that lackey of all administrations," to interrupt him.

President Eloquet demanded the withdrawal of the objectionable words.

De Rouiede refusing to withdraw them, the Chamber censured him.

Afterwards Reinach challenged De Rouiede to a duel and the challenge was accepted.

PARIS, Oct. 20.—In the Chamber of Deputies to-day M. Roche, Minister of Commerce, introduced a general customs tariff bill. It provides a maximum tariff, applicable to products imported from countries not conceding commercial advantages to France and a minimum tariff reserved for countries consenting to customs regulations calculated to benefit French trade. Agricultural products figuring exclusively in the maximum class will not be considered in any arrangements without other powers. Among raw materials those will be exempt from duty which are indispensable to French manufacturers. The products thus admitted free include raw silks and wools, raw hides and raw cotton.

M. Alcppine brought an interpellation regarding the Dahomey expedition. He reproached the Government for declaring war against Dahomey without the sanction of the Chambers.

M. Etienne, Under Secretary for the Colonies, denied that war had been declared. The object of the expedition, he said, was simply to defend French subjects in Dahomey.

An order of the day approving the course of the Government was adopted.

M. Goussot, Boulangist, demanded that legal action be taken against the Boulangists in order to throw light upon the recent charges against them.

The Minister of Justice replied that the High Court of Justice had already condemned Boulanger and nearly the whole of France joined in the condemnation. It was needless for the government to prosecute unless new attempts were made against the state. M. de Roulede responded with fierce invective against the ministry.

Finally an order of the day was adopted.

The Gunboat's Welcome.

ZANZIBAR, Oct. 20.—Advices received by British vessels which have arrived here from the Zambesi River state that the British gunboats entered the river on Oct. 5 despite the protests of the Portuguese authorities. In their company was a steamer belonging to the British African Lakes Co. which had in tow a flotilla of lighters and canoes laden with stores and munitions of war. The entire native population lined the banks of the river shouting, dancing and clapping their hands. The Portuguese made a verbal protest against the gunboats entering the river.

LONDON, Oct. 20.—General Booth, commander-in-chief of the Salvation Army, speaking of the proposals set forth in his book for the alleviation of the physical distress of the masses before close attention is paid to their moral and spiritual wants, says he requires £1,000,000 to carry out the scheme.

MORLEY AND GRANVILLE

DELIVER STIRRING ADDRESSES AT NEWCASTLE.

The McKinley Tariff and the Tipperary Trials Under Discussion—Morley Says the Parnellites Were Responsible for Many Recent Good Measures.

LONDON, Oct. 20.—In a speech at Newcastle to-day Lord Granville said the Tories pretended they were confident of the result of appealing to the country, yet they delayed dissolving parliament as long as possible. Referring to the new American tariff he said: "Exaggerated language has been used with regard to the McKinley tariff, which will not injure us as much as was expected. It is certain to be more injurious to America herself." He added that the measure would tell against American farmers and artisans and eventually against American manufacturers. He supposed America still desired to export, but she could only get her exports paid for by imports. But for Canada's protective duties it would be impossible to prevent wholesale smuggling. The speaker said he wished particularly to express the opinion that the new law was not enacted out of hostility to England. After generally censuring the government for its policy towards Ireland he strongly condemned the practice of "shadowing," from which he said even a felon in England is exempt.

Mr. Morley Also Heard From.

Mr. Morley addressed his constitutents in Newcastle this evening. He said he had promised when at leisure to write a history of England from 1886 to the next general election, but he despaired of being able to please Mr. Balfour in so doing. Mr. Balfour's arguments in his recent speeches were merely tu quoque misrepresentations and irrelevancies. The speaker reminded Mr. Balfour that the Compensation for Disturbance bill of 1880, the Arrears bill of 1882, and the Tramways bill of 1883 were all due to Parnellite suggestions, and that the Land bill of 1887 was drafted on the basis of Mr. Parnell's suggested in 1886. As late as last July Mr. Balfour said in the House of Commons: "I think the member for Cork's suggestions worthy of most attentive consideration." Mr. Balfour's statement that he (Morley) had been only five days in Ireland was absolutely untrue. In addition to bearing the burden of the whole Irish department during that session of Parliament, doing laborious and incessant work on the Home Rule and Land bills and taking part in two election contests in Newcastle, during his term of office he visited Ireland at Easter and Whitsuntide, and the final visit itself exceeded five days. Mr. Balfour was responsible for the exceptional coercive government, and he ought still more to supervise it on the spot. He would defer replying to the Belfast strictures until he had time to sift them, merely remarking that the Liberals had appointed a commission of inquiry into the Belfast riots, while Mr. Balfour had no commission to inquire into the troubles at Mitchelltown. He denied that he was prejudiced against the police, and said Mr. Balfour himself had done him the justice recently to say that he had never said a word against them. Mr. Morley adhered to his previous assertion that the police had used excessive force in Tipperary. It was not bodily injury, which Mr. Balfour said sticking plaster would mend, but the sting of insult which inflamed the people. Such supercilious talk showed that Mr. Balfour was unfit to govern. He declined to reply to Mr. Balfour's invitation to express an opinion as to the innocence or guilt of the Tipperary prisoners before their trial. He left that to Mr. Balfour. For himself, he would not decide until the prisoners were tried by judge and jury, as they would be tried under the circumstances in England.

More of the Same.

DUBLIN, Oct. 20.—Solicitor Dillon has sent a telegram to Mr. Balfour indignantly protesting against his judging the Tipperary case in his speech Saturday for the guidance of his ministerial tools, and demanding that the farcical proceedings be discontinued and that a trial be ordered before a judge and jury in England if possible.

LONDON, Oct. 20.—Mr. Chaplin, President of the Board of Agriculture, speaking at Stafford said that although the McKinley and meat inspection laws were intended to bring pressure on him to admit American cattle freely it would be his duty to go on straight as if the measure had never been passed.

TORONTO TOPICS.

TORONTO, Oct. 20.—Major William A. Holwell, who died here Sunday, was a great grandson of John Z. Holwell who was in command of the garrison at Calcutta when captured by Surajah Dowlah. Mr. Holwell survived the terrible night in the Black Hole, published a narrative of the event in The Annual Register in 1758 and was afterwards governor of Bengal and Fort William, succeeding the great Clive. The family coat-of arms was registered by a fresh patent in the third year of George III. to commemorate his services in India.

Alex. W. Adams, secretary of E. Kemble Council of Chosen Friends, was arrested last evening for retaining $26 of the funds of the council.

Found Dead in Bed.

OTTAWA, Oct. 20.—Joseph Daniels, a laborer of Hull, was found dead in his bed to-day. He was at work yesterday and went to bed last night as usual. Daniels had a narrow escape from death two years ago, through being blown up a considerable distance in the air by an unexpected explosion of dynamite at the stone quarries. He had suffered somewhat from the injuries sustained by the accident which are supposed to have eventually caused his death.

Cut His Throat.

HAMILTON, Oct. 20.—Saturday night a German, Ferdinand Liebenau, was found lying on the roadside near Oaklands. He was unconscious and was covered with blood from a cut in his throat. The man had evidently been there for some time. He was brought to the hospital and regained consciousness shortly after his arrival. The wound was about 4 inches long, but it was not very deep. The man will recover. It is thought that he lives in Burlington.

Death in Terrible Form.

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 20.—Corp. Frank O'Neil of Battery "C," Fourth Artillery, stationed at Fort McPherson, died in horrible agony of hydrophobia on Thursday morning. He was bitten by a small dog last February, but had experienced no ill-effects until last Tuesday, when he complained of feeling unwell.

Was She Buried Alive?

The Vienna Festher Lloyd reports a horrible story from Szegedin, in Hungary. The wife of a landed proprietor, Michael Gouda, died before giving birth to a child. The village doctor confirmed her death and she was buried. Three days afterwards the husband began to entertain doubts as to the certainty of her death, and would not rest until the police had caused his wife's body to be exhumed. It was found lying on on side, and when the clothes were removed the corpse of a new-born child was found lying beside its mother. The local doctors assert the child was born from the dead woman, but in Buda-Pesth it is believed she was buried alive in a cataleptic condition.

BUT 23 DAYS TO LIVE.

Only 19 Signatures Attached to the Birchall Petition in Woodstock.

TORONTO, Oct. 21.—A letter was received in this city yesterday from Rev. Oswald Birchal. of Rascot Rectory, Leckiade, Gloucestershire, England, a half brother of the murderer. The letter mentions several family matters, and, like the petition that the rev. gentleman sent to the Governor-General at Ottawa, he thinks he is not guilty. The letter states that he does not see how the man awaiting his doom at Woodstock is called "John Reginald Birchall." His only given name is Reginald, and however John became associated with the name he is at a loss to understand.

Birchall's mother lives at No. 7 Hawthorn Grove, Heaton Moor, Stockport, in Cheshire. He has a full sister also living in England, but not with her mother.

"The feelings of the whole family," says the letter, "can better be understood than described." Up to the time of the trial many of Birchall's friends and relatives thought that he would certainly be acquitted, as his letters to England were of the most encouraging kind.

Mr. Stevenson, his father-in-law, however, was very doubtful on this point, so much so that before he left Canada for England, and after making careful enquiry into the case, he expressed himself freely as to the prisoner's guilt. The story that was published some time ago that "Birchall, by his systematic lying, was enabled to throw his father-in-law off the scent as to his real station in life," seemed to be only imagination. It is now known that Mr. Stevenson was extremely suspicious of his new son-in-law from the start, even before he eloped with his daughter Florence, and that he predicted a disgraceful end, but probably not so startling a one as he is destined to enjoy. Not long ago Mr. Stevenson wrote a letter to a gentleman in Toronto, who was connected with the crown case, in which he said: "I am not at all surprised with the result; in fact I felt it coming from the start. But I am terribly sorrowful over my poor daughter's position. It will indeed be a great load for her to bear. They (Mrs. Birchall and Mrs. West-Jones) will, I trust, soon be back with us in England."

Petitions in England.

LONDON, Eng., Oct. 20.—A petition for the commutation of the sentence of Reginald Birchall, on the ground that the evidence was insufficient to convict and that he suffered from the prejudice of the inhabitants around Woodstock, from whom the jury was drawn, has been signed by his relatives and by persons living in his native place in Lancashire. Another petition has been circulated among the villagers of Busset in Berkshire, where the prisoner lived for a time, but in neither case has the general public been asked to sign.

WOODSTOCK, Oct. 20.—The petition started in London which is being circulated on Birchell's behalf has not been numerously signed in this town. It was in circulation two or three days last week and up till to-night only 19 signatures had been received. Rev. Mr. Wade, Birchall's spiritual adviser, and one or two other clergymen and doctors were among the list of names. Several ministers refused to sign the petition.

Birchall is apparently as chipper as ever. His long confinement has told upon him physically if not mentally, and the bright color has left his cheeks. His mustache has begun to droop and the ultra-pointed patent leather shoes which were once the apple of his eyes are very much run down at the heels. He is never tired talking of himself and the sensation he has caused in the world. He has only 24 more days to live.

The Reason He Didn't Come.

OTTAWA, Oct. 20.—A lengthy letter has just been received at the justice department from Oswald Birchall praying crown clemency on the ground that, while admitting Reginald Birchall's rascality, he is satisfied that he did not murder Benwell. His brother advances the theory that the condemned man and his victim had a quarrel and ended by struggling with one another, the result being the death of Benwell. Oswald Birchall in his petition says he would have come to Canada, but was very ill and under medical treatment.

CARTWRIGHT AT RENFREW.

He Speaks to a Large Audience on Trade Relations.

RENFREW, Oct. 20.—Sir Richard Cartwright addressed a large gathering in Gravell's hall to-night on the trade relations between Canada and the United States. He claimed that the United States was the natural market for most of the products of Canada, and censured the Government for what he characterized as a dereliction of duty in not making closer trade relations with the United States. He quoted statistics with a view to showing the United States as customers for fully one-half of Canada's exports. He claimed that the tendency of a protective tariff was to the formation of rings and trusts for the purpose of increasing the price of goods to be consumed and pronounced himself in favor of unrestricted reciprocity with the United States.

Banquet to Sir Adolphe Caron.

MONTREAL, Oct. 20.—The officers of the military district of which Montreal is the headquarters tendered to-night to Sir Adolphe Caron, Minister of Militia, a banquet at the St. Lawrence Hall. Deputy Adjutant-General Houghton presided and on his right was the guest of the evening with Hon. Messrs. Chapleau, Thompson, Bowell and Colby. Nearly 150 guests assisted and a statue of himself was presented to Sir Adolphe. The affair was purely private and partook of no political character.

How to Test a Duck's Age.

Are you fond of duck? Do you shoot your game or buy it? If you buy it how do you know it is young or old? Do you want to know? I'll tell you. Take the duck and hold it at arm's length, straight from the shoulder, by the lower part of the bill. If the bill breaks from around it joins the meat then the duck is young. If it doesn't don't buy it. The duck being old the meat is tough, and the bill is too firmly stuck to break. It is an infallible rule.

The Daily Examiner.

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 21, 1890.

THE Republican managers in the States, the Globe points out, are put out over the large increase that has taken place in the price of many lines of goods since the passage of the McKinley Bill. The object of every tariff is to increase prices; if it does not accomplish that it is of no use to the infant industries. This fact seems to have escaped the attention of Mr. McKinley, but the storekeepers are rudely bringing it to his notice, the mails and newspapers being full of advertisements and trade circulars announcing a rise.

THERE is to be a meeting shortly of the Chancellors of Germany and Austria and Premier Crispi to talk over and devise, it is said, a triple customs union of the members of the triple alliance. This contemplated union is not looked upon with favour by the other continental nations, and France is sure to make an emphatic protest against it, as not being in accordance with the treaty of Frankfort. Perhaps diplomacy may bring France into the commercial union or at least gain her concurrence. In that case stringent measures are to be framed in retaliation on United States trade. General Von Caprivi visits Premier Crispi in a few days to discuss the scheme. As both are statesmen of the highest rank, it is reasonably certain that only what is really best for the alliance will be entertained and carried out by them.

WHEN a law compelling hotelkeepers to provide for the safety of their guests by fire escapes was proposed in the Ontario Legislature a few years ago it was objected that the fire escapes would afford too easy a way for burglars to get in and for defaulting boarders to get out. The Legislature, however, says the Globe, considered that the safety of the guests outweighed these inconveniences, and passed the law. The New York Legislature passed a similar law, and the wisdom of their course was shown in the hotel fire at Syracuse. The flames spread so rapidly that in half an hour the building was a heap of ruins; there were only five minutes in which to send men through the halls to warn the guests. It is considered that under these circumstances the number of deaths and injuries was remarkably small. This is due, the New York Tribune says, to the system of automatic fire alarm bells in every room, operated from the office, and a supply of fire escapes, which amply complied with all the requirements of the law. "The new-fangled fire escapes, which hotel proprietors have introduced under compulsion, and openly ridiculed as worse than useless, were practically tested and found to be an excellent thing."

THE American Government having decided to put their future ships of war with nickel steel armor, they have not been long in searching out the very best mines of that mineral. They have a little nickel in the States, but of poor quality, so they have turned their attention to the Sudbury mines in Ontario, and have sent two officers to make a report on the extent and quality of the ore. They are so eager to secure the mineral that they have put nickel ore and matt on the free list, but to stop Canadians manufacturing it for armor plates they cunningly put a duty on refined nickel so as to benefit their own refiners. As over $1,000,000 has been voted for nickel plates for a couple of ships, that money might as well be spent at Sudbury as in Pittsburgh, and this the Dominion Government can the Montreal Star suggests, easily manage by putting on the ore and matt an export duty sufficient to make it more profitable to do all the refining at Sudbury. This would only be doing justice to our own refiners and their employes.

GREAT BRITAIN imported from the continent of Europe last year 94,325,030 dozen eggs, valued at $15,219,927. Average price per dozen sixteen cents. The eggs imported from Germany and Belgium, brought less than that figure, and Russian eggs were valued at a little over twelve cents per dozen. These figures represent the value of the eggs landed in England. Now eggs are worth from twenty to thirty cents per dozen in New York, and, says the Free Press, retail at twenty-two cents in Ottawa, selling in boxes at eighteen to nineteen cents per dozen. Eggs are therefore worth more in Canada than in England, and yet we are told that there is money in the business of shipping eggs to England. Our farmers are advised to abandon all hope of selling their eggs in the United States, where they are worth twenty-five cents per dozen, and to ship them to England, there to compete against Russian eggs which can be purchased for twelve cents per dozen. Mr. Foster demands that the poor Canadian ben shall compete against "the pauper labor of Europe," though he insists that his pet combineeters must not be exposed to any such competition. The rules of commerce and of common sense as well have to be discarded by those who try to follow Tory advice in matters of trade.

Explanation.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR,—As I have been informed that I am accused of sending skimmed milk to Shearer factory, I take this opportunity of asserting my innocence. I most emphatically deny that either myself or my wife or any of my family removed any part of the cream, or kept any strippings, or added any water. I have paid no fine nor, if the payment of twenty-five cents would settle it, it will not be paid by me, but I will defend the case if I lose it. We shall have an opportunity, at least, of declaring on oath that our milk was sent honestly. If it was below the standard, we did not know it. We neither knowingly nor wilfully defrauded the factory or any man. I feel that I owe the public this explanation, as I have denied the charge, not knowing that I was the one accused until the 15th October, and that was in Mr. Edwards' office. I will also state, for the further enlightenment of those who are so very anxious to have me the guilty party, as to their statements about letters they saw in the post office addressed to me, pertaining to this business, they are incorrect, as I never received any. I can truthfully tell all I know about it. If it had not been for throwing suspicion on another of the same name the public would have known sooner. And now, Mr. Editor, I hope you and the numerous readers of your valuable paper will at least grant me the privilege of a British subject—hold me innocent till I am proved guilty.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for space in your columns,

I remain, yours, &c.,
D. D. HENDERSON.

WASHING WINDOWS.

A Few Hints That Will Greatly Lessen Housekeeper's Labors.

Make, at some odd time, three nice bags of the proper capacity for their contents, and securely fasten them to a belt. We will suppose they are belted to your waist. The one nearest the right hand is No. 1, the middle one No. 2, and the left hand bag No. 3. Put into No. 1 a small bottle of ammonia tightly corked, and a cake of Sapolio, Quaker soap, or a box of polishing powder, and a thin-bladed knife. The middle pocket should be provided with linen napkins, made from a worn-out table-cloth, or, the tops of cotton hose, or the better parts of discarded gossamer underwear. The worn feet of some old stockings should also find a place in this bag. No. 3 should hold some tissue paper and a chamois skin. This completes the outfit which must now be hung on a nail until the right time to use it.

This right time, is one of those bright sunshiny days when the rays want to come in, and are doing their level best to get into the room but can not for the dirt on the panes. Here my lady can assist nature. After her other work is done and she has tidied up herself and rested a little, she will go to her nail, button her window-washing accoutrements around her waist, get a pint of warm water into a little bucket, and her step ladder, go to the window and push the drapery aside. Dip an old stocking-foot into the warm water, then rub it over the soap until it is nicely coated, then apply it to the upper part of the window, rubbing carefully, to touch every part of the surface, using the knife only when a little harder rubbing will not remove the specks. Standing on the floor, she applies the soap or polish to the lower half. As soon as this is done, she takes a large cloth and wipes little by little of the drier upper part, being careful all the time to keep the soiled part of the cloth away from the glass, and not to expend too much of her strength at this juncture. The glass will now look perfectly clean, but unless she polishes carefully with the paper or chamois skin, greasy, bluish streaks will be seen when she is done. She will wipe and polish the lower part the same, and then go outside to clean the other half. Two windows are enough to do at once. After the glass has been completed, put a few drops of ammonia in warm water, and wring from this a clean cloth to be used to wipe off the woodwork. The soiled cloths should be thrown into the clothes-basket, the outfit hung upon its nail, and my good lady should sit down now and enjoy the fruits of her labor. Mirrors and glass doors will of course be cleaned in the same way. Only don't try to do them all at once.

THE LEPER HEALER.

A German Doctor Who Says Leprosy Can and Shall be Cured.

Sister Rose Gertrude, is writing home enthusiastic letters about Dr. Lutz, the eminent German dermatologist, who has studied the disease of leprosy in Brazil for ten years, and is now in the Sandwich Islands.

He has asserted that leprosy is perfectly curable, and that it shall be cured.

Others have said "can." None ever said "shall" about the dread disease until Dr. Lutz appeared.

DR. LUTZ.

He has already effected some wonderful improvements in the patients under his care at Kalihi, and the lepers love him and believe that he will restore them to health.

The Government has received numerous petitions to nominate Dr. Lutz as President of the Hawaiian Board of Health and to give him charge and control of all the lepers or "suspects."

He does not fear the disease at all himself. Dr. Lutz is an earnest bacteriologist, and ere long he will give a prophylaxis and therapeutics of leprosy to the world.

It is astonishing how rapidly the electric light is coming into general use. It is being employed for publicly lighting our large cities. Purify Your Blood

The importance of keeping the blood in a pure condition is universally known, and yet there are very few people who have perfectly pure blood. The taint of scrofula, salt rheum, or other foul humor is hereditary and transmitted for generations, causing untold suffering, and we also accumulate poison and germs of disease from the air we breathe, the food we eat, or the water we drink. There is nothing more conclusively proven than the positive power of Hood's Sarsaparilla over all diseases of the blood. This medicine, when fairly tried, does expel every trace of scrofula or salt rheum, removes the taint which causes catarrh, neutralizes the acidity and cures rheumatism, drives out the germs of malaria, blood poisoning, etc. It also vitalizes and enriches the blood, thus overcoming that tired feeling, and building up the whole system. Thousands testify to the superiority of Hood's Sarsaparilla as a blood purifier. Full information and statements of cures sent free.

TO CHICAGO IN 1893.

GREAT PREPARATIONS IN PROGRESS FOR THE WORLD'S FAIR.

Chicago's Sky-High Structures Being Made Still Higher—A New Wrinkle in Naming Building Floors—The Crerar Will Case

(Special Correspondence.)

S the site of the coming World's Fair the city of Chicago possesses just now a peculiar interest for the dwellers afar. Many eyes are already turned in this direction and many minds are eager to learn something of the Mecca to whose shrine in 1893 pilgrims of all nations will turn their footsteps. One of the first things to attract the attention of the stranger in Chicago is the height of many of the large office buildings. The Rookery, the Tacoma, the Owings and other tall structures, towering 15 stories above the street, while 10 and 12 story blocks are found on every hand.

THESE IMMENSE BUILDINGS have necessitated a radical departure in the construction of foundations. The old way was to lay stone foundation walls all around the building, reaching a short distance beyond the building line both inwardly and outwardly, but leaving the inside area practically without foundation. The new style is to lay a solid foundation of steel rails over the entire area, which reaches as far beyond the building line as the old-time stone foundation did. Marshall Field at a cost of $75,000 put in a stone foundation for a 16-story building at Monroe and LaSalle streets, but this was torn out by the Women's Christian Temperance Union and replaced by a steel foundation for a 14-story building. On these new bases superstructures calculated to withstand the wind at a velocity of 125 miles an hour, and the weight of as many people as could be packed in solid as sardines, are placed, and the architects claim 40 stories could be erected with perfect safety. The amount expended in building operations this year is about $43,000,000 and the frontage built up $240,000 feet. During the years from 1871 to 1890 inclusive the aggregate is 250,000,000 and the buildings put up would line a continuous frontage of 254 miles.

BUILT ON THE CANTILEVER PRINCIPLE,

THE NEW MASONIC TEMPLE

at Randolph and State, the site of which is now being cleared away, will have 18 stories, and 14 elevators will furnish opportunity for those who wish to rise in the world. A novel feature of this building will be the naming of the halls and corridors like the streets and avenues of a city. Thus the first hall above the main floor will be Gurney street, after the late T. T. Gurney, P. G. C. and P. G. M. of Illinois. The reason of this innovation is to do away with an idea of altitude. If a timid woman desired to see a friend on the 18th floor she might be afraid to risk the journey. But if told by the elevator-boy that her friend is on Morris street, she steps into the elevator and is shot up to the dizzy height without a tremor.

THE SITE OF THE FAIR

was the cause of much local heart-burning and jealousy, but to everyone who has the interest of the enterprise at heart, and is not influenced by personal or pecuniary considerations the final adoption of the Lake Front, Jackson and Washington Parks and the Midway Plaisance must approve itself as in every way a satisfactory solution of the vexed question. The park system comprises a chain including Lincoln Park (250 acres), Humboldt Park (220 acres), Garfield Park (185 acres), Douglas Park (180 acres), Washington Park (371 acres), Jackson Park (598 acres). The two last named are connected by the Midway Plaisance and are known as South Park, and the whole system is bound together by ornamented by a number of smaller parks such as Union, Jefferson and Gage on the west side, the Lake Front, Groveland and Woodlawn on the south side, Vernon, Wicker and Washington Square on the north side. The combined site of

as its prime movers delight to call it, will contain about 1000 acres, the South Park portion of it is easily reached by boat, cable and steam cars, and some of the more attractive and popular parts of the show being placed on the Lake Front in the heart of the city, large crowds will be able to attend in the evening. If one may judge by the bill of fare which the theatres present this week the do not need to hunger and thirst in this Babylon of the West. The wizard Strauss and his wonderful orchestra are at the Auditorium, sprightly and vivacious Rosina Vokes at Hooley's, the scholarly Barrett at the Chicago, Roland Reed at the Grand, Nellie McKenny at the Haymarket, while the People's, Harlin's, the Columbia, the Criterion, the Alhambra, the Clark-street, the Lyceum, the Standard, the Academy, the Windsor and other lesser houses all advertise well-known attractions. Libby Prison and the two cycloramas are open all the time, and the former is the first place visited by the soldier to whom that old Richmond tobacco warehouse, which was the scene of such terrible suffering and death in so many horrible forms, is something more than a name.

DEVOTEES OF MUSIC AND THE DRAMA

THE CRERAR WILL CASE.

The talk of the town is the announcement that distant paternal relatives of the late millionaire John Crerar have determined to break his will. Mr. Crerar, who was a bachelor, died last spring leaving a fortune of nearly $4,000,000. By his will, after ge ner ous provision for his maternal relatives, the bulk of his fortune was bestowed for charitable and public purposes, the chief request being about $2,000,000 to found.

THE JOHN CRERAR LIBRARY

The will stated that the testator had, so far as he knew, no living relatives on his fa ther's side. Now it turns out that there are about 21, mostly Canadian, several of whom reside near Stratford, Ont., and they will make a determined effort for a share of the dead man's millions. They have retained among others A. S. Trude, one of the lead ing counsel in the great Story will case, and on various pretexts attack the charitable and public requests with, it is su considerable prospect of at cast partial success.—R F F.

PERSONALS.

Lawyer Meeker of Marshalltown, Ia., has lost confidence in human nature. He had his wallet "swiped" in open court, presumably by his own client, whom he was defending against a charge of burglary.

Collis P. Huntington is said to be investigating closely two or three big schemes for money-making in China by furnishing the Celestials with modern public improvements and conveniences, e specially railroads.

Farmer Dairymple of North Dakota thinks his wheat crop will thrash about 450,000 bushels. He will probably have fresh meat on his table at least twice a week this winter and may be able to afford a new suit of clothes.

Miss Marianne North, who was probably the greatest woman traveler the world has ever known, has just died in England at the age of 60. She was a woman of great beauty and genius, a remarkable musician and artist, and had journeyed over the greatest portion of the globe.

The Hon. Thomas B. Jones, who was elected Governor of Alabama the other day by 90,000 majority, is 45, and a strikingly handsome man. He is six feet high, straight as an arrow, has jet black hair and piercing dark eyes, with rather a stern countenance that changes into an attractive one when he smiles.

James I. King of Buffalo registered at the Bohemian spa at Carlsbad during summer and was announced in the local press as James I. King of Buffalo. This brought down upon him such a rush of beggars, tuft hunters, and fee searchers that he had to get out of town. Some of the natives even took him for Buffalo Bill.

Alexander Hamilton, who was killed in a duel with Aaron Burr, is still revered by the mass of the American people who execrate the man whose pistol-shot he invited. It is not generally known that years prior to the duel, on the same grounds at Weehankeu, Alexander Hamilton's eldest son, Philip, was killed in a duel. Philip had been to blame in grossly insulting his antagonist, a young lawyer, in the presence of ladies, and the father had coached the son to reserve his fire, while advising him to fight.

ON SOAP,

IN RELATION TO THE COMPLEXION.

FROM AN ARTICLE BY

Dr. ANDREW WILSON, F.R.S.E.,

Lecturer on Health under the "Combe Trust;"
Lecturer on Physiology at the Edinburgh University;
Editor of "Health."

"One important caution should be given, and that is concerning the use of soaps. I would strongly advise all who care for their skin to eschew the use of common soap, which simply roughens and injures the skin, and, if you will be advised by me, I would say never buy those artificially coloured and odoriferous abominations commonly sold under the name of 'Scented' or 'Fancy Soaps' which are the frequent causes of skin eruptions. If I am prepared to recommend any one soap to you, as a satisfactory and scientifically prepared article, I would certainly advise you to buy and use 'Pears' Soap.' Not merely from personal use can I recommend this soap, but I am well content to shelter myself under the names and authority of the late Sir Erasmus Wilson, F.R.S., President of the Royal College of Surgeons; of Doctor Stevenson Macadam, or of Professors Redwood and Attfield, the eminent analytical and chemical lecturers at the Pharmaceutical Society of Great Britain, who testify to its entire purity. Furthermore, I believe it to be very economical, for it contains no free water, and in this respect differs from all other soaps; hence a cake of 'Pears' is really all soap and not soap and water. I know cases of irritable skin which the whole tribe of much-vaunted 'Fancy Soaps' failed to allay, but which disappeared under the use of Pears' Soap, and for the nursery and for the delicate skin of infancy no better or more soothing soap can possibly be used. There can be no doubt that in respect of the care of children, attention to the skin is specially required. If common soaps are irritating to the skin of the adult, (as they unquestionably are), they are doubly and trebly injurious to the delicate skin of the infant and young child. I can vouch that the soap I am recommending is not merely a safe but an advantageous one. It does not irritate the skin; but, while serving as a detergent and cleanser, also acts as an emollient."

Life Insurance Policy Holders

SHOULD READ THIS!

THE PERCENTAGE OF LAPSES.

The large increase in the amount of life insurance written by purely Canadian companies, and terminated by surrender or lapse, during the past year, has naturally attracted the attention of insurance men. So unexpected and unwelcome an increase $1,709,612 in the amount of lapsed policies credited to Canadian companies during a period when American companies doing business in this country showed a decrease under this heading of $218,304, could not fail to excite comment; so that the figures have been eagerly scanned to discover how such a condition of affairs was brought about.

Perhaps this is most easily shown in tabular form by giving the net amount of insurance in force on the books of each of our principal Canadian companies and the percentage of lapsed and surrendered policies they are responsible for. In this case they rank as follows:—

Company.	Net amount in force.	Percentage of Surrender and Lapse.
Canada Life	$48,664,376	3.07
Confederation	17,674,823	5.31
Ontario Mutual	13,071,400	10.29
Federal	10,058,837	10.35
Sun Life	11,670,317	10.36
North American	8,470,620	10.68
Temperance and General	2,984,972	17.84
Citizens	2,097,956	29.15
Manufacturers' Life	5,723,100	30 12
London Life	1,644,285	30.51

From this table we can see that while such companies as the Canada Life and Confederation have actually decreased the amount of their lapses, some of the weaker companies have largely increased theirs, so that, although one company shows under four per cent., one under six, and four under eleven, the average percentage of lapses for the whole ten companies is 15.78 per cent.

The only moral we can draw from these figures is that the stronger and more widely known a company is, and the more of its patrons it will retain permanently on its books, while the weaker companies must, perforce, witness the defection of a certain proportion of their customers to their more powerful rivals. That so large a proportion as 30 per cent. of policy holders should entirely abandon the advantages of insurance in one year is hardly probable in these days of popular education. We can therefore only fall back on the hypothesis that the bulk of the lapses of the weaker companies must arise from their policy holders transferring their allegiance elsewhere. It is in fact a case of the wealthier and more widely known (even if not more progressive) companies absorbing the cream of the permanent business, and leaving only the transitory, and therefore less desirable risks, to their humbler competitors. By the aid of clever management and attractive methods, a weak company may be able to absorb a fair share of new business; but it is evident from these figures that the superior prestige of their older established rivals is certain to attract a proportion of their customers in the long run, and that thus their percentage of lapses will always be heavier.

Injured by an Explosion.

On Friday last, Capt. Reynolds, of the steamer Cruiser, met with a painful accident. He was examining a Winchester rifle at the wharf of Hall's mills, Stony Lake, which would not fire, and was opening the breech chamber when the explosion took place. Fragments of the cartridge, etc., were driven into his face, and he was considerably disfigured. He was brought to Lakefield and put under surgical treatment, and his physician thinks he will not lose the sight of either eye.

Mrs. Lea in Toronto.

The subjoined item from to-day's Toronto World will be read with interest by many townspeople who remember Mr. and Mrs. Lea. They lived in Peterborough about five years ago. The World says:—"Margaret alias Mary F. Lea, wife of W. H. Lea, an agent of the Ætna Insurance Company, lately of Toronto, now of Kingston, was charged at the police court yesterday with stealing a postoffice letter, the penalty for which is not less than five years' imprisonment. W. G. Murdock appeared for the accused, who pleaded not guilty. She was remanded till Friday, without bail. About a month ago, it is said that Mr. Lea separated from his wife on account of her ill-conduct. She has two children, who are being taken care of by her sister, the wife of a New York millionaire. At the time of her arrest Mrs. Lea gave 30 Walton street as her address. This was incorrect, and yesterday morning Detective Alf Cuddy found the prisoner's trunks at a house on Terauley street, where they had been detained for non-payment of a board bill. Documents and letters were found showing that she had recently lived at half-a-dozen hotels and boarding houses. One of the documents was an account from a law firm for $109 John Ellis, who was arrested at the same time as Mrs. Lea, for alleged complicity in the affair, talks of suing Detective Cuddy for interfering with his personal liberty without a warrant."

One Month in Gaol.

The Sinned Against Becomes the Sinner —A Lenient Sentence.

The girl, Mary Powers, received sentence at the police court this morning for her confessed larceny of a fur cape at the G.T.R. station one day last week. Much pity and sympathy was expressed by the spectators for the girl in her unfortunate position, and the magistrate felt evidently well disposed towards the girl. Here is the same old story of downfall through the machinations of some heartless despoiler who robbed her of woman's brightest ornament, her virtue, and left her to light her way alone in the world. Since her lapse from chastity, the first downward step, the girl has led a careless life, which has resulted in her becoming a criminal. But it is never too late to mend, and it is to be hoped the lesson will not be lost upon her, and she may yet realize the error of her ways and turn from them. Her appearance in court this morning was prepossessing. She was neatly dressed, cleanly and bright-mannered. During the delivery of the magistrate's charge, she kept her large black eyes fixed intently on the speaker, occasionally dropping them to the floor, and a suspicion of tears was noticeable as she sat down. Miss Mary did not, however, evince the same degree of contrition which was manifest the other day. Her uninterrupted meditation in the solitude of the gaol had doubtless prepared her for the worst, and she received the sentence of a month's imprisonment quite calmly.

Mr. Dumble, in addressing the prisoner, said she had shown good judgment in confessing the crime. He had made inquiries concerning her character, and had learned that she had not had the advantage of a good home training. He was very sorry she had been led into wrong doing, and was inclined to impose a light sentence. The crime could not be ignored altogether. The magistrate hoped that when she came out of gaol she would be looked after by kind friends, and he hoped her good sense would warn her that this course would lead to her utter degradation and ruin. There is nothing, he said, so beautiful in a young woman as her virtue and honesty, and when these were gone she had lost the best of her nature. She was young, and should be very careful to never again be found in this position. The sentence of the court was that she be confined in gaol for one month at hard labour.

The girl received the sentence meekly, and tripped lightly out of court in charge of an officer. Her father (re-married) lives in this county.

Only a "Vagrant."

The Life of a Man who Makes the Gaol His Home

It is a queer condition of the human mind which makes imprisonment in gaol not only acceptable but desirable. Frequently instances become known of men and women who have spent many years of their lives in prison, becoming so accustomed to the humdrum existence within its walls that the thought of regaining liberty, and again facing the struggles of life, is repulsive; and the timid creatures creep back to the place which, at least, affords them food and shelter, and which they have learned to regard as home, content there to remain, and allow the current of their lives to flow quietly on until the slowly-moving stream is engulfed in the great sea of Death.

To this class of persons belongs old Adam Dobbin, a "vagrant" of many years standing, who appears at the police court at regular intervals and applies for re-committal to the gaol. He finds the work there easy, and the lodging quite comfortable and far more certain than in any of the other lines of life which he has followed. Adam Dobbin has a history. There is nothing novel in it. Unfortunately it is repeated every day of our lives on all sides of us. He was at one time in fairly comfortable circumstances and owned some good property here. In the early days of Peterborough, when the town was but a small place, Adam Dobbin was the first carter to start up in business. But his active days are over, and in his old age he finds himself a friendless pauper, with no home but the gaol. Such reflections as these would drive an ordinarily sensitive person to suicide, and Adam was not philosopher enough to accept his fate calmly. Two or three times he has attempted to take his own life, and on the last occasion he nearly succeeded by cutting his throat with a razor. Readers of the EXAMINER will doubtless remember the occurence a few months ago. A more contented mood has, however, come over him lately; a man can get used to almost anything, it is said. He spends his time in performing light chores (for he is not very strong) and in knitting,) at which he is an expert. Adam's execution with the needles would make some dear old grandmothers, who pride themselves upon their proficiency in the art, turn green with envy. Adam knits a pair of stockings simultaneously (one within the other), and in remarkably short time.

His last term of imprisonment expired a few days ago, and since that time the old man has been knocking about town trying to reconcile himself to his surroundings; but this morning he once more assumed the role of "vag." He was all smiles and quite cheery at the prospect of being comfortably housed for the winter. Police Magistrate Dumble passed a remark about not having seen him for six months, and the old man made a lighted-hearted reply, and said he wanted to be out again by the 17th of March.

A warrant of commitment for four months was made out and handed to Adam, who received it with a cordial "thank you," shook hands with Mr. Dumble and the Chief, and ambled slowly out, with his ticket of admission to the county boarding-house in his hand.

THE MARCH OF IMPROVEMENT.

An Industry which is Steadily Progressing.

The Wm. Hamilton Manufacturing Company's Works Undergoing Alterations —Electricity to be Introduced—A New Hundred Foot Smokestack—A Re-Arrangement of the Departments—A Great and Growing Industry.

Business ability, rightly directed; mechanical skill, intelligently applied; tireless industry, indomitable pluck, and keen foresight on the part of the management, have pushed the Wm. Hamilton Manufacturing Co's Works to a foremost position amongst the thriving industries of the country. There are few, if any, manufactories of the kind in Canada or the United States larger, better equipped, or more capable of turning out a fine class of work. From the very inception of the industry a spirit of progress and improvement has manifested itself in every department of the works; and from a comparatively small beginning the business has grown until it has assumed immense proportions. From time to time additions and improvements have been made to the buildings, and the recent fire has been the indirect cause of a general reconstruction of part of the premises. For the past week the works have been closed down while these alterations were being made, but to-morrow the busy hum of machinery will again be heard and smoke will issue from the tall brick smokestack which now stands sentinel over the premises below, a monument of the enterprise and prosperity of the firm which built it. The repairs have about been finished, and by to-morrow it is confidently expected everything will be in readiness for

THE RESUMPTION OF THE WORK.

The Wm. Hamilton Co.'s works are among the largest and most complete on the continent. The plant is the very best procurable. The shops are supplied with the latest improved labor-saving appliances known to the mechanical world, and as a consequence the class of work turned out is unexcelled anywhere. This is evidenced by the fact that the company ship their manufactures as far as the Pacific in the west and the Atlantic in the east, and as fast as the demand can be supplied. The firm employs about 125 men at present, but expect during the winter to increase this number considerably. Peterborough—and, indeed, Canada—is proud of this institution, and her people ought to feel an interest in its advancement.

These remarks are induced by a visit to the manufactory and a thorough inspection of the renovated premises, made by the EXAMINER scribe yesterday, when it became his duty—and a pleasant one it ever is to publish the progress of the industries which are the backbone of our country—to "write up" the Wm. Hamilton Works.

The most striking feature, of course, is the new chimney, which towers aloft to a dizzy height of a hundred feet. A flag floated from the top since Saturday, announcing the completion of the work. It is no small triumph of the builder's art. There were nearly used in its construction, and considerable skill had to be exercised in the piling up of this vast quantity of material. The base of the stack, which rests in the boiler house, is ten feet square, and it gradually tapers off to 6 feet, 6 inches at the top. The chimney flue has a uniform width of 48 inches from top to bottom. The workmanship is excellent. Mr. A Rutherford had the contract, and Mr. Patrick McNamara did the brickwork. Both the gentlemen deserve a word of praise in connection with the job.

Then the burned buildings have been restored and an unbroken front of 300 feet of two story brick buildings presented on Reid street. The pattern-shop, which is under the management of Mr. Robt. Robertson, has been re modelled and the patterns arranged and classed more conveniently than before. The old moulding-shop will in future be the erecting room. A cedar block floor is being laid down in this building. The erecting room is supplied with the largest planer in Canada, a pulley lathe for turning pulleys 10 and 12 feet in diameter, and a horizontal drill.

The engine and boiler room have been about doubled in size. Two mammoth boilers, 14x56 feet, will furnish steam for the three engines which are necessary to run the machinery. Two of the engines are situated close to the boilers; the third is in the new moulding shop across the way. A big 80-horse-power Corliss engine gives power to the machine shops, while a smaller Leonard Ball automatic engine will run the forty-light dynamo. As previously stated in the EXAMINER, the shops are to be this winter. Men from the Waterford Works, where the electric plant was purchased, are expected this week to set it up. Some fifty lamps will be required. With all these conveniences, it can safely be stated that the Wm. Hamilton Manufacturing Company's Works are without a superior in this country at least. Every shop is heated by steam, and the different sections are separated by fire proof walls. It was these walls which last spring prevented the destruction of the entire premises by fire, by confining the blaze to the moulding and pattern shops.

The other departments in the main buildings, the boiler and machine shops, have not been altered. The machine shop is already thoroughly equipped with the best and most improved machinery, to which additions are constantly being made. A glance down the long vista of shafting, belts, wheels and machinery of all kinds, is an interesting sight, and more so when they are all in motion with scores of workmen busily engaged at their different tasks. Mr. A. McFarlane holds the responsible position of foreman of the machine shops, while Mr. Jas. Main controls the boiler shop.

On the east side of Reid street are the new moulding shop and the pattern store house. The roadway is at present littered with heavy iron castings and odd pieces of machinery; but these are to be stored away in the sheds and the street cleaned up. Then a short line of track will be run from the erecting shop along this street and switched into the main line of the Midland. Thus will the accommodation of the works be still further increased.

The company take especial pride in THEIR NEW MOULDING SHOP.

It is, without doubt, the best in the Dominion. The building is 150 feet long, with a truss roof 40 feet high, and wings 18 feet wide, the central portion being 32 feet in width. The shop is well ventilated and lighted, and supplied with the latest and most improved implements. There is a 15 ton power crane driven by a wire rope, and capable of lifting the heaviest weights. Besides this there are three hand cranes swinging on the support columns. A narrow-guage railway runs the length of the shop for conveying the castings to the front. In the north-west corner of the building is the brass moulding shop; next, on the same side are the core benches and two large core ovens with a 32-inch cupola. On the other side of the shop, in the west end, is a 15-horse power engine, which is driven by steam conveyed from the boilers in the main building through pipes stretched underneath the street to the moulding shop. This engine runs the travelling crane and drives the rattle mill, and the hoist which carries up the metal to the cupola platform. The new moulding shop is a model of its kind. Mr. Samuel Bailey and Mr. Thos. Tucker have charge of it.

These are some of the improvements which have been made in the premises. But the buildings mentioned do not comprise all those that are occupied by this firm, by any means. Their premises of ground. On the west side of Reid street there is a frontage of 300 feet, with a depth of 70 feet, and on Murray street a frontage of 225 feet with a depth of 34 feet. Behind these buildings there are numerous sheds and outhouses, and a brick blacksmith shop 40 feet square, in which are a steam hammer and three fires. The premises cover the block bounded by Reid, Murray and Downie streets and the railway track. In addition there are the large new moulding-shop and the pattern house on the east side of the street. It will thus be seen that the works are very extensive.

But even this increased accommodation will soon become inadequate for the wants of the firm, whose business is growing rapidly. They supply Canadian mills and factories with the best machinery it is possible to procure anywhere. The firm makes a specialty of mill machinery, in which they outdo all competition. The EXAMINER wishes the Wm. Hamilton Manufacturing Company continued prosperity, and hopes soon to have another opportunity of calling public attention to substantial evidences thereof in the shape of new buildings and bigger business.

NORLOLK ASSIZES.

The Sad Fate of Maria Colville—Suspicious Death of Nettie Truesdale.

SIMCOE, Oct. 20.—The Norfolk assizes opened here to-day, Mr. Justice Rose presiding. Mr. John King, Q.C., Berlin, has charge of the crown business. There is not a single civil action to be tried. The court room was crowded. The criminal docket embraces two charges of murder, one against Corydon Smith of administering a noxious drug to a woman named Maria Colville to procure miscarriage and thereby killing her, and another charge against John Truesdale and his son, Watson Truesdale, a boy of 16, of poisoning to death Nettie May Truesdale, the second wife of the elder Truesdale and the stepmother of the boy.

The charge against Smith may be briefly summarized: On June 5, 1885, while cutting saplings in Culver's swamp, township of Townsend, a young man named William Culver stumbled upon the dead and terribly decomposed body of a young girl. The remains were recognized as those of Mary Jane Colville, daughter by a previous marriage of Mrs. Buck of Caledonia. The post mortem revealed the fact that the woman had been dead for several months and that she was pregnant. Suspicion pointed at the time to one Corydon or "Cardinal" Smith, but the jury returned an open verdict. Not until August of this year, nearly six years after the tragedy, was the accused arrested, notwithstanding that the Government offered $250 reward for the arrest of the murderer. In August a woman residing in the locality confessed that Miss Colville for some time lived in a house of ill-fame conducted by Smith near Langton, where she was known as Lizzie Buck. One night in the winter of 1884-5, either in the latter part of December or the first week in January, Smith called at the house with a bottle which he said contained medicine, and which he asked Miss Colville to take. She demurred and seating herself on the stairs commenced crying. Smith then forced it down her throat, and ordered the other inmates to bed. That was the last seen of the girl until her dead body was found in Culver's swamp. Next morning early Smith drove towards the house with a horse that looked as if it had been driven hard. Other witnesses swear that on a night which corresponds with that mentioned by the girl, they saw a man whom they took to be Smith driving furiously in the direction of the swamp. The crows claim that Smith administered the drug to Miss Colville to procure a miscarriage, that she died from the effects and that he secreted the corpse in the swamp.

The facts in connection with the Truesdale case are familiar. On the night of Sunday, Oct. 13, Nettie Truesdale, aged 22, the second wife of John Truesdale, a nightwatchman employed at the knitting mills, died at Port Dover from strychnine poisoning.

The couple had lived unhappily since their marriage a few months previously. Her husband was on duty and the stepson, Watson Truesdale, was in bed in the same house where the woman was taken ill. Mrs. Truesdale, in answer to questions before she died, declared that she had taken nothing harmful to her knowledge. The husband admitted that two months before he had purchased some strychnine to poison rats, but that it had all been placed on bread by the wife and laid in the cellar where the rats were usually found. Mrs. Truesdale had eaten a piece of cake and drunk a glass of water shortly before she was seized with her fatal sickness, but no trace of poison was found in the rest of the cake, and how the woman had the poison administered to her remains a mystery, so far as the general public know. Mr. B. B. Osler, Q.C., has been retained for the defence.

THE CUMBERLAND HORROR.

The Jury Return a Verdict Against Narcisse Larocque.

CUMBERLAND, Oct. 20.—The inquest on the recent outrages and murders of Oct 7th, which was postponed from 11th last, and was to be resumed at 2 o'clock this afternoon was delayed about two hours on account of the non-appearance of the prisoner. The authorities brought the prisoner by highway from L'Orignal jail some forty miles' distance, the reason of taking this route being they were afraid of a large gathering of people who were attending a horse fair at Buckingham attacking prisoner. There was also a large number of people here waiting the arrival of prisoner, but no violence was offered.

The inquest opened at 4 o'clock. Nothing interesting was heard till the evidence of some little girls, the first being Louise Somerville, aged 12, who said that four years ago prisoner was working at her father's place and one day he took her into the pig house and asked her if she would like him to choke her. She could not remember anything else he said. He let her go without touching her. The mother of the witness testified that her little girl told her at the time what had taken place and told her that when she told Larocque that she would screech if he touched her, he said he would choke her if she did.

Sarah Minague, another little girl of 12 told of meeting prisoner on the road last November, when he showed her money and asked her to count it. She offered to do so and said she would just wait to count it and go home. He uttered the words "You'll never go home for I'll kill you." He then threw her down on the road, but on her yelling he let her go. Mrs. Minague, mother of the young witness, related as to being home when her daughter returned much frightened and told her what had happened.

Dorcith Lavergne, who had searched the bush with Detective Greer and others looking for clues, testified to the finding of boot-prints near the scene of the murder, prints to which Larocque's boots fitted perfectly. The heel of one of the prints was sunken down a little lower than the rest which corresponded with the heel of prisoner's boot, which is worn down on one side. Other boots were tried in the prints but would not fit. There were several prints, all of which prisoner's boots fitted. Lavergne traveled the road prisoner said he went but could find no prints which his boots would fit.

Hebert Orton recognized a broken elm twig which he found 150 yards from the scene of the murder. Two leaves stained with blood were stuck to the twig when found. The twig and bloody leaves were found on the road leading to prisoner's cousin's, where he went, but he says by another road.

At 2 a.m. the jury returned a verdict that the girls met their death by strangulation and that from the evidence they strongly suspect Narcisse Larocque as being the guilty party. They ordered his arrest and commital to next assizes.

"Not Proven."

EDINBURGH, Oct. 20.—The trial of Stephen Holmes alias Stephen Smith, the American charged with stealing jewels belonging to the Duke of Edinburgh while the Duke was in Edinburgh conducting the opening of the Electrical exhibition in May last, took place here to-day and resulted in a verdict of "not proven."

Inter-telephonic Talk.

To the Editor of the Daily Examiner:

SIR,—In reading a paragraph in the EXAMINER of last evening, relative to the telephone war, I note that Mr. Dunstan, Inspector of the Bell Telephone Co., states: "there is no doubt of the ultimate result of the struggle in telephonic circles in Peterborough, as now that the hand is put to the plough, there will be no turn back." No, Mr. Editor, there will be no turn back. The Ontario Telephone Company is marching forward, and if the citizens of Peterborough will quietly and silently allow a foreign company of bloated millionaires to brow-beat and impede the successful operation of an industry owned by themselves, then we will congratulate Mr. Dunstan upon his wonderful prophetic foresight in making the above statement. But sir, the citizens who are enrolled as stock-holders in the Ontario Telephone Company are made of sterner stuff, as the Bell Company will learn to their chagrin before they commence "to gather up their tents and silently steal away." The loop line from Port Hope is manifestly "the drowning man catching at a straw," and is unworthy of further notice. Mr. Dunstan goes on to say, "The business is of such a character as to make it a natural monopoly." A natural monopoly, forsooth! How the worm turns! The sublime cheek and inordinate gall of the hirelings of this natural (?) monopoly is becoming noxious to the nostrils of intelligent men.

Yours, &c.,
MERCHANT.

ENGLAND ASKS FRANCE TO CONCEDE HER RIGHTS.

On the Shores of Newfoundland—A Pecuniary Indemnity Declined Unless Accompanied by a Slice of West Africa Duels in Russia and Hungary.

LONDON, Oct. 22.—The Standard's Paris correspondent believes negotiations have been reopened between England and France for the surrender of the French rights on the shors of Newfoundland. England proposes pecuniary indemnity. France demands in addition a concession of territory in West Africa.

MURDERER OR PATRIOT?

Trial of a Famous Revolutionist in London.

LONDON, Oct. 21.—An extradition court was held to-day at Bow-street, when Angelo Castioni, described as a sculptor, was again charged on remand with the murder of Councillor Rossi during the Ticino outbreak within the jurisdiction of the Swiss Government. Mr. Woodfall, instructed by the Swiss Consul in London, appeared to prosecute, and Mr. Grain and Mr. Kershaw defended the prisoner. The sitting magistrate was Mr. Lushington. A great number of Swiss were present in the court.

Mr. Woodfall, in his opening address, went over the circumstances of the case. He told how on Sept. 11 there was an attack on the government offices at Ticino, when the rioters seized five men, whom they bound. Three of these made depositions that a man whose description coincided with that of Castioni, had entered the porch in a very excited state of mind and fired the fatal shot. It appeared afterwards that Castioni fired a second shot from the same revolver, which was accidentally done.

Mr Grain intimated he should argue for the defence that if any murder was committed while a revolution was going on it was a political offence, and he should call witnesses, if he were allowed, who would show that while Castioni was present he did not fire the fatal shot.

Mr. Woodall contended that the mere fact that a murder was committed during a political riot did not alter the character of the crime, and if a prima facie case was made out against the accused the magistrate would have to commit him for trial under the act of 1870, whether or not the crime was political. That the surrender of the fugitive criminal to his country was a question for the Executive Government, and that the same theory of law ran through the policy of every country. In this connection he instanced the case of Muller, who murdered Briggs and then fled to New York.

According to the evidence given there was only one shot fired at the time, and this was by a "well-dressed, powerful man of forty or fifty." M. Meriott, Vice-Chancellor of Bellinzona, and Faderni Cesare di Francesco, the Secretary of the Department of Public Works at Bellinzona, the capital of Ticino, both of whom were arrested by the Revolutionists, testified to the large build of the man who fired the shot. The attempt was made by the defense to show that the killing, even if proved against Castioni, would be a political and not a criminal offense. The discussions between counsel were of great length. Finally Mr. Lushington remanded the prisoner till Friday next.

The case creates the greatest excitement among the Italian residents in London. Castioni, who is a man of splendid physique, has lived in London for nearly 12 years, but has always taken the greatest interest in the political storms of his native canton Ticino. Early in the year he was presided with Mazzini. Later he took a prominent part in the Commune. The head of the charge against him is that he shot Rossi in revenge for the death of the brother, pathetically described recently in a letter to The Star as having been murdered in 1889 and his body flung on a dung heap. The inclusion of the clerical party, it is said, denies, however, that he fired the fatal shot, while not disputing that he was present on the occasion. This statement he has made not only to his friends, but before the London branch of the William Tell Federation (Castioni is a wealthy man, and both he and his friends intend to make a great effort to raise the question of the legality of his arrest.)

Sensational Evidence.

BERLIN, Oct. 21.—The evidence obtained in the suit brought by the Ticino Cantons bank against the Government of the Canton arrising from the embezzlement of 1,800,000 francs by the treasurer of the canton shows the embezzlement was intimately connected with the revolt in the canton last September. It is said Signor Respini, the head of the cantonal government, has documents which compromise a number of most influential in political life. The insurgents obtained many letters respecting the suit when they had possession of the government offices, but were unable to procure other documents locked in official boxes to which they had no keys.

ONTARIO CURLERS.

The Tankard Groups—Election of Officers for the Year.

TORONTO, Oct. 22.—The semi-annual meeting of the Ontario Branch of the Royal Caledonian Curling Club was held yesterday in the Walker House, President Joun Harvey of the Hamilton Thistles in the chair. After reading the minutes of the spring meeting by Secretary Russell, the chairman announced, amidst applause, that upwards of fifty clubs were represented, showing the great interest centered in the game and augering a prosperous winter season.

The special committee sent in their report of their interview with the Grand National curlers who were in session here last July. It was proposed to establish an international match to take place every fifth year between United States and Ontario curlers, the first contest in Toronto January, 1892. A trophy was recommended and a donor sought. The report stated that the sister organization flourished and was adopted.

The executive committee reported that clubs unable to play their district medal matches last season, owing to a lack of ice, be included in this years' allocation. It was recommended that a committee be appointed to revise bylaws and regulations; also that the annual club dues be increased from $1.50 to $2, and members' rates be increased from 10 to 15 cents, but that no club pay more than $25 in fees. A hot discussion followed on the last clause anent fees. The rate was finally fixed at 15 cents per man with no limit to the amount paid by any club. With this alteration the report was adopted.

These officers were elected:

President—Dr. Boucher, Peterboro.
First Vice President—W. Badenach, Toronto Grantes
Second Vice-President—Dr. Beaton, Orillia.

A WIFE'S PLEA FOR PARDON.

Mrs Birchall Issues a Letter to Woodstock Citizens.

WOODSTOCK, Oct. 21.—As I telegraphed you yesterday very few signatures were being attached here to the Birchall petition. The condemned man's wife has now decided to use her influence to secure signatures. Late this afternoon she issued the following appeal to the public, praying for a commutation of her husband's death sentence. It is as follows.

(Copyrighted Oct. 21, 1890.)

DEAR SIR—May I ask you to sign the accompanying petition for the commutation of my husband's sentence. I feel sure if you feel deeply and truly grateful for my self-sacrifice you will help me to save him from the terrible doom that awaits him. Yours truly, (Signed) FLORENCE BIRCHALL.

A HALIFAX SENSATION.

Mysterious Death of a Policeman Who Had Previously Been Shot at.

HALIFAX, Oct. 21.—Constable John McPhail was found dead on the road 7 miles from Langlee on Sunday night McPhail was engaged last week in the arrest of a desperado named Thorpe for selling liquor illegally. Several shots were exchanged before Thorpe was secured. The policeman's death not far from Thorpe's home caused rumors of foul play, but as there was only a slight bruise on the left ear it is surmised that he died of heart disease and fell out of his wagon.

Mrs Tupper Wins the First Step in Her Suit Against Chief Morin.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—Mrs. Edith Seagons Tupper, the newspaper correspondent, has won the first step in her suit against Chief of Police Martin Morin of Buffalo for $20,000 damages for false imprisonment. The defendant's attorneys made a motion in this city yesterday before Justice Daniels of the Supreme Court, to dismiss the complaint against Morin and also vacate the order of arrest obtained against him. It was claimed that as Morin is a citizen of the United States he could not be held responsible for an arrest made by Canadian officers in Canada. After hearing the arguments, however, Justice Daniels decided that there were grounds sufficient upon which to base an action and declined to vacate the order of arrest. He further decided that Buffalo was the proper place for the trial and ordered that the case be transferred to Erie County.

Mrs. Tupper was arrested by mistake on a charge of robbery in Toronto last July. She was arrested on a despatch sent to Toronto by Chief of Police Morin. It appeared that the house of Edwin G. S. Miller, in Buffalo, was robbed on July 19 last, and that Mary Wilson, a servant, was suspected of the crime. The woman was thought to have gone to Toronto. Mrs. Tupper did not answer the description of the suspected woman, but she was, nevertheless, taken to the police station. Her trunks were broken open and she was kept in custody until 9 o'clock the following morning.

THE GRAND OLD MAN

DELIVERS AN ADDRESS TO 5000 PEOPLE.

The Irish Question Must Be Settled Before All Others—Opponents of Home Rule Accused of Having Hoodwinked and Deluded Their Constituents.

EDINBURGH, Oct. 21.—Mr. Gladstone addressed 5000 persons in the Corn Exchange here this evening. Ireland, he said, continued to eclipse all other subjects. The country now fully recognized that the Irish questions must be settled before others. The opponents of Home Rule had hoodwinked and deluded their constituencies by pledging themselves against coercion, promising local government and expressing themselves against granting large advances of British money to buy out landlords. Yet their first favorite measure after gaining power was coercion. Local government was vanishing in thin air and there was a proposal before Parliament granting £40,000,000 to buy out the landlords. The Conservatives took credit for setting Ireland right by firm and resolute government. Their administration of the law was worse than the law itself. The state of things was such that the Irish ought to hate the law, though he would not say they ought to break it. The Government itself was a perfect pattern of illegality. Its methods tended to provoke the people.

Mr. Gladstone then referred to the Tipperary affair. It was grossly illegal, he said, to close the doors of the court house against the people. The appointment of Magistrate Shannon to try the case was a gross scandal, not merely because he was an executive officer but also because he had been involved in a serious personal altercation with Mr. Dillon. If such tricks were played in England by wantonness of power a very short way would be found to remedy such abuse. After the examples of police misconduct at Mitchelstown and Tipperary it was impossible to respect the police or the administration of law by the police. Their brutality and harshness constituted the crowning insult of absenteeism—the grossest that could be inflicted on the people at such a time. Mr. Balfour appeared to feel that it was not a part of the business of the Minister for Ireland to live there. Besides, how many of those present knew whether there was a Lord Lieutenant of Ireland or not? [Laughter. Nobody heard of him. Absenteeism, which was among the lowest signs of degradation in the last century, seemed now a constant habit, the Irish Minister flaunting his absence in the face of the people. The Government vaunted itself on peace in Ireland yet kept six times more policemen there than in England and Scotland. British taxpayers paid £1,700,000 yearly to the Irish police simply to assist in collecting rents for the landlords. English and Scotch landlords met their tenants fairly and had not found it necessary to appeal for the help of policemen to collect their rents. Yet British landlords had lost more on rents than Irish landlords had. If the Government would grant a general election the state of public opinion would prove that the country was won over to Home Rule. On this great question of Ireland Mr. Gladstone concluded. The last of the fortresses of bigotry and oppression would go down before the Liberal attack. Justice to Ireland would rid the empire of an intolerable nuisance and a deep disgrace and would gild with a glow brighter than that of any former period the closing years of a glorious reign.

The speech was received with enthusiastic cheers.

An Odd Inference.

LONDON, Oct. 21.—The Chronicle says that the style of political oratory adopted by Balfour and Morley tends to confirm the report that the dissolution of Parliament is near.

The present (9th) Parliament was elected in July, 1886, being the third elected within a period of six years.

THE UNITED LEAGUE.

Is the Proposed Name For the New Baseball Organization.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—At the meeting of the directors of the Players' League here to-day, a communication was received from the Brotherhood, expressing confidence in the board's ability to safely conduct the affair, and protect the interests of the Brotherhood. A reply was sent in which the director promised to make a still stronger effort in their interest.

The conference of leagues was next considered. Al Johnson of Cleveland, chairman of the committee on conference with the representatives of the National League and American Association, reported that a number of meetings had been held but no positive agreement had been reached except that each body had expressed a wish to meet upon some common and satisfying ground. A common name was agreed upon he said, that of United League. This report was accepted and Arthur Irwin, Edwar Hanlon and J. Montgomery Ward were added to the same committee.

PROCURESS ARRESTED.

A Canadian Girl Saved from a Fate Worse than Death.

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 21.—Catharine Cook a disreputable woman of Grayling, Mich. visited London, Aylmer, St. Thomas and other Canadian towns recently and enticed Minnie Graham, a young St. Thomas girl, from her home, on the pretence that she would secure work for her. On arrival here a hackman named Welch became suspicious and informed the authorities. The Graham girl was sent back to St. Thomas and the procuress was jailed.

The Daily Wreck.

JOLIET, Ill., Oct. 21.—A collision occurred to-day on the Elgin, Joliet & Eastern Railway between a freight train and a construction train. Thomas Lawlor, foreman of the construction gang, was killed and eight other were injured. Two engines and a dozen freight cars were wrecked and traffic on the Santa Fe as well as the Elgin, Joliet & Eastern was suspended for several hours.

Kicked by a Horse.

PORT HOPE, Oct. 21.—George Furber aged 20, who has been working for Mr. Henry Lyons, near Fort Britain, was yesterday leading a horse from the stable to water when the animal became fractious and kicked him. His skull was fractured on the left side. Several pieces of bone were removed and the poor fellow made as comfortable as possible. He may recover though he has a very ugly wound.

Drowned in the St. Lawrence.

KINGSTON, Oct. 21.—While F. C. Merrill and F. Lewis were going across Eel Bay their boat was swamped and Merrill was drowned. Merrill was a contractor and car repairer of Grand View Park, where he has resided with his wife and two children for the past 5 years. The body has not been recovered.

Jay Will Have to Settle

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—Jay Gould, who was fined $100 for not answering the summons as a juror, was notified to-day by the district attorney that he would have until Friday to pay the fine, and that it must then be settled.

Drank From a Pail of sal Ammoniac.

TORONTO, Oct. 22.—There was quite a sensation in the Union Station last night when it was discovered that Stephen Rosso, a G.T.R. employe working at coaling the cars, had swallowed about a pint of liquid used in preparing the copper for the generating of electricity for the Full moons in mistake for water. Rosso stepped into the baggage room to look for a drink He saw the pail of sal ammoniac, and thinking it was ice water, got away with almost a pint of it before he discovered his mistake. He may recover.

A Ray of Hope

For all who are held by the chains of scrofula or other diseases of the blood comes from Hood's Sarsaparilla, which by imparting the elements of good health and strength to the vital fluid, dissolves the bands of disease and sets the captive free. No other remedy in existence combines the positive economy, the peculiar merit and the medicinal power of Hood's Sarsaparilla.

CONVICTED BY BITS OF GLASS.

The Circumstantial Evidence in the Case of Murderer Killen.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Oct. 20.—Alexander Killen has been convicted of murder in the first degree for the killing of Mrs. Paul Rudert of Tarentum. The conviction was secured largely on circumstantial evidence, in which a yellow satchel and bits of broken glass that were in it played no small part. It was shown conclusively that one of the robbers who killed Mrs. Rudert carried a yellow satchel, and when they broke the glass in the window of the store which they robbed the watches and jewelry were scraped into it. In their hurry to get away they also got some of the broken glass in the satchel. After the arrest of Killen, hidden in an old washboiler in his house, a yellow satchel similar to the one carried by the robbers was found. In it there were two small pieces of glass scarcely larger than pin heads. They had become fastened in a corner, but were detected by one of the shrewd men who found the satchel. They were preserved with great care. At the trial, when the time came for introducing them, District-Attorney Johnston laid them on a sheet of paper and passed them into the jury box. That was not satisfactory and a powerful microscope was brought in and each of the jurors examined the bits of glass. Two glassworkers were on the jury and they were satisfied beyond doubt that the particles were from window glass and not pieces of a bottle, which Killen claimed to have broken in his satchel some time previous to the murder. As the other jurors knew that an expert could easily detect the difference between flint and window glass they accepted the verdict of the two glass-blowers.

THE SUICIDE WAVE.

A Well-to-do Tenant Farmer Commits Suicide.

PORT UNION, Oct. 21.—James Stephenson, a well-to-do tenant farmer occupying 100 acres of land near Scarboro Village, committed suicide by shooting himself through the head with a revolver about 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon. He drove to Toronto in the morning, accompanied by his son, a boy of 9, and purchased a revolver at Stark's in Church-street. On leaving the city he drove round by York Township to a spot called Milne's Hollow, about five miles north of the Danforth-road. On arriving there he got in and out of the buggy several times, and eventually went behind some rising ground, out of the sight of the boy and there shot himself. The little fellow, hearing the report of the pistol and finding that his father did not return, called some men who were passing to his assistance, and they went to the spot and found the lifeless body of the deceased with a wound in his left temple. A 32-calibre revolver was clutched in his right hand. Deceased was in good circumstances, but was leaving his present farm because of an increase in the rent. He leaves a widow and children.

Sewer Fatality at Hamilton.

HAMILTON, Oct. 21.—Contractor John Nicholson and three others were working at the Macaulay-street sewer this morning when the bank caved in and filled up the excavation where the three men were. Nicholson was buried up to the neck. One of the boards which had stood against the south wall was driven with such force against Mr. Nicholson's body that the board was broken like a sliver. Harry May and Stephen Murray were the men working with Mr. Nicholson in the sewer. May was buried up to the waist and was severely crushed. He was got out without much difficulty but 10 minutes elapsed before Nicholson could be extricated. He was quite calm and collected, while they were working around him and several times directed their operations. He was conveyed into St. Luke's rectory where he died in about an hour. He was conscious to the last. Nicholson used to run a wood-yard on York-street but latterly had been taking contracts for sidewalks and sewers. He leaves a wife and family of young children.

Mysterious Disappearance of a Clergyman.

WINNIPEG, Oct. 21.—On Sept. 4 last, Mr. Ahern, a Presbyterian minister of Drayton, Dakota, arrived at Pembina on a freight train. After making a few purchases in the town and greeting a few old friends he proceeded to the railway station with the alleged object of going to Winnipeg. Since that time nothing has been heard of the reverend gentleman and his wife and family are anxiously awaiting information respecting his whereabouts. Mr. Ross of this city is a brother-in-law of the missing gentleman and is actively engaged, with the aid of detectives in clearing up the mystery surrounding this extraordinary case.

Arrived at Jaffa.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—Consul Gillman at Jerusalem reports that three American locomotives in Philadelphia, and intended for the new railway from Jaffa to Jerusalem, have arrived at Jaffa. These are the first locomotives ever used in the Holy Land.

South Dakota's Growth.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—The population of South Dakota is 328,759, an increase in ten years of 220,580 or 235.05 per cent.

Glass Will Go Up.

FINDLAY, Ohio, Oct. 21.—This morning every window glass factory in Findlay went into the new trust organized to control the production and sale of window glass. This trust embraces all the window-glass houses in the United States west of Pittsburg, except that at Celina, Ohio, which is owned by Findlay parties. The effect of the combination will be to increase the price of glass.

Sheehy Shouldn't Have Done It.

TIPPERARY, Oct. 21.—The trial of the defendants indicted for conspiracy was resumed before Magistrates Irwin and Shannon to-day. One of the witnesses, who gave evidence yesterday for the crown, testified that he had since been told that hereafter his family would not be supplied with milk.

Michael O'Brien, one of the defendants, asked that a summons be issued against Mr. Balfour compelling him to appear before court and state under oath what he had said at Newcastle. The court declined to issue a summons, declaring that it refused to be the medium for anything illegal or improper. David Sheehy, one of the defendants, took part in the discussion and made remarks which were construed by the magistrate as contempt of court. He was committed to jail for one week.

This Explosion Cost Four Lives.

SALT LAKE, Oct. 21.—Four men were killed at Collinston, Utah, Thursday, by a premature explosion of a powder blast.

The Speed of a Hare.

While the public is still marvelling over Salvator's wonderful performance in running a mile in 1.55½, there are few who have, through comparison and analysis, sought to realize what a terrific burst of speed this is. It is nearly forty miles an hour—a rate averaged by very few of our fastest railway trains. There are 5,280 feet in a mile, so that for every one of these ninety-five seconds—for every beat of a man's pulse—this wonderful horse covered fifty-five and three-tenths feet of ground. The shortest space of time noted by the turfman's watch is a quarter of a second—an interval so brief that the eye can hardly appreciate it. Yet in every one of these 382 quarters of a second that magnificent creature leaped sixteen and three-tenths feet. Such are the amazing results of careful breeding as exhibited in the American race horse. Is the human race improving in the same ratio? Scarcely.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Collision at Harrisburg.

HARRISBURG, Oct. 21.—A slight railway accident occurred to-day at Harrisburg station. A careless brakeman switched the accommodation from the north into a siding where another train was standing. The locomotives crashed together and were slightly damaged. The baggage-car of the Palmerston train was broken. Express Messenger Doty was knocked down by the shock and had his wrist badly sprained.

ELECTION PROVISIONS.

The "red parlour" is becoming rampant, a sedition which foreshadows a general election, and also a determination to be prepared with the sinews of war. The manufacturing monopolists are not to be allowed to enjoy the whole of their spoil unmolested and undivided. They must "fork over" to the election fund of the party of protection. The Canadian Manufacturers' Association is on the alert. They have issued a circular, which is the preliminary hint of the application of the thumb-screw to extort the shekels to influence public opinion at the coming Dominion elections. The circular, which is not very doubtful in tone, says that "if our policy of protection has to be again defended at the polls, it must be sustained by the energy and activity of those whose interests are directly and vitally involved, by those who have invested their capital on the strength of their belief in its continuance." Now, "energy" and "activity" are most artless monetary expressions for "dollars and cents." The circular goes on to stir up the bones of the immortal Nelson, and remind the monopolists that "England (organizer Birmingham) expects every man to do his duty"—and make the people pay the duty and more than the present duty if the interests of the manufacturer demand it. Now this circular shows that the manufacturing monopolists are not the thoroughbred hogs which envious people declare them to be. They show themselves willing to devote a portion of the spoil, they have robbed the consumer of, to a fund for debauching the electorate and making them a party to their own humiliation. When the honest elector is offered a brite from the manufacturer's fund to induce him to vote for the continued enrichment of the combinesters and monopolists, he should not regard it as altogether a favour—it is in one sense a right—it is his little dividend of the taxes he pays that go direct into the coffers of the monopolists.

THE aldermen of the city of Philadelphia have fallen upon a happy scheme of beautifying the homes, elevating the tastes, and increasing the sum of human happiness in that Quaker city. In the fall of the year they remove the beautiful plants that adorn their public parks, and distribute nearly the whole of them among the deserving poor of the neighborhood, providing for the adornment of their parks next year, by taking slips from the flowers they give away. The scheme is a good one and should have a most beneficial effect in educating the tastes and beautifying homes of the masses who have neither the opportunity nor desire to do it for themselves.

ON Friday next, says the Welland Tribune, the Hon. Erastus Wiman will give a banquet at Niagara Falls, Ont., to the iron manufacturers of Great Britain now in America. It is said that Mr. Wiman proposes to present those who take the Canadian tour with a characteristic Canadian dinner. Venison from Trading Lake, enormous potatoes from Manitoba, weighing five or six pounds apiece; ducks and other game from Longue Point, on Lake Erie; grapes from the "section of Italy" on Niagara peninsula; red-cheeked apples from Nova Scotia, and all the tempting viands that Canadian agriculture can produce will be laid before the hungry travelers for comparison with the roast beef and plum pudding of old England.

JOHN BULL, remarks the Canada Presbyterian, is great in war, but greater in peace. He alone of all the nations of the earth can throw open his ports and challenge the world to come and trade with him. The McKinley bill has no terrors for an Englishman. In fact representative Englishmen declare they can utilize the bill for increasing England's trade. Some Canadians are foolish enough to imagine that England will tax American products by way of retaliation. Those who hold such notions do not know how large and sensible a being John Bull is. Would it help the British labored skilled or unskilled to raise the price of his bread? Would it help British manufacturers to raise the price of their raw material? John Bull will not play with Mr. McKinley at the restriction-ist game. He will go on and trade with the whole world and make money even out of those people who try to fence out his goods. Commerce is king but John Bull reigns over commerce.

The Sheldrake School.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

SIR.—As I have lately seen, in the Peterborough papers, many flattering remarks concerning myself and my School, I feel it incumbent on me, not only to thank my unknown friends for their kindness, but also to make known to such of the Peterborough public as are interested in the matter, my present position. It was my firm intention, when I heard that Mr. Duff had given up his school, to move to Peterborough with my present establishment, but I was met at the very outset by unexpected difficulties. In the first place, although I tried very hard to do so, I could not find a house suitable for my purpose, and, in the second, I find that some of the parents of my present pupils object to their removal from the country to the town, on the ground that the country is more healthy, and that boys are not exposed to so many temptations. I shall therefore remain where I am, at least for the present, and Mr. Lingwood will carry on the school in Peterborough. He is highly qualified, and has had great experience as a teacher. He was specially educated in England and in France, and I am sure that parents who place their children under his care, will not have cause to regret the step.

Yours very truly,
SPARHAM SHELDRAKE.

Jamaica Exhibition.

A Splendid Showing to be Made by the Dominion and the Provinces.

OTTAWA, Oct. 16.—It is now certain, as the result of the efforts of Mr. Adam Brown, M.P., that Canada will make a splendid showing at the Jamaica exhibition. In conversation with Mr. Brown, the Empire learned that over twenty of the largest mills in Ontario, Quebec and Manitoba had arranged to send exhibits of flour, and nearly all of the proprietors have requested that the flour be made into bread and given away on the spot, as the best test of its quality. This is important, as the trade figures prepared by Statistician Johnson show that over $12,000,000 worth of flour was last year exported to the West Indies and South America from the United States alone. Prof. Robertson has also just wired Mr. Brown that he has completed every arrangement for a comprehensive and representative dairy exhibit. Leading packers of bacon, hams and lard are also sending exhibits. It is gratifying to know this, since hog products rank next to flour in the imports of the islands and South American republics.

MANUFACTURES.

In manufacturers there will be exhibits of carriages and parts thereof, furniture, musical instruments, spades and shovels, woodenware, doors and sashes, tents and awnings, bottled beer, Canadian whiskey, boots and shoes, cotton, thin texture tweeds, hosiery, thin underwear, tinware, patent medicines, small hardware and tools, aerated waters, and the class of small stoves used in that climate. Fish, lumber and the economic minerals will be well represented.

As collateral to the magnificent exhibit of flour, the Dominion and Ontario experimental farms, aided by the Manitoba Government, are sending selected specimens of wheat in the straw and head.

PROVINCIAL EXHIBITS.

Some of the Provincial Governments are preparing special exhibits. For example, Manitoba is sending a large exhibit of flour, at its own expense, and Quebec, on similar terms, is sending a handsome trophy in the form of a section of the citadel walls, showing the mineral, agricultural and industrial wealth of the Province. The province of Prince Edward Island, through the efforts of Mr. McNeill, will also be represented in vegetables, dairy products, etc. The coal miners of Cape Breton have been aroused to the possibility of having a share of the large coal trade of the West Indies, and will make a fine exhibit. The C.P.R. is providing a magnificent collection of photographs, and nearly all the prominent Canadian cities will send views. The Dominion Government is sending specially prepared pictures of the public buildings, as well as maps and charts illustrating the geographical and general features of the country. In fact, it may be said that the exhibit will be complete in all those articles in which there is any hope of trade, as well as in material showing the capabilities and extent of the Dominion.

MORE SPACE SECURED.

In addition to the 10,000 square feet set apart for Canada in the main building, word has been received that an additional allotment of 1,656 has been made in the machinery annex and 5,000 feet in the general annex.

It may be said, in relation to this matter, that the wholesale importers of fruit in this country are evincing a deep interest in this West India exhibition, and several of them are going to Jamaica for the purpose of making arrangements for the direct shipment of oranges, lemons, pineapples and cocoanuts. Up to the present time these fruits have mainly come to us by way of the United States, and at the extra cost of the middleman's profit.

KNIGHTS TEMPLARS.

Dr. Jas. Henderson, Q.C., Kingston, Unanimously Chosen Grand Master.

HAMILTON, Oct. 21.—A special assembly of the Sovereign Great Priory of Knights Templars of Canada was held this forenoon in the Masonic Hall.

The Toronto members present were: E. T. Malone, N. T. Lyon, J. Ross Robertson, J. K. Kerr, H. A. Collins, R. L. Patterson, Benjamin Allen, Geo. S. McConkey, N. Gordon Bigelow, E. E. Sheppard and Thomas Sargant.

R. E. Frater, James A. Henderson, M.D., Q.C., LL.B., Kingston, was unanimously elected Supreme Grand Master, Vice-Supreme Grand Master Moore, deceased.

R. E. Frartres, J. K. Kerr, Q.C., Toronto, and Henry Robertson, LL.B., Collingwood, were nominated for the office of Deputy Grand Master. On the first ballot each candidate polled 44 votes and R. E. Fr Kerr withdrew from the contest. Fr. Henry Robertson was then unanimously elected.

It was resolved to elect a Grand Master annually in future.

The question of the settlement of the difficulties that at present exist through the non-affiliation with Great Priory of the Scottish Encampment in New Brunswick was referred to the Supreme Grand Master with power.

The Red Cross Degree was recognized a degree of the jurisdiction, but it was left optional with the preceptories as to whether or not they would confer it.

"CONDITIONAL IMMORALITY."

A Methodist Minister Suspended for Preaching this Doctrine.

SHELBURNE, Ont., Oct. 21.—Rev. M. L. Pearson, chairman of the Orangeville district, and a committee of three other clergymen have investigated the charges of heresy preferred against Rev. James Thomson, Methodist minister of Honeywood. The accused pleaded guilty to having taught the objectional doctrines of "Conditional Immorality," and the "Annihilation of the Wicked," and was accordingly suspended from the ministry of the church, pending final action in the matter by the next annual conference.

The taint of scrofula, salt rheum, or other foul humor is hereditary and transmitted for generations, causing untold suffering, and we also accumulate poison and germs of disease from the air we breathe, the food we eat, or the water we drink. There is nothing more conclusively proven than the positive power of Hood's Sarsaparilla over all diseases of the blood. This medicine, when fairly tried, does expel every trace of scrofula or salt rheum, removes the taint which causes catarrh, neutralizes the acidity and cures rheumatism, drives out the germs of malaria, blood poisoning, etc. It also vitalizes and enriches the blood, thus overcoming that tired feeling, and building up the whole system. Thousands testify to the superiority of Hood's Sarsaparilla as a blood purifier. Full information and statements of cures sent free.

IN THE CLOTHING ARENA

On account of our having bought the KIDD BANKRUPT STOCK at 50c. on the dollar, we will hold during the next 30 days a ROARING, RUSHING, ROCKING SALE, in order to break up and clear out the stock. You might ask, why are Gough's anxious to sell? Here's a pointer. The Montreal Wholesale Clothing Market was never so low as at present. Owing to the McKinley Bill, English Manufacturers are shipping all their goods to the United States. Consequently it is a matter of impossibility to get goods wholesale. Goughs saw this squeeze coming, and bought $25,000 worth of the finest goods to be had in Canada. The goods are here. They have to be paid for. You have to pay for them, by paying us for your share. We'll give you Value Galore. Not only in Clothing but in BOOTS AND SHOES, for we are shoeing half the Country.

THE WAYS OF WOMEN FAIR.

Fads, Fancies and Fashions of the Feminine Sex.

A two inch band of velvet is a new, simple and pretty finish for the bottom of the skirt.

This is a good time for baked tomatoes. Make a medley of the stuffing and serve hot.

A smart leather cap perched on the head, a pair of field glasses slung over the shoulder, a tall aspen stick in one hand and a six inch satchel in the other is the latest make-up of the photograph loving maiden.

Now for a sparrow trap! Millions of the chattering, fighting little bipeds will be used in the Winter millinery trade. Swallows and blackbirds are also on the list, notwithstanding the vigilance of the anti-bird bonnet-buyers. There seems to be little change as yet in the style of hats. Already short ostrich tips are employed as trimmings and the indications are that they will be as profusely used this Winter as flowers were in the Summer; also fancy feathers fashioned with butterflies, dragon flies, beetles, &c.

Dress material that sold as high as $4.70 may be bought now for less than half that amount. There are severe designs and quiet patterns in every line, and these are the styles that withstand the fluctuations of fashion.

Lovely woman is ruffled to her ear lobes in tulle, crepon and crepe lisse. She looks as snug and warm as a puffed robin.

The splendor of color may not cross the threshold without doing violence to good taste. As gay, gaudy and grand as you like indoors, but match the quiet serenity of the Quakers when you go on the street.

The Rational Dress Society, of London, is not able to pay the rent when it is due.

A new ribbon girdle used on light silk dresses made with French waists requires eight yards of the two-inch gros grain. The belt is stiffened with crinoline; the ends, which tie in front, are finished with double rosettes made of the ribbon.

A paper on "Leprosy in the East," written by Mrs. Gen. Lew Wallace, and originally published in the Sunday-School Times, is to be included in a report of the Smithsonian Institution on the progress of Oriental science in America during the year 1889.

The human heart is without sex. Men are quite as persistent in their desire and need of listening to the words: "I love you," as any woman who ever breathed; and the manlier and stronger and braver and truer the man, the more will he hunger and thirst for this demonstration of speech.

Wildcat is entered as the coming fur for dress trimming. Like the leopard skin, popularized by the Jersey Lily eight years ago, it will be used for the sleeves, collar and muff of cloth walking dresses. Persian lamb in the natural color is another novelty.

All fashionable dresses have now extremely long sleeves, coming down over the hand. These sleeves are often cut out into long peaks which cover the back of the hand. But this is the case only when the material is a light one; otherwise the sleeve is finished with a lace cuff, which is peaked or notched out in the same way, coming down over the hand.

A pretty sofa pillow can be made of the coarse quality of huckaback, which comes for fancy work, by having some conventional design stamped upon it, and darning the rest of the surface with either roped silk or a strand of filo-floss.

"Domestic Infelicity of Literary Women," a subject chosen by Marion Harland for a recent number of the Arena, is said to have given a severe shock to some of the artists authors and Press Club members.

Here is thinking material for the anti-domestic girls of America. The Empress of Austria is the best royal housekeeper in Europe. Her kitchen is a huge room, with all the arrangements at each end for preparing fish, fowl and beast for the table. Fifty chickens can be cooked at once on one of the big whirling spits. Against the side-walls from floor to ceiling stand scores upon scores of chafing-dishes. In these dishes, all of which are self-warming, the meats are carried to the carving-room, whence they are returned to the kitchen ready to be served. The boiling and baking and frying and carrying and cutting occupy a small regiment of servants. Twenty-five male cooks, in white clothes, dress, spit, season and stuff the meats.

When Miss. Annie Ruport, the beautifier, retires, she is going to put $125,000 into a retreat for drunken men. No women will be admitted, no questions asked and no bills presented. When he regains his humanity the patient will be dismissed and permitted to pay anything or nothing, as the fancy suits. It is a most remarkable thing that the sympathies of the women who are able to do so much for the poor, friendless, struggling starving sisterhood, prefer to go out to the gutter element of the stronger sex. The concentrated efforts that are being wasted on white ribbons, foreign missions, reading-rooms and prayer meetings for good-for-nothing men who can't be reformed and don't want to be elevated, would be the salvation of thousands of unfortunate and unhappy working girls and widows who go to Potter's Field via the Tombs, the island and the Morgue. Women who have made their money out of women certainly owe their sex some sort of recognition.

As many female cooks prepare the vegetables, the puddings and the salads. A dozen or more boys hurry the birds, fish and joints from the kitchen to the carving-room, where long lines of carvers slice and joint everything laid before them. The kitchen utensils fill a big room opening into the kitchen. This room is the ideal of German housewives. The high walls are covered with pans, kettles, griddles and covers, which shine as only German hands and German elbow-grease could make them shine. There are soup-tureens in which a tug boy might be drowned, and kettles in which twins could play house. The Austrian Court dinners are famous on the Continent. The delicacies which result from the protracted meetings in the council chamber of the chefs are often so fine that favored guests not unfrequently observe the old German fashion of taking a choice bit home to their friends in the name of the Empress and with her best wishes. And yet, strange to say, not withstanding this elaborate kitchen, neither the Emperor nor the Empress eat much of the savory viands or dainties elaborated in it. Good, kind, gentle, generous and open-hearted old Francis Joseph takes beer at luncheon, champagne at dinner—never more than two glasses—and smokes the commonest kind of Austrian cigar, a long, thin weed with a straw in it, called a Virginia. Over-indulgence in it spoiled his stomach, and for a long time he was forbidden to smoke.

Blanching Celery.

One of the principal drawbacks in raising celery for home use is the trouble or non-success in blanching the stalks. While several self-blanching varieties have come into favor with many, there are yet not a few who prefer the long, crisp, artificially-blanched stalks. The work of blanching may be considerably lessened by adopting any of the following methods.

When the plants in the rows have reached a height of from eight to twelve inches, each bunch is either closely wrapped with strong paper or inclosed in a tin tube about two and a half inches in diameter, open at the ends and one side. Over this tube, or wrapper, a three-inch drain tile is slipped, pressed firmly in the ground, and left in a perpendicular position as seen in FIG. 1, the tin or paper wrapper is removed and the same process repeated with the rest.

FIG. 2. BLANCHING IN HORSE-SHOE TILES.

In Fig. 2 is shown the manner of using horse-shoe tile in connection with a board at least ten inches wide. Soil is thrown against the tile to keep them pressed against the board. By either of these plans the celery is nicely and evenly blanched, is clean and free from earth; and while it may appear like a difficult operation, it is quite simple and quickly done. Another advantage is that a greater amount may be grown on the same land, and that the ground is left in a level condition. It does not in the least injure the drain tile, which may be used for draining after the celery is removed, or kept over from year to year. Where space is very limited the method illustrated in Fig. 3 may be adopted. Boards are placed eight inches apart along the rows of plants and the intermediate space is filled with soil.

who ever gave a public Testimonial, and the following is

THE ONLY TESTIMONIAL HE EVER GAVE.

"If it be well to wash the skin—and we never heard the proposition questioned—it is well also that we should be familiar with the means by which that purpose may be most efficiently attained.

"We once knew a beautiful woman, with a nice complexion, who had never washed her face with soap all her life through; her means of polishing were, a smear of grease or cold cream; then a wipe, and then a lick with rose water. Of course we did not care to look too closely after such an avowal, but we pitied her, for soap is the food of the skin.—

Soap is to the skin what Wine is to the stomach;

a generous stimulant. It not only removes the dirt, but the layer which carries the dirt; and it promotes the displacement of the old cuticle to make way for the new, to increase the activity of change in the skin. Now turn we to Toilet Soaps and there we find a name engraven on the memory of the oldest inhabitant—PEARS.

PEARS' SOAP! an article of the nicest and most careful manufacture, and the most refreshing and agreeable of balms to the skin."

Life Insurance Policy Holders SHOULD READ THIS!

THE PERCENTAGE OF LAPSES.

The large increase in the amount of life insurance written by purely Canadian companies, and terminated by surrender or lapse, during the past year, has naturally attracted the attention of insurance men. So unexpected and unwelcome an increase $1,709,612 in the amount of lapsed policies credited to Canadian companies during a period when American companies doing business in this country showed a decrease under this heading of $318,304, could not fail to excite comment; so that the figures have been eagerly scanned to discover how such a condition of affairs was brought about.

Perhaps this is most easily shown in tabular form by giving the net amount of insurance in force on the books of each of our principal Canadian companies and the percentage of lapsed and surrendered policies they are responsible for. In this case they rank as follows:—

Company.	Net amount in force.	Percentage of Surrender and Lapse.
Canada Life	$48,564,376	3.07
Confederation	17,574,528	6.31
Ontario Mutual	13,071,400	10.29
Federal	10,068,837	10.35
Sun Life	11,670,817	10.36
North American	8,470,620	10.68
Temperance and General	2,864,972	17.84
Citizens	2,097,956	29.15
Manufacturers' Life	5,723,100	30 12
London Life	1,644,285	30.61

From this table we can see that while such companies as the Canada Life and Confederation have actually decreased the amount of their lapses, some of the weaker companies have largely increased theirs, so that, although one company shows under four per cent., one under six, and four under eleven, the average percentage of lapses for the whole ten companies is 15.78 per cent.

The only moral we can draw from these figures is that the stronger and more widely known a company is, and the more of its patrons it will retain permanently on its books, while the weaker companies must, perforce, witness the defection of a certain proportion of their customers to their more powerful rivals. That so large a proportion as 30 per cent. of policy holders should entirely abandon the advantages of insurance in one year is hardly probable in these days of popular education. We can therefore only fall back on the hypothesis that the bulk of the lapses of the weaker companies must arise from their policy holders transferring their allegiance elsewhere. It is in fact a case of the wealthier and more widely known (even if not more progressive) companies absorbing the cream of the permanent business, and leaving only the transitory, and therefore less desirable risks, to their humbler competitors. By the aid of clever management and attractive methods, a weak company may be able to absorb a fair share of new business; but it is evident from these figures that the superior prestige of their older established rivals is certain to attract a proportion of their customers in the long run, and that thus their percentage of lapses will always be heavier.

The new business of the SUN LIFE was the largest ever secured in the Company's history and was equalled by but one Canadian life company. The surplus accumulated during the THREE years of the current quinquennium far exceeds the amount earned during any previous FIVE years, and the profits to Policy-holders cannot fail to be highly satisfactory. The prosperity of the Sun Life is no doubt largely due to its issuing unconditional policies and paying its claims promptly. Canadians should also remember that by patronizing a Home Institution, which invests all its funds in the Dominion, they are benefitting themselves by reducing the rate of interest here, and are helping to build up our own cities rather than those of foreign states.

A Machine Man.

One of the cleverest pieces of mechanism in the line of automatic figures is that exhibited at Mr. Geo. Rubidge's tobacco store. It attracts the attention of crowds of people. The automaton represents a high-toned and elegantly dressed "cullud gen'leman," who calmly puffs his cigarette and while emitting the smoke from his mouth raises his eyeglass and serenely surveys the crowd in front of him. The machine is quite an advertisement for Mr. Rubidge.

No Alarm for this Fire.

Engineer Jas. English wried away the time this forenoon in playing upon a bush fire opposite the market square with a stream of water from the hyerant. The pile of brush and refuse, which is dumped on the river bank, east of Water street, has been in a state of incipient conflagration for the past two months, and the heavy rains have not been able to extinguish the smouldering embers. This morning the fire was burning brightly, and the nose was turned on and a stop put to the clouds of smoke which were floating over the market square.

No Boom in the Oil Trade.

Frequently the question is asked, "What about Mr. McClure's oil well?" A couple of gentlemen the other morning drove out to the spot where oil was discovered, and with a stick prodded the earth until oil arose to the surface. There was not the least doubt about the presence of petroleum still, but no steps are being taken to ascertain whether oil can be found in paying quantities. The general impression is that there is nothing more than a "pocket" on Mr. McClure's property. But the fact nevertheless remains that the coal oil is there yet.

Battalion March out.

There remains only two more drills before inspection day, and it behooves the volunteers put their best foot forward and endeavor to win renown for themselves at the annual parade for inspection. There was a good muster of rank-and-file last night. Lt.-Col. Rogers was in command, and after a short march-out, headed by the band, the regiment returned to the shed for drill. "D" company had the largest turn-out, though "E" and "F" companies were almost equal to it in point of numbers. Some battalion orders were read by Adjutant Capt. Dennistoun, among which was a notice of promotion of Wm. J. Lloyd, of "C" Co., to the rank of Corporal provisionally.

Way up among the Curlers.

In another column will be found a full report of the proceedings of the annual meeting of the Ontario Branch of the Royal Caledonian Curling Club. The report, which contains the grouping for the Tankard Competition, and other interesting matter, etc., will be of deep concern to local curlers, more especially as Dr. Boucher, Peterborough's representative, has been elected to the office of President. The doctor has been Peterborough's representative for a number of years, and the provincial curlers have shown their appreciation of his enthusiastic and whole-hearted interest in the roaring game by advancing him to this high position. Dr. Boucher is to be congratulated upon receiving this merited honor.

Volunteers' Rifle Practice.

At a meeting of the officers of the 57th Battalion, held after drill last night, it was decided that all volunteers who had not put in rifle practice at the butts should be obliged to attend some day before inspection for the purpose. Next Thursday will probably be appointed as the day when all volunteers who were not at the late matches will be requested to attend.

The Provincial Ploughing Match.

The Provincial ploughing match to take place near the Central Exhibition grounds on Wednesday, Oct. 29th, is attracting general attention and interest amongst ploughman. Inquiries are coming in rapidly, and entries are beginning to be made. Parties interested, and living on the line of the Grand Junction, will be pleased to learn that a passenger coach will be attached to the Grand Trunk special way freight train that leaves Peterborough for the east at 4:30, and will stop for passengers at the crossing nearest the grounds on the 29th.

The Telephone.

A local telephone company is to be established in Kingston, which promises to give rates reduced 40 per cent. over the Bell Telephone Co. The Kingston company will give one telephone for $20 per annum, and two for $30. The Whig says:—"The Bell Telephone Company will meet the new opposition squarely, which means doing business at lighting rates. They have in their present tariff, merely a living profit, and to reduce it is to work without gain, but they have a large investment to carry and protect, and have to meet the exigencies of competition, no matter how unbusinesslike it is. The Bell Company merely now ask the people to await the result of the Peterborough opposition cheap rate movement before deserting a company which has served them at fair and reasonable rates. The new rates offered are not consistent with profitable or good service."

Important Masonic Meeting.

Two of the highest Masonic bodies of Canada met in Hamilton this week. Tuesday the Great Priory of Canada held a special assembly in the Masonic Hall beginning at 10 a.m. A large number of the distinguished members from all parts of the Dominion were in attendance. The principal business was the selection of a Supreme Grand Master to take the place of the late Col. McCleod Moore, of Prescott. K. E. Sir Knight Jas. A. Henderson, L.L.B., of Kingston, the late deputy grand master, succeeds McLeod Moore, and R. E. Sir Knight Henry Robertson, L.L.B., Collingwood, was elected to be Deputy Grand Master. Wednesday, Thursday and Friday the Supreme Council of A. and A.S. Rite, 33°, meet in the annual assembly. The Grand Council meets every third year in Montreal according to constitution, for election of officers. The meetings other years are held in different places. This will be the second time that the Supreme Council met in Hamilton.

Individual Record of the Baseball Club for the Year.

The averages of the baseball club for the past season are appended. During the year nine matches were played—five at home and four abroad. Among the victories were two games each with Campbellford and Hastings, and one each with Markham and Belleville. The club was defeated twice by Cobourg and once by the Park Nine of Toronto. Some very good games were played. McCabe pitched in every game. He and Brennan were the only two who did not miss a match.

In the averages published below, Somers' record (at second base) for fielding is remarkable. With 28 put-outs and 21 assists, he is credited with only one error. Brennan leads the batting away in advance of the others.

Eighteen Teeth at a Sitting.

The Remarkable Fortitude Displayed by Peterborough Ladies in the Dentists' Chair.

"Hello, what's the news?"

"Nothing," was the laconic reply of the dentist at whom the EXAMINER had hurled this startlingly original question.

"What's doing in teeth these days?"

"Ah, that's more to the point. I can tell you something about teeth. One day this week I extracted sixteen teeth from one head, and the next day eighteen from another."

"They must have been pretty strong men to stand that."

"Men! Nothing of the sort. They were delicate Peterborough ladies. Why, a man can't have more than two teeth pulled at a sitting, and then he'll make as much fuss as if he were being flayed alive. Now ladies as a rule (of course there are exceptional cases) take things more quietly. I apply electricity, and then they are ready to have every tooth taken out of their heads. One lady, as I said before, had sixteen taken out at a sitting, and another eighteen just the other day.

"That goes to show that ladies have more pluck than men, doesn't it?"

"Well (with a meaning smile) perhaps it is pluck, but I should say from my experience that pride has more to do with it. A lady takes greater interest in her appearance than a man, and some of them will suffer tortures if they think the result will enhance their looks. We have to be very careful of course to not overtax their strength, but it's wonderful what some ladies will undergo when they make up their minds to it. Their moral courage is sometimes marvellous. For weeks before the dreaded ordeal comes off, a woman will wear herself to a shadow with fretting fuming over miserable anticipations of the trial before her, but when she gets into the chair she braces back, grips the arm of the chair like a vice, and is ready for anything. Then when it is all over she declares it wasn't half as bad as she thought it would be. They come back afterwards and I make a plate for them so that they won't be bothered with decayed teeth again.

"But there's another class—the extremely nervous ladies at whom you have only to look to make them scream. They regard the dentist as their executioner, or as some hard-hearted monster who delights in the groans and pains of his fellow-beings. Then it is that very frequently passers-by on the street will be startled by a series of earpiercing screams, and perhaps some of the most impulsive will rush in to see who is being murdered. I tell you it takes a cool, experienced hand to manage such women. But then their warm gratitude when the painful operation is over and "that horrid tooth" has been got rid of, is a reward in itself."

"To say nothing of the financial compensation, eh?

"Yes," returned the dentist, "there is something in that, too."

Sir Richard at Renfrew.

A Masterly Review of the Political Situation—Reciprocity can be Obtained—Hostility of Canadian Tories the Only Obstacle in the Way.

Sir Richard Cartwright delivered his first address of the series to be given by him the present month, at Renfrew on Monday to a large gathering.

Sir Richard began his address by saying that he did not intend to criticise the conduct and policy of the Dominion Government, but believed he would be doing better service by devoting his entire time to the measure which was now agitating the country, and which was due to the folly of the Dominion Government on the one hand and the United States Congress on the other; and to point out what the policy of each of the political parties in this country was upon the great issue. The policy of the Liberals was as clear and unmistakeable as it could be made. They demanded free and unrestricted commercial intercourse with the United States, and as a means to that end that Canada should have the right to negotiate her own commercial treaties. (Cheers.) That was a step towards national manhood. Mr. Laurier had explained that policy in his speech at Abbotsford, and there was no wavering on the part of any Liberal leader with regard to it. Now what was the policy of the federal government? He had read the speeches of ministers and the articles in their subsidized newspapers, but defied any man to say what the policy of the government was upon the question of reciprocity. They had indulged in unprecedented in political history. With regard to the standing offer of reciprocity in natural products, they had done on a Monday what they had asserted on Thursday it would be treason to do. (Cheers.) The president of the council (Mr. Colby) had last session, speaking for the government, declared that reciprocity in natural products would be the worst thing that could happen to our farmers. While pretending in one section of the country to favor reciprocity, in another section the Tories were denouncing the advocates of reciprocity as rebels and traitors. He ridiculed the course of the government with regard to the export duty upon logs. The duty had been levied, so they said, to help our sawmill owners, but at the demand of Mr. McKinley they had abolished it. The National Policy had been carried in 1878, on the promise made by the Tory leaders that they would use the power of taxing American goods to procure reciprocity with the United States. Now, that promise had been thrown to the winds, and the government stood pledged to the gentlemen who meet annually in the Red Parlor in Toronto—to provide Sir John Macdonald with money to corrupt and debauch the electorate—to continue in their hands the privilege of fleecing the people of Canada. (Hear, hear). With regard to the McKinley Bill, which had deprived the people of Canada of their best market, he had no objection to seeking for new markets. But the Tories had promised a home market that would take all our products. (Hear.) By their own misconduct, by their own folly, they had provoked the hostility of the Americans and now,

WITH UNPARALLELED HYPOCRISY,

they told the people to look for new markets. While the McKinley bill was hanging in the balance Sir John Macdonald and his colleagues had passed the Foster Tariff bill, which increased the customs duties upon American products and thus handicapped the opponents of the McKinley bill in congress, and strengthened the hands of the promoters of that measure; when, had a conciliatory course been adopted, the McKinley bill, or at least those portions of it which militate against Canada, might have been defeated. (Cheers). He was ready to go as far as any man in endeavoring to find new markets for Canadian products and he was ready to go further than any member of the present government in reducing the taxation upon the country so as to enable Canadian producers to compete in the markets of the world. (Cheers) He believed in the home market, and the home market of the Canadian people was in the United States and not in countries three thousand miles away. (Applause). Sir Richard pointed out that owing to the geographical position of the country the trade of the United States was worth more to Canada than the trade of the rest of the world. The American market was our natural and best market and that market had been closed to Canadians through the folly of their own government. (Cheers). Nature intended that there should be between the two countries. We are told that Canadians could not compete with Americans at home. I see how are they going to compete against the rare rivals, in the new foreign markets which the former talked about? (Hear, hear.) It was undoubtedly true that the injury done to Canada by the United States tariff would fall upon those sections of the country which could least afford to suffer loss. Under such circumstances it was the duty of the government to use every reasonable means to regain and retain the United States market for our producers. It was useless to expect a renewal of the old arrangement, providing for reciprocity in natural products, but leading statesmen of the United States had stated clearly that if Canada was sincere in desirous of full and complete reciprocity, they were ready to treat with us upon such a basis. The Tory leaders dreaded nothing so much as a clear offer of reciprocity from the United States. They had declared, through the mouth of Mr. Colby, that they did not want reciprotity, even in natural products. And if they did not want reciprocity in farm products, what in Heaven's name did they want reciprocity in? (Hear, hear.) If the policy of the Liberal party was adopted Canada would add sixty-five millions of people to her population. What the government had done was to add to the debt of the country enormously and weigh down every workingman with onerous taxes. Instead of adopting the English system of raising revenue our Tory rulers have slavishly imitated the trade policy of the Yankees, and yet these gentlemen had the effrontery to boast of their "loyalty" (Applause and laughter) When he (Cartwright) was finance minister he had been approached by monopolists who tendered him their support on condition that he should arrange the tariff so as to enable them to fleece the people; and when he had had told them to go to the parent of evil, they went to Sir John Macdonald. (Cheers and laughter.) The British market has always been opened to us, and yet our people had found it more profitable to trade with the Americans notwithstanding tariff restrictions than to send our goods to England.

The English market has not been improved by the passage of the McKinley bill. And when our producers went there they had to compete against people from all quarters of the earth. Under the loyal policy of the present government the Dominion trade with Great Britain had declined, while our trade with the United States had increased.

ADVICE TO SEEK NEW MARKETS

coming from the present government was a farce. The United States market could not be replaced. It was unfair to charge the whole body of manufacturers with opposition to reciprocity. He knew many manufacturers who favored such a policy. But the government was controlled by a ring; by the men who furnished corruption money. The whole trade question resolved itself into a matter of exchange. Unless a country agreed to buy it could not expect to sell. Farmers might rest assured that all taxation would ultimately fall upon the land, the products of land and the men who cultivated land. (Applause.) The farmers were told by the Tories to go abroad with their products and face the competition of the whole world, while the combinsters demanded not only that they should not be asked to face competition at home, but that the farmers should agree to be taxed for their benefit. He quoted the trade returns to show that the Americans were Canada's best customers. They purchased half of our surplus products last year. Yet we were told that our trade with the United States was of no consequence. Men who were making fortunes through the imposition of thirty-five per cent duties upon British goods had the effrontery to talk of their loyalty to Britain. A huge debt had been piled up to build railways and canals, to facilitate trade between Canada and the United States and yet trade was being obstructed by means of hostile tariffs. With one hand the government built railways, canals and bridges to facilitate trade with the United States while with the other they made tariff regulations which prevented that trade. The issue now rested with the electors. If the people of Canada declared by their votes at the polls that they sincerely desired unrestricted reciprocity with the United States, they would have no difficulty in obtaining such a boon. (Cheers).

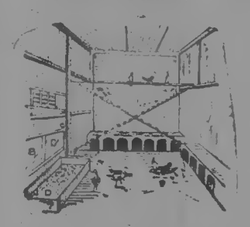
A Hen House Interior.



This illustration shows the interior of a hen house twelve feet long and eight feet wide. The roosts are arranged above the nest boxes, D is the dust bin, and B and C are sliding doors for the convenience of the attendants, who can thus do much of the work necessary without entering the house at all. Openings may be made from the outside to the nest boxes, and the house would then be complete.

MILK SUPPLY OF TOWNS.

Report of Thomas Macfarlane, Chief Dominion Analyst.

The Commissioner of Inland Revenue has caused Bulletin No. 17, dealing with the milk supply of towns, to be brought down. The milk samples were tested in the laboratory of the Inland Revenue Department, and Chief Analyst Macfarlane reports:

SIR,—In former reports regarding milk supply the particulars given had reference chiefly to the cities and larger towns of the Dominion. In several of these—such as Montreal, Toronto, Hamilton and London—the examination of milk is now carried on either by a special food inspector appointed by the municipality and working under the Adulteration Act, or by medical health officers exercising the powers conferred on them by such statutes as chapter 205 of the Revised Statutes of Ontario. On account of these circumstances, it was thought advisable during the first quarter of the present fiscal year to collect samples of milk sold in some of the smaller towns of Ontario. In order to do this fairly, and obtain a correct estimate of the quality of the milk supplied in the towns visited, the collectors were instructed to obtain samples from as many vendors as possible in each place.

The following summary shows the number of the samples taken in each of the towns visited, and the number of genuine samples obtained, as well as of those judged to be adulterated or inferior, in view of the facts recorded in the tables giving the names of the vendors and other details:

	No. of Samples taken.	No. Genuine.	No. Adulterated or inferior.

THE ECCLES ELECTION.

VICTORY FOR THE GLADSTONIAN CANDIDATE.

Dervishes Slaughtered by Egyptian Troops
A Battle With the Mahdi Said to be Imminent — Grand Duke Nicholas Dying.

LONDON, Oct. 22.—The parliamentary election in the Eccles division of Lancashire today resulted in a victory for the Gladstonian. Mr. Roby, the Liberal candidate, received 4,901 votes, and Mr. Egerton, Conservative, 4,078.

In 1886 the Tories carried Eccles by 299 majority, the Liberal candidate receiving 3985 votes and the Conservatives 4277 votes. Mr. Roby, the Gladstonian candidate, at this election swallowed the 8-hour pledge whole and promised to support the compulsory 8 hours bill in Parliament. Mr. Egerton, the Conservative candidate, refused and the mining vote, which is very considerable, was thus rendered safe for Mr. Roby, notwithstanding that Mr. Egerton belongs to a mine owning family, who happen to be liberal and popular with the workingmen they employ. There was a temperance vote also, and other side-issues cropped up, as they do in all by-elections.

Comments on the Result.

The News says the result of the Eccles election will make the demand for a dissolution of Parliament louder than ever.

The Chronicle says the election was fought on the eight hour and not on the Irish question and that the result is a great triumph for the new unionism.

The Post says that when the real moment for a national decision is reached the double issue by which Eccles was won will be a very small item in the general result.

The Times admits that the result was due to the return of the Gladstonians to their allegiance, coupled with Mr. Roby's acceptance of the eight-hour and teetotal vote.

The Standard says: It is futile to deny that the result of the Eccles election disappoints the Unionists. We regret that although the Conservatives maintained their ground they failed to emulate the Gladstonians in securing new votes.

No such Decree Issued.

BERLIN, Oct. 22. The Reichsanzeiger publishes an explanation of the origin of the recent report that the German administration at Bagamoyo had issued a decree authorizing slavery. It says Arabs sent a petition to the Germans asking that facilities be granted for the sale of slaves on the ground that otherwise they would be unable to cultivate their devastated lands. In some way a copy of the petition became posted as a proclamation, and upon this were based the false accusations against the Germans. The British Consul at Zanzibar, though knowing the persons responsible for the charges, declined to disclose their names.

Boulanger and His Bondtle.

PARIS, Oct. 22.—The Dix Nouvieme Siecle publishes Boulanger's account of his personal expenses. After declaring that he lost the whole of his savings after paying his father's debts, besides 100,000 francs for his book, "The Invasion of Germany," he says he sacrificed the retiring pension and an offer of 1,000,000 francs for a lecture tour in America. He denies that he applied to the Duchess de Uzes or Baron Macau for money, but he is vague as to the origin of his resources. He challenges his accusers to give an account of how they secured their riches and to show that they have made such sacrifices as he has made.

The New French Tariff

PARIS, Oct. 22. The new tariff bill will be issued to the deputies Saturday. Flax and hemp are made free from duty. Agricultural products are placed in two categories—the first consisting of cereals, live stock and meat and going under a maximum tariff, implying that they cannot be included in any treaty, all other products going under a minimum tariff and being available for treaty purposes. Several deputies intend to demand the suppression of the minimum category.

The Color of Every Regiment.

BERLIN, Oct. 22. The Emperor has ordered that the colors of all the regiments in Berlin be brought to the residence of Count Von Moltke Sunday. This distinction has never before been accorded to a German subject. Emperor William, the King of Saxony, the Grand Duke of Hesse, and several princes will go in a body to Count Von Moltke's residence to convey the congratulations of the army and navy.

To London in Six Days.

LONDON, Oct. 22.—The English railway companies are making strenuous efforts for the rapid transportation of American mails from Queenstown to London via Kingstown and Holyhead. They hope to reduce the time from New York to London to six days. The scheme was put into operation last night.

Largest Bridge in Europe.

VIENNA, Oct. 22.—The King of Roumania yesterday laid the foundation stone for a new railway bridge across the Danube at Cernavoda, a Roumanian town. The King declared the bridge would be the largest in Europe and that its completion would mark an epoch in history, shortening at once the route from the North to the Black Sea.

Dockmen still on Strike

MELBOURNE, Oct. 22. The Executive committee of the striking dockmen here have sent a cable message to London saying the strike has not ceased. The men will not give way, and they have no doubt of the ultimate success of the strikes.

300 Arrested for Betting.

LIVERPOOL, Oct. 22. Shortly before the race for the Cambridgeshire Stakes was run at Newmarket to day the police raided a number of betting clubs here and arrested 300 persons. Among the prisoners were some of the prominent citizens of Liverpool.

The Disestablishment Question.

EDINBURGH, Oct. 22.—Mr. Gladstone today had a private conference with a number of Scotch members of the House of Commons on the question of disestablishment of the Church of Scotland.

Dervishes Slaughtered

SUAKIM, Oct. 22.—One hundred dervishes who were raiding cattle to-day were attacked by the Egyptian cavalry. Seven dervishes were killed and a number taken prisoners.

The Grand Duke Dying.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 22.—The condition of Grand Duke Nicholas, uncle of the Czar, who was seized with sudden paralysis during the recent army manœuvres, has become critical.

WILL RECEIVE HER DESERTS.

A Woman Who Tried to Cremate Her Bedridden Mother.

COBOURG, Oct. 22.—Sarah Larmour, a girl about 24 years of age, was charged at the assizes to-day with having on the 24th of August last attempted to set fire to her mother's house in Grafton. The evidence was strong against the prisoner. It was proved by several witnesses that she had on the night above mentioned walked 8 miles from Port Hope to Grafton for the express purpose of carrying out her intention of burning the house in which her mother was bedridden. A verdict of guilty was brought in by the jury.

THIS MAN ESCAPED DEATH.

A Northumberland Murderer Acquitted on the Ground of Insanity.

COBOURG, Oct. 22.—William Gerow was charged at the assizes to-day with the murder of one Lockhart near Burnley last spring. The evidence went to show that the prisoner for years past has been subject to epileptic fits, and when in that state was always violent. On the day of the murder the prisoner went into a blacksmith shop, and there took a fit which rendered him insane, and while in that condition he picked up a large stick of wood and struck Lockhart a violent blow upon the head which caused his death. From the medical testimony brought forward it was so fully evident to the Crown counsel that the act was committed by the prisoner while laboring under a temporary fit of insanity that he allowed the matter to go to the jury without making the usual address. The jury brought in a verdict of not guilty.

BIG WINNING STABLES.

August Belmont's Horses Head the List With $167,000.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—The racing season which has just ended in this state has been a phenomenally successful one. Never before in the history of the American turf have the stakes been so rich, the attendance so large, or the horses entered so numerous and of such high class. One grand horse will alone make the season of 1890 a memorable one, for it will always be known as "Salvator's year." It will also be remarkable as the record-breaking year, for never since there have been official records in this country have so many new standards been set up.

August Belmont heads the list of winners, with a total winning of $167,000. John A. Morris is next, with a credit to his account of $158,000, while Senator Hearst, whose bad luck in previous years was proverbial, close the season with $110,000. Green Morris is fourth, with $88,000, and Congressman W. L. Scott is just below him with $69,000. The Dwyer brothers, in spite of the crippled condition of their stable, a mere wreck of the princely establishment of the past, have earned $65,000, while D. D. Withers, whose stable has been rather a disappointing one this season, is a winner of $64,000.

It is a curious fact that nearly all the big money in the leading stables has been won by one horse. Potomac won nearly half of Mr. Belmont's $167,000, and if Tournament's earnings were deducted from Senator Hearst's total there would be very little left. J. B. Haggin ends the year with $51,700 profit, and of this sum over $30,000 was Salvator's winnings. The bulk of the remainder was Firenzi's. Marcus Daly spared no money in getting the choicest strains of blood. He has spent perhaps $500,000 on the turf, and yet he has won only one race this year. This was a stake race, however, and he got out of it $8340 to help pay his enormous losses.

Fired at a Bird and Brought Down a Man.

KINGSTON, Oct. 22.—While the barge Detroit was lying at the K. & P. R. R. dock, Cataraqui Bay, this morning, the sudden report of a rifle was heard, and Fred Mountan, a hand on the boat, fell to the deck with a bullet in his leg. A doctor had to cut a hole ½ of an inch in diameter and 3 inches long in the flesh before he could reach the bullet, which was ultimately extracted. The bullet was from a rifle in the hands of F. A. Folger, jr. He fired at a bird on a log in the bay. The bullet went over the bird struck the water, glanced and must have flown the distance to the barge and hit Mountan. The barge was over 300 yard from the point aimed at and over sixty yards south of the way the shot was fired. The bullet glanced off at an angle of about 45 degrees.

Got the Drop on the Judge.

TACOMA, Oct. 22.—F. C. Smith, aged 25 years, after being held for trial in the superior court, charged with burglary, escaped this evening from Judge Patrick's police court. At the conclusion of the arraignment Arthur Patricks, a deputy sheriff and son of Judge Patricks left the court-room to serve papers upon the witnesses. Smith a counsel and the city attorney also left the room, leaving the prisoner in charge of Clerk Keene, who was at the time busy writing.

Judge Patricks had passed over 65 cents to Smith which was to buy tobacco, and was reaching for a piece of memorandum paper with his back turned when the prisoner quietly reached over the desk, grabbed the revolver which had been found on his person and, holding the revolver under the judge's nose, began backing from the room to the window in the rear.

"If you stir," he said coolly, "I'll shoot the life out of you." The judge did no move, no weapon was within reach, and ever his seal and inkstand were buried under papers.

When Smith was out of sight Clerk Keen started in pursuit. Seeing Keene approach ing, Smith, just as he was about to leap from the second story on to a shed, covered Keen with the gun, and the clerk sprang behind a chimney wall. Smith made his escape be fore the police could be notified.

A Trivial Dispute—Two Deaths.

KEWAUNEE, Wis., Oct. 22.—Albert Luder meyer, a young farmer living near Casco quarrelled with his wife, a bride of a few weeks, in regard to the quantity of potatoes they should put in for the winter. Luder meyer grew insanely angry, and seizing his Winchester rifle he shot his wife dead as she ran from the house. Ludermeyer then put the muzzle of the weapon to his head and blew his brains out.

Will Run On Their Own Hook

MONTREAL Oct. 22.—The president of the Lake of the Woods Milling Co. says there is absolutely no truth in the report that they are about selling their property to a syndicate, or that they are about entering into a combine with other millers. They propose operating their own mill as heretofore.

A HOLE THROUGH HIS HEAD.

Surviving What Was Thought a Fatal Wound.

DECATUR, Ind., Oct. 22.—A strange case in surgery is that of Freddie, the 7-year-old son of James Niblack, a prominent man of this city. Freddie and his brother, Charlie, aged 5 years, were left in a room to amuse themselves. The children discovered a revolver, and in playing with the weapon it was accidently discharged while in the hands of the elder brother. The ball entered the forehead of Freddie, just above the left eye and passed out at the back part of the head. The wound, which was a ghastly looking one, was considered fatal, and every one expected the little sufferer would survive but a few moments; but, strange to say, in a few days he rallied from the shock and is now considered in a fair way to recovery. Physicians in charge of the case inserted a silver probe into the opening until the instrument passed entirely through the child's head, after which a perforated drainage tube was introduced, following the course of the ball. This tube has been allowed to remain in the child's head, and now the daylight shines through him, but he still lives.

GONE NEARLY FIFTY YEARS.

After That Time a Father Meets a Son Whom He Never Saw Before.

VANDALIA, Ill., Oct. 20.—Forty-seven years ago Charles Adams married Miss Sarah Houston, sister of Supervisor M. F. Houston, and a prominent farmer of this (Fayette) county. Mr. and Mrs. Adams had lived together just one year when one evening Adams went out to milk the cows, but did not return and was not heard of afterward, although Mr. Houston travelled much and spent a great deal of money in a vain search for his missing brother-in-law.

Not long after Adams' disappearance a son was born to Mrs. Adams, but the birth resulted in the mother's death. The child was cared for by the Houstons and grew up to manhood and is now living on his farm, two and a half miles east of Vandalia. During his absence not the slightest clue was had to Adams' whereabouts, and he was supposed to be dead. About three weeks ago an elderly man, apparently about 75 years old, inquired if the Houstons still lived here, and on being informed that they did, left word that he would return and visit them in about three weeks. The stranger made good his promise and Friday returned to this city. He was the long-lost Adams.

Mr. Adams did not assign any reason for leaving here so abruptly, but said that he was informed soon after the child was born that both the mother and child had died, and knew no better until informed by his friends here. Some four or five years after the death of his wife Adams says he married again and resided in Troy, N Y. Four children were born to them, all of whom, together with their mother, have since died. The truant father seemed overjoyed to know that he had a living son and at once procured a conveyance and started for his home.

THE MYSTERY OF A BOX.

When the Lid Was Torn Off a Girl's Body Appeared.

LANCASTER, Pa., Oct. 20.—A box bearing a weird label was delivered at New Holland, a little village 12 miles from Lancaster, on Sunday morning. It came by express from Mount Vernon, O., and was addressed to Mrs. Caroline Settley. It was a large box, and those who saw it were startled at reading above the address the following inscription.

SUICIDE.

Hastily the lid was removed as soon as the cumbersome package was taken to the Settley home, and then those who had been busy prying off the boards with hammer and chisels were horrified to find the body of a girl.

As soon as the affrighted workers again approached the strange object they saw that what apparently lay before them was the corpse of Helen Settley. Drs. Bushong and Kohler were at once summoned, and the mother asked that a post-mortem examination be held.

But as the physicians were assisting in lifting the body from its strange resting place they noticed that the evidences of death were not there. No rigidity was apparent—not a sign of decomposition. So instead of being wrapped in the clothes of death, the girl was placed in a bed and a closer examination made. It was found that the muscles were relaxed, as of one in a deep sleep. The hands were warm and a slight flush appeared on the cheeks. Restoratives were applied, but to no avail. These conditions were the same throughout the night and all to-day. To-night the mother is watching by the bedside of her girl, not knowing whether a corpse lies between the sheets or whether there is life in the motionless form.

The physicians are as puzzled as is the Widow Settley. They wonder how it is possible for a vestige of life to remain after the confinement in that box for such a period, even if the girl where alive when the journey from Mount Vernon was commenced.

The authorities have been notified of the strange case and are doing their utmost to solve the mystery.

Only ten days ago the mother received a letter from her daughter, in which she said she was saving enough money to enable her to take a trip home. The girl became 29 years old a short time ago.

A Gigantic Lock-out Imminent

LONDON, Oct. 22.—At a meeting of the Sunderland branch of the Shipping Federation it was stated that the central authority in London was arranging for a general lock out should the sailors persist in their hostile attitude. The Shipping Gazette says the shipowners' business is being ruined by the tyranny of the new unionism. The prospect of an immense federation of every trade remotely connected with shipping has convinced shipowners that something must be done promptly.

One Times confirms the statement that en quiries were soon started as to the practi cability of a general laying-up of vessels in London.

Alicante's Cambridgeshire.

LONDON, Oct. 22.—At Newmarket to-day the race for the Cambridgeshire stakes of £1,000 for 2-year-olds was won by the favorite Alicante, M. Ephrussi's ch f Alicante, by Hermit—Madeira. 1, Mr. Cairns ch c Belmont 2, Capt J. Orr-Ewing's br f Testify 3. The race was won last year by Mr. J. Hammond's Laureate.

Montreal's Mammoth Cattle Mart Destroyed by Fire.

MONTREAL, Oct. 22.—Fire broke out in the western abattoir at St. Henri this evening and the greater part of the buildings were destroyed. Loss $50,000.

A Torontonian Killed.

PORT ARTHUR, Oct. 22.—Bartholomew Clarke of 19 Dalley-street, Toronto, was run over by a ballast train here Monday and killed. Believes a wife but no family.

Cable Flashes.

The first snow of the season fell at Berlin yesterday.

The Berlin Post publishes a warning against emigration to Canada.

The troubles between ship-owners and employes at Liverpool will probably end in lockouts.

It is understood official enquiries are being made in Berlin to ascertain whether goods which have hitherto been obtained from America can be imported from other countries.

The Great Majority

Of cases of scrofula and other blood diseases are hereditary, and therefore difficult to cure. But we wish to state in the most positive, emphatic manner that Hood's Sarsaparilla does cure scrofula in every form. The most severe cases too terrible for description, have yielded to this medicine when all others failed. If you suffer from impure blood in anyway, take Hood's Sarsaparilla.

ANOTHER DEATHWATCH RESIGNS.

Birchall Pins a Note to His Coat Tail and He Takes Offence.

WOODSTOCK, Oct. 23.—The history of Birchall's life was completed by himself to-day. It makes 100 pages of foolscap with 40 illustrations. So far only $1000 has been offered for the manuscript, but this price includes the confession which Birchall has promised to furnish to the publisher who buys his autobiography. The money will all go to his wife. The prisoner had hoped to receive $2000.

Last night Birchall pinned a card to the coat of Guard McGee, as he was leaving the jail. On the card was a delicate suggestion about the price of rotten eggs. McGee did not see it till he got home. He concluded he had seen enough of the prisoner and resigned. George Perry, son of the deputy-sheriff, has his place.

One of Birchall's Chums Missing.

Percy L. C. Wheeler of the firm instead & Wheeler has levanted. The firm assigned Saturday night. Last January Wheeler was taken into the business as a partner and put up about $1000. He was to raise $2000 more for the business, and the failure to do this caused Mr. Stead his present trouble. Wheeler received a week ago to-day about $1320 from England, but kept the knowledge of this from his partner. On Thursday he checked out all the money in the Molsons Bank to the credit of the firm and took the 5.18 train that afternoon for Toronto. There is a warrant for Wheeler's arrest. He is charged with appropriating $1500 with the intent of defrauding his creditors. The books show Wheeler drew more money out than he put into the business. Wheeler was a warm admirer of Birchall. They both came out here in 1888 as farm pupils through Ford, Rathburn & Co. After spending some time on a farm he moved to Welland, and has since that time been a howling swell.

Nothing in the Truesdale Case.

SIMCOE, Oct. 22.—The Norfolk Fall Assizes closed yesterday. The grand jury ignored the bill for murder against John Truesdale and his son in the Port Dover poisoning case. The accused men were accordingly discharged from custody. The murder charge against Corydon Smith was postponed until the next assizes, as some of the crown witnesses were absent. An application will be made at Toronto on Saturday to admit the prisoner, Smith, to bail. In replying to the presentation of the grand jury His Lordship suggested a rearrangement of the somewhat antiquated fittings of the court-room.

Sudden Death at Guelph.

GUELPH, Oct. 22.—Mr. George Guy, merchant tailor, and a well-known citizen of Guelph, passed away this morning after a few hours' illness. While returning from the store at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon, when opposite D. McLaren's shoe shop in Quebec-street, he staggered and would have fallen had he not been caught by a passer-by. He was assisted into a cab and taken home. The doctor pronounced the attack one of uremic convulsions and it ended in apoplexy. He lingered till 5 o'clock this morning. Mr. Guy first came to Guelph from Cobourg about 1872 and entered the employ of Mr. James Cormack as cutter, subsequently starting business for himself.

A Testimonial to Walt Whitman.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 22.—A testimonial to Walt Whitman was given at Horticultural Hall here last night. Over a thousand people were present. The feature was an oration by Col. Robert G. Ingersoll, entitled "Let us put wreaths on the brow of the living." He extolled Whitman as the greatest of living poets. The poet sat in his wheel chair on the stage immediately back of Col. Ingersoll, and on the conclusion of the oration he rolled himself forward and in a feeble voice tendered his thanks to the audience and to Col. Ingersoll, finishing his remarks by exclaiming, "Hail and farewell hail and farewell!" The scene was very impressive.

Shot His Brother.

BARRIE, Oct. 22.—Three boys, R. Walton W. Walton, brothers, and H. Burns, were preparing to go out on the bay duck-shooting from Walton's boat-house. They had two guns loaded, which they placed in the bottom of the boat. R. Walton, in stepping into the boat, struck the trigger of one of the guns which was loaded with a ball and duck shot, and discharged it, the ball entering the wrist of his brother and running up to the palm of the right hand, part of which was carried away.

Called While on Duty.

GUELPH, Oct. 22.—The death yesterday of Miss Frances Fuller, one of the young ladies who had almost completed the course of training as a nurse at the General Hospital was very sudden. It was caused by pneumonia, contracted while absent on duty. Miss Fuller came from Meaford, where for several years her father was manager of the agency of the Merchants' Bank. He died a few months since. Tuesday evening at 7 o'clock there was a touching service at the hospital, the Ven. Archdeacon, of whose church she was a member, officiating, prior to the removal of the body, which is to be buried at Meaford.

His Victim Will Recover.

GEORGETOWN, Oct. 22.—George Slater, who shot his wife recently, has been sentenced to seven years' imprisonment. Yesterday the doctors succeeded in taking the bullet out of Mrs. Slater's arm. It was the last of the three. The affray took place on Aug. 18. Mrs. Slater is now on a fair way to recover fully. Slater's wounded arm has healed and his sufferings are altogether mental.

Highwaymen at Woodstock.

WOODSTOCK, Oct. 22.—About 10 o'clock last night as Thomas Bonnie, an employe of James Hayes, was going to his home in the southwestern portion of the town, known as the "Scurvy," an unknown person came up hurriedly from behind and with a dagger came out on his right cheek, extending nine inches around the head which will keep him confined to his bed for some weeks.

The robber took $30 from Bonnie's pockets and hastily decamped, taking Bonnie's cap instead of his own.

They Have no Meat to Eat.

BERLIN, Oct. 22.—The Duke of Ratibo, President of the Upper House of the Prussian Diet promised a deputation from Glowitz, which came to complain of the scarcity of meat in that district that he would personally endeavor to secure the Emperor's consent to the removal of the restrictions on the importation of Russian cattle.

Brazilian Catholics and the Pope.

ROME, Oct. 22.—The Pope to-day gave audience to the Archbishop of Bahia in regard to the policy of the Catholics in the new Republic of Brazil. The Archbishop prayed that the Pope would grant them religious liberty similar to that enjoyed by the Catholics of America. The Pope promised to comply with the request.

In the afternoon they will leave for North Bay and go on from there direct to Niagara Falls. At the latter place they are to be entertained by Erastus Wiman and will go on thence to Washington. The party are warm in their praise of the treatment received in the mining region of Wisconsin and Michigan and will carry home very kindly recollections of the American tour. Mr. Jeans says that about 100 of their number will return to Canada on the 30th inst.

SIR RICHARD AT NORWOOD.

Our readers are reminded that Sir Richard Cartwright will address a meeting of the public at the Town Hall, Norwood, on the present political situation, with especial reference to the trade question on Friday afternoon next at 2 o'clock p.m. His address will be well worth the hearing. His addresses on the subject, delivered at Renfrew on Monday evening and at Merrickville on Tuesday evening, were masterly reviews of our present political position, and were listened to by large audiences with delight. No matter what any citizen's political opinions are, Sir Richard's address will be sure to interest him, for it deals with subjects that are of vital national, and not merely political, importance. The prosperity of the country is not of that satisfactory degree, that would indicate a healthy, economic condition. Sir Richard's address is not only show the extent and nature of our national disabilities, but suggest a remedy for them. All who can, by any possibility do so, should make it a point to attend this mass meeting in the Town Hall, Norwood, on Friday afternoon, Oct. 24th, at 2 o'clock.

THE last spike in the railway to Prince Albert was driven on Wednesday. This road gives the people in the northern part of the Territories access to outside markets.

OWING to the passage of the McKinley tariff, the high tariff journals in the United States are humming "the welcome clack of new machinery." This, however, says the Mail, is a plagiarism of the "busy hum of industry."

A NEW YORK firm says in a letter to the World of that city, that under the new tariff the duty on an invoice of pearl buttons on which $382 75 was paid prior to October 6th, would be $6 813.81. The letter adds: "Just figure the percentage on that, and see what fun McKinley is having with the poor people who buy these buttons, in helping to build up an industry that never existed in this country, and never will exist here, except in very fine goods used by the few!"

ALTHOUGH Canada exported to the United States last year $2,156 725 worth of eggs, she at the same time imported from that country $91,172 worth, or 633,296 dozen. This was during the winter season, when Canadian eggs were scarce, and over one-half the import was taken by Quebec. The French chamber of Commerce of Montreal has now declared in favor of the imposition of a duty of five cents a dozen on eggs, and has decided, says the Mail, to organize the dealers for the purpose of impressing upon the Government the duty of so doing. In this connection it may be mentioned as a curious fact that British Columbia last year imported 18,618 dozen eggs from China and 720 dozen from Japan.

WHAT everybody is talking of now-a-days is a market for the natural produce of Canadian natural resources—of forest, field and mine. The McKinley bill has, for the present, destroyed our American market, and now we must find other markets or suffer. The present Dominion Government having, to all appearance, deliberately provoked the McKinley bill by arranging the Foster tariff bill of last session with a view of discriminating against the Yankees, and having destroyed our best market, that Government and its apologists feel in duty bound to open up new avenues of trade and new markets. With a collossal quality of cheek they ignore the fact that they promised us, in the name of the N.P., a home market, but very kindly invite attention to the markets of Japan and Jamaica. They also very conveniently omit to mention that the markets they advise us so kindly are practically pre-occupied; that other countries have been seeking and have established a footing in these markets, while we had, in our chief lines of produce, a monopoly of the American market. We are told that there is a fine market for eggs in England. That may be so; but France, Russia, Denmark and other countries have discovered this, and have in the past shown themselves equal to the task of supplying the wants and demands of this market. Are these countries likely to withdraw in favor of Canada, and leave her a monopoly of the English market, as she practically has had of the American market for years?

Details of the Green Goods Game.

The people who answer the "green goods circulars" and are occasionally caught in Canada are only the dupes, the heavy victims of the play being within the jurisdiction of the United States. Two other day Anthony Comstock and the New York police succeeded in capturing a gang who were operating in that city. In one of the rooms which they occupied was found a leather satchel containing a complete outfit of "green goods." On behalf the satchel was nearly filled with "boodle packages," neatly trimmed packages of green tinted paper the size of Treasury notes, and with genuine notes on the outside, the whole enclosed by rubber bands. The green paper was gummed together so that it was not possible to pull the slips apart to discover the nature of the bills beneath the outside one. There were two packages with $5 notes for decoys, but most of them had ones. The other half of the large satchel was occupied by a small bag, which was an exact duplicate of the smaller one found outside. The bag in the big satchel was empty. The other small bag when forced open was found to contain four small cloth bags, made of a size to fit the packages of paper, but filled with salt, a gentle sarcasm at the expense of the "confidence" of the deluded purchaser. In a trunk were found 1,200 addressed envelopes, 3,000 circulars, two books containing the names of the persons with whom the gang were in correspondence, and a record of the amounts with them; also 70 telegrams from customers. The New York Sun, in reporting the arrest, says that nearly all these were in French and came from Lower Canada.

Live Stock Markets.

TORONTO, Oct. 22nd.—The receipts at the West Toronto market last week were 3,785 cattle, 1,148 sheep and lambs and 2,495 hogs. Yesterday morning the run was 80 loads. It was a good market all round, with no change in prices, but a firmer feeling by reason of the ready buying to fill contracts. There was less buying of fat exporters than last week, but butchers' sold better on smaller receipts and livelier demand. The top price for round lots of butchers' was 3c. per lb.; 1c was paid, but only for an odd animal extra choice. There was no outside call, but the local trade bought freely. Good butchers sold from 3½c. to 3¾c. a lb, with inferior slow at 2½c. to 3c. There were fewer fat cattle for export on the market, and it was not easy to find out who were buying them, although most of the stuff was picked up. For good to choice fat exporters the price was 4¼ per lb. to 4½ per lb. for medium and ordinary 3½c. to 4c. per lb. Stockers were bought readily and a good deal was wanted in the country, where on account of the scarcity of grass most Friday Canadian stockers brought from $3.50 to $4.60 per cwt., and medium bought at 3c. to 3½c. per lb; a few good feeders went over the top quotation.

CHICAGO BARLEY MARKET.

CHICAGO, Oct. 18.—Barley was quotably strong, with the late advance in values maintained. The trade was not so brisk, however, as it has been. Cash offerings were very moderate and somewhat reduced, though arrivals show a slight increase. This is accounted for by quite free deliveries on former sales. No. 2, after a fair business yesterday, has again retired from view and to-day was nominal. Sample sales were over the range of 55 to 73c, with screenings at $10.50 to $20.50 per ton. Light weights, common grades by sample, sold at 55 to 58c. Some fair weight, but stained, dirty or quite unsound sold in the same range. Fair to good color sold at 68 to 70c, with some extra quality No. 3 at 73c. Fancy lots scarce, No 3 quotable at about 76 to 78c outside for choice shipping lots. To arrive sales were made at 67 to 72c.

It is astonishing how rapidly the electric light is coming into general use. It is being employed for publicly lighting our large cities. Purify Your Blood

The importance of keeping the blood in a pure condition is universally known, and yet there are very few people who have perfectly pure blood. The taint of scrofula, salt rheum, or other foul humor is hereditary and transmitted for generations, causing untold suffering, and we also accumulate poison and germs of disease from the air we breathe, the food we eat, or the water we drink. There is nothing conclusively more than the positive power of Hood's Sarsaparilla over all diseases of the blood. This medicine, when fairly tried, does expel every trace of scrofula or salt rheum, removes the taint which causes catarrh, neutralizes the acidity and cures rheumatism, drives out the germs of malaria, blood poisoning, etc. It also vitalizes and enriches the blood, thus overcoming that tired feeling, and building up the whole system. Thousands testify to the superiority of Hood's Sarsaparilla as a blood purifier. Full information and statements of cures sent free.

You might ask, why are Gough's anxious to sell? Here's a pointer. The Montreal Wholesale Clothing Market was never so low as at present. Owing to the McKinley Bill, English Manufacturers are shipping all their goods to the United States. Consequently it is a matter of impossibility to get goods wholesale. Goughs saw this squeeze coming, and bought $25,000 worth of the finest goods to be had in Canada. The goods are here. They have to be paid for. You have to pay for them, by paying us for your share. ABOUT OCTOBER CHEESE.

BY PROF. J. W. ROBERTSON, DOMINION DAIRY COMMISSIONER.

Practical Notes of Great Value to Cheese-Makers Throughout Canada—October Cheese Becoming Better—On Curing—Notes to Factory Managers.

A few years ago "October cheese" of Canadian make were deservedly in bad repute in the English markets. Their soft, porous body made them liable to go off in flavour quickly; they did not possess the keeping qualities, combined with that richness of body and flavor, which are so much desired by English merchants and consumers. During the last two or three years a decided improvement in the quality has been effected, and with the finer quality has come a better reputation in the markets. By the exercise of due care on the part of the cheese-makers throughout the remainder of this season, the reputation of our, "October cheese" may be so well established that hereafter they will be counted equal to "September's." Cheese can be made as firm and fine during October as at any other time of the year. The suitable conveniences for controlling the temperature of the curd from the milk vat until the cheese is ripe are required.

MILK.

The milk delivered at factories during October has a higher per cent. of fat and other solids than during the summer months. Its flavour will be equally rich and nice when the cows are stabled during the cold nights and fed liberally on fodder corn or any other suitable succulent nutritious feed. Turnip tops and rape should not be fed to cows whose milk is furnished to a cheese factory. After the milk is drawn it should be strained immediately and forthwith aired as thoroughly as during the hot weather of July. The aeration will improve its flavour and prepare it for the manufacture of a finer quality of cheese than it will be possible to obtain if that treatment is neglected. The milk should not be cooled below 60° Fah. A milk-house or the farm kitchen will be a more suitable place for keeping it over night than the open milk-stand when the temperature of the outside air goes below 50°.

CHEESE-MAKING.

The construction and equipment of the making-rooms of some factories are still defective. At the cost of a little labour and building paper, almost any room can be made so close in its walls that the inside temperature may be regulated at will by the use of a stove or steampipes. Thorough ventilation once every day should be secured. The following paragraphs will be of service in refreshing the experienced cheese-maker's memory and in instructing the others in the best practices:

1. Let the milk be ripened by the application of heat before the rennet is put into it. The ripening should be allowed to proceed to such a degree that not more than three hours will be required between the addition of the rennet and the development of acid perceptible to the taste or discernible by the hot iron test.

2. The use of sour whey to hasten the ripening should not be resorted to. Old milk which has become nearly sour to the taste may be added, but loppered or thick milk should never be used.

3. Rennet should be added in quantities sufficient to coagulate the curd into a state fit enough for cutting in from 25 to 45 minutes at temperature of 86° or 88° Fah. It should be diluted with water to the volume of at least one gallon of liquid for every vat.

4. After coagulation is perfect the curd should be cut finer than during the summer. The application of heat should be delayed for 15 minutes after stirring is commenced; and the temperature should be raised to 98° and maintained at that point until the whey is drawn off. After the middle of the month a temperature of 100° will be preferable.

5. Care should be taken to so apply the heat and persevere in the stirring, that the curd particles will be so dry, before the development of acid is perceptible, that after a handful has been pressed into a lump they will separate readily.

6. The curd should be stirred before and after the removal of the whey until the whey is so well separated out of combination with its particles that they produce a squeaky sound when bruised between the teeth or otherwise.

7. After the whey is drawn off the curd should be kept at a temperature above 94°. If it becomes colder than 94° the development of acid will be hindered and excessive moisture will be retained in it during the souring process. The presence of such extra moisture in the curd at this stage will leave the cheese with a weak "pasty" or "tallowy" body, according to the degree of acid development permitted.

8. A cover over the vat or a curd sink with steam pipes seems a simple and affective provision for keeping the curd warm. Where no sink is used, the putting of a few pails of hot water in the lowered end of the vat will maintain the temperature.

9. Just after the removal of the whey, the curd should be hand-stirred until after the whey that will run has been drained off. After the curd is dry and firm it may be allowed to mat into one mass, but not before that condition is reached. All stirring should be performed so as to avoid wasteful bruising of the grain of the curd.

10. It may then be frequently turned and packed close, till the layers of curd are four or five deep. Whey should never be allowed to collect in small pools on it at this stage. The close packing in layers four or five deep, with frequent turning, prevents the outside of the matted pieces from becoming chilled or more deeply colored by the action of the air than the rest of the curd.

11. The hot iron test is almost indispensable for determining with certainty, from day to day, the exact stage of acid development at which the whey should be drawn off. The filaments—thread-like processes—should be about one-quarter of an inch long. The proper degree of change for the cutting and salting of the curd has taken place when it feels mellow, velvety and "slippy," and shows a tendency passing from the flaky or leafy into the waxy and fibrous. If it be too moist or soft it should be cut or ground at a rather earlier stage and hand-stirred until dry enough, before the addition of salt. The most of the hand stirring should precede the salting.

12. Not less than 3 lbs. of salt per 1,000 lbs. of milk should be used, and when the curd is on the soft or moist side, 3¼ lbs. per 1,000 lbs. of milk should be added. the 3½ lbs. rate is also preferable during the latter part of the month when cold weather prevails.

13. Immediately after the application of salt the pieces of curd become harsh and gritty on the surface. Then in from 15 to 35 minutes the harshness gives place to a mellow condition. At the second stage—and the temperature should not be under 80°—the curd should be hooped and pressure applied. Delay at this point or coldness of the curd destroys the desirable rosy flavour, and imparts to the cheese the bitter taste of the salty whey.

14. Particular care should be taken to use only pure warm water when turning the cheese for bandaging, before the rinds are fully formed.

15. Especially in a cold press room, pains should be taken to apply heavy pressure to the cheese before they are left for the night.

16. All cheese should be finished in symmetrical shape and kept in the hoops until the rinds are smooth and the edges free from any projecting "shoulders."

CURING THE CHEESE.

The temperature of the curing room should be kept as nearly regular at 65° degrees as possible. Where the September cheese are kept in the same room with those of October make, the latter should be kept on the warmer shelves. A slight chilling, after cheese has been curing at 65° for two weeks, does little damage; but a steady temperature and constant curing give the best results. Bitter-flavored cheese are usually the result of chilling in either the making-room, press-room or curing-room. If the cause be prevented, the consequence will be unknown.

TO FACTORY MANAGERS.

As this is the last Bulletin of NOTES FOR CHEESE-MAKERS for this season, I desire to counsel the managers of factories to guard against tendencies that appear to menace the permanent success of our cheese industry, viz:—

1. The employment of inexperienced, incompetent men to manage the inside work of the factories.

2. The conscienceless cutting down of the remuneration of the markers, until the able men are leaving the occupation.

3. The inevitably penny-wise pound-foolish policy of using factory furnishings of poor quality, simply because they happen to be a little lower in price.

So much additional trouble, loss, worry and disappointment result from the putting of men without aptitude or experience in charge of large factories that I strongly urge the proprietors to exercise the utmost care and caution, and invariably to inform themselves as to the fitness of an applicant by enquiry from a reliable expert or cheese-buyer. No factory should incur needless risk of a loss of reputation, of patronage, of prestige, of price or profit.

The Old Yellow Pumpkin.

How dear to this heart is the old yellow pumpkin,
When orchards are barren of stuffing for pies!
When peaches and apples have both been a failure,
And berries of no kind have greeted the eyes,
How fondly we turn to the fruit of the corn-field—
The fruit that our children are taught to despise—
The old yellow pumpkin, the mud-covered pumpkin,
The big-bellied pumpkin that makes such good pies!

Oh, golden-hued pumpkin, you surely are "in it,"
You jolly old rascal, so recently spurned;
We ask your forgiveness for thus having wronged you,
When from your dear presence we scornfully turned,
Come trolling down hill, till we meet you and greet you:
Your bulk is a feast to our fruit-hungry eyes,
We love you, old pumpkin, so well we could eat you,
For you are a "dandy" when made into pies.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

ON SOAP,

IN RELATION TO THE COMPLEXION.

FROM AN ARTICLE BY

Dr. ANDREW WILSON, F.R.S.E.,

Lecturer on Health under the "Combe Trust;"
Lecturer on Physiology at the Edinburgh University;
Editor of "Health."

"One important caution should be given, and that is concerning the use of soaps. I would strongly advise all who care for their skin to eschew the use of common soap, which simply roughens and injures the skin, and, if you will be advised by me, I would say never buy those artificially coloured and odoriferous abominations commonly sold under the name of 'Scented' or 'Fancy Soaps' which are the frequent causes of skin eruptions. If I am prepared to recommend any one soap to you, as a satisfactory and scientifically prepared article, I would certainly advise you to buy and use 'Pears' Soap.' Not merely from personal use can I recommend this soap, but I am well content to shelter myself under the names and authority of the late Sir Erasmus Wilson, F.R.S., President of the Royal College of Surgeons; of Doctor Stevenson Macadam, or of Professors Redwood and Attfield, the eminent analytical and chemical lecturers at the Pharmaceutical Society of Great Britain, who testify to its entire purity. Furthermore, I believe it to be very economical, for it contains no free water, and in this respect differs from all other soaps; hence a cake of 'Pears' is really all soap and not soap and water. I know cases of irritable skin which the whole tribe of much-vaunted 'Fancy Soaps' failed to allay, but which disappeared under the use of Pears' Soap, and for the nursery and for the delicate skin of infancy no better or more soothing soap can possibly be used. There can be no doubt that in respect of the care of children, attention to the skin is specially required. If common soaps are irritating to the skin of the adult, (as they unquestionably are), they are doubly and trebly injurious to the delicate skin of the infant and young child. I can vouch that the soap I am recommending is not merely a safe but an advantageous one. It does not irritate the skin; but, while serving as a detergent and cleanser, also acts as an emollient."

Life Insurance Policy Holders SHOULD READ THIS!

THE PERCENTAGE OF LAPSES.

The large increase in the amount of life insurance written by purely Canadian companies, and terminated by surrender or lapse, during the past year, has naturally attracted the attention of insurance men. So unexpected and unwelcome an increase of $1,709,612 in the amount of lapsed policies credited to Canadian companies during a year, when American companies doing business in this country showed a decrease under this heading of $318,304, could not fail to excite comment; so that the figures have been eagerly scanned to discover how such a condition of affairs was brought about.

Perhaps this is most easily shown in tabular form by giving the net amount of insurance in force on the books of each of our principal Canadian companies and the percentage of lapsed and surrendered policies they are responsible for. In this case they rank as follows:—

Company.	Net amount in force.	Percentage of Surrender and Lapse.
Canada Life	$48,664,376	3.07
Confederation	17,574,528	5.31
Ontario Mutual	13,071,400	10.29
Federal	10,058,837	10.35
Sun Life	11,670,817	10.36
North American	8,470,620	10 63
Temperance and General	2,984,972	17.84
Citizens	2 097,956	29.15
Manufacturers' Life	5,723,100	30 12
London Life	1,644,285	30.61

From this table we can see that while such companies as the Canada Life and Confederation have actually decreased the amount of their lapses, some of the weaker companies have largely increased theirs, so that, although one company shows under four per cent., one under six, and four under eleven, the average percentage of lapses for the whole ten companies is 15.78 per cent.

The only moral we can draw from these figures is that the stronger and more widely known a company is, and the more of its patrons it will retain permanently on its books, while the weaker companies must, perforce, witness the defection of a certain proportion of their customers to their more powerful rivals. That so large a proportion as 30 per cent. of policy holders should entirely abandon the advantages of insurance in one year is hardly probable in these days of popular education. We can therefore only fall back on the hypothesis that the bulk of the lapses of the weaker companies must arise from their policy holders transferring their allegiance elsewhere. It is in fact a case of the wealthier and more widely known (even if not more progressive) companies absorbing the cream of the permanent business, and leaving only the transitory, and therefore less desirable risks, to their hambler competitors. By the aid of clever management and attractive methods, a weak company may be able to absorb a fair share of new business; but it is evident from these figures that the superior prestige of their older established rivals is certain to attract a proportion of their customers in the long run, and that thus their percentage of lapses will always be heavier.

Settled at Last.

"When is a drinker drunk?" it has been asked a thousand times and answered in a score of ways. But it remained for James Pemberton, arrested in Chicago the other day, to express the idea in rhyme. The charge against Pemberton was drunkeness. The Judge agreed to let him say a word in his own defence.

"Your Honor," said Pemberton, "I have formulated my theory in this wise, which I beg Your Honor to hear and to consider well:—

He is not drunk who from the floor
Can rise and drink and ask for more:
But he is drunk who prostrate lies
Without the strength to drink or rise."

This poetical representation impressed the court so favorably that the case was dismissed.

Other improvements are also being made, which will be taken notice of later.

Wheat Growing to Supplant Barley.

A committee of the Dominion Millers' Association was appointed at the last meeting of the association to take into consideration the question of procuring for the farmers of South Ontario a kind of spring wheat that will ripen a couple of weeks earlier than the kind that has been grown. The effect of the McKinley Bill, the Globe says, it is hoped, may be mitigated if a kind of wheat that will ripen early enough to escape the drying sun of South Ontario can be found, to make wheat-growing as productive and profitable as barley. What is wanted is a spring wheat that will ripen about two weeks earlier than the kinds now grown (to a small degree), which will be about a week later than fall wheat. The committee has decided to go vigorously into the question and get all the information obtainable; and it may necessitate the putting of a man into the United States to look into it.

Result of Liquor Drinking.

Two drunks were caged by the police last night. One of them, a bald headed sinner, this morning considered himself an abused man. He didn't think he had been drunk, but was nabbed just as he was turning a corner. He probably will coincide with the opinion of the Chicago inebriate, published elsewhere, upon the burning question, "When is a drinker drunk?" He was, nevertheless, fined $2, and, having no money, was committed to gaol for ten days. The other victim of the law and his own appetite was a young man who drove out to Bridgenorth and Lakefield with a companion yesterday, got gloriously drunk, and landed up in the livery stable with the horse in foam and himself in jail. He paid a fine of $2 and $3.50 to the liveryman for horse hire. Rather an expensive half-holiday, that. At his own request and for his parents' sake his name is kept out of print.

The Late Mrs. James Wason.

This morning Jane Noble Wason, wife of Mr. Jas Wason, for many years valuator for the Peterborough Real Estate Investment Company, passed away to her eternal rest. For several weeks Mrs. Wason has been ill, and her excessive sufferings from a painful disease were borne with Christian fortitude and patience. For the sacred body, which was much respected and beloved for her many excellent qualities of character and disposition, was a native of County Wicklow, Ireland, from which she came to this country, in the company of her parents, in the year 1834. Fifty-one years ago the subject of this paragraph was united in marriage to Mr. James Wason. It is a sad coincidence that on the fifty-first anniversary of her wedding should be the day of her death which took place a very few hours after the anniversary of her wedding day, Wednesday, Oct. 22nd. This circumstance will make Mr. Wason's bereavement more severely felt, and in his present severe illness and irreparable loss, he will receive the sincere sympathy of his numerous friends. Mr. and Mrs. Wason lived at one time in Northumberland county, afterwards removing to Dummer township, and subsequently coming to Peterborough to reside, about fourteen years ago. Mrs. Wason was a consistent member of the Methodist church, having been a worshipper at the George street church. The funeral takes place from the family residence, 617 Rubidge street, on Saturday, Oct. 25th, at 10.30 o'clock.

The New Building By-law.

A Matter to be Considered by those Contemplating Building.

The Town Council on August 11th enacted a new Fire By-law, making a few changes, the most important of which is perhaps that relating to building construction, clause 25, which is of particular interest to those contemplating building, and which reads thus:—25. That no person about to build in any part of the Town of Peterborough shall be entitled to use any part of any public street in said Town, for the purpose of depositing building material or erecting scaffolding, until he shall have received a permit from the Building Inspector specifying the extent to which such street may be used (not exceeding one third of the total width thereof in any case), and specifying also the work to be done, and the precautions to be taken by the person using the street to ensure the safety and convenience of foot passengers. That such permit shall not be issued in respect of any building to be erected within the Fire Limits until the applicant therefor has submitted to the Inspector the plans and specifications of such building or such part thereof as shall have reference to the requirements of this by-law, or unless such plans and specifications and the character of the building to be erected, shall be found by such inspector to be in accordance with the provisions of this By-law. That, after the building shall be so far completed as no longer to require the use of such street for such building material or such building, the same shall be removed by the person to whom such permit was issued, and the street and sidewalk restored to their former condition.

Tents and Taxidermy.

A Newspaper Comment upon Peterborough Subjects.

The Campbellford Herald man has evidently been in Peterborough recently. The last issue of that paper contains the following paragraphs:—

TAXIDERMY.

Those whose are interested in taxidermy should visit Mr. Elcome's collection when they have time to spare in Peterborough. His group of Canadian birds in two cases, which took our fancy at first sight, are among the most beautiful we have ever seen; and no one who has not studied our songsters could believe that so great a variety of pretty birds inhabited the woods of Ontario. In these cases they range in size from a small humming bird shown beside its nest, to the large, pretty and rare pileated woodpecker. Mr. Elcome also shows his skill as a taxidermist in some four-footed animals that look as real as life, among them being a badger, a dog, a fox and a mink. He has also birds that are not native to this country, as a large cormorant from northern Europe, and a handsome case of butterflies and moths, besides specimens of hawk, herons, owls and eagles. Altogether, his collection is large and interesting, and for number of species, beauty of plumage, excellence of work, and taste of arrangement, his cases of Canadian birds would certainly claim a premium at any exhibition.

TENTS AND AWNINGS.

Mr. J. J. Turner, the tent and awning maker of Peterborough, is gaining a most enviable reputation for superiority of work in his line. His new, spacious premises, situate in the business part of the progressive little city, is well adapted to his trade. In the show room at the entrance the visitor sees a nobby collection of a tents, tent beds, camp chairs, and other camping paraphernalia. Above it is a workroom where his goods are manufactured. Adjoining it to the left is a storage room for the various grades of cotton, canvas and other stock, and in the rear is an apartment containing tents which are let out on hire. In the cellar is deposited a large stock of the hard goods needed in the business, and in the flat next the sky Mr. Turner finishes and dries his horse and wagon covers. When we called he was getting out sails for a schooner at Picton. During the summer months he is overwhelmed with orders, and the reputation he is gaining many men in the same business would be proud to possess. Good workmanship, fair prices and honest dealing are some of the stepping stones to his success.

Keene.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

It is with deep regret that we chronicle the demise of the late Mrs. Jas. McNeil, who passed quietly away at her residence in Keene, on the 21st day of September, at the age of 89 years and 6 months, after one week's illness. Mrs. McNeil was a native of Lochgilphead, Argyleshire, Scotland, and came to this country in the year 1831, and settled in Otonabee when it was almost a forest. Within two years after her settlement in this country sickness and death entered her home and removed the head of the family—a kind husband and a loving father—and left her to struggle alone with the care of three little girls, but as she often said, the Lord never forsook her. She afterwards married the late James McNeil, who was separated from her by death in the year 1845. Nearly ever since she has resided in Keene. She was one of the first members of the Presbyterian church which held their first communion services in a store-house in the village, administered by the late Rev. Mr. Roger, of Peterborough. She was privileged to see the first church erected and set apart for divine worship, and also to see the second and more beautiful opened and consecrated to God's service, where she was enabled to meet with God's people in the house she loved so well until the week previous to her death. She was always willing to help the afflicted, and many a sufferer's heart was made glad by the help she gave in obedience to her Master's will. She leaves a family of five, four daughters and one son, to mourn her loss, all of whom were around her bedside until the last. Truly her end was peace. The funeral service was conducted by the Rev. Mr. Andrews, her pastor, in the Presbyterian church and attended by a large number of sympathizing friends. Our loss is her eternal gain.

Said to Be Unorthodox.

Strange Doctrine Preached by Rev. James Thompson, a Methodist Minister.

SHELBURNE, Oct. 21.—The Rev. Jas. Thompson, a Methodist minister on the Honeywood circuit, has gained considerable prominence lately by by the peculiar doctrine he has been inculcating. He always had a crowded house and his sermons took well. As far as can be made out he has been preaching on the question of annihilation. He believes the soul of man is dependent on the body, and when the body dies the soul dies also. At the resurrection the body and soul appear before the Judgment Seat of God to be judged according to their merits. All who were believers on earth will have their reward, and their souls will live on forever, but the bodies of the wicked who have on earth enjoyed gospel advantages will be raised, judged and punished for a time, then annihilated; but such wicked as have not had gospel opportunities will not be raised at all. The sermon on which the charges are based was preached in the Honeywood church on the 12th of October, when, among other things, he stated the following:—First, that man was only conditionally immortal, and that by the fall Adam lost immortality, and consequently all the race as his children are without it; second, that God alone possessed immortality; third, that even Christ himself had been created somewhere in the remote past, he knew not how far back; fourth, that immortality might be obtained by seeking first by patient continuance in well-doing seek for glory and honour and immorality, eternal life.

Your correspondent obtained the above information as to the charges made from the Rev. H. W. McTavish, who was Secretary of the Investigating Committee, the other members of which were the Revs. M. L. Pearson, chairman of Orangeville district; W. T. Caldwell, M. A., B. D., of Hornings Mills, and Wilson McDonald of Rosemont. Two members of the committee, Rev. A. Richardson of Rosemont, and Rev. T. Leonard, of Laurel, were absent. The investigation was held in the church at Honeywood. None others were present but members of the Quarterly Board, who had previously forwarded a letter of complaint to the chairman of the district.

Mr. Thompson frankly admitted all the charges and offered no defence, save that he believed his views to be Scriptural, but has doubts as to whether some of them at least are out of harmony with Methodist teaching. The result of the investigation was the suspension of Mr. Thompson pending the action of the Annual Conference, which will be held in Toronto next June.

Mr. Thompson is a genial fellow and a hard worker and has won the affections of the people amongst amongst whom he has labored. There are nothing but expressions of hearty sympathy to for him even by those who feel it their duty to institute proceedings in this case.

What is It?

The Influence that Sometimes Guides us Against our Will.

"No, I do not believe in ghosts," said an old lady of great experience; "but I do believe in the ministration of spirits."

This is not the age, nor the country, in which the supernatural flourishes. Interest centres about the practical. Haunted houses are rented without much difficulty, if the landlord is willing to knock off a portion of the rent.

There are many, however, who will admit the exertion at times of some peculiar influence, swaying our actions. We are led to do things we should not do of our own volition—the wisdom of which we do not appreciate until afterwards; then we wonder how we came to do them. We are forced to learn that worldly wisdom is not always that which guides into the wisest courses.

In this peculiar way results are what people are looking after. They believe in what they see; the "evidence of things not seen" is to be weighed in the balance. When a man is sick he wants to get well; he cares little what medical method is employed if it cures. But if to do a cure he soon begins to doubt the skill of the physician, and enquire into his method of medication. A happy thing it is, if such is the case, if such doubts do not begin to creep in before it is too late.

W. O. Higgins, 65 Perry street, Fair Haven, Conn., writes, June 30, 1890: "One year ago I was taken with terrible pains in my side and back, suffering more than pen can describe. I am confident no one suffered more and lived. I tried several physicians who informed me that I had a bad case of kidney and liver trouble, and could not live. At this time a friend of mine urged me to try Warner's Safe Cure; after using only four bottles of the safe cure and two bottles of the Safe Pills, I am to-day a well and sound man, nearing my sixtieth year. I am a Britain in the Fair Haven Clock Works, and will verify this statement at any time."

Mr. Tarte and Mr. McGreevy.

Mr. Tarte's accusations against Mr. McGreevy have been formulated in detail, and the trial of Mr. McGreevy's action for libel against him began on Tuesday. The charges are numerous. One is that in 1883 when the Quebec Harbor Commission asked for tenders for certain work, Mr. McGreevy, then a member of that body, made use of his position and influence to obtain surreptitious information touching the tenders, whilst they were before the Minister of Public Works. This information enabled Larkin, Connolly & Co., in which Mr. McGreevy's brother had a one third interest, to secure the job, and the firm paid $25,000 to Mr. McGreevy for his services. It is alleged that in 1884 Mr. McGreevy got $22,000 for similar service in connection with a work at Levis; that in the same year he received 30,000 for obtaining from the Public Works Department a modification of the firm's contract for constructing the graving dock at Esquimalt; and that in 1887 and subsequent by he got $20,000 for procuring a change of price in work at the Louise basin at Quebec. There are other charges of the same sort; all are pronounced utterly false and libellous by Mr. McGreevy. The issue to be determined by the trial is therefore a very serious one. Either Mr. Tarte has been guilty of an atrocious slander or Mr. McGreevy has committed offences for which he ought to be not only expelled from Parliament, but sent to the penitentiary.

ACCIDENTS OF ONE DAY.

The Fatal Crossing Claims Victims at Stratford and Montreal.

STRATFORD, Oct. 22.—A shocking accident happened about 6 o'clock this evening at the Downie-street crossing of the G.T.R. in this city. William Creak, a farmer near Milverton, north of here, 70 years old, was run over by the yard engine which was slowly backing out of a siding. His head was completely severed from his body. Deceased was under the influence of liquor at the time.

Two Victims at Montreal.

MONTREAL, Oct. 22.—A girl named Camillia Beaudol was killed and her uncle, J. M. Poitras, fatally injured while attempting to drive across the track here this evening.

Five Killed, Many Injured.

CINCINNATI, O., Oct. 22.—A collision occurred at 4¾ this morning on the Cincinnati Southern Railway in a tunnel ¼ of a mile north of Sloan's Valley Station between a freight and passenger train. The engines of the two trains clashed into each other, and the cars following jammed into each other in a mass. Then came the added horror of conflagration. Firemen Gould and Welch, Brakeman John E. Montgomery, Express Messenger Edward Ruffner and a mail agent were killed. Engineer Taylor of the passenger train and Pimlott of the freight train were badly burned. The baggagemaster was injured. No passengers were killed. The burning of the trains in a tunnel renders it impossible to clear the track as readily as it could be done on open ground, the smoke and heat preventing men from entering.

Engineer John Pimlott died this afternoon, making six victims of the tunnel collision: Engineer Pimlott, Detroit, Mich.; Fireman Welch, Somerset, Ky.; Fireman Gould, Ludlow, Ky.; Brakeman John Montgomery, Albany, N.Y.; Postal Clerk C. L. Deegan, Cincinnati; Express Messenger Ed. P. Ruffner, Cincinnati. Passenger W. D. Wheeler of New Orleans, in charge of a museum freak known as "Wild Rose," both slightly injured.

Another Disastrous Collision.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Oct. 22.—A passenger train on the Kansas City, Memphis and Birmingham Railroad, which left here at 9 o'clock last night west-bound, went out leaving the sleeper and conductor in the station. Discovering this when six miles out of town the engineer began backing into Birmingham. At Thomas' furnace, three miles out of the city, the backing train met an outgoing freight train, and there was a terrible collision. Several passengers in the rear coach were killed and a number wounded. Four or five dead are reported to be under the wreck.

John Killian, fireman, who was killed, was on his way to Amory, Miss., where he was to be married in a few days. J. B. Franklin, drummer from Nashville, died at a hotel this morning.

This One Happened on the Union Pacific.

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 22.—A tail end wreck occurred this morning at 7¾ o'clock on the Union Pacific Railway 1½ miles west of Armourdale, a suburb of this city, in which nine persons were seriously injured and the engineer of the Rock Island train was fatally hurt. The passenger train was delayed, but before a flagman could be sent back to warn a following train, it crashed into the Wathena Pullman sleeping car of the Union Pacific train. The Rock Island engine was completely wrecked and the engineer was buried under the debris. The damage is estimated at $60,000.

Young's Point Post Office.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR,—Please give me room in your paper to give my straight denial to the statement made by the Young's Point correspondent of your local contemporary concerning the cause of the small revenue of the post office here. It is easy to understand the purpose that worthy has in trying to find fault with the office and how it is kept. It would be, I think, more to his credit if he would give the true cause, which is the want of a daily mail.

Thanking you for your space,
I remain, yours,

Great Inventions.

Taking occasion from the attendance of British delegates on the meetings of the Iron and Steel institute in New York, the Bulletin of the American Iron and Steel association republishes from Mr. Swank's History of the Manufacture of iron a summary of the improvements in iron manufacture which have had their origin in Great Britain. The main facts are as follows:

The whole world is greatly indebted to England and Scotland for the inventions which gave a fresh impetus to the manufacture of iron in the eighteenth century. Payne and Hanbury, who first succeeded in rolling sheet iron; Darby, who first successfully and continuously used coke in the blast furnace; Huntsman, who invented the process of making steel in crucibles; Smeaton, who invented cast-iron blowing cylinders; and Cort, who invented grooved rolls and the puddling furnace, were Englishmen; while Watt, who perfected the steam engine, was a Scotchman. It is also indebted to the same countries for most of the inventions of the present century which have further developed the manufacture of iron and increased the demand for it, and which have almost created the manufacture of steel. Stephenson, the Englishman, improved the locomotive in 1815, and in 1823 the first passenger railroad in the world was opened in England, his locomotive hauling the trains. The railroad is the greatest consumer of iron and steel. Neilson, the Scotchman, invented the hot-blast in 1828; Crane, the Englishman, applied it to the manufacture of pig iron with anthracite coal in 1837. Nasmyth, the Scotchman, invented the steam hammer, in 1838 and the pile-driver in 1843; and Bessemer, the Englishman, invented in 1855 the process which bears his name and is the flower of all metallurgical achievements—a share in the honor of this invention however being fairly due to the co-operating genius of Robert F. Musbet, also an Englishman, but born of Scotch parentage. The Siemens regenerative gas furnace, which has been so extensively used in the manufacture of iron and steel, is also an English invention, although the inventors, Sir William and Frederick Siemens, while citizens of England, were natives of Hanover, in Germany.

EXPLORER STANLEY.

ACCUSED OF INGRATITUDE, DESERTION AND MISREPRESENTATION.

The Publication of Major Barttelot's Diaries Cause a Sensation in London—A Despondent German Poisons His Entire Family and Suicides.

LONDON, Oct. 23.—The diaries and letters of Major Barttelot, the murdered commander of Stanley's rear guard, are published here to-day. They contain serious charge against the African explorer. The book was edited by the dead man's brother, Walter Barttelot, who in the preface says: "It is not likely that this book would have been written or one word of its contents ever been published had justice been even partially done or any kindness shown by the leader of the expedition to the officer who was left at Yambuya with his impedimenta of stores and baggage." Charges of malignity, ingratitude, misrepresentation and desertion are then brought against Stanley, besides other less important accusations. The issue presented is whether the misfortunes of the rear column were due to the indecision of Major Barttelot and that of his companions or Stanley himself was primarily responsible In his book Stanley finds fault because the rear column did not follow the advance column as directed. Mr. Barttelot asserts that his brother's diaries and letters, as well as the testimony of the surviving officers, show that Stanley made it utterly impossible to carry out his orders, as he took all the strong, able men and those of good character with him, leaving to the rear guard the sick, feeble and incorrigible.

Major Barttelot's diaries declare that Stanley threatened to blast the Major's reputation with Lord Wolseley and to ruin his career in the army. Mr. Barttelot gives his brother's words: "Afterwards turning to me Mr. Stanley said that it was in his power to ruin me in the service. I said to him that this was an empty threat, as it would take a great deal more than he could say to do that. He punished me afterwards by making me march to Leopoldville with 70 men who were noted for laziness and incapacity for carrying loads, warning me that if I lost a single load I must stand the consequences."

This expose of Stanley's character, as shown up by the diaries and letters, makes spicy reading The story includes an account of a quarrel between Stanley and Jephson, on which occasion Stanley offered to fight Jephson.

The publication has caused a great sensation here and the papers are unanimous in expressing the opinion that it was indiscreet to say the least to print what Major Barttelot, a man of avowedly hasty temper, never intended to see the light, but that however this may be the charges call for a full and candid answer.

Mr. Stanley refuses to be interviewed on the subject.

AT SUDBURY MINES.

Visit of the Members of the British Iron and Steel Institute.

NORTH BAY, Oct. 23.—The iron and steel men spent several hours to-day in visiting the mines and smelting works in the vicinity of Sudbury. A large number went over the works of the Canadian Copper Company at Copper Cliff, including the mine, the breaking mill, the calcining yard and the blast furnaces. The visitors were greatly interested in the works. The Evans mine was subsequently inspected and a number of gentlemen descended the shaft and made a careful exploration of the works. The train took the party next to the mine and furnace of the Dominion Mineral Company, five miles north of Sudbury. These works were begun less than 1½ years ago and have been carried on with great energy under the management of Mr. Ferguson. The mine is lighted by electricity and all the equipments are modern and first-class. The furnace is the same as the one set up at the Canadian Copper Company's works and of the same size and capacity—150 tons per day. The company employs about 350 men. Time did not permit of a visit to the Stobie mine or the works of the Hussey Vivian Company, but enough was seen to give the visitors a good idea of the mineral wealth of the district, and many did not hesitate to express their surprise at the enormous extent of it.

"What surprises me most," a shrewd German said, "is that this ore so rich in nickel and copper can be smelted with only 10 per cent of its own weight of coke fuel. I do not know what the rest of Ontario is like, but there is a wonderful wealth of minerals here."

The party left Sudbury in the special train of eleven cars at 6 p.m. and reached North Bay at 5.50. After a stay of half an hour here they left by the Northern Railway for Niagara Falls, where the greater part of to-morrow will be spent. The lunch tendered by Erastus Wiman comes off at the Clifton House there in the afternoon, after which the party will proceed to Washington.

A considerable portion of the Northern excursionists hope to return to Canada next week, but they desire to avoid a second visit to Sudbury, being anxious to see other parts of the country. They say that almost all who were interested in the Sudbury mines have taken the Northern excursion, and consequently that there is no object to be gained in going over the ground a second time, unless they could spend several days in making a thorough examination of the works and mines.

A DUEL TO THE DEATH.

A Hunter Stumbles Upon a Tragedy in a Negro Hut.

FREDERICKSBURG, Va., Oct. 23.—A gentleman hunting in a dense forest in Spotsylvania a few days ago, on approaching a hut in which a negro family lived, was struck with a peculiar odor and observed the presence of vultures in the trees near by. Entering the house he found the bodies of two negro boys in a decomposed state and two others in a critical condition. There were several grown negroes present, but they at first refused to explain the tragedy, but investigation showed that the dead boys had fought and one had killed the other, and was himself so badly wounded that he died shortly afterwards. Another boy of the lot lay upon a cot with his collar-bone broken and in a critical condition. The fourth, it seems, was a sufferer from kidney disease and had been horribly maltreated by a colored woman in her efforts to alleviate his trouble. The older negroes in charge of the dead and afflicted children were arrested

RACE RIOT IN GEORGIA.

Four White Men Shot Down—The Militia Ordered Out.

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 23.—Only meagre reports can be obtained concerning the reported race riot in Coffee county. Four white men were shot down: B. E. McClendon, Frank and Thomas Seers and John Hendrix. None of these are dead. The Governor received a request to order out the militia on the ground that the white people are at the mercy of an armed body of negroes. He accordingly ordered the Waycross Rifles to proceed at once to the scene of the conflict. The negroes are being led in the riot by one L. B. Varn, a white man engaged in the turpentine business near Stokes' turpentine mills. Stokes and Varn and Thomas Seers had a dispute about a tract of land. Varn put his men to work on the timber and Seers shot one of the negroes and drove the others from the woods. They returned in the afternoon and fired into a crowd of Varn's hands. Varn's hands, to have revenge on Seers, armed themselves and made an assault on the settlement with the above result. At last accounts matters were somewhat quieted. It is believed there will be no other trouble.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Ontario Provincial Union of the Society—Second Annual Convention.

HAMILTON, Oct. 23.—The second annual convention of the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor is in session here to-day. It is attended by nearly 250 delegates from all over the province. Nearly all the delegates are young men and women, and a very comely looking assemblage of young Canadians they are. The delegates from your section are:

Addresses of welcome were delivered by Mayor McLellan on behalf of the city; Secretary F. M. Pratt on behalf of the Y.M.C.A., and M. A. Pennington on behalf of the local union. Rev. W. F. Wilson replied on behalf of the delegates.

The chairman nominated the present executive of the provincial union as nominating committee. It is constituted as follows: Rev. Mungo Fraser, D.D., Hamilton; Rev. W. W. Andrews, Toronto; R. J. Colville, Peterboro; Edwin Lee, London; J. A. Allen, Perth; R. S. Wallace, Hamilton. On motion these names were added: Rev. Mr. Radcliffe, St. Catharines; Rev. Mr. Cobbledick, Dundalk Rev. Mr. Wilson, Toronto; Rev. Mr. Dixon, Galt; Rev. Dr. Fletcher, Hamilton.

The president announced that fraternal greetings from the Epworth League of the General Conference of the Methodist Church would be received to-morrow evening. Rev. Dr. Withrow of Toronto, Rev. G. A. Mitchell of Zion Tabernacle, Hamilton, and Rev. A. M. Phillips of Toronto will represent that body.

Can Move 12,000,000 Bushels.

ST. PAUL, Oct. 23.—Robert Kerr, general freight and passenger agent of the Canadian Pacific, was down from Winnipeg yesterday. He estimates that his company will move about 12,000,000 bushels of wheat from the country west of Winnipeg. Last year the company moved 7,000,000 bushels. The country, he says, is slowly being peopled by a desirable class of farmers who come principally from across the water. Thousands have already located along the line, but there is such a great stretch of country to be inhabited that it will take many years to have it peopled as the company would like. The farming country extends west from Winnipeg to the foot of the Rockies, a distance of 1000 miles, and about 400 miles north from the boundary. A large foreign immigration is expected by the company early in the spring.

New York Merchants to Test the Legality of the McKinley Bill

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—The Times says a protest against the operation of the McKinley tariff law is being prepared by counsel acting for a large number of the most prominent merchants of this city. They have been in correspondence with Senator McPherson, Senator Carlisle and the best legal talent in the country, the result of which is that they have determined to fight the bill on the following grounds: First, that by the passage of the McKinley bill the old tariff law of 1883 was not repealed. Second, that the alleged act entitled, "An act to reduce the revenue and equalize duties on imports for other purposes," purporting to have been approved Oct. 1, 1890, never passed the House of Representatives and the Senate. Third, that the bill which did pass the House of Representatives and the Senate has never been presented to the President according to the constitution and has never been approved or signed by him.

Gold Doubloons in a Coffin.

NEW JERSEY, Oct. 23. George W. Hughes, who had accumulated a considerable fortune died in Russia 15 years ago and his widow came to this country with most of his estate in her possession. Mrs. Hughes did not know how to convey the cash to America without being robbed, and so converted about $100,000 of the cash into gold doubloons and had them packed away safely in a coffin. She took passage with the coffin for New York, and it was supposed by those on shipboard that in the coffin were the remains of her husband.

Arriving in this country Mrs. Hughes converted the doubloons into United States bonds and other securities, which at that time were very low in the market. The will of her late husband arrived in this country and it was found that nearly the whole of his estate had been left to some children of the brothers of the deceased. Proceedings in the interest of the heirs are now being taken.

A Female Clergyman Ordained.

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—The ceremonies of ordination and installation of Mrs. Augusta E. Stetson as a pastor of the Church of Christ (Scientist) were held last evening in Hardman Hall, Fifth-avenue. Mrs. Stetson is the second woman who has been thus honored. The other installed pastor is the Rev. Mary B. G. Eddy of Boston, who is designated as the founder of this sect. Mrs. Eddy is the authoress of "Science and Health," the text book of the Christian Scientists. Mrs. Stetson is a middle-aged woman whose native town is Boston, but for the past three years has been preaching here. She claims to have effected in this time a number of physical cures through the power of her religion.

Up Goes the Price of Ale.

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—The price of malt liquors is reported to have been advanced owing to the increased tax on Canadian barley. The tax on Canadian barley is now 30 cents per bushel, and the crop of hops in England having been very poor makes the demand for domestic material greater. At the meeting of the Ale Brewers' Association to-day it was decided to advance the price of ale 50 cents per barrel.

SHORTER PARLIAMENTS.

GLADSTONE DELIVERS AN ADDRESS AT WEST CALDER.

He Objects to the Term Separatist and Considers the Eccles Election as a Forecast of the Triumph of the Liberals—Strikes and the Workingmen.

WEST CALDER, Oct. 23.—Mr. Gladstone spoke here to-day. He referred to the result of the Eccles election as a forecast of the triumph of the Liberals in the coming general election, which, if the present ratio of gains continued, would give them a majority of 90. Recurring to the Irish question he objected to the name "separatist" as applied to the Home Rulers. The appellation, he said, was untrue and unfair. There was now no question among the Liberals about removing the Irish representation from Westminster. Nor did they propose to repeal the Act of Union, but they did propose to delegate to Ireland the control of local affairs.

He advocated the principle of one man one vote and shorter parliaments.

Commenting upon the enormous power workingmen now possess he said it would prove beneficial, as the judgment of the great questions by the masses was more enlightened than that of the educated classes. He would not venture a decisive opinion upon a general 8-hour bill until he saw a definite measure. In spite of the recent vote of trade unions, Mr. Gladstone did not see his way to consider a general legislative proposal. A special 8-hours' miners' bill was on a different footing. He was inclined to think eight hours a day was quite enough for miners.

The Grand Old Man on Strikes.

Referring to strikes, Mr. Gladstone said that down to the present time, when the contest between labor and capital had gone to the sharp issues of strikes and lockouts, the laboring men had in the main been right. Among the means working men ought to select in order to strengthen their position, legal combination was the most valuable It was a sound system and with only rare exceptions was it harsh upon individuals. The bulk of what workingmen had gained in the contest with capitalists had been through the judicious use of combination. Workingmen ought not to contract the habit of appealing to Parliament to help them out of difficulty by a special act. Freedom of action, reliance upon themselves and unity of policy would lift them to a higher position as individuals and as a class.

POISONED SWEETS.

A German Farmer Poisons Himself and Five Children.

BERLIN, Oct. 23.—A retired farmer named Gast gave to his children to-day some sweetmeats in which he had previously placed a quantity of poison. He then partook of the poisoned candy himself. After suffering great agony for some time the murderer and three of the children were relieved by death from their sufferings. Two other of the children, who also ate of the sweetmeats, are in a dying condition, and the physicians say there is no possible chance of saving them. No reason is known for the crime.

SHORTAGE OF CASH.

The National Land League Remarkably Hard Up.

LONDON, Oct. 23.—Letters and telegrams from Dublin published in the London papers represent the Irish National League as more closely pressed for money than had been suspected. The special collections taken in the churches will not more than defray the ordinary expenses of the league, which are now being largely increased owing to the numerous recent and impending evictions. It is asserted by Mr. Timothy Harrington and other prominent leaguers that the increased activity of the landlords at this juncture is in pursuance of a concerted plan to embarrass the league at a time when it is believed to be straitened for funds, by throwing upon it for support a much larger number of evicted tenants. The number to be supported has certainly greatly increased of late, while the funds, with the closest economy of administration admitted, hardly meet the expenditures. Should this continue it is said a general election, which the Government might at any favorable moment precipitate, would find the Home Rule party disabled in advance of the encounter.

Bismarck's Warning Voice.

BERLIN, Oct. 23.—The Hamburger Nachrichten, in an editorial supposed to have been inspired by Prince Bismarck, points out the danger of the suggested ignoring of the second clause of the Frankfort treaty in connection with the customs union with Austria. The article contains this declaration: "Whatever France does, Germany is bound by her engagements, and her only remedy will be to cancel or modify the clause, which no German statesman will dream of doing." It concluded thus: "It is imperative to dictate a policy which will avoid sowing the germ of differences with France in agreements with Austria. If a dispute is once kindled on account of the Treaty of Frankfort who can foresee the consequences."

Will Watch the Government.

LISBON, Oct. 23.—A Liberal League has been formed here for the purpose of watching that the Government respects the liberties of the people and safeguards of Portuguese interests abroad. Among the members are a large number of men in political life and military and naval officers and also some prominent members of the Cabinet.

Rapid Delivery of the Mails Aboard an Inman Liner.

QUEENSTOWN, Oct 23.—A remarkable piece of work was accomplished with the American mails to-day arriving on the Inman liner City of New York. The vessel reached Queenstown early in the afternoon, her mails were removed and sent by a special train to Dublin and Kingstown. From there they were transferred to Holyhead by a special steamer and thence again by special train to London, where they will be delivered early Wednesday morning.

LONDON, Oct. 23.—Her Majesty's ship Camperdown, Vice-Admiral Sir Michael Culme-Seymour commanding, sailed from Scarborough for Portsmouth to-day for the purpose of placing in the hospital at the latter place the men who were injured by the slipping of the anchor cable while the ship was preparing to put to sea from Scarborough during the recent heavy gale there.

The other vessels of the fleet, which were also compelled to slip their anchors to escape the danger of dragging them and going ashore, are awaiting at Scarborough the arrival of divers, who will be employed in recovering the lost anchors.

BERLIN, Oct. 23.—The charge preferred against the St. Jacobs barber, Soper, by Mrs. Kleeberger with having seduced her daughter, a girl of 15, was tried by the county judge yesterday. The crown failed in corroborating the girl's statement, which is material to conviction, and the judge acquitted the prisoner.

Premier Blair Re-elected

FREDERICTON, N.B., Oct. 23.—One of the most bitter political contests ever fought in this county occurred to-day and resulted in the return of Premier Blair and his colleagues by a majority of 300 to 400. There is great excitement here over the result.

The Would-be Matricide's Light Sentence.

COBOURG, Oct. 23.—Sarah E. Larmour, convicted yesterday of setting fire to the house in which her mother was bedridden, was to-day sentenced to six year's imprisonment in Kingston Penitentiary.

Personal Liberty vs. Physical Slavery.

We are all free American citizens, enjoying our personal liberty; but most of us are in physical slavery, suffering from scrofula, salt rheum or some other form of impure blood. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the great blood purifier which dissolves the bonds of disease, gives health and perfect physical liberty.

CANADIANS IN TROUBLE.

Arrested in Chicago on Suspicion of Robbery and Murder.

CHICAGO, Oct. 23.—John Murphy, who says he comes from Toronto; Thomas Sye, hailing from Montreal, and Frank Burns of Buffalo, were arrested this afternoon on suspicion of having murdered Michael Brazell, one of the oldest and best known residents of this place, whose corpse was found at his barn door in Desplaines-street, the skull cleft open with an ax. Brazell's pockets had been slit with a knife and all valuables abstracted. The murder took place within gunshot of a hall where a large political gathering was held.

SHOT FOR A SNIPE.

A Kingstonian's Face and Body Filled with Bird Shot.

KINGSTON, Oct. 23.—T. N. Sharman, boat builder, was brought here to-day with his face and body full of shot. He had been hunting ducks, and two companions went ashore. A snipe was raised and a charge sent after it, but it missed and caught Sharmen. He will recover.

AS A REMINDER OF MISERY.

Birchall Wants His Wife to Wear a Lock of His Hair.

WOODSTOCK, Oct. 23.—Birchall has not much faith in the petition now being circulated praying for a commutation of his sentence, although since his wife made a personal appeal to the citizens for help the list of signatures has been increased to respectable dimensions.

Birchall has not given up all hope of a reprieve, but in case the petition fails he is remembering a few friends about town with presents. He had three beautiful rings made and presented them, one to his exguard, Entwistle; another to Mr. S. G. McKay, his lawyer, and the third one is for Mrs. West-Jones. They are suitably inscribed. The same jeweler is making two gold lockets for Birchall. He is to have one with a lock of his wife's hair; and should he be executed he will carry this to his grave on Nov. 14. His wife will wear the other locket with her husband's photo and a lock of his hair.

BAPTIST MISSIONS.

The Convention at Brantford—Election of Officers.

BRANTFORD, Oct. 23.—At the session of the Baptist Women's Home and Foreign Missionary Society the nominating committee reported as follows:

President—Mrs. A. B. McMaster, Toronto, re elected.

Vice-President—Mrs. H. H. Humphrey, Toronto.

Second Vice-President—Mrs. J. F. Barker, Ingersoll.

Corresponding Secretary—Mrs. John Lillie, Toronto.

Recording Secretary—Mrs. Sinclair, Toronto.

Treasurer—Mrs. John Alexander, Toronto.

Mrs. John Lillie of Toronto, the corresponding secretary, presented a very exhaustive report. There had been a considerable increase in the number of missions, and funds had come in more liberally. Last year 40 circles reported a decrease in contributions and only 23 reported a slight gain. This year 77 report a gain and 23 a slight loss. Although the society had at the beginning of the year appropriated nearly $1000 more than last year the money had been raised and there was a balance in the treasury.

Mrs. Annie B. Alexander presented the annual report of the treasurer, showing receipts of $3385.53. The chief expenditures were $1000 for student labor, $1343 for missionaries, $450 to the Methodist Convention, $200 to a church building at Sault Ste. Marie, and $125 to the Grand Ligne Mission. The balance in hand is $11.60.

The report of the Grand Ligne endowment fund shows receipts of $2275.92, fully sufficient to meet all the promises made.

The Old Bourbon Flag Not to Be Displayed.

MONTREAL, Oct. 23.—The Citizens' Committee have decided that at the banquet to the Comte de Paris the white fleur-de-lis flag of the old Bourbon dynasty shall not appear, and that the banquet hall will be decorated only with the flags of England, France and Canada.

The question was a delicate one to decide, as it was thought the absence of the old flag would not be pleasant to the Comte. He has asked that no political allusion of any kind be made in any of the speeches.

The banquet in point of numbers promises to be a great success. Several Republicans have purchased tickets merely to honor a distinguished visitor.

Confessed His Guilt.

COBOURG, Oct. 23.—John Pelow confessed to Constable Ulyett on Sunday night that he was the man who broke into Routh & Graham's shop in the west end on Oct. 2 and stole therefrom two pair of wool blankets and four pieces of tweed cloth. He claimed that he was under the influence of liquor when he committed the offence. Police Magistrate Dumble committed the man to jail for three months. He is 37 years of age and has a wife and seven children.

A short time afterwards his son, Asnero, aged 14, was arrested, and with him a negro, who said the boy had told him that on the night of the murder he had been stationed by his father at the corner of Rampart and Basin streets, with instructions to whistle twice when Hennessy appeared. He did so, and this warned the assassins that their victim was approaching.

The Secret Oath of the Fenian Brotherhood Abolished.

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—The bi-annual convention of the Fenian Brotherhood closed at Paterson, N.J., last night. More than 200 delegates were present, representing all sections of the United States. The most important action of the convention was the unanimous endorsement of a recommendation of the general secretary abolishing the secret oath of the organization. Hereafter, all the transactions of the brotherhood will be open, and the public will be free to attend all meetings. In his report the general secretary attributed the disruptions and disasters of the Irish organizations during the past two years to the fact that men with selfish and personal ends to attain had through the misuse of the secrecy clause in the constitution forced themselves into power. A special committee was appointed on the future of the organization and in their report recommended that the Fenian Brotherhood hereafter be an open organization and that military and naval companies be organized and ninety per cent of the receipts be devoted to this purpose. The companies are to be known as the Fenian volunteers and will be held in readiness to assist the United States in case of foreign

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 24, 1890.

THE first locomotive ever used in the Holy Land have arrived at Jaffa and are to run between Jaffa and Jerusalem. This is as good an instance as could be found of the progress of modern civilization, and it is safe to wager that it is not a government undertaking. Judging by the progress of the past, one will be able to travel by train to the head of the Nile before a cargo of grain passes through the Trent Valley Canal.

THERE seems to be no doubt that Col. Hewett, of the Guards, has been selected to succeed Gen. Middleton in the command of the Canadian volunteer force. This will give him control of forty thousand men, which is an important post for a young man not yet forty. A Toronto paper says the question is being asked: "Why are the old and tried officers of the Canadian militia put under a young man of no experience and few military attainments?" The explanation simply is, says the Hamilton Herald that the commander of the Canadian militia must be an Imperial officer. But it is time that this absurd rule were abolished, and our own military men given a chance.

Compulsory Education.

The number of children in Ontario who are deprived of the benefit of the excellent Public School system of the Province is a subject requiring serious consideration. In 1888 there were 45,379 children who attended school less than twenty days; there were 75,912 who attended school between 20 and 50 days, and there were 115,785 who attended school from 51 to 100 days. In all more than one-half of the whole number of pupils registered attended school less than 100 days in the year. In the same year the number of children between seven and thirteen years who did not attend school for 100 days was 87,874. Again, while the total registered attendance in the schools was 495,323, the average attendance was only 259,455; in other words each registered pupil was at school during only about one half the time that the schools were open. This state of things involves a serious waste of the money which the people of the Province spend upon education. In 1888 the people of Ontario spent upon sites and buildings for school houses $375,973, and in the past twelve years they have spent a one four and a half million dollars in that way. With the school houses half empty there is a loss of something like half the interest on this great investment. In 1888 the amount paid for teachers' salaries was $2,521,537. A large part of the benefit of this expenditure was also lost by the enthusiasm. The total expenditure upon Public Schools in the year was $3,859,365. Very little more if anything, would require to be expended if the schools were filled all the year round instead of being half empty. That is to say, a full attendance of children would enable us to receive nearly double the results which we now receive for the same expenditure of money. It would double the return upon our investment. In fact the loss which we sustain under the present system is not to be estimated in figures. A child who attends school for only half the year is likely to forget in the other half a great deal of what he has learned, and an attendance of 20 or 30 days in the year is little better than none at all. Irregularity in attendance not only injures the irregular pupils, but is bad for the discipline of the whole school.

A compulsory education law has been in force in Ontario ever since 1879. It provides that every child between seven and thirteen years of age must attend school at least 100 days in the year, and that school trustees may appoint truant officers to carry out the law. But the fact that the parents of some 87,000 children are violating the law, with no prosecutions are almost unheard of, indicates that there is a weakness in the machinery of enforcement. This weakness is probably in the provision making the appointment of truant officer, and practically the enforcement of the law, optional with the trustees, who are usually loath to proceed against their neighbors. In seeking to strengthen and improve the law, the Legislature will find a great number of precedents and models for their guidance. Prussia has for 50 years had a compulsory education law, and coupled with a thoroughness which the Government of a free country would find it hard to equal. In Great Britain the Factory Act, passed in 1870, gave school boards the power of compelling attendance between the ages of five and thirteen. Many of the States of the American Union have similar legislation on their statute books. In New York the school age is between seven and fourteen; the compulsory attendance is fourteen weeks, eight of which must be consecutive. Text books are provided for indigent children. In Ohio the age is from nine to fourteen; the period of compulsory attendance, in cities, twenty weeks out of which must be consecutive, and elsewhere, sixteen weeks, of which eight must be consecutive. The law of Ohio, which is perhaps the best in the United States, also provides that minors between fourteen and sixteen years of age, who cannot read and write the English language, shall be required to attend school for at least one-half of each day or to attend an evening school authorized by the School Board. Generally speaking all persons employing minors under sixteen years of age are responsible for the carrying out of the provisions of the law. All children between the ages of seven and fourteen years of age who are habitually absent from school without lawful excuse, and all children between the ages of fourteen and sixteen, who cannot read and write English, and absent themselves habitually from school, are declared to be disorderly persons, and liable to be sent to a reformatory or industrial school. In Massachusetts by-laws relating to compulsory education are made by the municipal corporation and approved by the judges of probate. In New Jersey children between seven and twelve must be sent to school for twenty weeks, eight of which must be consecutive. From this mass of legislation, and from our own experience, it ought not to be difficult to frame an efficient law for Ontario. It will probably be necessary to make the appointment of a truant officer compulsory, to give him police powers, and generally to make such provisions that the law shall not be a dead letter. The provisions of the Ohio law regarding the disposal of habitual truants is a good one, and capable of being applied to Ontario, where we have both a reformatory and an industrial school. At all events the subject is one worthy the best attention of the Legislature. We have an excellent system of education in Ontario, and it is a pity that children should be deprived of it, and sent into the world with a poor mental outfit because of the ignorance or negligence of their parents.—Globe.

The Old Flag.

(The Globe.)

The project for encouraging a love of country and of British connection by periodically hoisting the British flag on the schoolhouses throughout the Province, is conceived in a spirit which must command respect. Whether a serene satisfaction with the status quo can be promoted by the mere display of that flag, is a question about which there may be some difference of opinion. In his famous memorandum of 1865 on the old reciprocity treaty Sir John Macdonald pointed out that a close connection existed between the material prosperity and the political contentment of a people. It is arguable from Sir John's premises that to ask a farmer robbed by the N. P. on one side and by the McKinley Bill on the other, to forget the wrong and the impoverishment and to swell with ardor in behalf of things as they are when he sees the Old Flag flying from the top of the school, is something like asking him to fill his belly with the east wind. This is what pessimist persons may say. Nevertheless the experiment of inculcating loyalty through the frequent contemplation of the Old Flag is worth trying. Unfortunately our Tory Government has clapped a tax on that symbol of British sovereignty. If an Old Flag be imposed it is taxed 27 1-2 per cent. ad val. If manufactured of bunting, and 22 1-2 if manufactured of cotton. The raw material is likewise taxed. Thus if the ratepayers in a school section wish to get a good flag of their own make they must pay 22 1-2 per cent. ad val. on the bunting if it costs 10 cents per square yard or under, 25 per cent if it costs between 10 and 14 cents, and 27 1-2 per cent if it costs 14 or over. We are prepared as a protectionist people to suffer a good deal. The N.P. catches us when quite young with a tax on swaddling clothes and cradles. It follows us to school with a tax on leather bags slate pencils and marbles, as well as, happily, on the leather "taws" employed to impress moral precepts on our understanding. It gives us no rest in manhood, but on the contrary pursues us with augmented vigilance; it intrudes upon the sunset of life with a tax on artificial teeth; and adds new terrors to death by taxing the trimmings on one's coffin, the coffin itself, and the marble slab upon which, whether we possess any or not, our virtues are duly blazoned. All this is in a sense endurable. But we leave it to Col. Denison if the red parlor ought not to permit us to get Old Flags for loyalty purposes without payment of a duty.

SHE DANCED BEFORE THE QUEEN.

And Now Toronto Has Given the World a Famous Little Dancer.

No one ever thought of little Addie Smith as a dancer of any note, or one who would ever attract extraordinary attention. She lived in a large boarding house kept by her mother and sisters on a street in the Queen City not near the Cathedral of St. Michael that on the quiet Sunday afternoons characteristic of Toronto the music at vespers could be distinctly heard. Addie was always as lively as a cricket and the merriest among all her merry companions.

ADDIE SMITH.

One evening her brother, who is a professional fancy dancer was practising in the parlor when he noticed Addie imitating some of his steps. "Why the little wench can do them better than I," he exclaimed. Then followed some lessons. Addie was an apt pupil and she soon learned everything her big brother could teach her. But she was not sought after in common with other local talent. She was, indeed, little known until a few weeks ago, when she went with her mother to Scotland to visit relatives. At a Scottish entertainment near Balmoral, in July last, Addie was asked to dance. Her dancing delighted the spectators, and the Queen having heard of her remarkable performance sent for her to dance at Balmoral castle.

In the big drawing room at Balmoral the little Canuck delighted her Majesty and the other members of the royal family in strathspeys, the Highland fling, sword dance, sailor's hornpipe, and Shian truibhs, the latter translated from the tongue of the ancient Gael, meaning John's trousers. For the last mentioned dance, which by the way is a very artistic one, the performer usually wears a pair of trousers, but Miss Addie wore a girl's kilt costume. The Queen praised Addie's dancing, and said many kind things to her. Subsequently Addie, by special request of the Duke and Duchess of Fife and the Princess of Wales, gave an exhibition of dancing, and was greatly applauded. Afterward one of the princesses photographed her in two different positions. Addie expects to return to Toronto this month.

Rather Unappropriate.

A certain contankerous old clergyman who did not exactly hit it off by long chalks with his congregation, recently applied for and received the appointment of chaplain to a large penitentiary. He determined to have his revenge on sundry of his parishioners who had aroused his ire, so he preached a farewell sermon, not a word of which could anyone object to except the singularly inappropriate text, which gave great offense. It was: "I go to prepare a place for you, so that where I am ye may be also."

The Electrice Light.

It is astonishing how rapidly the electric light is coming into general use. It is being employed for publicly lighting our large cities. It dazzles our eyes with its splendor as we pass along our thoroughfares at nights. But with all its splendor and utility it is not as light and beautiful as the biscuit made with Imperial Cream Tartar Baking Powder. tthsw

Purify Your Blood

The importance of keeping the blood in good condition is universally known, and yet there are very few people who have perfectly pure blood. The taint of scrofula, salt rheum, or other foul humor is hereditary and transmitted for generations, causing untold suffering, and we also accumulate poison and germs of disease from the air we breathe, the food we eat, or the water we drink. There is nothing more conclusively proven than the positive power of Hood's Sarsaparilla over all diseases of the blood. This medicine, when fairly tried, does expel every trace of scrofula or salt rheum, removes the taint which causes catarrh, neutralizes the poisons and cures rheumatism, drives out the germs of malaria, blood poisoning, etc. It also vitalizes and enriches the blood, thus overcoming that tired feeling, and building up the whole system. Thousands testify to the superiority of Hood's Sarsaparilla as a blood purifier. Full information and statements of cures sent free.

AN OCTOBER BLIZZARD

IN THE CLOTHING ARENA

On account of our having bought the KIDD BANKRUPT STOCK at 50c. on the dollar, we will hold during the next 30 days a ROARING, RUSHING, ROCKING SALE, in order to break up and clear out the stock. You might ask, why are Gough's anxious to sell? Here's a pointer. The Montreal Wholesale Clothing Market was never so low as at present. Owing to the McKinley Bill, English Manufacturers are shipping all their goods to the United States. Consequently it is a matter of impossibility to get goods wholesale. Goughs saw this squeeze coming, and bought $25,000 worth of the finest goods to be had in Canada. The goods are here. They have to be paid for. You have to pay for them, by paying us for your share. We'll give you Value Galore. Not only in Clothing but in BOOTS AND SHOES, for we are shoeing half the Country.

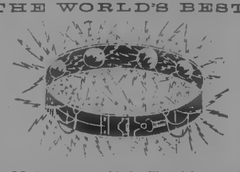
Self Application of Electricity

FOR MEDICAL PURPOSES BY THE

DORENWEND ELECTRIC BELT

And Attachments.

THE WORLD'S BEST.



ALL diseases curable by Electricity can be treated at home by the Dorenweed Appliance. The Dorenwend is the only legitimate Electric Belt made which fulfils the requirements of the Electro-medical science. It is a complete BODY BATTERY. It has an independent Battery, which generates a mild, continuous current of Electricity (without shocks) and can be regulated to suit the strongest man or the weakest child. It is a CURRENT OF QUANTITY, not merely a sensation current, and the quantity current is the great cure curative. It is a successful treatment for INDIGESTION, RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, SCIATICA, LUMBAGO, LIVER AND KIDNEY TROUBLES, WEAK BACK, SPINAL DISEASE, HEART DISEASE, NERVOUS DEBILITY, PARALYSIS, VERTIGO, FEMALE COMPLAINTS, IMPOTENCE, SEXUAL DECLINE and all diseases of the Nervous and Muscular Systems.

Remember that the DORENWEND BELT is the very latest invention in this line, and was invented by a competent electrician, and ranks as the best in the world; we defy anyone to bring proof to the contrary.

Do not class this Belt with the humbug combinations of leather and metal with which the country is being flooded. If you wish to experiment with cheap article, buy THEM; but if you want to procure a genuine Electric Belt and one that will be a benefit get a Dorenwend Belt.

Send name and address for Illustrated Book on Home Electro-medical treatment and mention this paper. The Dorenwend Electric Belt and Attachment Co., C. H. DORENWEND, Electrician. 103 Yonge St., Toronto, Canada. eod w

IT IS SO EASY TO CARVE.

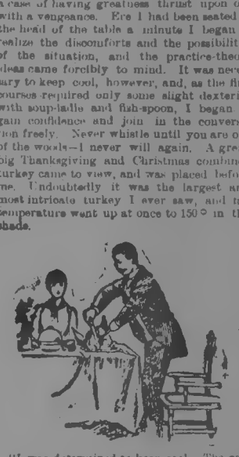
THAT IS IF YOU THOROUGHLY UNDERSTAND HOW TO DO IT.

The Trials and Tribulations of a Young Man at a Dinner Party When Suddenly Called Upon to do the Honors—His Whole Duty Simply Martyrdom.

A TURKEY is not hard to carve—that is, if you know how.

"How easy it is to go through life thinking that you know how when really you do not. Theoretically, what I didn't know about carving was—well, was hardly worth knowing. Practically, this knowledge extended no further than a rare tenderloin steak or a well-done cold tongue—that is, until a few evenings ago, at which time the wide difference between practice and theory was demonstrated in a very thorough manner. I had been invited to an informal dinner at the residence of a friend. On the day in question the host, that was to be, in some manner severely cut one of his fingers, and thereby hangs a tale—a bloodless one, however.

"At 8 o'clock the party of twelve, half of whom were ladies, assembled at the table. The accident to the host necessitated the appointment of a substitute to do the carving, and, as fate decreed, the honor came to me—a case of having greatness thrust upon one with a vengeance. Ere I had been seated at the head of the table a minute I began to realize the discomforts and the possibilities of the situation, and the practice-theory ideas came forcibly to mind. It was necessary to keep cool, however, and, as the first courses required only some slight dexterity with soup-ladle and fish-spoon, I began to gain confidence and join in the conversation freely. Never whistle until you are out of the woods—I never will again. A great big Thanksgiving and Christmas combined turkey came to view, and was placed before me. Undoubtedly it was the largest and most intricate turkey I ever saw, and my temperature went up at once to 150° in the shade.



"I was determined to keep cool. The conversation was general by this time, and I saw my chance to dissect that bird without attracting attention. I began whacking away at the turkey in a calm, know-it-all way. It wasn't on skates, but pretty soon it commenced to skate around on the platter at a lively rate, and my outward serenity began to vanish and perspiration appear at every pore. It now seemed necessary to stand up to it, and I pushed back my chair. Of course the very thing I feared commenced to happen. Interest began to center upon me at the head of the table, and not on the conversation, which gradually calmed down and then flickered out into cold, sickening silence. To make matters worse there was a—well, adjectives fail me here—but there was a little pet terrier in the room, and soon after I had commenced giving an imitation of a man who know how to carve a turkey, he started to frisk about my feet and to tug at my trousers; something he kept up throughout the performance, to my discomfort.

"After ages of silence, broken only by the clash of carvers and the dull swish of the turkey as it skated up and down and around to elude me, I got off enough meat to go around, and resumed my seat with an inaudible sigh of relief. But it was only for a moment, for one lady—out of pure cussedness, I suppose; it could be nothing else—called attention to the scarcity, in fact, the total absence, of dark meat, and then, of course, every one wanted 'some of the dark.' I got up again. I cut this way, and then the other way, turned the bird over half a dozen times, and once on the table. With a knowledge acquired of numerous experiences with roast turkey—when some other fellow did the carving—I was certain there should be dark meat somewhere, but in spite of all my efforts and searching no dark meat came to light. There was no restraint to mirth now, and the room fairly rang with laughter as I sank back crushed, limp, and defeated into my chair after announcing firmly that there happened to be no dark meat on this particular turkey—an extraordinary fact, but to the truth of which I could vouch. I registered a resolve, however, as I sat down, that the intricacies of a roast turkey would be more familiar to me in twenty-four hours, and that I would never rest until I could turn off anything from a wing up. Until black coffee came I was the object of remarks which seemed to strike the others as being funny.

"My trials were not over. We had been in the drawing-room but a moment when the only Englishman present added the last straw: "Ah, dear fellow, aw, goodness gwacious, what ever can be the matter with your twousers?" There was something the matter with my "twousers." I looked down and discovered to my horror that while I was making inroads into that turkey the pet terrier had not been idle. He had made a fringe around the bottom of one leg and the other had a hole as high as my shoe tops. This was awful. The yell that went up when this mishap was discovered could be heard a mile. I hastened back to the hotel. It had cost a $15 pair of trousers so far, but my mind was made up that could cost $100 before I would cease looking for some one to pest me in carving. It was at great personal expense, but the chef at the hotel told me all about it. Now I can carve, but I am loaded to the muzzle for the man who asks me to again."

Crops in southern California.

Los Angeles (Cal.) Times: Eastern people who imagine that we can raise nothing in Southern California but oranges and climate should take a trip to the Cerritos country, between Los Angeles and Long Beach. One man there has forty-seven acres in corn, and is willing to wager that 10,000 of the stalks are more than twenty-two feet high—higher than a man on horseback can reach. This seems like a tall yarn, but any incredulous critic may easily satisfy himself of the truth of the story. The rancher expects a crop of at least 120 bushels to the acre. Another man down there has a field which will yield 140 sacks of potatoes to the acre. We can grow hog and hominy here as well as oranges and olives.

The future great tea-producing region of the world is believed to be South Africa.

Gloves in Ancient Times.

The antiquity of gloves, though remote, may not run coeval with that of the human hand. It is claimed, however, that distinct evidences are given of their use by the cave-dwellers. Mr. S. W. Beck, whose researches upon gloves are very full and minute, notes the fact that where the drawing off of the shoe is referred to in the book of Ruth the "shoe" should be translated "glove." The Hebrew scholars who make this contention say also that the shoe is never made a token of faith, but is only associated "with acts of humility and obeisance." So in Psalm cviii., where it is said, "Over Edom will I cast out my shoe," the word "shoe" should be "glove." For "to throw a glove over Edom would accord with all precedent in conveying a challenge, or the utterance of a boastful promise of punishment. To throw a shoe would have no war-like significance whatever."

Among the Israelites it is certain gloves were a sign simply of rank, or used for display, as with all early peoples. Ancient paintings of a mural kind exhibit them on the hands of kings and persons high in authority. For every-day wear and among the common people a more primitive device prevailed for purposes of protection, since "the sleeves of both sexes were long and ample, and readily available for hand-coverings when defence against inclemency of the weather was needed." The cloak, too, when it was of liberal size and warmth, could be easily made to cover the hands securely.

A certain Roman writer thought it was a species of effeminacy to wear gloves; but his invectives against them had little effect. Among the epicures—or, one might better say, gluttons—of Rome gloves were worn at the table. As the knife and fork were not then used, it being the custom to carve and handle the viands with the fingers, those who had their hands habited could hold the hottest meats without trouble, and were sure to get a larger share than the persons who dined ungloved.

Whether the Romans introduced the glove into England is not established. It was found there, however, in Anglo-Saxon times. The poem of "Beowulf," a seventh-century romance, mentions the glove; and a not much later gloves figure in the customs laws as a part of the duty paid by German merchants. Allowing ecclesiastics to wear gloves in church while the laity were to remove theirs was an old rule; white gloves were, in fact, put on the bishop at his ordination to symbolize the purity of his office. A prayer in more than one of the old missals offered by ecclesiastics contains the petition "that I may be found with pure hands." Among the church trappings of the Middle Ages highly ornamented gloves are enumerated. Gold, silver, and precious stones were employed in making them, and there was also no lack of lavish decoration.—Joel Benton, in Harper's Bazar.

THE ONLY TESTIMONIAL HE EVER GAVE.

"If it be well to wash the skin—and we never heard the proposition questioned—it is well also that we should be familiar with the means by which that purpose may be most efficiently attained.

"We once knew a beautiful woman, with a nice complexion, who had never washed her face with soap all her life through; her means of polishing were, a smear of grease or cold cream; then a wipe, and then a lick with rose water. Of course we did not care to look too closely after such an avowal, but we pitied her, for soap is the food of the skin.—

Soap is to the skin what Wine is to the stomach;

a generous stimulant. It not only removes the dirt, but the layer which carries the dirt; and it promotes the displacement of the old cuticle to make way for the new, to increase the activity of change in the skin. Now turn we to Toilet Soaps and there we find

Life Insurance Policy Holders SHOULD READ THIS!

THE PERCENTAGE OF LAPSES.

The large increase in the amount of life insurance written by purely Canadian companies, and terminated by surrender or lapse, during the past year, has naturally attracted the attention of insurance men. So unexpected and unwelcome an increase—$1,709,512 in the amount of lapsed policies credited to Canadian companies during a period when American companies doing business in this country showed a decrease under this heading of $318,904, could not fail to excite comment; so that the figures have been eagerly scanned to discover how such a condition of affairs was brought about.

Perhaps this is most easily shown in tabular form by giving the net amount of insurance in force on the books of each of our principal Canadian companies and the percentage of lapsed and surrendered policies they are responsible for. In this case they rank as follows:—

Company.	Net amount in force.	Percentage of Surrender and Lapse.
Canada Life	$48,564,376	3.07
Confederation	17,674,828	5.31
Ontario Mutual	13,071,400	10.29
Federal	10,068,537	10.35
Sun Life	11,670,317	10.36
North American	8,470,620	10.68
Temperance and General	2,984,972	17.84
Citizens	2,097,956	29.15
Manufacturers' Life	5,723,100	30 12
London Life	1,644,286	30.61

From this table we can see that while such companies as the Canada Life and Confederation have actually decreased the amount of their lapses, some of the weaker companies have largely increased theirs, so that, although one company shows under four per cent., one under six, and four under eleven, the average percentage of lapses for the whole ten companies is 15.78 per cent.

The only moral we can draw from these figures is that the stronger and more widely known a company is, and the more of its patrons it will retain permanently on its books, while the weaker companies must, perforce, witness the defection of a certain proportion of their customers to their more powerful rivals. That so large a proportion as 30 per cent. of policy holders should entirely abandon the advantages of insurance in one year is hardly probable in these days of popular education. We can therefore only fall back on the hypothesis that the bulk of the lapses of the weaker companies must arise from their policy holders transferring their allegiance elsewhere. It is in fact a case of the wealthier and more widely known (even if not more progressive) companies absorbing the cream of the permanent business, and leaving only the transitory, and therefore less desirable risks, to their humbler competitors. By the aid of clever management and attractive methods, a weak company may be able to absorb a fair share of new business; but it is evident from these figures that the superior prestige of their older established rivals is certain to attract a proportion of their customers in the long run, and that thus their percentage of lapses will always be heavier.

The bride was the recipient of a large number of handsome presents, while the groom was presented with a beautiful clock by the Royal Club, of which he was a member. Grinding Manitoba Wheat in Transit.

The committee of the Dominion Millers Association appointed at the recent meeting of the Association to try and procure from the railways grinding in transit arrangements for Ontario mills of Manitoba wheat, the Globe says, has had a conference with the railway authorities at Montreal. Nothing definite has been decided by the companies. The Grand Trunk appears willing to grant the privilege, but as that road only touches a small part of Manitoba with the Northern Pacific, the C.P.R.'s consent is of most importance. It has become public that the mills on the main line of the C.P.R. already enjoy the grinding in transit privilege and are to that extent at an advantage over their less favored competitors. The C.P.R. says the extra haul of 140 miles, if wheat were to be brought by the North Bay route, would be a dead loss, and that is what is clogging the negotiations. If the C.P.R. grant the privilege it will be because it is afraid to refuse and have the Grand Trunk grant it.

Organ Recital.

Despite the inclement weather last evening there was a good attendance at Dr. Davies' organ recital in St. John's church. This was the first of the series at which an admission fee was charged, and the music-loving public showed by their presence in (considering the weather) such good numbers, that their appreciation of the musical treats prepared by Dr. Davies was not hampered by any sordid considerations. The programme was carried out as announced, Dr. Davies executing every one of the eleven difficult but beautiful selections with the skill and depth of expression usual to his performances. The proceedings were varied by a contralto solo by Miss Nellie Wrighton, who sang in good voice. Following is the programme;—

The Goal of Good Citizens

Should be the Complete Prohibition of The Liquor Traffic—A Wet Night for a "Dry" Subject.

Cold water, as a beverage, is an excellent tonic and preserver of the health; but even enthusiastic temperance people—to say nothing of the lake-warm ones, and the still more disinterested liquor drinkers, who are the very persons it is sought to reach—are averse to a shower bath application on a chilly October night. The rain last evening was directly responsible for the smallness of the audience which gathered in the school room of the George street church to listen to a lecture by Rev. J. W. Bell, chairman of the Mission Board of the Royal Templars of Temperance, and the travelling representative of the Society.

A silver collection was taken at the door. At a quarter past eight there were about a score or more of people seated, among them being a large family who had driven in several miles from the country over dark, muddy roads and through a steady downpour of rain. Their presence was a reproach to residents of the town whose temperance principles were not strong enough to bring them a few blocks over electric-lighted sidewalks for the purpose of encouraging and advancing the cause to which they profess (at times) an undying devotion.

Proceedings were begun by Rev. Mr. Bell leading on the piano in a couple of hymns, after which Rev. D. S. Houck offered up prayer.

THE ROYAL TEMPLARS.

Dr. Fife was called to the chair, and in his opening remarks referred to the Royal Templars of Temperance. It was, he said, just seven years ago, in 1883, that the Royal Templars were organized in Peterborough, so that their society could not be called a new one. The members pledged themselves to total abstinence, sought to reform drunkards, to prevent young people from falling victims to drink—which latter was known as the order work. The Templars were also pledged to work for the legal extinction of the liquor traffic, so it would be seen that they had a large-sized contract on hand. Another branch was the White Cross and the White Shield movements, for promoting purity and chastity—the observance of the seventh commandment without regard to sex. It is well known that in ordinary life there was an unfair discrimination against the weaker sex; the Royal Templars sought to make both sexes equally responsible. Dr. Fife laid before his hearers the fraternal and beneficial character of the society. With all those lines of work before them there was a great field for the Royal Templars. They sought by a series of lectures to educate the people to a sentiment favorable to the prohibition of the liquor traffic.

CITIZENSHIP AND PROHIBITION.

Rev. Mr. BELL, in opening, made a passing reference to the success of the Royal Templars in doing a Christian temperance work; the society was a department of church work and conducted its operations on Christian principles. He justified the existence of temperance societies, arguing that by this means alone could the temperance prohibition sentiment be kept alive and flourishing. The lecturer then took up the advertised subject of his address, "Citizenship, its duties and responsibilities," though, as he stated he would do, he altered his regular discourse to suit his audience; his address was more conversational in style than lectures usually are. He first held up loyalty and love of country we live in as a prime Christian virtue. Canada was a great country now, and mental strength and moral stamina were necessary to place it above all others. It was something to be a British citizen, for it ensured to a man the protection of his rights. If this was true, it was just as absolutely true that a man's neighbour must have protection, as well as himself. But what had this doctrine of citizenship to do with prohibition? Just this: It was every citizen's duty to see and know what was best for his country and to demand that the required reforms be executed. It thus became every citizen's duty to demand prohibition of the liquor traffic in the interests of the whole people. But what was to be done? The Scott Act was defeated and prohibition had not been accomplished. The speaker, pointing the moral by means of a tale, heaped scorn upon the cowardly, contemptuous conduct of some men in sitting down and allowing their defeat in the Scott Act to unnerve and unarm them; they should fight the more bravely and next time demand nothing short of prohibition. At present they should use every means in their power to advance the cause. The local option given by the government he urged them to utilize in behalf of temperance, and all the time work for prohibition. A universal high sense of citizenship on the part of Canadians would make prohibition imperative.

The chairman thanked the lecturer, who had indeed given a most worthy address. Rev. Mr. Bell has lectured before in Peterborough, but doubtless if his abilities had been better known there would have been a larger number to greet him Thursday night. He spoke with great force and decision, and possesses considerable oratorical talent. His address was well worth listening to.

The proceedings were brought to a close by Rev. Mr. Locke pronouncing the benediction.

An Enjoyable "At Home."

The Foresters' Entertain Their Friends in Their "Forest Home"—A Large Gathering in the Halls of Court Peterborough A Fine Fine Musical and Literary Programme—A Social Success.

It would seem that even the weather cannot spoil what Court Peterborough of the Canadian Order of Foresters undertakes. The steady dash of eastern rain last night did not deter the assemblage of a fairly large gathering at the handsome halls of Court Peterborough. The members were "at home" to their numerous friends. The beautiful and commodious Court rooms were thrown open to the guests of the evening. It was fortunate that the night was rainy or the rooms would have been uncomfortably overcrowded. As it was there was present just about enough of guests to make things pleasant, and things were made pleasant. The programme was not of a formal character; more social than otherwise. The main hall was arranged as a drawing room with seats, sofas, easy chairs, small tables, etc., distributed throughout the room, at which the guests sat and enjoyed the games provided for them, such as cards, cribbage, "nations," chequers and that sort of sedentary amusement, while in one of the anti-chambers palour bagatelle, parlour quoits and other amusements were heartily entered into. And the social element was not lacking. The guests mingled freely with each other and seemed to enjoy to the fullest the opportunities presented for social intercourse. During the evening excellent and abundant refreshments, tea, coffee, etc., were distributed, and heartily enjoyed by those present. In fine, the Foresters did all in their power to make their guests happy, and the numerous expressions to this effect by their guests heard on all sides, was very good evidence of their success in this respect.

Though the affair was very largely informal, yet there was a very good programme introduced by Bro. Albert Carpenter, C.R., who occupied the chair:

Address.....Chairman
Pianoforte Solo.....Miss Heerman
Vocal Solo.....Miss Jewison
Dialogue.....The Census Taker
Address.....Bro. J.R. Stratton, M.P.P.
Pianoforte Solo.....Mr. Geo. Baker
Recitation.....Miss Kingdon
Song.....Miss Jones
Recitation.....Bro. John Nugent
Vocal Solo.....Miss Tully
Vocal Solo.....Miss Lizzie Dawson
Instrumental Duet.....The Misses Comstock

The chairman in his opening remarks, which were chiefly a greeting welcome to the visitors, adverted to the fact that since 1879 the Canadian Order of Foresters had paid out in death claims for the benefit of widows and orphans of deceased members the sum of about $266 000 and $60 000 in sick benefits. Of the former Peterborough's share had been large, thus giving relief under circumstances that made it most acceptable.

Mr. Stratton's address, which was entirely impromptu, dealt in a general manner with the benefits of the Forester organization in a social and financial sense.

A delightful evening's entertainment was concluded by a vote of thanks to these ladies and gentlemen outside the organization who had assisted in promoting the evening's entertainment, moved by Bro. A. D. Russel, C.C.R., seconded by Mr. Thos. Hooper, P. C. R., and by the singing of God Save the Queen.

STABBING AT WESTWOOD!

A Lady the Provoking Cause.

(Special to the Examiner.)

NORWOOD, Oct. 24.—Last evening a stabbing affray occured at Westwood. A young man named Sam'l McDonald, son of Mr. Jas. McDonald, farmer, was stabbed in the ribs by Robt. Wilson, a neighbor's farm hand. Sam'l McDonald drove into Westwood to have a machine repaired, and met young McDonald, brother of the young lady concerning whom there had been a dispute. He demanded that Wilson tell him where the girl was; he refused, and they got into a quarrel. McDonald struck Wilson, and the latter, taking out his knife, stabbed McDonald in the side. McDonald is not seriously hurt, but is walking around to-day. Mr. McDonald, sr., came to Norwood last night and had a warrant made out for Wilson's arrest, which has not yet been executed.

Mr. Duff Remembered.

His Services to the Baptist Church Here Heartily Recognized—The Resolution of Appreciation Passed by the Congregation.

At a regular meeting of the Quarterly Board of the Baptist Church, Mr. Edward Duff, who has removed to Winnipeg, was remembered with affectionate gratitude. He has been a faithful friend of the church and its interests, and the following resolution, adopted at the meeting mentioned, will, by those who know of his residence in Peterborough, be conceded a well deserved tribute:—

To Mr. Edward Duff:

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—At a regular meeting of the Peterborough Baptist Church, held on Thursday evening, 9th October, 1890, it was unanimously resolved, that whereas, in the Providence of God, our beloved and esteemed brother, Edward Duff, having been called to another field of labour and usefulness, severs the personal and church relations he has held in Peterborough for the past seven years, and whereas his associations with the Baptist church and congregation here having so endeared him to them, this church do place on record the esteem in which he is held by all, and the loss sustained by them in his departure from their midst. He was ready on all occasions to lend his personal aid in conducting the public services of the church, and the services so willingly rendered by him have been of inestimable value to the cause of Christ in this church and neighbourhood. His efficient labours in the various departments of Sunday school work, and especially in performing with so much fidelity for a number of years the arduous duties of superintendent, are recalled with peculiar feelings of gratitude. Altogether he has shown such a general devotedness to every department of church work, where special experience and aptitude were required, that it is felt and hoped our appreciation and recognition are only a foretaste of the "well done" from Him whom he delighted to serve; and they cannot but feel that the Master has "separated" him to the work whereunto He has called him, and trust he may realize that, being sent forth by the Holy Spirit, His presence shall go with him, and His blessing rest upon him.

The church would also bear testimony to the faithful and willing labours of Mrs. Duff whilst with us, and especially in connection with the choir; and of the esteem and respect in which the family are held by all.

Signed on benalf of the church and congregation,

P. C. PARKER, Pastor.
VINCENT EASTWOOD, Church Clerk.

Another Sisterhood.

The New Religious Home That is Being Established in Toronto.

(Toronto World.)

Sisterhoods flourish in the extreme Ritualistic section of the Church of England quite as much as in that of the Church of Rome. Not only are there Homes and Retreats for these devoted women, but their training and practices and garb are little removed from those of the ordinary nuns or sisters of mercy. Earnest and enthusiastic in their work, principally in the slums of large cities, they are also imbued with the missionary spirit and find fields for labor in all the English colonies. Whatever may be thought of the extreme views, they espouse, such as Baptismal Regeneration, the Real Presence and Confession, those who have watched their self sacrificing work for the sick and dying, the plague-stricken, the outcast and the degraded, cannot but admire the devotion and zeal at great personal risks of these "ministering angels." The life story of Sister Dora of Walsall has drawn tears from the eyes and touched the hearts of thousands who abhor all that savors of what is known as "the half way to Rome."

In Toronto there are the Sisters of the Hospital of St. John, whose headquarters are in Major street, and the citizens of the West End are about to have another sisterhood located amongst them. Yesterday morning four members of the Anglican Sisterhood, known as the Sisters of the Church, arrived in the city from their headquarters, Kilburn, London, Eng. They were met at the Union Station and cordially welcomed by Rev. Charles Darling of the Church of St. Mary Magdalene and a number of others who are in sympathy with the work the sisters propose to undertake in this city. This is not yet clearly defined, but it is said that they will establish a home in Grange avenue under Sister Frederica, their superioress. This will be a centre of mission work amongst the poor.

The care of orphans, nursing the sick and domiciliary visitation will form parts of their programme. The sisters were the habit of Catholic nuns, with large crosses dependent from their waists. In their care are eight young girls brought from London so that at once the home will consist of a dozen persons.

A Woman's Suicide.

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 23.—Mrs. Beattie, aged about 30, wife of Jas. Beatty, cabinet-maker, committed suicide at noon to-day by cutting her throat with a razor. While her two eldest children were at school she left the baby, aged about one year, and went upstairs to her room and committed the act. Evidently she had prepared for it, as her brooch had been taken off and placed on the washstand, and her dress was unbuttoned at the neck. The wash basin was lifted from the washstand and put on a box to the left, and over this she stood and made the fatal cut, as the spurting of the blood on the wall shows. The razor fell on the floor between the box and the wall. Considerable blood ran into the washbasin, and then, becoming weak, she fell to the left on her face and thus was found, probably not more than fifteen minutes after the deed was done. On the washstand beside the brooch stood a wineglass, in which were a few drops of laudanum, and it is presumed that she took a dose of this as well. Melancholia with suicidal tendency was probably the cause, as she had been in a despondent mood for two or three weeks, and told her husband that something terrible would occur but mentioned nothing particular. An inquest is not deemed necessary.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

OBITUARY.—An old settler, Mr. Donald McKay, died at 1 a. m. on the 8th inst., aged 75 years. He has lived here for more than 20 years, and was a life-long member of the Presbyterian church. He was buried by Canon Harding in the public cemetery, having been taken into St. George's church for the first part of the service. There were some fifteen carriages forming the procession, and a great number of friends and neighbors attended the funeral.

RELIGIOUS.—An important meeting took place in the Temperance Hall, on Sunday the 12th, being the quarterly meeting of the Methodist body. Ministers were here from Lakefield and Peterborough. There was a large congregation, many of them coming from long distances, there being very few of this denomination in the village. The proceedings were very gratifying to all interested.

LARCENY (?)—Mr. Gilmore, recently from the Fatherland, has bought a farm from D. Anderson, Esq., J. P. Being in the woods chopping, at dinner time he left his axe by a stump; on his return it was gone—that is the axe, not the stump. The place where he was chopping must be three-eighths of a mile from the road. If it was taken in joke it was a very foolish proceeding, if stolen, it is a bad sign of our advancing civilization.

AGRICULTURAL.—The annual agricultural show was held in the town hall and grounds on the 14th inst. There were about 500 entries. The show of cattle was not equal to former years; it is said that buyers have bought all the best. Horses also were indifferent, except a few of the carriage horses, which were very good. There was a good assortment of fine poultry, and some well-bred pigs. Sheep want crossing with a better breed. Our farmers must pay more attention to their stock now that lumbering is working farther away. Inside the hall the show of vegetable, roots, grain, etc., was, as it usually is, very fine. Dairy products good but not in great quantity. Needlework appeared to be choice and was abundant, showing that dainty fingers have been also industrious; but the articles were so hung against the windows as to darken the room and make it difficult to examine the grain, pulse, seeds, etc. The town hall, also, is quite too small, so much of it was taken up with the different kinds of produce that forty people were a crowd too close to move about without rudeness. There were said to be 500 people present. The receipts at the door appeared to be very satisfactory, as at one time the doorkeeper had his mouth full of bank notes besides others in his hands he was trying to find a more appropriate place for.

ECCLESIASTICAL.—The annual harvest festival which has been keep by the English church for a number of years, was held in St. George's church 10th inst. The church was beautifully decorated and stocked with all kinds of farm and garden produce—fruits, flowers, roots, grain, butter, etc. The altar was vested in rich crimson frontal and superfrontal, the heavy metallic gold fringe of which glittered in the bright light. White being the festival colour, was worn by the officiating priest, and adorned different parts of the church. There were some very artistic designs, especially a miniature fac simile of the triple chancel window with St. Katherine's wheel above, done in colours with a frame work of heads of oats tricked off with barley ears—the work of Mrs. Angling, Mrs. A. Smith, Mrs. R. Elmhirst, and most of the ladies of the congregation took great pains in arranging everything with much taste and ingenuity. On the altar were two large glass stands filled with grapes; a variety of designs in wheat ears, and some choice house plants, as also on the credence and retable. Many friends sent abundant supplies. The effect was very good indeed. There were large congregations at each of the services, and at the celebration more communicants than ever before in the church.

ANOTHER OLD RESIDENT GONE.—Mrs. Scott, widow of the late Patrick Scott, who, twenty or more years ago, was for several years a member of the municipal council, has departed this life at the ripe old age of nearly four score. She was a devout and earnest woman, and much respected by numerous friends.

SANITARY.—Recently the village determined to drain an offensive swamp close on its borders. The work was done effectively by Mr. W. Wilson, and will remove much that was offensive to the sight and injurious to health. Rev. P. Harding also has drained the property connected with the parish room and an adjoining swamp. The drain is one hundred yards long and in places more than eight feet deep. The work was thoroughly well done by Mr. W. Wilson, jr. These are spontaneous acts without interference by the Board of Health.

Remarkable Longevity.

The Record of the Lives of the Goldsmith Family.

Mr. J. C. G. Cornwall, of New York, writes as follows, under date of Oct. 19th, to the Belleville Ontario:

Two weeks ago to-day the New York Tribune printed, as worthy of record, the fact that five members of "the Clapp" family are alive, whose united ages are 396 years, an average of 79. The enclosed record of the Goldsmith family, several of whom are well known in Belleville, goes far ahead of that, and I doubt if it can be exceeded, or paralleled in the United States or Canada. They are all living, and it will be seen that the united ages of the five eldest are 411 years, or 15 years more the Clapp family footing. Their father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Goldsmith, died between 15 and 20 years ago, within two or three years of each other, Mr. Goldsmith at 93 years of age, and Mrs. Goldsmith at 89.

I intend giving the facts to the Tribune the first time I am down town, and take it for granted that their publication would not be out of place.

Thomas Goldsmith, Peterborough, Ont., aged 84

Mrs. Benjamin Gilbert, Belleville, Ont., aged 82.

Mrs. James Walker, Belleville, Ont., aged 74

Mrs. Daniel Brown, Odessa, Ont., aged 72.

Joseph Goldsmith, Belleville, Ont., aged 68.

Elijah N. Goldsmith, Belleville, Ont., aged 60.

Total, 761; average, 76; average of five eldest, 82.

Mr. Boyd Declines.

A despatch to the Globe, dated Lindsay, Oct. 23th, says it is admitted by leading Conservatives to day that Mossom Boyd has emphatically declined the Conservative nomination of South Victoria. The party leaders are plunged in gloom, and the problem of to-day is, who will fill the gap?

The People's Mistake.

What is a Day's Labour?

ONE day's work for a healthy liver is to secrete three and a half pounds of bile. If the bile secretion be deficient, constipation ensues; if profuse, billiousness and jaundice arise. The surplus accumulated during the THREE years of the current quinquennium far exceeds the amount earned during any previous FIVE years, and the profits to Policy-holders cannot fail to be highly satisfactory. The prosperity of the Sun Life is no doubt largely due to its issuing unconditional policies and paying its claims promptly. Canadians should also remember that by patronizing a Home Institution, which invests all its funds in the Dominion, they are benefitting themselves by reducing the rate of interest here, and are helping to build up our own cities rather than those of foreign states.

WIMAN AT NIAGARA.

CANADA'S MINERAL RESOURCES ELOQUENTLY SET FORTH

To the Members of the British and Iron Institute—This Country's Possibilities —Richer in Minerals than Any Other Country on the Face of the Earth.

NIAGARA FALLS, Oct. 24.—The members of the British Iron and Steel Institute, and of the Verein deutscher Eisenhuttenleute, 120 in number, who had been visiting the copper and nickel mines at Sudbury, were entertained at luncheon here to-day by Mr. Erastus Wiman of New York. The distinguished party left Sudbury at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon in a special train of 10 Wagner cars, including cafe and dining-cars, and arrived here at 10 this morning. They were met at the station by Mr. Wiman and a local committee, consisting of Mayor W. McHaffie; J. W. Langmuir, President of the Board of Trade; A. G. Hill, Police Magistrate; H. L. Inglis, Secretary of the Board of Trade; James Wilson, Superintendent of the Queen Victoria Park. The train was run upon the railway bridge to give the visitors a view of the Whirlpool Rapids and then shunted on to the Canada Southern track and taken to the heights above the falls, where a stop of a few minutes was made. The train then returned to the Clifton House Station, where the party got out and visited the Queen Victoria Park, afterwards crossing the Suspension Bridge and visiting the New York State park reservation.

They returned from the American side by the steamer Maid of the Mist delighted with the different views and often expressing their pleasure. Many of them brought photographic cameras to bear and carried away souvenirs of the scenery.

At 2 p.m. the party sat down to luncheon at the Clifton House. In all there were 152 guests. On Mr. Wiman's right sat Sir John G. W. Alleyn, vice-president of the Iron and Steel Institute; Lady Alleyn, the Misses Alleyn and Mr. Theodore Fay; on the left Prof. Goldwin Smith. Among others present were: Dr. John Ferguson, M.P. (Welland), Henry W. Darling, John Scott of New York, W. D. Gregory of Toronto, T. J. Lovett of Chicago, John H. Smith of Buffalo and the local committee.

The bill of fare was representative of Canadian products, served in splendid style and thoroughly enjoyed.

After the toasts of "The Queen," "The President of the United States," "The German Emperor" and "Our Japanese Guests" had been duly honored Mr. Wiman made a rattling address to the visitors.

He said, among other things:

"If all the potentates of Europe had taken it into their crowned heads to visit America and see with their own eyes the wonderful things that here had occurred in government, in development and in the advance of civilization, that event would not possess as much significance as may be attached to the visit to this country of the Iron and Steel Institute of Great Britain, accompanied by their German friends. The revelation which the United States had been to this group of 500 observant, practical gentlemen was likely to bear fruit of the most momentous consequences in the education of Europe as to the greatness and progress of a union of communities on this continent. The brief and hurried visit through the portion of Canada which includes the greater half of the continent could hardly, however, be permitted to terminate without some statement of the enormous importance which that region must, in the future, play in the mineral development of the world. Canada is a land of surprises.

The Great Value of Canada's Nickel Mines.

"Now, it has recently been discovered, by tests of the United States Navy, that nickel-plated armour for ships, or steel alloyed with nickel, are practically impenetrable, alongside which the heaviest British armoured plates crumbled into nothingness for defensive purposes. In the presence of these startling experiments weil was it said they made it possible to make Behring Straits a closed sea, unless indeed the English Government draw on Canada for supplies of nickel with an alacrity equal to that with which the United States are making haste to gather it in from the same source. So impressed am I with the importance to Great Britain of obtaining these supplies that I have communicated an offer, on behalf of the Canadian Copper Company, to the imperial authorities in Great Britain, tendering them a free supply of nickel from Canada for the tests contemplated at Shoeburyness, now about to take place. Equally with the United States and Great Britain the nations of Europe seek with anxiety this peaceful land for the force for the defence of the world, as is shown by the visit of a scion of the house of Krupp, the greatest of gunmakers, who, leaving his 22,000 men at work at Essen in Germany, seeks, incognito, in the wilds of Sudbury, the secret power that will make guns unburstable and armour plates impenetrable. A contribution to the peace of the world may thus be made by modest Canada, so remote from the scene of action, that may not be the least surprises of her many surprises. But with nickel in Canada, in the region hurriedly passed through by the Iron and Steel Institute, will be found sister minerals in abundance, greater than has ever yet met the eye of man. Thus in copper the deposits in the region just visited are the largest and most important in the world.

Aladdin's Lamp in Muskoka.

"The Aladdin-like story of the Calumet and Hecla mines, of sixty millions of dollars of profit and premiums, on a capitalization of less than three millions, on the south shore of Lake Superior, can be re-told in Canada in the Algoma District, on the north shore, for, here at even present estimates, there is copper in sight at least 25 times the extent of the American deposits. The silver deposits, too, are most extensive and their character is told in the familiar story of Silver Islet, which in Canadian territory, a few years ago, yielded within its small area more silver to the square foot than an equal space of the earth's surface had ever before or since given forth. Gold is here also found, and the promise of the Vermillion and other similar mines quite equals the prospect of early California or later South Africa. Platinum is also found in unusual quantities in these regions, and so complete are the surprises in this treasure house of the continent that an entirely new metal has been revealed, hitherto unknown to us, and named by the Sheffield Scientific School of Yale University 'Sperryolite,' in honor of their young graduate who discovered it.

"But it is not alone in the great minerals enumerated that Canada is a surprise equal to America, as to Europe, for she specially possess almost untold deposits of the greatest of the world's assets, described by that most observant of men, and clearest of writers, Edward Atkinson of Boston, as the imperial metal, iron. Stretching far out to sea, in the pier-like projection of Nova Scotia, within six miles of the Atlantic, is found an assemblage of the finest iron, side by side with chemically pure limestone, and with coking coal in seams thirty feet thick. These and other near-by deposits so splendidly located are testified to be equal in value to the mineral deposits of Pennsylvania and New York combined, forming a providential proffer to New England in her hour of need, if only she will accept their beneficence. Quebec, commencing with the iron sands of the St. Lawrence, contains throughout the province enormous deposits awaiting only the stroke of enterprise, capital and the open market for a vast output. In Ontario the recent report of Mr. Archibald Blue and his fellows of the Royal Commission make it clear that a surprise awaits the world in the character, extent and importance of the iron deposits of that fairest and richest portion of the North American continent. So with British Columbia, a mineral wealth exists way out toward the Pacific, whose value is only equaled by her enormous timber regions, her three thousand miles of coast line fisheries, her unlimited coal deposits, which, by the way, recalls another of the surprises of Canada, and it is that it is only within her territory that coal can be found on the seaboard, equally on the Atlantic and Pacific, a fact of profound significance if this continent should ever wake up to a realization of the advantages of a foreign trade.

We Have Also Natural Gas and Oil.

"Time fails to tell of the numerous other startling revelations which Canada makes to the observer of natural phenomena, such, for instance, as the possession of natural gas in great abundance within a radius of 10 miles of Niagara Falls, with which to supply the great cities like Buffalo and Rochester and to supplement the vast water power which flows at your feet, and which, by the way, is but a commencement of enormous forces in the water powers of the St. Lawrence, the Ottawa and the great rivers of Quebec, and which are the only powers in the wide world which will never exhaust. For it is well to realize that Canada, besides being larger than the United States, and in area being 40 per cent. of the British Empire, has within her borders more than one-half the fresh water of the globe!

"Still further surprises await him who follows the development of the oil deposits in the great Northwest, where, in the MacKenzie Basin, are found deposits of petroleum, the extent and magnitude of which it is admitted exceed that of the known deposits of the rest of the world. The growth of the industry in phosphates show of what exceeding value to the world is the Canadian apatite in the vicinity of the Ottawa River, which is about one-third greater in phosphoric acid, or plant food, than the Charlestown rock, which is the highest grade of rock found in the United States. Gypsum, of which immense deposits are found in Nova Scotia is the most valuable on this continent, while the eager hunt for asbestos, from all parts of the world, in Canada, confirms the recent boast that that province alone possesses sufficient of that important mineral to pay the Dominion national debt. In addition to this vast mineral store house, one recalls the enormous areas of the wheat producing regions of the Northwest Territory, which is the future granary of the world, the five thousand miles of coast line fisheries, which merit also the envy of mankind; the limitless forests of timber, to supplement the treeless prairies of the West, and other great national assets.

"But of all surprises in relation to Canada, that is the chief which binds both Canadians and Americans, not only to the value of the country, but to the advantage of an unrestricted intercourse between them.

"It is especially surprising that the people of the United States, so full of an eager desire for development, now so thoroughly equipped, and so needing new opportunities for continued expansion, have not yet realized the influences they may set in motion towards shaping the commercial destiny of the whole continent This they can do by opening up their markets, promoting development, and making haste to get control, by occupancy, and by individual purchase, of a region far greater and far more desirable than Africa, which England and Germany, now setting the example, carve in two for the purpose of trade. The Iron and Steel Institute of Great Britain have seen much of the United States, and have, no doubt, been duly and properly impressed with the greatness of its development, of the magnitude of its trade, and the beneficence of its example for the good of mankind. But here, under the British flag, animated with the same principles as have guided the British nation in its great contribution to the history of the world, lies a region full of promise, possessing areas, potentialities, and a people fitted for just as great a career.

"It needs only the magic touch of freetion, and appreciation of the American people, to enormously enrich them, and yet still be the brightest jewel in the British crown. Thus, if the Congress of the United States should extend to British North America an invitation to reciprocal arrangements, similar to that which, in their new tariff, just enacted, they have extended to southern nationalities, the people of Great Britain must not blame Canada if she accepts this first glorious omen of better relations hereafter to exist between the English-speaking nations that hold this vast continent in common. Thus, without a change in the political conditions, or the deprivation of a foot of British territory for trade and commerce heal the great schism of the Anglo-Saxon race on this continent in a new union of interests that nothing can dissolve." [Applause.]

The visitors were driven down the river to the whirlpool rapids and then back to the bridge, leaving by their special train at 5 o'clock for Washington, to join the other section of the Institute for presentation to President Harrison.

Sent the Handcuffs Back.

LINDSAY, Oct. 24.—Constable Calverley arrested Buck Murray Thursday on a charge of stealing money from George Decker of Pickering. Calverley took Murray to his place of business, having one handcuff on and one hand free, the key being in the lock of the cuff. While at Calverley's shop a party came in and during some conversation Murray made a break for liberty and escaped. Out of regard for the constable's feelings, however, he sent back the handcuffs and the key.

Bismarck Not to be There.

BERLIN, Oct. 24.—The Reichsanzeig publishes a list of the officers who will surround Emperor William when he offers his formal congratulations to Count von Moltke on the occasion of the 90th anniversary of his birth. The name of Prince Bismarck is omitted from the list. The number of those who have announced their intention of taking part in the grand torchlight procession is 30,000. Emperor William has sent to Count von Moltke as a birthday present a marshal's silver baton embellished with imperial eagles and set with diamonds.

Vanderbilt Secures Reading.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 24.—It is announced that an alliance between the Reading Railway syndicate and the Vanderbilt interests has finally been effected and hereafter the Vanderbilts will be represented in the Reading management. At a meeting to-day of the members of the Reading syndicate, which holds about 400,000 shares, or more than a majority of the stock of the company, W. W. Gibbs resigned and his place was accorded to H. B. Hollins of New York, a member of the firm who are the recognized brokers of the Vanderbilts.

Deposed From the Ministry.

MONTREAL, Oct. 24.—At a meeting of the Presbytery of Montreal this morning Rev. A. B. Crichet was dismissed from the Christian ministry on account of immorality. Crucher, it will be recollected, took a young girl, daughter of a member of his congregation, to a small village east of Montreal and passed her off as his wife.

KILLED HIS MAN AT 20.

Driven to Murder by His Mother's Shame —A Verdict of Manslaughter.

LONDON, Oct. 24.—Walter James Lyons was charged at the Old Bailey session with the wilful murder of Quarter-Master Sergeant John Stewart of the Royal Artillery, on Sept. 1 last at Plumsted. It will be remembered that Lyons discovered his mother and Stewart under circumstances which admitted no question of faith. He had suspected, and rushing out of the house he killed the sergeant. Lyons is only 20 years of age. Mrs. Ellen Lyons, mother of the prisoner, entered the box. She said she had been a widow for seven months, and had met the deceased for the first time on the afternoon of the 12th. Stewart, when asked by the prisoner to leave the house, said he would go, and began to dress in order to do so, and as soon as he was ready he went outside and she went with him. Her son following came upon them, and, screaming loudly in a passion, stabbed the sergeant to the heart. Justice Stephens, in summing up the case, said there could be no dispute as to the facts. The question was of what crime the prisoner should be convicted. He must at least be convicted of manslaughter. The judge thought the provocation given by Mrs. Lyons was as great as it could possibly have been, and the prisoner would not have been a man if her conduct had not exasperated him; but according to law that provocation would not reduce the crime to manslaughter. The jury was out only 25 minutes and returned with a verdict of manslaughter, coupling with it a recommendation to mercy. The judge postponed passing sentence until to-morrow.

1000 JAPANESE KILLED.

By the Explosion of the Government Powder Magazine at Canton.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 24.—The China mail received by the steamer City of Pekin says the Government powder magazine at Canton exploded Aug. 15, destroying 200 houses and killing over 1000 people.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 24.—The captain of the British bark Lancefield, recently arrived at Hong Kong from New York, reported he met the British bark Guiding Star and only one of the crew was able to move about. The ship had been drifting 48 days. The captain, the mate, the steward and a seaman had died of fever and five others were helplessly ill. The boatswain became an idiot. The stricken bark was taken to Batavia.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 24.—Advices by the steamer City of Pekin say the excitement in Japan over the treaty revision has somewhat quieted down, but precautions are still being taken for the safety of foreigners.

Cholera is gradually disappearing and Yokohama is said to be practically free from it. There had been 34,000 cases and 25,000 deaths up to October 7.

CASTIONI MUST GO BACK.

Magistrates Find That the Swiss Radical Killed Councillor Rossi at Bellinzona.

LONDON, Oct. 24.—The hearing in the proceedings brought by the Swiss Government to secure the extradition of Castioni, the Swiss radical arrested in London on the charge of having shot and killed Councillor Rossi at Bellinzona, Switzerland, during the recent revolt there ended to-day. The magistrates hold that the prisoner was guilty of the crime and ordered that he be extradited unless he appeals.

A WELL-KNOWN FORGER DEAD.

His Apocryphal Manuscripts Deceived Many a Clever Antiquary.

LONDON, Oct. 24.—George Johnson, an artist, and John Phillips, an art dealer, were arraigned in the police court to-day charged with being implicated in a conspiracy to forge letters of credit upon Drexel, Morgan & Co. The existence of the conspiracy was revealed to the police by a man named Fregheim, who testified at the hearing today that he met Phillips in Rotterdam and came to London with him. The witness said he had seen the prisoners making the fraudulent letters of credit. The accused were remanded. The conspiracy is a gigantic one.

Accomplices of the forgers have been arrested at Liege, Madrid and Marseilles. Tools used in making the letters of credit were found in Johnson's possession.

LONDON, Oct. 24.—A man whose name was in everyone's mouth a few years ago has just died in a little town of Albania. This is Simonides, the notorious forger of Greek manuscripts. This man had a remarkable history as a forger of Egyptian and Syrian antiquities. He never attempted to cheat ignorant people but always went with his frauds to the most celebrated scholars and authorities.

Among Simonides' exploits was his presentation to a committee of a dozen scholars at Athens of a manuscript of Homer's works, written on lotos leaves, which, he asserted, belonged to a period considerably anterior to the Christian era. Eleven of the twelve members of the committee were convinced of the authenticity of the document. The twelfth, however, made the discovery that it was a faithful copy of the text of Homer, as published by the German critic, Wolff, and that the manuscript reproduced all the errors that the printer and proofreader had left.

Simonides succeeded in swindling Ismail Pasha out of a large sum for a forged manuscript of Aristotle's works. He also sold to the British Museum a forged memorandum addressed by Belisarius to the Emperor Justinia, and induced the Duke of Sutherland to purchase two apocryphal letters from Alcibiades to Pericles.

From Personal Observation.

DUBLIN, Oct. 24.—Mr. Balfour, Chief Secretary for Ireland, will start on a tour through the western counties, in which it is alleged distress prevails in consequence of the failure of the potato crop. Mr. Balfour's object is to make a personal investigation.

Mr. Balfour will also ascertain the most suitable route for a railway from Collooney to Claremorris, or from Ballaghaderen to Castle-Rea, with a view to building a line to give employment to the needy if he finds that the situation demands such action by the Government. This is the first time Balfour has visited the western part of Ireland.

Will Sail To-day.

PARIS, Oct. 24.—Messrs. Dillon and O'Brien, accompanied by Mrs. O'Brien, leave Paris to-night for Havre, where they will embark to-morrow morning on the steamer La Champagne, which sails to-morrow for New York.

O'Brien said to-day that Dillon and himself would be guided by circumstances in regard to visiting Canada. It was not likely they would be arrested there, but they were unconcerned about the matter because their American mission would then be concluded and their arrest would merely save them from paying their fares home.

Parliament to Reassemble Nov. 25.

LONDON, Oct. 24.—The Official Gazette announces that Parliament will reassemble Nov. 25.

Cut Out Her Tongue.

TWEED, Ont., Oct. 23.—Miss Sarah Brown, daughter of the late James Brown, this village, is the victim of a rare and peculiar form of disease, namely, cancer of the tongue. About three months ago the disease commenced by a trifling sore on the side of the tongue. Doctors said that the only way of effectual removing the disease would be to have the whole tongue extirpated by a surgical operation. The operation was performed in Montreal Tuesday, the entire tongue being removed.

The Deathblow of the Australian Strikes.

SYDNEY, N.S.W., Oct. 24.—The miners at the Lithgow collieries are to resume work on Monday. Their action is regarded as a deathblow to the extensive strikes throughout Australia. The Premier of New South Wales proposes to appoint a commission to investigate the strikes in the colony.

JACK THE RIPPER.

THE SCARE AGAIN REVIVED IN ENGLAND.

By the Finding of a Woman in a Dark Alley With Her Head Nearly Severed From Her Body.

LONDON, Oct. 24.—The "Jack the Ripper" scare has again caused a sensation among the police and the residents of the South Hampstead locality. To-night in a secluded part of that neighborhood passers-by were shocked by finding in an obscure alley the dead body of a woman whose head had been very nearly severed, while her body showed evidences of kicks and bruises, in themselves sufficient to cause death. While no knowledge has yet been obtained as to who the victim was, it seems evident that she was a woman of low repute, and this was sufficient to start the cry "Jack the Ripper." The police actively began searching for the murderer, but thus far no arrests have been made.

A SOMNAMBULIST'S TROUBLE.

He Plunges Headlong to the Street While Walking in His Sleep.

NEWMARKET, Oct. 24.—Paul Lepparte of Aurora is here looking after the bankrupt stock of J. Mosely, baker and fruiterer. Some time during last night he arose in his sleep, opened the window and, stepping on a slanting, slippery verandah, fell headlong to the street. His head was badly cut. He managed to crawl to the hotel across the road, and became unconscious from concussion of the brain.

NICKEL FOR THE U.S. NAVY.

Most of the Immense Supply Needed Expected to be Got from Canada.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—The chief of the ordinance bureau of the Navy Department is giving his attention at present to the procurement of the nickel ore or matter, for which Congress appropriated $1,000,000. Representatives of the firms which deal largely in this ore and metal have been in communication with the department, and to ascertain the exact capacity of our domestic nickel works several competent steel experts have been sent by the department to various parts of the country. Chief Folger of the Ordnance Bureau intends to ascertain the possibilities of the alloy of steel and nickel in other branches of naval construction, as well as in the manufacture of armor-plate, in which it has already shown such creditable qualities, so that he is preparing to have made at the Washington navy-yard a series of tests which will include proof trials of projectiles made from the new alloy as well as the usual tests of elasticity, breaking strength, ductility, etc. It is expected that most of the nickel will be obtained in Canada.

RECALLING BIDDULPH'S TRAGEDY.

Relieved From Debt the Homestead of the Massacred Biddulph Family.

GLENCOE, Oct. 24.—Robert Donnelly visited Biddulph the other day and sold 20 tons of hay off the Donnelly homestead. He had the pleasure while there of noticing that the old log house, in which the gang accused of murdering his parents and brothers represented they played cards on the night of the tragedy, was a total wreck, and that the place occupied, who was one of those accused, had left bag and baggage in endeavor to build up a new home in Michigan. Fortune, on the other hand, has smiled upon the remaining members of the family who were in trouble. Mrs. Robert Lobert says she will be prepared to pay the last dollar owing on the old homestead when it falls due Dec. 3 next.

$2000 FOR HIS WIFE'S HONOR.

A Crim Con Case at Beaverton Settled by the Parties.

BEAVERTON, Oct. 24.—Beaverton has a crim con case, the defendant being a well-to-do farmer and his inamorata the wife of a neighbor. The case was ready for trial and was to have been entered at the approaching assizes. Yesterday the parties met at Beaverton, Mr. Paterson for the plaintiff and Madill for the defendant, the intention being to examine the parties under oath. A settlement was arrived at, by which the defendant agreed to pay the plaintiff the sum of $2000, and proceedings were dropped.

Long Island, New Jersey and Staten Island Suffer Great Damage.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—A furious rainstorm has prevailed here for the past 24 hours. The wind blew a gale all night, reaching a velocity of sixty miles an hour. The tides are very high along the sound ports, the water rolled up into the villages, flooding cellars and carrying vessels hundreds of feet on land. At Oyster Bay a large schooner was lifted on top of the dock. Many trees and telegraph poles were blown down in all parts of Long Island. A number of bathing houses and other buildings were broken up and washed away. There is a tremendous surf along the New Jersey, Staten Island and Long Island coasts. The wires to Fire Island and Sandy Hook are broken and vessels cannot be reported until their arrive at quarantine. The damage to shipping in the harbor was confined to the blowing away of light spars and sails. Several of the piers at the lower end of the city were flooded.

The same storm did much damage in the neighborhood of Boston. At Revere Beach the Woburn House was lifted from its foundation. A small yacht was lifted bodily by the wind and waves and deposited on the bed of the B. & M. R. R. It was then struck by a train and thrown back into the water, where it sank. The storm has been unusually heavy in Southern Vermont, five inches of snow being reported in some sections.

First Blizzard of the Season.

RATTON, N.M., Oct. 24.—Monday evening William Nich and his 17-year-old daughter started from Folsom to their ranche, the girl driving a team ahead while the father followed with another. They were overtaken by a blizzard when half way home. The father reached home in safety, but the daughter was found yesterday 10 miles from her home, frozen to death. She had unhitched the horses and turned them loose before she became exhausted.

Crushed by a Bovine.

ST. MARY'S, Ont. Oct. 24.—While George L., son of Mr. George Bentley, was arranging a rope to a post in front of their stock bull the other day in a car at the station the animal sprang at him and crushed him against the side of the car, breaking two of his ribs and crushing his lungs somewhat. Fortunately the animal's horns came on each side of the boy.

The Dream Proved True.

WIARTON, Oct. 24.—A little girl named Bowden, aged 13, living near Oliphant, 6 miles from here, has been living at a neighbor's named Randall. Randall had decided sending her away for some cause. Yesterday the girl said she dreamed Randall's barn was all afire. To-day the barn was burned to the ground. The girl has been arrested.

Death Came Instead of Her Lover.

QUEBEC, Oct. 24.—Jane Leduc of Hedleyville, aged 20, was last evening proceeding along Anderson-street waiting for the coming of her lover, to whom she was shortly to be married, when she suddenly fell dead on the sidewalk.

Rev. Hugh Johnston at Boston.

BOSTON, Oct. 23.—Rev. Hugh Johnston, D.D., of Toronto, delivered an address here to-day at the celebration by the Methodists of New England of the Jesse Lee centenary. The reverend doctor took occasion to remind his hearers that the Methodist Church in Canada, though its members were monarchists, was more republican than the church in America.

A 14-Year-Old Forger.

WOODSTOCK, Oct. 23.—The 14-year-old son of a Blandford farmer attempted to cash a check at the bank here to-day for $135. It purported to be given by W. R. Trenaman, flour and feed merchant, and made payable to the order of James Langdon. The signatures and endorsation forgeries were quickly detected by the clerks in the bank.

A Circus Clown's Sad End

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 23.—Sam Rinehart, the circus clown, who has traveled with well-known shows for many years, died in the city prison to-night in a penniless condition. He was father of the Rinehart children, who travel under the family name.

A Breach of Promise Suit.

The lawyers have a choice morsel to gloat over—a breach of promise case, the parties two well known persons—the young lady the defendant, changing her mind at the last moment. It appears that the course of true love had run so smoothly that the day was set, a house rented, and house-keeping details discussed. But the young lady rebelled and broke off the match because her affianced would not promise to buy the necessary supply of tea at Hawley bros. She rightly reasoned that the young man who hadn't sense enough to know what was best for them was not the man for her. And thousands confirm this sensible young lady's judgment.

Appropriating Mutton.

At the police court this morning Henry Lynch was arraigned, charged with stealing a half of a sheep from Laplante's butcher stall in the new market building. He was arrested on Friday afternoon at the Queen's hotel, where he was endeavouring to negotiate a sale of his spoil. This morning a portion of the evidence was heard, but the case could not be finished on account of the absence of a material witness, one Stephen Shuter. A warrant was issued for his arrest and he is now in the cells, and will doubtless be on hand when his evidence is needed on Monday morning, till which time Lynch was remanded to gaol. He was only released on Thursday from that institution, where he was serving a term for assaulting Wm. Eastland.

Other Veterans.

John Scott, of Asphodel, enlisted in Peterborough under Capt Benson, and served his term and was regularly discharged.

Templars' Entertainment.

Carswell Lodge of Good Templars held their first public entertainment under very encouraging circumstances on Friday evening. There was a large attendance to listen to the elaborate programme presented. In the absence of the minister expected, Dr. Goldsmith occupied the chair, and in his brief introductory speech referred to the standing and progress of the Good Templars organization. The provincial membership was now over 15 000, and this had increased in the six months between Jan. 1st and June 1st by one thousand. The local lodge had been in existence six months, and had 66 members. Space will not admit of a detailed reference to the programme, however, it is only just to say that its best feature was, perhaps, the physical drill exposition by a squad of the 57th under Sergt.-Major Rundle. An Englishman in the audience, who had seen the Life Guards perform the same exercise, said it was no better done than the boys of the 57th did it last night. This is the programme as presented:

Chorus	Lodge Choir
Recitation	Miss Kingdon
Physical Drill (without arms)	Squad 57th Batt.
Instrumental Selection	Mr. Geo. Baker
Character Song	Master Herb. King
Elocutionary Quartette

Purify your Blood

The importance of keeping the blood in a pure condition is universally known, and yet there are very few people who have perfectly pure blood. The taint of scrofula, salt rheum, or other foul humor is hereditary and transmitted for generations, causing untold suffering, and we also accumulate poison and germs of disease from the air we breathe, the food we eat, or the water we drink. There is nothing exclusively than the proven positive power of Hood's Sarsaparilla over all diseases of the blood. This medicine, when fairly tried, does expel every trace of scrofula or salt rheum, removes the taint which causes catarrh, neutralizes the acidity and cures rheumatism, drives out the germs of malaria, blood poisoning, etc. It also vitalizes and enriches the blood, thus overcoming that tired feeling, and building up the whole system. Thousands testify to the superiority of Hood's Sarsaparilla as a blood purifier. Full information and statements of cures sent free.

A SKETCH OF THE REV. JOSEPH WILD, D. D., OF TORONTO.

An Honorable Forty Years' Record as a Minister—His Early Struggles—Lecturing for 30 Years—A Scene at Bond Street Congregational Church.

The corner of Bond street and Wilton avenue, Toronto, is a busy scene on any Sunday evening, but especially during the fall and winter months. The pewholders of the Bond street Congregational church are admitted by ticket at a side door, until five minutes before seven. In the meantime the "ticketless" crowd congregate at the main entrances often covering sidewalk, boulevard and, occasionally, part of the street itself. Promptly at 6.55 the big doors are unlocked and swung open when those who have been waiting surge in past the stalwart policemen who try to control the crowd, past the ushers, down the aisles, filling every vacant seat and not infrequently overflowing on to the platform, in front of the pulpit, into the "draw seats" on one side of each aisle, and even locating on the steps leading to the pulpit and the choir loft. There are two side inner doors through which the people pour, filling the church in every part in less than five minutes. The sight from the pulpit at such a time is a most inspiring one to any speaker, a perfect sea of heads facing the preacher. Over two thousand are in the building when thus crowded. The entry of the sexton with the big bible is followed by Dr. Wild himself, who often finds no little difficulty in elbowing his way among the throng to his valued enclosure. One of the stirring features of the evening service is the hearty congregational singing, the volume of sound being in itself an inspiration. In lieu of reading a Scripture selection, Dr. Wild follows a plan he has long practised, that of replying to correspondents on subjects chiefly of a theological or national character. These letters, as he says, frequently suggest a subject or theme for a sermon. They date from all parts of the world, the result of the wide reading of the reverend gentleman's sermons in his weekly organ—The Canadian Advance. His sermons are unrivalled after what may be called the modern American plan—that is, they treat largely of current events of national or world-import, the leading design and effort of the preacher being to prove the evidence of an over ruling Providence in the acts and plans of nations as well as in those of individuals. In addition to this, he frequently preaches on his favorite subject—that of tracing the Lost Ten Tribes in the people of Great Britain and the United States in which case they are the heirs of all the unfulfilled biblical promises relating to the dispersed tribes. When preaching, the reverend Doctor has a style peculiarly his own. His erect figure, strongly outlined face, broad forehead, keen eyes, and long beard now rapidly changing from gray to white, make up a personal appearance that, combined with a full rich voice of wide range, a clear utterance and remarkably strong facial expression, largely account for his great success in the ministry, and the fact that for ten years he has reached a constituency, through his hearers and readers, that numbers high up in the thousands and ranges over every one of the five continents.

Away back in the forties, soon after the Union of Upper and Lower Canada was consummated, a slow-going ocean vessel landed at Quebec amongst its load of passengers, a raw English lad—a type of thousands who, anxious to fight the battle of life amid new scenes, then and since have found their way to the banks of the St. Lawrence—paced one of Quebec's wharves, travelling bag in hand and but a few shillings in pocket. Thus did Dr. Wild make his entry into Canada. Before leaving his native home he had served long enough as a machinist apprentice to realize that that was neither his forte nor to his taste, and it was some time after reaching this country that he decided to prepare for the ministry, for which purpose he studied for a time in an American theological seminary.

Only his fellow-pioneers can realize what it involved to work for and attain success during those comparatively early days when the country was new and crude and when few of the advantages we now possess were to be had. Among the earliest fields of labor that Dr. Wild occupied was what was then known as "the Goderich District," comprising what are now the counties of Grey, Bruce and Huron. It took him two days hard travelling through mud and over the roughest of rough roads to go from Guelph to his destination. Here he was "passing preacher on the munificent salary of $25 a quarter, which was mostly paid "in kind." People brought whatever they thought I liked best. They evidently imagined I was specially fond of cabbages and turnips," the Doctor recently facetiously remarked. His next income was $250 a year, but it did not always follow that this sum was actually paid in full. Thus he spent the beginning of his long ministry amid deprivations and hardships that fell to the lot of the missionary circuit-rider of those days. He was, however, but laying the necessary foundation for the success of later years, by gaining experiences that do much to broaden the sympathies and thus extend the influence of a minister of the gospel.

Graduating from these western Ontario wilds, Dr. Wild was called successively to Orono, Hamilton, Belleville and other places. While stationed in the latter town he did much to achieve the success that Albert college enjoyed in those days. Beside acting as one of the faculty for years, he raised thousands of dollars for the College by the means of lectures.

This brings us to a brief reference to Dr. Wild's success as a lecturer. During thirty years, he delivered over fifteen hundred lectures in addition to three thousand sermons, which necessitated his traversing the country from one end to the other. Sometimes he had to walk from village to town, sometimes he would reach his destination on horse back over rough and through unsettled parts of the Province. His lecturing life is full of incident—of terrible storms, both winter and summer, that had to be encountered if appointments were to be kept; of being snowed in for nearly two days on the old Wellington, Grey and Bruce Railway; of a wild chase in an engine to overtake an express train which had been missed, in fact, the subject of our sketch can relate stirring and amusing incidents by the score regarding this feature of his active life and one of his proudest boasts is that he never missed an appointment, either as lecturer or minister, though illness. After the close of his Belleville ministry, Dr. Wild successfully filled a prominent Brooklyn, N. Y., pulpit for several years, from which place he was called to Bond Street Congregational Church, Toronto, where he has just celebrated the tenth anniversary of his call to that church. His success in this field of labor has been most marked—raising the actual membership to nearly a thousand; increasing the annual income from various voluntary sources to $15,000; erecting one of the most commodious and best equipped Sabbath school and lecture-room buildings in the country, and attracting an audience that more than tases the capacious auditorium.

NEIL McCRIMMON.

President of the Toronto Young Men's Liberal Club.

The Toronto Young Men's Liberal Club elected its officers on the evening of the 13th October. The candidates for the Presidency were Messrs. N. McCrimmon, J. F. Edgar and M. G. Cameron, and the vote stood:

PRESIDENT—FIRST BALLOT.

N. McCrimmon	88
J. F. Edgar	78
M. G. Cameron	57

SECOND BALLOT.

N. McCrimmon	102
J. F. Edgar	74

In accepting the Presidency of the Toronto Young Men's Liberal Club, to which he was elected, Mr. Neil McCrimmon said that the deliberations of the club were paid much attention to throughout the country, and that, for that reason, he counted it an honor to become the president of the club.

Mr McCrimmon first saw the light of day at the village of Vanfleet Hill, county of Prescott. That was 32 years ago, and his course through the public school of his native village and in the high school at St. Thomas, was ever upward and onward. So, too, in his study of the law in the office of Messrs. McMichael, Hoskin & Ogden, of Toronto, until in 1887 he was called to the bar of his native Province. For a year after this event he practised in St. Thomas, but two years ago he formed a partnership with Mr George Sandfield Macdonald and John A. McIntosh, of the Queen City, and is now a member of that legal firm.

"If it be well to wash the skin—and we never heard the proposition questioned—it is well also that we should be familiar with the means by which that purpose may be most efficiently attained.

"We once knew a beautiful woman, with a nice complexion, who had never washed her face with soap all her life through; her means of polishing were, a smear of grease or cold cream; then a wipe, and then a lick with rose water. Of course we did not care to look too closely after such an avowal, but we pitied her, for soap is the food of the skin.—

Soap is to the skin what Wine is to the stomach;

a generous stimulant. It not only removes the dirt, but the layer which carries the dirt; and it promotes the displacement of the old cuticle to make way for the new, to increase the activity of change in the skin. Now turn we to Toilet Soaps and there we find a name engraven on the memory of the oldest inhabitant—PEARS.

Life Insurance Policy Holders SHOULD READ THIS!

THE PERCENTAGE OF LAPSES.

The large increase in the amount of life insurance written by purely Canadian companies, and terminated by surrender or lapse, during the past year, has naturally attracted the attention of insurance men. So unexpected and unwelcome an increase—$1,709,612 in the amount of lapsed policies credited to Canadian companies during a period when American companies doing business in this country showed a decrease under this heading of $318,304, could not fail to excite comment; so that the figures have been eagerly scanned to discover how such a condition of affairs was brought about.

Perhaps this is most easily shown in tabular form by giving the net amount of insurance in force on the books of each of our principal Canadian companies and the percentage of lapsed and surrendered policies they are responsible for. In this case they rank as follows:—

Company.	Net amount in force.	Percentage of Surrender and Lapse.
Canada Life	$48,664,376	3.07
Confederation	17,574,926	5.31
Ontario Mutual	13,071,400	10.29
Federal:	10,068,837	10.35
Sun Life	11,670,817	10.36
North American	8,470,620	10.68
Temperance and General	2,984,972	17.84
Citizens	2,097,956	29.15
Manufacturers' Life	5,723,100	30 12
London Life	1,644,285	30.61

From this table we can see that while such companies as the Canada Life and Confederation have actually decreased the amount of their lapses, some of the weaker companies have largely increased theirs, so that, although one company shows under four per cent., one under six, and four under eleven, the average percentage of lapses for the whole ten companies is 15.78 per cent.

The only moral we can draw from these figures is that the stronger and more widely known a company is, and the more of its patrons it will retain permanently on its books, while the weaker companies must, perforce, witness the defection of a certain proportion of their customers to their more powerful rivals. That so large a proportion as 30 per cent. of policy holders should entirely abandon the advantages of insurance in one year is hardly probable in these days of popular education. We can therefore only fall back on the hypothesis that the bulk of the lapses of the weaker companies must arise from their policy holders transferring their allegiance elsewhere. It is in fact a case of the wealthier and more widely known (even if not more progressive) companies absorbing the cream of the permanent business, and leaving only the transitory, and therefore less desirable risks, to their humbler competitors. By the aid of clever management and attractive methods, a weak company may be able to absorb a fair share of new business; but it is evident from these figures that the superior prestige of their older established rivals is certain to attract a proportion of their customers in the long run, and that thus their percentage of lapses will always be heavier.

UNRESTRICTED RECIPROCITY.

Sir Richard Cartwright's Able Address at Norwood.

International Trade Relations Considered—The Fruits of the National Policy—The Problem of a Market for Canada—Government Hostility and Agressiveness, Unrestrictive Reciprocity Practicable and Obtainable Adress of Local Representative Men.

On Friday afternoon, October 24th, Sir Richard Cartwright addressed a meeting of the electors of East Peterborough at Norwood. He arrived in the village from Toronto shortly after noon, accompanied by Mr. J. R. Stratton, M.P.P., and Mr. J. B. McWilliams, of Peterborough. At the Norwood station they were met by a deputation of East Riding Reformers, headed by Mr. J. Lang, M.P.; Mr. Thos. Blezard, M.P.P.; Mr. W. E. Roxburgh, and others. The party was driven to Mr. Roxburgh's residence and entertained at dinner.

About half past two o'clock the meeting was opened in the town hall. The building was well filled, and, considering the adverse weather, the gathering was a satisfactory and representative one, comprising as it did a large representation of the farming community. In the audience also were a number of the more advanced young ladies and gentlemen from the Model School, who had been allowed a half holiday for the purpose of attending the meeting.

Mr. Wm Burgess, President of the East Riding Reform Association, occupied the chair.

Seated on the platform beside the Chairman and the speakers were Messrs. J. B. McWilliams, W. E. Roxborough, Dr. K. W. Clark, Rev. Father Conway, Rev. J. Carmichael, and Rev. J. S. Clark. Amongst those present in the audience, representative farmers of the riding, were Messrs. John Clysdale, Chas. O'Reilley, Geo. Elliott, Harry Buck, Wm. Webster, Jas. Robb, C. Nicoll, Thos. O'Shea, Donald Cameron, Robt. Tudhope, Wm. Elliott, John Buck, Wm. Sharpe, Jas Patterson, John Breckenridge, Lawrence Landrigan, Geo. Mackay, Duncan Campbell, A. R. Kidd, Jos. Harrison and Jas. Fitzgerald.

The Chairman waived his privilege of making a few remarks in favor of the speakers who were to follow him, and introduced them with a few words concerning the importance of the subject to be discussed, and his belief that the addresses would be both interesting and instructive—a prediction which was amply fulfilled.

PRELIMINARY SPEECHES.

MR. STRATTON, after expressing the pleasure of seeing so large a gathering of ladies and gentlemen present, said that it would be the merest affectation in him to regard the opportunity afforded him to address the meeting in any other light than that of a courtesy due to a representative of one of the ridings of which the County of Peterborough was composed. In view of the presence here to-day, of one of the ablest financial authorities of the country, one of our most commanding and effective orators, and one of the soundest economic authorities of this country, who is to address the meeting upon one of the most important subjects that has taken prominence during the past decade, it would be the worst of bad taste to inflict upon the gathering anything like a speech. The condition of the country however, could not be regarded as satisfactory to the most easily satisfied, nor the outlook under present circumstances hopeful; and it became the duty of every citizen to give his gravest consideration to the circumstances in which we were placed. He believed the country was awakening to the condition of things. The present fiscal policy had not realized the promises made in its behalf in 1878 and the condition of the artizan and farmer was not as he would like to see it. The advocates of the N. P. promised us a home market, but having closed our best market across the line they have no home market and it was for a discussion of this position and the remedy for it that they were met to-day and he would therefore make way for the speaker of the day, Sir Richard Cartwright.

MR. THOS. BLEZARD, M.P.P., felt pleased to be present on this occasion, as he had often been before. The presence of so many ladies was gratifying; but he would have liked to meet more farmers. They were the men who needed enlightening on this subject, as they were the most deeply interested in knowing if better trade relations might be brought about by the United States. He could not blame his Yankee neighbors for their action. Canada commenced it. The great majority of Canadians had voted that we should live by ourselves and be independent; and if we could be independent of our neighbors, could not the 65 million people across the border be just as much so? The question was, how were we to better this state of affairs? He had always understood that Sir John Macdonald had been willing to treat with the United States, but had not been met by them. He believed a commission should be appointed for the purpose. Without being called traitors steps could be taken by them to make better trade relations between the two countries, which were separated by only an imaginary line. It was natural that we should have trade with the Americans, as one people. Sir Richard would be able to lay the whole position of affairs before them. He was sorry there were not more farmers present, for their condition required improving. He himself, as one of them, would say he was not making any money, and were it not that he had something laid by he could not hope to make a living. The farmers were struggling for existence, and between rents and poor prices they had a hard time of it.

MR. JOHN LANG, M.P., said he would not take up any time in addressing them, but took advantage of the occasion to thank the electors for the confidence they had placed in him in the past, and hoped if he was nominated again their confidence would be renewed. He would then be able to explain any and all of his votes in the House and elsewhere, or his political actions.

SIR RICHARD CARTWRIGHT

was greeted with applause. It gives me, he said, very great pleasure to once more address the electors of East Peterborough. It is not the first time and I trust it will not be the last time. I can only say that whether or not I am mistaken in my political views, whether right or wrong in the conclusions I draw from the present position of affairs, I will at least state to you honestly, fairly and candidly what I deem to be the true, real state of the case, and what course I think it would be best in your interests to follow now. First, I regret my friend Mr. Lang did not express more fully the effect produced on his mind. I wish to Heaven that all our supporters were as constant and assiduous in attending to their parliamentary duties as Mr. Lang. Storm or shine, he is always in his place, and an excellent whipper-in had never once any difficulty in bringing Mr. Lang "up to the scratch." Under the present circumstances I don't purpose to occupy your time with any general review of the proceedings of Sir John Macdonald and his friends. It is better to confine our attention to the special matter in hand. Now, I was not surprised to hear Mr. Blezard tell you that he thought Sir John Macdonald had always been in favor of reciprocity with the United States. A great many people have the same idea. In 1878, I believe in the Province of Ontario, but still more so in the maritime provinces, the one cry on which the elections were carried against Mr. Mackenzie was, that if we did not have reciprocity with the States in trade, we would have it in tariffs, and the very best way to bring about reciprocity in trade was to have a heavy tariff, that we might have something to offer them in their own markets. Moreover, it is on record that Sir Charles Tupper had the audacity to declare in his Nova Scotia campaign that if the National Policy was effected he would pledge his honor and reputation that Nova Scotia would have reciprocity inside of two years. That was twelve years ago, and for the Government of which he was a member, I will presently show how far they have departed from the doctrine they then laid down. I will try to show you the

on this great question. In this little leaflet which I hold in my hand is a copy extracted from Hansard of a motion made by myself in 1888, when this question was first formally adopted by representatives of parliament. The motion reads:—

"That it is highly desirable that the largest possible freedom of commercial intercourse should obtain between the Dominion of Canada and the United States, and that it is expedient that all articles manufactured in or the natural products of the said countries should be admitted free of duty into the ports of the other (articles subject to duty of excise or of internal revenue alone excepted); and it is expedient that the Government of the Dominion should take steps at an early date to ascertain on what terms and conditions arrangements can be effected with the United States, for the purpose of securing full and unrestricted reciprocity of trade therewith."

Now, there in half a dozen lines is the purpose and object of the Liberal party at this moment. We re-affirmed that doctrine in 1889 and 1890 How were we met? We had a right to expect that, after we came forward as the representatives of the Liberal party and asked the Government to take steps to ascertain on what terms and conditions reciprocity with the United States could be obtained—we had a right, looking at their previous stand, to expect that they would at once have agreed, at any rate, to that part of my resolution which invited them to find terms. Did they send deputations to Washington, appoint commissioners, or take any steps whatever? Not a bit of it. They passed a resolution to the effect that they would not do so unless a certain section of manufacturers were sure of having their interests protected. If that was assured to them they might think of it. At time went on and these same manufacturers asserted their influence, the Government waxed bolder. In 1889 they voted down my motion, but in 1890, six months ago, Mr. Colby, President of the Council, declared that "the farmers of this country will endorse me when I say that free trade between Canada and the United States in all agricultural products would be the worst possible thing that could happen to the farmers of Canada." I put the question, if these gentlemen do not want reciprocity in all the articles of trade—for Mr. Colby was speaking for the governments and is their deputy—what kind of reciprocity valuable to the farmers do these honorable gentlemen expect to get? I put that question to all who have cows, or horses, hay or grain to sell in the United States market. I am sorry to say, that whether they desired reciprocity in 1888 or not, at the present moment there is no real intention or desire on the part of our opponents to obtain reciprocity at all. They are afraid to say in so many words, "we don't want it on any terms;" because they know that all over the Dominion there is a vast number of men whose interests are so affected by this McKinley tariff that they might be politically injured. They stand between two fires. Twelve years ago they were pledged to reciprocity; but the government of Canada has ceased to be free agents, and have put themselves, in this matter more especially, under the control of a certain men who supplied them with the funds that were necessary to carry the elections of 1882 and 1887, and whom they expect to help in the elections of 1891 or '92, as the case may be. The question is this. Shall the interests of five million people prevail, or the interests of 80 or 90 gentlemen who met Sir John in the Red Parlor in Toronto, and where there assessed for political purposes? Are they to prevail, or the five million people? In 1882 Sir John made use of a pretty little parable to these 80 or 90 gentlemen, about two men in the tree who was shaking down chestnuts for the hogs, and then begged some of the chestnuts for himself; and 80 or 90 checks were then and there signed by them for the purpose of controlling the electorate, and since that time the men who have settled the tariff questions, and decided how much you should pay, and how much should go into the treasury, and how much into the pockets of friends of the Government, have been the men who were brought together in the Red Parlor to contribute for election purposes, and to-day it is their interests which stand most between our chance of reciprocity and the wishes of the people of the United States and Canada. But I have the pleasure of meeting many manufacturers who repudiate the statement that they would not be able to hold their own in any market in the world, and could not face United States or any other foreign competition. But, they say, if we are to be opposed to American competition we ought to have the American market open to us, and want the competition on fair terms. And I desire that they should. This censure I justly level at the men who extract funds from the public treasury, but I should be sorry to say that the majority of manufacturers deserve the same treatment. But I want you to understand between whom the fight is now. The fight is between five million people and a small gang of combines and protected manufacturers, who by reason of the wealth amassed, as I have indicated, are using their influence over a small portion of the press, and a small portion of your representatives in Parliament. In this discussion I have purposely waited in addressing the electors to hear what Sir John and his colleagues had to say regarding the tariff. The first thing that attracts attention is the extreme levity —to say the least of it—with which a number of these persons and the party press, which is subsidized by them and derives aid in various ways from the treasury, are disposed to treat this situation. I don't pretend that the people of Canada, or at any rate of Ontario

CANNOT LIVE OR EXIST

except by the goodwill of the people of the United States. That is not my creed or my doctrine at all. I say we can. We have great resources. We may possibly succeed in finding further outlets for our products. But I say the question is a grave one. The situation is perilous and not a subject for levity. I say it is right to meet this question, not by saying that the United States market is insignificant, nor by saying our opponents are dishonest. They tell you the United States market is a trifle. The last Trade and Navigations will show you whether it is or not. Here are the Trade and Navigation returns of Canada for 1889, signed by Mackenzie Bowell, Minister of Customs. There are a few patent facts. First take the returns which show the total value of sales by the people of Canada. Out of all you produced last year, you sold eighty million dollars worth to all the world. Of this eighty million dollars worth, the United States took 39½ millions—within the merest fraction of one-half of the whole output. This means that although the United States has erected, and you on your side have erected a tariff wall against the United States; although everything that the folly—I might add wickedness—of men could do to prevent trade between the two countries has been done, yet such is our peculiar position and geographical necessities and natural impulses between the two countries, that you did just as large a business last year with the United States alone as you did with the rest of the world together. That is not a statement made on my authority, but on the authority of Mackenzie Bowell, Minister of Customs. How could it be otherwise? I am sorry I have not here a map of North America, but no doubt you all carry the situation of Canada in your heads and can follow me without its aid. Look at the position of Ontario and Manitoba and a great part of all the more important provinces. We are situated in the very centre of the north half of North America. Our geographical position is such that it is utterly impossible for us to find anywhere else a market—I do not say one-half, but one-tenth part as good for us as,

NATURALLY ADAPTED FOR US

as the market of the United States. Now, suppose for argument's sake what I hope will never take place, that the non-Intercourse Act, which was in danger of being put in force some time ago, was declared law by the United States, where are your going to find a market as good? Take the east. For one half of the year, while the St. Lawrence is frozen over, you must send every bit of goods 1 000 miles to the seaboard and then transport them 3 000 miles further to a foreign market. That is your best market if this contingency were to take place. Go west, and you have to send your products 2,000 miles to the coast and from six to ten thousand miles further to find a market in the eastern hemisphere—half way round the globe. Go north, and do you want to exchange your products with the Esquimaux for walrush tusks and blubber? No. The fact of the matter is this. We may find markets elsewhere; it is desirable we should if the Americans wont trade with us. But the man is trifling with your intelligence who ventures to rise and tell a Canadian audience, and, least of all, an Ontario or Manitoba audience, that, placed as we are, there can possibly be found for you a market one-half, one-quarter or one-hundredth as naturally adapted to you, if these restrictions are done away with, as this market to the south of us. It is a moral, geographical fact which no power on earth, no act of parliament, no declamation of any demagogue, nothing we can do can alter one hair-breadth or one tittle. It has been alleged no doubt to you frequently, and perhaps admitted by our own friends, that our American friends are not disposed to treat with us. That is a mistake. It is true that the United States would not enter into treaty in 1854, giving as a reason that they could not allow us to pick and choose what terms we wanted; but the Americans have in various ways, by resolutions passed in their political meetings, in Congress, in the House of Representatives, by the statements of the highest public men in the States, men on both sides of politics—they have repeatedly, distinctly given us ample ground for believing they were prepared to meet us on fair terms, to give full, free and unrestricted reciprocity on their part if we would do so on ours. I have no doubt on such equal terms a treaty could be negotiated in a short time, on one condition—that we had not ministers in high places and a press in Canada insulting and across the border. I don't wish that we lose our own political autonomy. If we do our duty by ourselves we are intelligent and enterprising enough to have a nation on this side of the border. But in such a crisis as this, it is treasonable in the highest degree for any Canadian, if he be of any consequence or not, to use his position to place difficulties in the way of negotiating for better trade relations with the United States. I am speaking here with absolute certainty as to the evils which have followed in the past from following this line of conduct. You remember when Sir Charles Tupper was brought back from London in 1887 to assist in carrying Nova Scotia for Sir John; but he was very suddenly and unexpectedly summoned to Washington, and he returned a greatly altered man. He was good enough to state what the reason was that he was induced to advocate a different line of policy to what he and his friends had done before. In the fisheries debate of 1888 he told the result of his trip to Washington in 1887. He found the people, the press and the Congress of the United States were so exasperated, (these are his own words), so angry and so annoyed with the people of Canada, that scarcely eight and forty hours interposed between the declaration of commercial hostilities, the passing of the Non Intercourse Act, and something like commercial war, which was only one step removed from actual war. There is the result of the careless, inconsiderate conduct of the Government three years ago. Had Sir Charles Tupper not gone to Washington in 1887 and discovering the state of feeling there, promptly suppressed all the annoying practices they had indulged in against American vessels, we have his assurance that we were on the verge of war. He suspended absolutely and completely all the hostilities which were almost prevailing between our fishing boats and theirs, and he declared he was perfectly satisfied with the conduct of the Dominion Government in 1888. And Mr. Joseph Chamberlain was sent here for the purpose, I am sorry to say, of taking hold of the Canadian government by the collar and compelling them to acquiesce so far at any rate in the demands of the American government, as to consent to the modus vivendi, by which, (though I was in favor of it, for they did not give undue concessions, they

they had before declared was necessary for the preservation of our fisheries. So, what mischief must ensue if at this crisis we find that instead of adopting a dignified, courteous attitude, asking no favor, but meeting them fairly, we take a course of bluster and bull with the United States. We are in no position to do this. And it was with the most extreme regret, I read that the premier of the Dominion had been in conversation with people of the United States, giving out the impression that Canada was a fierce democracy, whom it would be difficult to approach, and thus piecing obstacles in the way of treating with them. I had the pleasure of addressing the Board of Trade in New York, a representative body of business men, and I assured them that as far as I understood it, we in Canada asked no one-sided bargain from the United States; we were willing to give dollar for dollar, advantage for advantage, privilege for privilege, concession for concession. And to the credit of the New York Board of Trade, they expressed their concurrence with the doctrine I took the privilege of laying before them and acquiesced in my proposition that for commercial purposes the admission of Canada would have the effect in a few years of making Canada as populous and rich as the States on the border. I ought to show you a little more in detail what this American trade means. One half our whole trade—and remember, gentlemen, that is the best half of our trade—is with the States. We make more money as a rule by dealing with the United States than by sending our products across the seas And for a good reason. There are no diff rences of language, of custom, and very little of law between us. We have the fullest and freest communication with them. Nearly all of you have friends or relative in the States, and for all these reasons it is easy and profitable for us to do business with the United States on a large scale. What is the actual detail of the business? The table divides our products and gives what we send of each article. It is possible of course to deal with a country for one article alone, but if the market is suddenly cut off, what is to be done? Now, in 1889, of the products of the mine, we shipped to the whole world $4,419,470 worth. The United States was not merely our best customer but

ALMOST OUR ONLY ONE.

The States took $3,753,000 of the mining products. Is that the sort of customer you, as business men, would like to treat lightly? From the fisheries, the world got $7,200,000. and the United States $2,839 000—and in connection with that I note that the United States are not merely again the largest customers, but we sell to them 2½ times as much as we sell to Great Britain or any other country. Of the products of the forest, the United States got $11,000,000 worth of the twenty-three millions exported. Of animals and their products, the United States took ten millions out of twenty-six millions sent to the world. Great Britain took a little more. Great Britain takes all, or nearly all, our cheese. But the United States, if you strike out the item of cheese, would be far our largest customer all round. And of farm produce—this is what interests farmers most—we exported to the whole world $13,414,000 worth, of which the United States got $9,125,000. Three-quarters of everything the farmers had to sell (excluding their animals) went to the United States. Other items show that in every department of trade, whether it be products of the mines, forests or farms, and even in manufactured goods, everywhere and all along the line, the Americans are our best customers and largely so, with the sole and solitary exception of cheese—a very important article, I grant. Is it not worse than absurd for men calling themselves statesmen and men of eminence in this country, to rise up and say that is a trifling trade, and that we needn't distress ourselves, then there are plenty of other markets. I cannot endorse this statement. I am willing to try to find them if we cannot have the United States. But it is the most childish folly for any one to contend that a market of 65 million people and more, is a matter of insignificance to us. Nor do I believe any such statement would be uttered unless the man who made it had been actuated by some power behind the throne, by some secret and sinister influence to do violence to their consciences and convictions. I know men who years ago declared they were anxious to obtain reciprocity, but I know why they and their subsidized piers are belittling the American market to-day. It is because a gang of plutocrats who—not by their superior intelligence or industry—have grown fat on their plunder of the treasury. I will venture to say on one single solitary article of sugar alone, in the last 10 or 12 years, nearer twenty than twelve million dollars have been arbitrarily taken from the pockets of the people for the purpose of swelling the electoral fund. This is only one instance. But in spite of the geographical position and the interests of the people, our government will not take any steps to bring about with the United States. Here is another illustration of the way these gentlemen deal with a proposition of this kind. Many years ago Mr. Blake moved "that the time had come when Canada had the right to make her own treaties and negotiations." That was voted down. The circumstances then were not so urgent. Two years ago I renewed this motion under peculiar circumstances. I pointed out to these gentlemen that according to the statement of Sir Charles Tupper himself things had been so badly managed by the Canadian Government—at—I hope and believe from pure ignorance—that we had been brought to the verge of actual war with the United States, or commercial war at least. The situation which Sir Charles Tupper described is one of the greatest calamities which could befall your country. In these circumstances one would think it was plain that the government knew nothing of what was going on, nor the British Embassy know ought of it. Surely, if he is to be believed, you cannot deny now that the time is come when at least Canada should have her own representative at Washington, appointed by and responsible to our own Government, who will keep us advised as to what was going on in the centre of the United States. I repeat, if there had been an honest intention to cultivate friendly relations with the United States they would have taken the steps at any rate which I asked them to take, which was to ask the British Government for permission to have an agent at Washington to keep us advised. At the time I moved my motion we had an example of the utter uselessness of entrusting our business to the British Ambassador. You all know the trouble which the late minister, Lord Sackville West, got into at Washington. But even after such an example of the blundering of the men to whom the interests of Canada and the British Empire are entrusted they refused even to ask the British Government to grant a representative, responsible to and appointed by us. They were convicted of having been in the most utter ignorance in 1887 of the feeling which their foolish conduct had produced; was it possible, if we had had an agent of ordinary intelligence in Washington, our Government would not have been informed of that state of things, and we would have been of seeing an English statesman sent across the Atlantic, and take hold of the Canadian Government and compel them to abandon all that they had contended for in favor of America. Further, it is contended, that, in 1888 Mr. Davsis, Mr. Jones, Mr. Laurier and myself had demanded, in set terms, from these gentlemen if they had had the full concurrence of the British Government in what they did. Some one was most grossly deceived, or the British Government was ill advised. If they gave their full concurrence to the action of these gentlemen, what are we to think of their conduct in 1888 when they sent a delegate across the sea to compel us to abandon our pretences of 1878. Yet in 1886 we were told by the men in government that they had the concurrence of the British Government. One or other of these positions is false.

BETTER TRADE RELATIONS

Now, as to the distant markets. I hope and trust that if the worst comes to the worst, these markets may be found and be successful. But where are we to go for them? These markets have at all times been open to us just as freely as they are to-day, yet our trade with the United States is, in spite of two distinctly hostile tariffs, the largest of any. Now we are told to go to some distant market. What have these gentlemen done in exploring these other markets? Take one or two notable illustrations of the extent to which, in the past sixteen years, our foreign markets have developed. Our trade with France in 1873 amounted to $631 000, and so successful have we been in developing that trade under the National Policy, that in 1889 it amounted to $334,000—just one-half. I commend that parsicular market to the consideration of my friends. With Holland in 1873 we traded to the extent of $13,000; in 1889 it had dwindled down to $1,222. Newfoundland in 1873, $2 800,000; in 1889, $1,303 000 West Indies in 1873, $3,988,000; in 1889, $2,759 000 And so it goes. Now, I do not deny that it is desirable to look for foreign markets, but I call your attention to this fact, that these markets are far distant, costly and inconvenient. It is not possible to attain such an acquaintance with them as with the United States. If this were the policy of the Government from the start, they wanted particularly to make Canada independent of the United States, what consummate folly have we all been guilty of in losing the enormous advantage we possessed over the United States in the start 24 years ago. We had an over the United States. They had been engaged in a great civil war, and its influence was felt in the American tariff. Their's was a war tariff, and they were reduced to a life and death struggle for preserving their national existence. They had the misfortune to be then, as we have the misfortune to be now, in the toils of these same plutocrats. But they were unable to see their position on account of their energies and minds being engrossed in the great task of putting down slavery. We had this advantage over them. At Confederation our taxes per head were one-third of the taxes per head of the United States, and our debt one third of that of the United States. To-day, our taxes are full as high as their's and our debt three times as great as their's. We have just reversed positions. Here is my point. If the Canadian government was desirous of obtaining independence of the United States, what folly it was to allow our debt to heap up, a circumstance that presents grave obstacles to the negotiations of trade relations with our neighbors, and the creation of a valuable market for our products. The prices of your home products abroad are graded by the price of your surplus products at home. These gentlemen promised you a home market. If so, you would be independent. But you have not got it. You have got to find an outside market still. You are handicapped by your heavy taxation at home and by your enormous debt, and you are placed in the position of a tribute-paying people, instead of a tribute receiving. You are told you must find a market abroad where you will be compelled to meet the fiercest competition, and at the same time be handicapped, not for the benefit of the country or the people but for the benefit of a small gang or clique of manufacturers—not for the workingman certainly, for they receive smaller wages than ever. Why, it is well-known that these manufacturers bring in laborers from foreign countries, to bring down wages in protected industries. But these men build up this tariff wall against the rest of the world, will not allow anybody to compete with them, and then coolly tell the farmers, the producing class of Canada, "you must go abroad and you must find a market. We are to be allowed to pick your pockets at our pleasure." That practically is the position these honorable gentlemen have taken. Sir, no wonder Mr. Blezard thought and understood that these gentlemen were favorable to reciprocity. He is right in thinking so from their own speeches. Here is a case which will COME HOME TO MOST OF YOU.

About six months ago the McKinley tariff was first launched. The increase in the bill ($30 on every horse, $10 on every cow, $4 on a ton of hay, 30c. on barley, 60c. on peas, beans, etc.) all these were proposed by Mr. McKinley in the U.S. Congress. Not only was there opposition manifested, but a great many Americans were interested in the trade with Canada, and many millions were affected by the tariff. This was known to many members of the House of Commons, and we said to the Government, "This is a mere threat at present. This bill is far from becoming law. Now, under these circumstances if you wish to help the friends of Canada and the United States to obtain a reduction of these enormous amounts your course is clear. Open negotiations with the United States for freer trade relations at once. Show you are anxious to make fair reciprocity with them. You may or may not succeed. But whether or no, you will supply all friends of Canada in Congress, in the United States, with strong arguments to prevent these increases from coming into effect." Was not that a fair way of preventing this tariff from becoming law? What did the Government do? While this bill was under discussion, months and months before it had ever reached the Senate, the Government, although, by their own admission, they had a large surplus, although they expected a still larger surplus, and did not contend that they wanted a dollar more for carrying on the business of this country—they sat down and introduced the Foster tariff and inflicted prohibitory duties on all American articles which had hitherto come in free. They did this deliberately, long before the McKinley bill had come in force. And they dare tell you now that they were honestly and sincerely desirous of promoting reciprocity with the United States on reasonable terms That statement is utterly and entirely unworthy of any man to make or repeat. They had done everything in their power to shut the mouths and tie the hands of every friend of Canada in the United States. And I know as a matter of fact when the discussion took place which had the effect of putting a heavy tax on all inferior wood products, our friends had very great hopes of completely destroying that portion of the tariff, and would have had they not been confronted by Mr. Fosters' tariff and declarations of the Government made into law, which showed that they were distinctly

HOSTILE TO AMERICAN INTERESTS.

So you see how much reliance can be placed on statements of these gentlemen that they would do all they legitimately could do to promote reciprocity between Canada and the United States. I will quote to you from a small leaflet which has been handed to me, containing facts of interest for the farmers of Peterborough. The question is asked, does reciprocity benefit farmers? Sir John Macdonald in 1860 declared:—"One great cause of the prosperity of the farmer in Upper Canada is the Reciprocity Treaty, and the consequent interchange of agricultural commodities and raw materials. He has found a market where there was none at all before.". That is a broad, strong declaration as to the benefits accruing from reciprocity. Who made it? No less a person than Sir John A. Macdonald. And that there might be no mistake he said further:—"If there is one measure of late date which benefits the country more than another, it is the Reciprocity Treaty, negotiated indeed by the Hinck's Government, but perfected under Sir Allan's. Your know that whereas wheat used to pay twenty cents a bushel to enter the frontiers of the United States, it now goes in free, and every farmer here is twenty cents a bushel richer for that measure. Instead of being kept out of the United States, and being obliged to go to Montreal to sell his produce, he has now the choice of two markets; he has two strings to his bow: no collector of Customs stands between him and the New England manufacturer, or between him and the British consumer."

At that time Sir John was clothed in his right mind and was not in the hands of the protected manufacturers. Now, I have put before you as distinctly and clearly as I could, just what the policy of the Liberal party is, which is clearly, distinctly and plainly defined. We want full, free absolute unrestricted reciprocity with the United States. We are willing to give them what advantages we ask from them. And speaking with the full knowledge of the most prominent men of the United States, I take the responsibility of declaring that at the present moment at any rate there would be no difficulty in negotiating full, fair and free unrestricted reciprocity with the people of the United States. I will be no guarantee, however, if the same foolish course of conduct be prolonged which took place in 1886, and seems likely to be revived now, I cannot guarantee that it will be obtained. I do tell you it could be obtained now. If individually and collectively, through our representatives in Parliament, you can impress the Government of Canada sufficiently strongly that you must have reciprocity, that there will be little difficulty obtaining it. Another point of which I think there is no doubt, that looking at the thrice repeated refusal of the Government to open negotiations, or refusing to ask leave to appoint an agent at Washington, and before the McKinley Bill became law they deliberately invited, by their own actions, retaliation on the part of the Americans, by putting duties on articles hitherto admitted free—there is little doubt that the Government of Canada has to have unrestricted reciprocity. I have pointed out also what an absurdity it is to allege that placed as we are on this continent the United States market can be anything but of first-rate importance to us. That even under all restrictions it is quite worth all the rest of the world to us, and, mark you, these facts are clear as the noonday sun, and are taken from the tables of trade and navigation, laid before the House by Government officers. And though I will do all in my power to obtain other markets if we are shut out from the United States and I have pointed out the advantages of obtaining its markets; yet the whole of these foreign markets, with the exception of Great Britain, which has been open to us all time, all these put together would never be worth one-half what the United States is to-day; and if we could obtain full unrestricted reciprocity I don't believe, setting aside, as I have said, the market of Great Britain, the markets of all the world would be worth one single cent. What could that trade be developed into? We have no market for our ores except the United States. With the solitary exceptions of superior articles of manufactured lumber, the only place we have for the profitable sale of the products of our forests is in the United States. For instance, they take our poplar, the poorest possible wood, for pulp, and there are hundreds of thousands for those who take it out. I know numerous American capitalists who would be glad to engage in exploring those woods and in manufacturing their products if they felt reasonably safe in spending their money. That is a mere flea-bite from the mere accidental circumstances of the enormous development which awaits us if reciprocity were gained. It is well known that the inter-state trade between State and State in the union enormously exceeds the total value of the United States' foreign trade; and with our resources and stretch of country, in the name of wonder could we not hold our own and enter into competition with them? Are these gentlemen afraid that Canadians are not as intelligent and industrious as the Americans? I have stood alongside of manufacturers who publicly stated that they were prepared to face the fiercest competition of the United States market if they were allowed free access in return. And when our manufacturers go to the United States they

TAKE NO SECOND PLACE.

I can point to many Canadians in the North States who have attained as great wealth and eminence as those who were born natives of the soil. Your own recollections will supply you with numerous instances of the same. Have not all these Canadians held their own, whether they were Canadian merchants, manufacturers, farmers; and if we have the American market thrown open to us, cannot we do the same? I have heard that these gentlemen have attempted to talk of better men than themselves being disloyal to the Crown, but I never permit this talk to be hurled at the Liberal party when I am in the House. I know the men too well, and they dare not make their insinuations when I am near them. Now, I am here the descendant of of one of those men who, a hundred years ago, came here for the sake of their allegiance to the British Crown, and I tell you I believe I am acting in the spirit which actuated those men then, when I say that there is one great service which the people of Canada have in their power to render to the Dominion and the British Empire, which is that by all honorable, reasonable, lawful means, we should bring about a cordial understanding, an honorable alliance between all people who speak the English language, and in no better way can this be brought about than by establishing close commercial relations in an honorable way with the people who are of our own blood. That is, as I understand it, the policy of the Liberal party of Canada, and it is to that policy of free trade, peace and good will towards all men and loyalty to the English race in its highest sense—it is to that that I invite your attention to-day. (Applause.)

VOTE OF THANKS.

REV. MR. CLARK in moving a vote of thanks to Sir Richard Cartwright, referred to his personal friendship for the speaker, and though not there as politician, said he had antagonism towards the people across the lines, who were of the same blood. He hoped the day was far distant before any animosity will injure our intercourse with them. He hoped we would soon have closer commercial relationship with them than had existed since 1854. He referred to Sir Richard's speech as an eloquent, able, kindly and pacific address.

REV. FATHER CONWAY seconded the motion, and also complimented the speaker of the day on his excellent address. What he had said should be taken home by the farming community particularly, who were the foundation of the nation's prosperity and the most deeply interested in the great questions they had heard discussed.

The resolution was carried, and the gathering dispersed, after cheers had been given for the Queen.

MOTHER AND BABE HACKED TO PIECES IN LONDON.

One of the Most Revolting Crimes of the Century—From a Banqueting Hall to the Hospital—Other European News of Interest.

LONDON, Oct. 26.—The body of the woman murdered in the South Hampstead locality shows that the crime bears no resemblance to those committed by "Jack the Ripper." The body is that of Mrs. Hobbs, the wife of a porter employed in London, a woman about 40 years old. Her throat had been cut, and her skull fractured and all the pockets in her clothing were empty, a purse and ring having been stolen.

Mrs. Hobbs left her husband yesterday, taking with her her child, whom she carried in the perambulator, which was found near the place where the body was discovered. The whereabouts of the child, who was aged 18 months, is a mystery. The woman had no quarrel with her husband. The perambulator, however, was found close by, and contained a blood-stained rug. It is supposed the body was brought in the perambulator to the spot where found.

Further inquiry develops the fact that Mrs. Hobbs recently started to visit a woman named Nellie Piercey, an intimate friend of her family, who was married but had separated from her husband. A search of the house in which the Piercey woman resided resulted in the discovery that blood was everywhere. Windows were smashed and a blood-covered knife and a bent poker smeared with blood, and to which adhered several locks of women's hair, were found. Mrs. Piercey was arrested charged with murdering Mrs. Hobbs and her child. Hobbs, who is suspected of complicity in the crime, is being closely watched.

The dead body of Mrs. Hobbs' child was found to-day in a clump of furz bushes in a field adjoining the road in the neighborhood of South Hampstead. It was discovered about a mile distant from the place where the mother's body was found on Friday night. There are no external marks of violence on the body, and it is believed the child met its death by smothering. When found the infant's clothing was saturated with rain.

IMITATING BIRCHALL.

Espinel, the French Murderer, Writing a Line of Defence.

PARIS, Oct. 26.—The trial of Eyraud and Gabrielle Bompard for the murder of the procureur will has been fixed for the first week in November, but owing to the power of appeal which the accused possess it may be put off till the end of the month. Eyraud has chosen Maitre Felix Decori to defend him, but he takes the greatest interest in his own line of defence. Instead of playing cards with his warders as he did at the beginning of his incarceration, he now spends the whole of his time revising a long manuscript in which he has written a number of arguments which may militate in his favor. He awaits each day the arrival of his lawyer with the greatest impatience and reads to him his effects he supposes the latest additions to his journal. He does not deny that he has committed a crime nor that he is ready to expiate it, but he seeks by every means to destroy the existing impression that he is and always has been a bloodthirsty creature. For 10 years, he says, there was never a breath passed his character. He puts all the responsibility of his crime and arrest upon Gabrielle Bompard, "that vicious, unscrupulous woman who has brought me to the position in which I am now." His health is completely restored under the perfect regime of the prison infirmary, he eats little else but milk, bouillon and white bread, occasionally taking a little red ordinary wine. He smokes almost incessantly and sleeps tranquilly and well.

HOME RULE FOR SCOTLAND.

Gladstone Says the Land of Cakes Can Have What She Asks For.

LONDON, Oct. 26.—Mr. Gladstone in an address at Dalkeith, Scotland, last evening referred to the movement for home rule for Scotland and said he believed that whatever Scotland deliberately asked would be found consistent with the unity of the empire and would obtain the assent of Parliament. Mr. Gladstone deprecated the idea of emigration as a remedy for the distress existing among the Scotch crofters, declaring that emigration was the last and worst mode of meeting grievances of the people.

With reference to the disestablishment of the Scottish Church Mr. Gladstone said it would be an enormous advantage to Scotland and to the cause of religion if three Presbyterian churches were to be united. This step, however, he did not deem advisable at present, for in the approaching general election the disestablishment of the church would be made a test question at the ex pense of all other demanding adjustment by Parliament.

AFRICAN WAR CLOUDS

Osman Digna and the Sultan of Vitu Disturbing Factors.

LONDON, Oct. 26.—Two wars in Africa are looming up. It was hoped by the British Government that by cutting off the supplies at Suakim, intended for the Soudan, Osman Digna would be so weakened as to be unable to undertake hostilities. This expectation has not been fulfilled, and the Dervish leader is said to be advancing on Upper Egypt with a formidable force. Advices from South eastern Africa are to the effect that the expedition against Vitu will develop into a war of considerable proportions, the Arabs, made desperate by the loss of the slave trade, having chosen that place as a rallying ground against the Europeans. The German forces in South Africa have been instructed to co-operate with the English against the Sultan of Vitu.

ABERDEEN AND BALFOUR.

Rivals for an Honorary Position in the University of Glasgow.

LONDON, Oct. 26.—The candidacy of the Right Hon. Arthur J. Balfour, Chief Secretary for Ireland, for the honorary position of Lord Rector of the University of Glasgow, which has been regarded as equivalent to his election, is to be opposed by the Earl of Aberdeen, who is backed by influence in many respects more powerful than that exercised on behalf of the nephew of Lord Salisbury. The Earl of Aberdeen is a staunch Gladstonian, and the contest for the rectorship will be waged upon as purely political lines as though the position were an elective one in which the Parliamentary electors could express their preferences at the polls. The candidate receiving the largest number of votes from the students, who constitute the electors, will be awarded the position. The students are entering the contest with that vigor which usually characterizes any undertaking they enter upon, and the campaign will be a hot one.

The Foreign Bourses

LONDON, Oct. 26.—During the past week a general depression prevailed on the stock exchange. Yesterday there was sheer stagnation. Throughout the week the liquidation steadily proceeded of several accounts left over from last settlement. The largest of these, involving 500,000 shares of American railroads, of the gross nominal value of £10,000,000, has passed into the hands of a strong syndicate and a simultaneous pressure has thus been exerted. Since the arrangement was effected the Stock Exchange threat of a general collapse has subsided. Still the settlement beginning tomorrow is expected to be accompanied by several minor failures. Until it is over no sensible recovery of prices is possible. Even should the strike troubles and the depression cease in causing depression.

On the Paris bourse prices were irregular during most of the week past. On the last two days, however, the movement was upwards owing to a belief that the worst of the period of depression in the London market was over.

Business on the Berlin bourse was dull during most of the week past. Prices were weak until the end of the week, when they generally became firm owing partly to bears rebuying and partly to returning public confidence.

At Frankfort the bourse was quiet the past week. Prices were firm.

The Turks Were Too Previous

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 26.—Trouble has arisen between Mr. Hirsch, the American minister, and the Porte over the arrest of an American subject on suspicion of being implicated in Armenian revolutionary plots. The accused is a graduate of Bowdoin College. He came to Turkey during the administration of President Hayes to found an American college, but the project fell through, and he has since remained here. The arrest was effected at night at the accused's residence, and in spite of his protest that he was an American and his production of a passport was hurried to prison without being allowed to dress. In the morning he was allowed to communicate with the American minister and was soon released on condition that he should appear and stand trial. Minister Hirsch sent an energetic protest to the foreign minister against the violation of the right of domicile of an American citizen and demanded satisfaction, and the punishment of the official who ordered the arrest. He further declared that he would refuse to produce the accused unless informed of the nature of the charge against him. A statement was then sent to Mr. Hirsch that accused had engraved a seal for a secret Armenian committee. Proof was produced that the man had no knowledge of the art of engraving and that he had recently been acting as agent for an American firm engaged in the manufacture of photograph apparatus. The government in expressing its regrets, Mr. Hirsch still maintains his demand for satisfaction.

Stanley Replies.

LONDON, Oct. 26.—In an interview had yesterday by a Herald correspondent with Mr. Stanley the explorer hinted that Major Barttelot had ulterior motives in not advancing with the rear column and said that in his book, "In Darkest Africa," he had revised the reports of all the officers attached to the rear column, suppressing certain facts out of pity for the dead and respect for the living. Mr. Stanley said that his account of the death of Major Barttelot was also pruned. He declared that no English jury would have found the alleged murderer of Major Barttelot guilty, intimating that the major had insulted the wife of the man who killed him. Mr. Stanley asserts that he has ample proof of his statements, but refuses to make public the least portion of it until the other officers who accompanied Major Barttelot and who are cognizant of the facts shall have published their books.

Col. North Injured.

LONDON, Oct. 26.—Col. North, who banquetted the members of his volunteer regiment at Eltham on Saturday, met with a serious accident shortly after the conclusion of the festivities. He accompanied his guests to the railroad station on horseback, and just after the departure of their train, as he was riding too, from the station, one of his stirrup leathers broke and he was thrown from his horse. Both bones of his right forearm were broken and he received a scalp wound.

Nihilist Printing Office Raided.

ODESSA, Oct. 26.—The police recently discovered a Nihilist printing office in this city and to-day arrested four men connected with it after a violent struggle, during which two policemen were injured. Some revolvers and a quantity of forged rouble notes and revolutionary literature found in the establishment were seized. The leaders of the men who conducted the office here had another similar office at Nicolaieff, but escaped arrest. Two millions in forged rouble notes were found on the premises there.

The Result Unchanged.

BERNE, Oct. 26.—The elections to-day have not changed the party strength in the National Council. The National plebiscite shows a large majority in favor of state insurance against accident and illness.

Attacked by Natives on the Niger.

PARIS, Oct. 26.—M. Mizon, chief of the French commercial Mission on the Niger, while ascending the river with a party acting as escort to a quantity of goods, was attacked by natives. M. Mizon was twice wounded in the fight which followed. Several of the other members of the party also were wounded. M. Mizon and his followers finally took shelter at the British Niger Company's station. The dispatches to-day published before describing from the British Niger Company indemnity for the damage done by the natives, on the ground that that company ought to insure the security of navigation of the river.

That Zollverein

PARIS, Oct. 26.—M. De Lanoie, a member of the Budget Committee and editor of The Siecle, in an interview on the report that Germany, Austria and Italy are forming a zollverein against America, said France could only join such a zollverein in the event of Great Britain joining it. As this is highly improbable the scheme will be futile without England's assent.

Kings and Peasants Do Honor to Count von Moltke—Fifty Thousand Take Part in the Torchlight Procession—Festivities, Addresses and Presentations.

BERLIN, Oct. 26.—Nearly 20,000 persons took part last night in the torchlight procession which inaugurated the celebration of the 90th anniversary of the birth of Field Marshal Count von Moltke. All classes were represented. The participants were artistically grouped by prominent painters and sculptors. Upon arriving at the residence of Count von Moltke the chairman of a committee presented the venerable soldier a congratulatory address. Count von Moltke, in his reply, thanked the citizens for the brilliant manifestations in his honor and said the foundation of the Empire which had made Berlin great was the work of the mighty Emperor William I. If a share in this result was attributed to him (Moltke) his hearers must also remember his faithful companions and the brave men who had sealed their loyalty to the Fatherland with their death.

Gen. Count von Moltke passed the day in repose in preparation for the fatigues and emotions. Congratulatory messages and addresses were received by him from reigning sovereigns, municipal governments and many societies. The King of Saxony sent him a costly vase and the Bremen authorities a splendid floral offering.

The Celebration on Sunday.

The celebration was continued to-day at 8 a.m. The Count was serenaded by the Teachers' Choral Society and he received the congratulations of his relatives. At 9½ he received army officers, officials and the members of the general staff, who came in a procession.

At 11½ in the presence of the Emperor, the guards and cuirassiers with their colors, paraded before the offices of the general staff, where Count von Moltke is residing. The veteran stood bareheaded on the balcony. The colors were afterward taken to his room. Then all the German and foreign generals, including Chancellor von Caprivi, General Kutusso of Russia and the Austrian deputation bearing an autograph letter from Emperor Francis Joseph, assembled in the great hall, where they were greeted by the Emperor.

Count von Moltke, led by Count Waldersee, now entered, followed by the staff officers and there was a general offering of congratulations to the old general.

In the afternoon the municipal council, headed by Burgomaster Fockenbeck, presented a municipal testimonial and 50,000 marks as a gift in Count von Moltke's name to the late Emperor William's almshouses. In thanking them the Count described this as the most valuable of his gifts.

Deputations from the municipal councils of Munich, Breslau Koenigsburg, Chemnitz and Meurel presented addresses confer ring upon Count Von Moltke the freedom of their respective cities. Dresden and Magdeburg presented illuminated addresses. Cologne sent a splendid field marshal's baton artistically wrought in gold in the style of Cologne, Mecklenburg-Strelitz a sum of money subscribed for the purchase of the house in which Von Moltke was born at Perchim and a portfolio of views.

Bismarck Extends Congratulations.

The Czar, the King of Sweden, the Sultan, Prince Bismarck and the Prince of Wales telegraphed their congratulations.

In the evening the Count went to Potsdam by the Imperial train and was greeted on arrival by an enthusiastic crowd. A banquet was given in the Hall of Shells in honor of the veteran. The King of Saxony sat at the Count's right hand and on his left sat Empress Augusta Victoria. Emperor William sat opposite the Count. There was a large number of guests. Besides the members of the royal family, the ministers and generals there were present the four nephews of Count von Moltke.

The Emperor touched the Count's glass and drank to his prosperity.

William Makes a Speech.

In presenting the field marshal's baton the Emperor, referring to the count's deeds of glory and renown, said he was proud to be in such company and to offer the congratulations of himself and of the army. As a young man he was unable to add to the laurels already encircling the aged warrior's brow, but he begged him to accept the baton as a memento of this occasion.

The Emperor then called upon the assembled company for cheers and their "Hochs" fairly made the building tremble. The Emperor then advanced and kissed Count von Moltke three times on both cheeks.

The Empress Frederick visited the old count on Saturday and presented her congratulations. The veteran evinced the greatest pleasure at her visit.

Queen Victoria telegraphed her congratulations from Balmoral.

The King of Belgium also sent a congratulatory telegram. The Grand Duchess of Baden presented to the Count the late Emperor William's historic notebook which he used until his death.

The Count returned to Berlin at 9½ in a special train.

The Comte de Paris in Montreal.

MONTREAL, Oct. 26.—The Comte de Paris yesterday visited the Archbishop's palace and was received by Cardinal Taschereau and Vicar-General Marechal. Immediately afterwards he went to St. Mary's College and then to McGill University and Montreal College. At noon he proceeded with his party to the Ville Marie Convent, where he took part of luncheon with the sisters. The counter demonstration against the Comte has faded away, and he is meeting with a warm reception.

The Count of Paris left for Three Rivers and Quebec this afternoon at 3½. In the morning he received an address from St. Jean Baptiste Society and then attended high mass at Notre Dame Church, where Mgr. Morrow officiated. At a splendid service, and Cure Senteune preached upon the "Glories of New France and the Catholic faith. The positivist zouaves presented an address to the Windsor, which had been kept private. The count has openly told of the satisfaction the reception in Montreal afforded him and he was much encouraged by the loyalty expressed.

Who is Heir to the Money?

STRATFORD, Oct. 26.—When the body of William Creek, who was beheaded by a G.T.R. train here the other day, was searched the sum of $36.20 was found in his pockets. There being no known relatives to whose credit the money can be placed the sum has been entered to the name of Coroner Shaver. When the parties rightly entitled to the money are found, whether in this country or in England, they will receive it with interest.

THE COTTON CITY IN ASHES

THE FIRE KING DOES HALF A MILLION DAMAGE.

Alabama's Chief City, and the most Important Seaport of the Gulf of Mexico, Laid in Waste by Flames—Many Cotton Warehouses Destroyed.

MOBILE, Ala., Oct. 26.—A fire began near the river front at the northeast end of the city and spread rapidly to the cotton warehouses and presses, and getting entirely beyond control of the fire department encircled nearly all the cotton warehouses and presses on the river front and back to Royal-street from Beauregard to St. Louis streets. A stiff northeast wind prevailed and the fire threatened the entire business portion of the city. Four or five river steamers, the steamship Caxton, the Mobile & Ohio Railway wharf, the oil mills and five warehouses and presses burned in rapid succession.

The buildings consumed were a shingle mill, three cotton compresses and five cotton warehouses with 3600 bales of cotton, the Gulf City oil mill, the Mobile oil factory, three steamboats, 11 loaded and five empty freight cars, two coal and wood yards, a freight depot with a small amount of freight and six wharves.

The fire was aided by a strong northwest wind, but had it been a point or two nearer north pretty much all of the town would have gone. The loss is $700,000, with about $400,000 insurance.

More than 20 squares were burned bounded be Beauregard, Magnolia and St. Louis streets, and the river. The tracks of all railroads centering here have been obstructed by the debris in the burned district and trains are delayed.

Mobile is on the west side of the Mobile River, and is the largest city and only seaport of Alabama. Its population is about 45,000, of whom 20,000 are colored. Its site is a sandy plain. Its chief industries in the receipt and shipment of cotton, as less than 200,000 bales being shipped in a period of six years, $9,383,833 worth being shipped in 1874. It is one of the oldest cities in America, having been the original seat of French colonization in the southwest and for many years the capital of the colony of Louisiana. Many of the first settlers were Canadian. It was here the first recorded visitation of yellow fever occurred. The corporate limits of Mobile extend 6 miles north and south and 2 or 3 miles west from the river. The thickly inhabited part of the city extends for about a mile along the river and nearly the same distance back to the westward.

Scores of Persons Injured but Only a Few Fatalities.

TOPEKA, Kan., Oct. 26.—The Santa Fe westbound Denver vestibule express train No. 5, which left Topeka at 1.10 p.m. yesterday, is in the ditch ten miles south of Topeka, near Waukesa station. Close to Waukesa is a great curve, and it was there that the wreck occurred. The express, mail and baggage cars and three Pullman vestibule cars left the track. The engine turned bottom up, lying diagonally upon the main track, while the express and baggage cars toppled over on the other side. No one was killed, but about 20 were injured.

READING, Pa., Oct. 25.—The Reading Railroad express train, which left here at 8½ o'clock this morning, ran into three loaded coal cars which were standing on the track at Warwick Siding, half a mile from Pottstown. Joseph Markowic, who was on one of the coal cars, was killed. John Marks, who was also on a coal car, had his skull fractured and may not recover. The engineer, fireman and several passengers were injured.

OXFORD, Ohio, Oct. 26.—A terrible collision of two freight trains occurred about 7 o'clock last night in a cut and curve on the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Indianapolis Railway, about two miles east of here. Both trains were loaded with merchandise and were going at full speed. The collision made a terrific crash, threw the locomotives across the track and jumbled the freight cars in a confused mass. Fortunately the mass of splintered kindling-wood ready to receive the flames that had already started. The derailment was complete, and every man of the crews of the two trains was injured. The spot is lonely and there was no means at hand to save from the flames property that might otherwise have been saved. The loss is roughly estimated at $50,000. Of the injured, John Mathers, a fireman, was the only one fatally hurt.

WESTERLO, Conn., Oct. 25.—A collision took place on the Central New England and Western Railroad last night between two freight trains. Brakeman Higginson was killed. Both engines were wrecked and seven freight cars burned. The loss is heavy.

HIS WIFE DID NOT KNOW HIM.

But the Dead Body Was That of Her Husband Just the Same.

ST. THOMAS, Ont., Oct. 26.—An unknown man died suddenly at the Wilcox House a few days ago. Mrs. John Croft of Hamilton visited the city Friday and viewed the body, and although she found the same marks and scars on the body—a scar on the calf of the left leg, three fingers of one hand crushed, a scar on the back of the head and several teeth missing, she thought he was not her husband as the hair of the dead man was iron gray, while Croft's was almost white. The dead man was Croft, however, as yesterday Messrs. McAlpine, Oxford and Colbert, all of Southwold, who knew Croft well, fully identified the remains. Croft had spent a few days at their respective residences during the past month.

AN IMPOSING CEREMONY.

Archbishop Cleary Presented With the Pallium—He Refers to the Cleary-Meredith Controversy.

KINGSTON, Oct. 26.—To-day Archbishop Cleary was invested with the pallium, Cardinal Taschereau, Quebec, conducting the investure. The services were very impressive. St. Mary's Cathedral was magnificently decorated and the audience packed every part of the great edifice. The music was superb, "A" Battery Band assisting. There were 8 bishops and over the priests in attendance. The chief personages were: Cardinal Taschereau, Archbishop Walsh, Toronto, Bishops of Rochester, N.Y., Trenton, N.J., Ogdensburg, N.Y., Hamilton, London, Peterboro, Ont., Pontiac, Que., Mgr. After the investure Right Rev. Bishop McQuaid, Rochester, delivered an admirable sermon on the spread of the Catholic faith in America.

Two addresses were tendered His Grace, Archbishop Cleary—One from the city read by M. Flanagan, City Clerk, and the other from the clergy read by Mgr. Farrelly, Belleville, giving assurance of unswerving fealty and tendering $25,000 to commemorate the exaltation of Kingston to a metropolitan see.

Archbishop Cleary made fitting reply and announced that the gift would be spent in a morning chapel, adjacent to the cathedral, of unique design.

Cardinal Taschereau was received with great honors and also given an address. He replied briefly.

This afternoon a banquet was spread in the palace, followed by a reception by the cardinal. This evening Bishop Farrell of Trenton delivered a vigorous sermon. The ceremonies were unusually brilliant.

The pallium conferred is a pontifical ornament, the peculiarly characteristic badge of archiepiscopal rank and dignity.

Archbishop Cleary, in his address to-day, made mention of what he characterized as the unjust attack made on the Department of Education over its just action in affording proper rights to Roman Catholics on the education of their children, and which was sustained by the Protestant electorate even though the ministers joined in on the onslaught. The Protestants had shown a finer spirit of charity than their clergy. He would always believe the Roman Catholic Church had friends in the Protestant electorate. He touched on his battle with "a leader of the fanatics," who with his followers wanted to rob the church of its faith. They would never surrender to the waif. They would defend their lives and education at any cost.

Alleged Kidnapping by Canadians.

DETROIT, Oct. 26.—Robert Sullo, 13 years old, went across the river on Monday and began shooting ducks in the St. Clair flats. Notwithstanding the fact that he was outside the preserves of the Toronto Club, the game-keeper arrested him and carried him to the Toronto club-house. He was kept in confinement there for the night and in the morning taken to Port Lambton, where the sportsmen attempted to secure a warrant against him for poaching. The justice refused to consider the case. The boy was then taken 30 miles further away, to Sarnia, and after much persuasion a justice was induced to fine Sullo $10 with $15 costs. The father is advised that it is a plain case of kidnapping and is determined to have redress, even if he has to call in the assistance of the Secretary of State.

Mount Pleasant.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

I suppose you will be glad to hear that Mount Pleasant is still in a prosperous condition and everything booming.

The farmers have been blessed with a bountiful harvest. Potatoes, which at the first of the season, were supposed to be a failure, will be a good average crop.

The municipality of Cavan have undertaken a great idea. They intend to connect your town with our beautiful village by digging a canal, commencing at the main road leading into the village and following the line of swamp into town. The surveyors are at present running the line. It is presumed that it will be deep enough to allow Capt. Calcutt to run a line of steamers up to our village in the near future. Some suppose that it will be completed by the 12th of July, so that our loyal friends will have a chance to enjoy the first excursion.

Our churches are still prospering under the ever watchful eyes of our spiritual guardians.

Our Sunday schools are largely attended by the rising generation, and under the able management of the superintendents are in a prosperous condition. The record of the superintendent who has held the office for over thirty years, should not not be allowed to pass without some token of the affection which he holds in the hearts of the people.

The county, and particularly the village, is noted for its beauty and healthy surroundings. Our doctor has the reputation of keeping the people in good state of health.

I also notice that our old dentist, T. A. Murtry, Peterborough, has made arrangements to attend our village professionally the second Monday in each month. If you want your aches filled with gold, or a youthful expression given to the face, give him a call at Dr. McKeely's office.

Temperance is still in a prosperous state. Mount Pleasant has always been noted for its temperance principle, which have given it a peaceful home for its occupants.

Charles Courtney, our enterprising tanner, is still doing a good business and he is still the good and genial fellow of former years.

Equal Rights.

All have equal rights in life and liberty and the pursuit of happiness, but many are handicapped in the race by dyspepsia, biliousness, lack of energy, nervous debility, weakness, constipation, etc., by completely removing these complaints Burdock Blood Bitters confer untold benefits on all sufferers. 2w42d Timely Wisdom.

Great and timely wisdom is shown by keeping Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry on hand. It has no equal for cholera, cholera morbus, diarrhœa, dysentery, colic, cramps, and all summer complaints, or looseness of the bowels. 2w42d

Imperial Federation

Will present an opportunity to extend the fame of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, the unfailing remedy for cholera, cholera morbus, colic, cramps, diarrhœa, dysentery, and all summer complaints, to every part of the Empire. Wild Strawberry never fails. 2w42d

Mining News

Mining experts note that cholera never attacks the bowels of the earth, but humanity in general find it necessary to use Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry for bowel complaints, dysentery, diarrhœa, etc. It is a sure cure. 2w42d

We cheerfully recommend any preparation that stands as high as SCOTT'S EMULSION OF PURE COD LIVER OIL. It has crept into the confidence of the public solely thuough its merits. For wasting diseases of throat or lungs all druggists will testify to its efficacy. w44-ws

Frank Wilkinson, grain buyer at Hamilton, says : "I used several medicines and found no relief until I tried Wilson's Compound Syrup, Wild Cherry." Less than one bottle cured him of a long standing and painful cough, and tightness of chest and short breath. Sold by all druggists. dw

As a tonic and relief to sufferers from neuralgia, dyspepsia, loss of appetite and general debility, Dyer's Quinine and Iron Wine is highly recommended. W. A. Dyer & Co., Montreal. 6d-99

If you once try Carter's Little Liver Pills for sick headache, biliousness or constipation you will never be without them. They are purely vegetable ; small and easy to take. Don't forget this dw

Milburn's Aromatic Quinine Wine fortifies the system against attacks of ague, chills, bilious fever, dumb ague and like troubles. dw

Purify The importance of keeping the blood in a pure condition is universally known, and yet there are very few people who have perfectly pure blood. The taint of scrofula, salt rheum, or other foul humor is perpetuated and transmitted for generations, causing untold suffering, and we also accumulate poison and germs of disease from the air we breathe, the food we eat, or the water we drink. There is nothing more conclusively proven than the positive power of Hood's Sarsaparilla over all diseases of the blood. This medicine, when fairly tried, does expel every trace of scrofula or salt rheum, removes the taint which causes catarrh, neutralizes the acidity and cures rheumatism, drives out the germs of malaria, blood poisoning, etc. It also vitalizes and enriches the blood, thus overcoming that tired feeling, and building up the whole system. Thousands testify to the superiority of Hood's Sarsaparilla as a blood purifier. Full information and statements of cures sent free.

We want to know, you know—and we know you do know. It's your business to create the demand. It's our business to supply it. And we do it well, don't you know—none better. It's our life work. It must be done thoroughly. Slip-shod work won't answer in this Constituency. If we relax for one week, our grip of the wheel, your dissatisfaction would show it. We've a daisy trade. Everything nice and new, the best markets can produce.

IN THE CLOTHING ARENA

On account of our having bought the KIDD BANKRUPT STOCK at 50c. on the dollar, we will hold during the next 30 days a ROARING, RUSHING, ROCKING SALE, in order to break up and clear out the stock. You might ask, why are Gough's anxious to sell? Here's a pointer. The Montreal Wholesale Clothing Market was never so low as at present. Owing to the McKinley Bill, English Manufacturers are shipping all their goods to the United States. Consequently it is a matter of impossibility to get goods wholesale. Goughs saw this squeeze coming, and bought $25,000 worth of the finest goods to be had in Canada. The goods are here. They have to be paid for. You have to pay for them, by paying us for your share. We'll give you Value Galore. Not only in Clothing but in BOOTS AND SHOES, for we are shoeing half the Country.

ANTICIPATES SANCTIFICATION.

And Like the Sweet Singer of Israel Birchall Cries "Wash Me and I Shall be Whiter Than Snow."

WOODSTOCK, Oct 24.—The authorities continue to receive applications for the position of hangman.

Birchall has positively no fear of death and blames the English farm pupil agency for the whole matter. He says that he does not pretend to be a saint, but that if Old Testament sinners like, for instance, "David the Sweet Singer of Israel" realized an interest in heaven, why shouldn't an unfortunate devil like himself be pardoned and admitted to that delightful desideratum.

The Birchall trial cost the county $2500. This was merely part of the witness's, constables' and jurors' fees. The counsel, etc., were paid by the Government, making the total cost $4000.

Birchall's autobiography was put up at auction to-day, Jailer Cameron acting as auctioneer. It was finally knocked down at $1700, the purchasers being representatives of New York and Toronto newspapers. Half of the purchase money was paid down and the other half will be paid immediately after the execution to Mrs. Birchall.

The reference which Birchall makes to the "sweet Singer of Israel" is in relation to King David's sin in the matter of Bathsheba, wife of Uriah the Hittite. Not only did David commit adultery with Uriah's wife but he wilfully caused him to be placed in the forefront of the battle and thereby ordered his death. After the murder the king took unto himself Bathsheba to wife. David and his line were punished for this, the sword never departed from his house. In exile the king wrote his "Penitential Psalms," the 51st, in which he prayed "deliver me from bloodguiltiness, O Lord; purge me with hyssop and I shall be clean; wash me and I shall be whiter than snow."

WILDER THAN HE OF BORNEO.

As Naked as Nature a Lunatic Creates Intense Excitement.

BELLEVILLE, Oct. 24.—Thomas Poole, a man about 45 years of age, was arrested yesterday as a dangerous lunatic. He resides at the village of Tweed, where he has a wife and family. He came to Belleville on Tuesday last and was raving upon the streets and knocked over three or four men with his fists. After the prisoner had been locked up he disrobed himself, with the exception of his underclothing, and could not be induced to replace his clothes until an early hour this morning. All night long he kept up a continual howl, at times making hideous noises. He would ask for a drink and when supplied to him would throw the water and cup at the officers, and endeavored to throw his shoes at them through the bars. This morning the magistrate remanded him to jail for a week. The unfortunate man is well and favorably known throughout this section of the country, having for a number of years driven the stage plying between this city and the village of Tweed. His condition is worse than that of any lunatic who has been placed in the jail for some time.

SAILING 'MID THE STARS.

Three Aeronauts Have a Narrow Escape in a Balloon.

PARIS, Oct. 24.—Three aeronauts—Valles, Lelice and Truelle—have just met with an exciting adventure, which very nearly had a fatal termination. They left the gas works at La Villette at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon in their balloon, the Mozart, intending after a brief ascent to return again to the ground just outside the fortifications. When they reached an altitude of three thousand yards a hurricane commenced to blow and drove the balloon furiously to the northeast. For some hours the aeronauts had a dreadful time, the wind causing the car to sway so violently that its occupants were obliged to cling to the edge in order to avoid being thrown out. Instead of being able to be in Paris in time for dinner, as they had intended, they found themselves after dark above the village of Bourcy, one hundred and fifty miles from the capital. Then they resolved to land at all risks. The grappling irons were therefore thrown out, but they broke off and the wind got into the envelope and burst a large hole in it. Then the balloon began to sink rapidly, and very soon the car struck the ground and rebounded, throwing out Lelice, who fell on the telegraph wires and then, on reaching the ground, he remained insensible for some time. His companions were also thrown out of the car and fell a distance of 15 feet. Lelice, whose collision with the telegraph wires broke the force of his fall, was the least injured of the trio, and when he recovered consciousness he looked about and eventually discovered his friends, being directed to them by their groans. The balloon and the car are damaged beyond all possible hope of repair.

A Transatlantic Liner Runs Aground Near Far Rockaway.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—A despatch was received from Far Rockaway, L.I., to-night, saying a large ocean steamship was ashore beyond Long Beach. The wires along the shore are down and no particulars can be obtained. The steamer was reported to be a four-masted vessel, and it is thought she may be the Obdam of the Netherlands, American line, which was expected to arrive Wednesday. The only other trans-Atlantic liner due and not reported is the Circassian, but she is not a four-master.

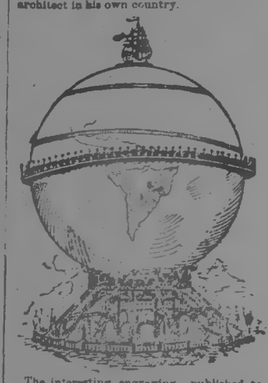
AN ARCHITECT'S DREAM.

A MARVELOUS MONUMENT TO THE MEMORY OF COLUMBUS.

A Little World Surmounted With a Miniature of the Caraval in Which Columbus Discovered the New World—The General Design of Sig. Palacio.

Designs of monuments to fittingly symbolize the 400th anniversary of the discovery of America by Christopher Columbus continue to be filed. All former plans, however, dwindle into insignificance compared with the stupendous monument of Columbus which is provided for in the plans of one Alberto de Palacio of Bilbao, who, we are assured, is a successful, practical, and even distinguished architect in his own country.



The interesting engraving, published today, shows what form Sig. Palacio's dream has taken. He would construct a little world; stand it upon an ornamental pedestal of truss-iron work, and crown all at the North Pole with a miniature of the caraval in which Columbus sailed to discover America.

The diameter of this globe is to be about 1,000 feet. At the equator on the outside runs a balcony, 45 feet wide and about three quarters of a mile long. Around the upper half of the sphere climbs a spiral roadway. The interior of this little world is to contain a large number of rooms, halls, and corridors; a grand assembly-room where 100,000 people may gather; a library of historical literature, and a grand group of monuments, with Columbus at the center, and other explorers, generals, etc., grouped about. Four or five miles of tramways are provided, the motive power probably being electricity. The interior of the upper part of the globe is to be finished as a counterpart of the northern heavens. A meteorological observatory is of course provided. Architect Palacio stakes his reputation on the perfect feasibility of this construction, which is to be largely of iron. Its cost he estimates at 14,187,875 pesetas, or about $2,000,000.

Not the least interesting part of the plan is that which provides for flushing the outside of the globe as a map of the world. As a means of instruction in geography it would certainly afford unsurpassed opportunities.

Suddenly Called.

BARRIE, Oct. 23.—Thomas Maloney, a blacksmith at Ivy, rose in the night to get a child a drink, and on his returning told his wife to put out the light as he was too sleepy to do so. Shortly after she heard him moaning and tried to arouse him but he was dead.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

ON SOAP,
IN RELATION TO THE COMPLEXION.

FROM AN ARTICLE BY
Dr. ANDREW WILSON, F.R.S.E.,
Lecturer on Health under the "Combe Trust;"
Lecturer on Physiology at the Edinburgh University;
Editor of "Health."

"One important caution should be given, and that is concerning the use of soaps. I would strongly advise all who care for their skin to eschew the use of common soap, which simply roughens and injures the skin, and, if you will be advised by me, I would say never buy those artificially coloured and odoriferous abominations commonly sold under the name of 'Scented' or 'Fancy Soaps' which are the frequent causes of skin eruptions. If I am prepared to recommend any one soap to you, as a satisfactory and scientifically prepared article, I would certainly advise you to buy and use 'Pears' Soap.' Not merely from personal use can I recommend this soap, but I am well content to shelter myself under the names and authority of the late Sir Erasmus Wilson, F.R.S., President of the Royal College of Surgeons; of Doctor Stevenson Macadam, or of Professors Redwood and Attfield, the eminent analytical and chemical lecturers at the Pharmaceutical Society of Great Britain, who testify to its entire purity. Furthermore, I believe it to be very economical, for it contains no free water, and in this respect differs from all other soaps; hence a cake of 'Pears' is really all soap and not soap and water. I know cases of irritable skin which the whole tribe of much-vaunted 'Fancy Soaps' failed to allay, but which disappeared under the use of Pears' Soap, and for the nursery and for the delicate skin of infancy no better or more soothing soap can possibly be used. There can be no doubt that in respect of the care of children, attention to the skin is specially required. If common soaps are irritating to the skin of the adult, (as they unquestionably are), they are doubly and trebly injurious to the delicate skin of the infant and young child. I can vouch that the soap I am recommending is not merely a safe but an advantageous one. It does not irritate the skin; but, while serving as a detergent and cleanser, also acts as an emollient."

Life Insurance Policy Holders
SHOULD READ THIS!

THE PERCENTAGE OF LAPSES.

The large increase in the amount of life insurance written by purely Canadian companies, and terminated by surrender or lapse, during the past year, has naturally attracted the attention of insurance men. So unexpected and unwelcome an increase ($1,709,612 in the amount of lapsed policies credited to Canadian companies during a period when American companies doing business in this country showed a decrease under this heading of $816,304, could not fail to excite comment; so that the figures have been eagerly scanned to discover how such a condition of affairs was brought about.

Perhaps this is most easily shown in tabular form by giving the net amount of insurance in force on the books of each of our principal Canadian companies and the percentage of lapsed and surrendered policies they are responsible for. In this case they rank as follows:—

Company.	Net amount in force.	Percentage of Surrender and Lapse.
Canada Life	$48,664,376	3.07
Confederation	17,674,828	5.31
Ontario Mutual	13,071,400	10.29
Federal	10,058,837	10.35
Sun Life	11,570,817	10.36
North American	8,470,620	10.68
Temperance and General	2,984,972	17.84
Citizens	2,097,956	29.15
Manufacturers' Life	5,723,100	30 12
London Life	1,644,286	30.61

From this table we can see that while such companies as the Canada Life and Confederation have actually decreased the amount of their lapses, some of the weaker companies have largely increased theirs, so that, although one company shows under four per cent., one under six, and four under eleven, the average percentage of lapses for the whole ten companies is 15.78 per cent.

The only moral we can draw from these figures is that the stronger and more widely known a company is, and the more of its patrons it will retain permanently on its books, while the weaker companies must, perforce, witness the defection of a certain proportion of their customers to their more powerful rivals. That so large a proportion as 30 per cent. of policy holders should entirely abandon the advantages of insurance in one year is hardly probable in these days of popular education. We can therefore only fall back on the hypothesis that the bulk of the lapses of the weaker companies must arise from their policy holders transferring their allegiance elsewhere. It is in fact a case of the wealthier and more widely known (even if not more progressive) companies absorbing the cream of the permanent business, and leaving only the transitory, and therefore less desirable risks, to their humbler competitors. By the aid of clever management and attractive methods, a weak company may be able to absorb a fair share of new business; but it is evident from these figures that the superior prestige of their older established rivals is certain to attract a proportion of their customers in the long run, and that thus their percentage of lapses will always be heavier.

A Victim of Pleurisy.

A sad death occurred at the Nicholls Hospital Sunday morning. Mr. W. B. Teeple, of Woodstock, traveller for the Karn Co.'s organs, arrived in Peterborough a week ago Saturday and was almost immediately taken ill with pleurisy. He grew worse during the week and on Saturday was removed from the Grand Central hotel to the hospital. He died next morning at two o'clock. Deceased was about fifty years of age. His wife and son were with him at the time of his death, they having been summoned a few days previously. The remains were taken to Woodstock this morning by the sorrow-stricken widow and her son.

It has been arranged that the centre portion of the church shall be reserved for the Brotherhood and other young men, of whom doubtless a large number will be present. A Catholic Association.

A largely attended meeting of male members of the congregation of St. Peter's Cathedral was held for the purpose of taking steps to organize a Catholic Association. Rev. Father Rudkins was chairman of the meeting. The Association aims to provide a library and reading and recreation rooms for the men of the congregation, which shall be for them a place of popular and profitable resort. It will be to all intents and purposes a club. It was decided to issue fifty shares at $10 each, and of this amount some thirty shares have already been taken. As soon as the full amount is subscribed the shareholders will meet for organization. Several suitable premises for the Association are kept in view, and it is expected the club will be in operation in about two weeks. Rev. Father Rudkins has donated to the Association the library now in the Separate School.

Death of an old Resident.

One of our oldest citizens passed away in the person of Mrs. Simons, relict of the late Peter Simons, who died to-day in the 84th year of her age. The deceased lady, who lived at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Justice Dunn, was a native of County Longford, Ireland, from which place she came to America in 1820, and to Peterborough in 1838. She leaves behind her several children, four boys and three girls. The funeral takes place from the residence of Mrs. Justice Dunn, 167 Charlotte street, where the death took place, on Wednesday at 9 o'clock, to St. Peter's Cathedral, thence to the R. C. cemetery.

Christian Endeavor.

The Provincial Christian Endeavor Convention at Hamilton was most successful. The Peterborough delegates were: Mr. R. J. Colville, Baptist; Miss Fanny Dixon, St. Paul's; Miss. A. V. Robertson and Miss J. Ambrose, Coldsprings. Peterborough was selected as the next place of meeting, and Mr. R. J. Colville was elected President. Another convention is to be held about this time next year. The treasurer's report showed the societies during the year have doubled in numbers. The figures given were as follows:—Denomination of societies—Presbyterian, 94; Methodist, 48; Baptist, 23; Congregational, 20; Episcopal, 5; Miscellaneous 6; total, 196 societies. Active members, 3 668; associate members, 1,795; church members, 3,200. Proportion of active members, 2.08; associate members, 9.2; church members 17.8. The finances were: Receipts, $189.23; expenditure, $180 46; balance, $9.87. During the convention Miss Dixon read a paper on the work of the sick visitation committee.

The Coming Grand Musical Treat.

Those who love good music, perfectly presented, by the most artistic soloists and the most faultless ensemble, should not omit to take seats for the concert of the Boston Symphony Orchestral Club, on Nov. 7th, 1890. No better musical organization has ever appeared in Peterborough. The Boston Home Journal, one of the best critics of the most musical centre on the continent, says of this club:—"A very large audience crowded the auditorium at the concert by the Boston Symphony Orchestral Club, and the organization was acknowledged with a unanimity and enthusiasm that are seldom witnessed. Every member of the company is manifestly an artist, and the playing ensemble is characterized by some of the best graduations of light and shade, as well as purity of tone and unity of attack." The singing of Fraulein Corradine Mantell, the prima donna of the club, is simply superb. Bradburn's opera House, Nov. 7th. Tickets, 75 and 50c. Reserved seat plan at Greatrex's drug store.

Home From the Chase.

Several of the hunting parties which left town two or three weeks ago have returned, with the usual variety of luck to report. They all express themselves pleased with their outing; nothing happened to cause any sadness or alarm.

Mr. T. Fitzgerald's party, five in number, reached home Saturday afternoon with seven deer, 127 pounds of trout and 22 pounds of lunge.

Mr. Geo. Fitzgerald's party had a run of unprecedented bad luck. They returned with only two deer.

Messrs. (Rev.) F. C. Parker, (Rev.) Wm. Peer, R. J. Kidd and Hanlon returned Friday night, with a quantity of fish and a bear. They did not hunt for deer. Mr. Kidd is the hero of the story connected with the dead bear. He was looking for duck when bruin trotted past him a few yards distant. Mr. Kidd blazed away and bored several holes through the bear's hide. It ran away and fell dead behind a rock. While looking after his prize another bear approached, and while some distance off sat up on its haunches and calmly contemplated the scene. Mr. Kidd raised his rifle and snapped the other barrel, but it would not explode, so he lost his game. The bear he shot was small, but it had a very pretty coat.

Mr. R. A. Morrow, who went out with H. C. Winch and party, has returned disgusted with the bad luck which has befallen his friends. They are not committing much slaughter among the deer, but will remain another week.

A Dash For Liberty.

Harry Lynch Takes French Leave of His Prison Friends, But is Speedily Recaptured.

It is rare indeed that gaoler Nesbitt allows himself to be outdone by any of the prisoners committed to his custody, but on Saturday Harry Lynch, the mattoon pilferer who was in prison on a remand, made his escape and got clean away before his absence was discovered.

Some repairs were being made at the gaol, and in the yard was a step-ladder for the use of the laborers. Lynch was walking in the yard, and none of his guardians being present he availed himself of the opportunity and by means of the ladder scaled the wall. This was probably about two o'clock, and he was not missed until four. Timothy Conroy was in the yard and when enquiries were made told the gaol officials that Lynch had escaped.

Mr. Nesbitt at once notified Chief Rossel, who took steps to recapture the fugitive. It was nine o'clock in the evening before any trace of Lynch was discovered; then P.C. Adams heard that he had been seen at Lakefield with Frank Phelan. Chief Rossel, with Gaoler Nesbitt and Turnkey Rae drove out to to Lakefield, where they were reinforced by Constables Cochrane and Campbell. It was ascertained that the two young men had been in the village between six and seven o'clock, but they were not at any of the hotels, and it was conjectured that they had gone to Young's Point. The posse of officers, except Constable Cochrane, drove at once to the Point, reaching there after one o'clock. At an hotel, the inmates were all asleep. The landlady on being roused strenuously denied that Lynch was in her house, and took about fifteen minutes to dress and let the officers in. Frank Phelan, Lynch's comrade, was in bed, and stated that Lynch had been there but had left about nine o'clock for Bark's camp. There were some slight discrepancies between the stories of the inmates of the house, and the Coiet concluded that Lynch was either in or about the place. He searched the hotel from cellar to garret, but did not find his man. He went outside, and was on the point of going to another hotel, when he recollected that he had leading off a bed room, which he had fully intended investigating, but in the confusion of a moment when he had rushed from the room to ascertain the cause of a noise in another part of the house, he had forgotten it. He sent Constable Campbell and Turnkey Rae back to examine the room, and went on with Mr. Nesbitt. Before they had gone very far they heard their assistants shouting that they had captured Lynch. He was found in the very room which had been overlooked at first, snugly stowed away under the bed. The room in which he had been hiding was nicely adapted for the purpose. It was the middle one of three rooms which were along side of and opened into each other. On entering either of the end rooms the visitor would naturally fall into the error of supposing that there were but two apartments, with but one door between them. The chief thought perhaps the door might lead into a closet, hence his anxiety to have it searched.

Lynch did not resist arrest, and said he had pretty near made up his mind to return and face his trial Monday morning, anyway. The probabilities are he had made up his mind to get as far away from town as possible.

The chief and his party reached Peterborough at six o'clock in the morning.

CONVICTED AND SENTENCED.

At the police court this morning Lynch was convicted of the theft of a piece of mutton from Laplant's stall Friday upon the evidence of the boy Snuck, who swore to having seen him carry it off.

Lynch was sentenced to three months in gaol.

Church Chimes.

Rev. Mr. Craigie, of Bobcaygeon, preached in St. Andrew's church Sunday, Rev. Mr. Bell being still under surgical treatment in Toronto.

At the Charlotte street church Sunday evening Rev. S. J. Shorey took for his text the question of the young man to Christ, "What lack I yet?" And Christ replied, "One thing thou lackest. Go sell all thou hast and follow me." Mr. Shorey pointed out that that principle was found operating in all classes of life—commercial, professional and mechanical. For instance, if a man wished to become a master mechanic he had to lay aside all other pursuits and other pleasures. Over the door of the manufactory was written, "sell all thou hast and follow me." "I am never more impressed," said the reverend gentleman, "with the triumphs of human skill and ingenuity, than when I go into some manufactory and see what has been accomplished. To me there is far greater evidence of the extent and quality of man's capabilities furnished by the triumphs of modern skill as found in mechanism, than any in utterances of poet or philosopher. I delight to go into these manufactories and see how the power is utilized, controlled and applied with such ingenuity, and I see the mechanic afterwards, not with his leathern apron and grimy face, but in all the strength and beauty of his skill and infinite power, and I think of him in a way I never did before."

At St. John's and St. Luke's English churches, the Sunday School work was specially recognized. The hymns, special intercessary prayers and sermons, all had particular reference to the Sunday School. The rectors of the two churches exchanged duties for the day.

At St. John's there was a large congregation in the morning. Rev. J. W. McCleary, of St. Luke's read the lessons and preached the sermon. He took for his text St. Matthew's gospel, Chap. x, v, 14: "Suffer little children to come unto Me and forbid them not; for of such is the Kingdom of God." The preacher pointed out the importance of Sunday School work. Take care of the children and the children will take care of the church and its work was a truth that showed the necessity of the church taking an interest. The future of a nation depended upon the training of its children and the church should be busy with the ocean tender hearts of the young, in default of the discharge of this duty by the natural trainers of the child—its parents. The importance of the Sunday School arose in one way from it being the only systematic means of training the young. The preacher went into details of Sunday School work, giving a clear, practical and pointed exposition of the duties of the teacher in relation to this work.

The singing at the children's service at 3:30 yesterday, was singularly good, the Brotherhood choir mustering in full force.

At St. Luke's Rev. J. C. Davidson, of St. John's, conducted the services, assisted by Mr. Loucks, lay reader of St. John's Mission School, and preached the sermon. He selected as his text Proverbs chap. xxii, v. 3, "Train up a child in the way he should go, and when he was old he will not depart from it." Special emphasis was laid upon the importance of early training. In illustration of this point the preacher said that the secret of the success, solidity and progress of the Roman Catholic church was the strict attention it paid to the training of the youth in the tenets of that faith, and those who complained of its aggressiveness should consider whether or not Protestant denominations had not something to learn from the zeal of whose results they complained. As a rule the Protestant parent subordinated the religious training of his children to providing for his secular and business education. The importance of Sunday schools was most earnestly insisted on, and their claims upon the zeal and self-sacrifice of every Christian faithfully presented. The speaker in closing an admirable address, paid a compliment to the work done in St. Luke's, especially commending the practice, inculcated last Christmas, of the principle that it is more blessed to give than to receive, as shown by the Sunday school children making instead of receiving presents.

A Breach of Promise Suit.

The lawyers have a choice morsel to gloat over—a breach of promise case, the parties two well known persons—the young lady the defendant, changing her mind at the last moment. It appears that the course of true love had run so smoothly that the day was set, a house rented, and house-keeping details discussed. But the young lady rebelled and broke off the match because her affianced would not promise to buy the necessary supply of tea at hawley bros. She rightly reasoned that the young man who hadn't sense enough to know what was best for them was not the man for her. And thousands confirm this sensible young lady's judgment.

The Gilmour Memorial Church.

Opening Services of the New Smith Church.

The opening services in connection with the new Gilmour Memorial Church in Smith, took place Sunday. This handsome edifice is a credit to the Baptists of Smith. An extended description of the building will be given to-morrow.

The services Sunday were attended by large congregations, the seating capacity being crowded to the utmost. Among the congregation were a number of people from town.

Rev. J. F. Barker, of Ingersoll, brother of the present incumbent, preached appropriate sermons, morning and evening. At the afternoon meeting of children, Rev. J. B. Hough, of Westport, (late pastor of the church) and R. J. Colville, of Peterborough, delivered addresses.

There will be a continuation of the opening ceremonies to-night. An interesting programme will be presented, in which will be addresses by a number of clergymen and others. It is expected the church will be crowded. A 'bus leaves town at half-past six o'clock for the fourth line.

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

The young men's meeting on Saturday evening was well attended. Messrs. Mannell and Barch gave impressive addresses, which were very helpful to all present.

The consecration meeting Sabbath morning was a season of blessing to all present.

The afternoon meeting was held in the hall. The attendance was good. Messrs. Albert Hamilton and R. Russell gave impressive, straight talks, which cannot fail to produce beneficial results.

The Gospel and song service in the evening was addressed by Mr. H. S. Griffin, who gave a heart-searching address on the "Rich young man," showing the need of all of accepting eternal life on God's terms. The address was greatly enjoyed by the audience, which crowded the hall.

Bible class Tuesday evening at 8 p.m.

Bobcaygeon.

INDUCTION.—On Thursday last, the 21st inst. a most interesting service was held in the Presbyterian church here. The induction by the Presbytery of Peterborough, of the Rev. William Anderson, M. A. into the pastoral charge of the united churches of Bobcaygeon and Dunsford. The service commenced at 3 p.m. The congregation present on the occasion was large. After the Presbytery was constituted by the Rev. Mr. Hyde, Moderator of the Session, and the edict usual on such occasions read, the Rev. Mr. Jones, of Port Hope, delivered a very thoughtful and instructive sermon on John xiii, 1. The usual questions being put to the minister elect, and satisfactorily answered, Rev. Mr. Hyde offered up the induction prayer, after which he secures the right hand of fellowship by the members of the Presbytery present. The newly inducted minister was then addressed by the Rev. Mr. Torrance, of Peterborough, and the congregation by the Rev. Mr. Ewing, of Omemee, on their respective duties and responsibilities. In the evening, in the Town Hall, a very elegant entertainment was given by the ladies of the congregation. This being over, the congregation re-assembled in the church. Mr. Hickson was called to the chair, which he very efficiently filled, instructive and very interesting addresses were then delivered by the following:—Rev. Mr Anderson, Rev. Mr. Duke—Methodist—Rev. Mr. Puller, Rev. Mr. Ewing, Rev. Mr. Craigie and Rev. Mr. Hyde. Between the foregoing, the choir, led by Miss Bredin, the accomplished organist of the church, rendered with great efficiency and acceptance some very choice music. After votes of thanks were passed to the ladies who provided the entertainment, the choir and the chairman, the meeting after singing the Doxology, "Praise God from all blessings flow," and the benediction being pronounced, was dismissed.—Independent.

Tweed's Banker is Missing.

Ex-Warden Faulkner in Hiding to Avoid Arrest—His Partner, who had Endorsed Faulkner's Paper Loosely, Causes a Warrant to be Issued for His Arrest—Liabilities over $30,000, Including Several Toronto Firms.

BELLEVILLE, Oct. 24.—Dr. Faulkner, of Stirling, ex-warden of Hastings, is in hiding to avoid arrest. The difficulty will very likely be adjusted, as his partner, F. E. O'Flynn, knows where he is and is red over the affair with him yesterday. Mr. O'Flynn stated to a reporter that the doctor's assets would cover his liabilities and an assignment to the sheriff for the benefit of his creditors was made to-day. The whole trouble was brought about by heavy loans in the bank at Tweed, other losses in grain buying and shrinkage in security for loans. Unfortunately for the doctor he took second mortgages, trusting to the moral standing of the parties more than the collateral security, and has been badly left in the lurch by depreciation in value. It is said that Mr. Tulloch, who has endorsed Dr. Faulkner's paper for sums totaling somewhere in the neighbourhood of $15,000, issued a warrant for the doctor's arrest whilst he was hunting in the north woods. The doctor got wind of the affair and sought friendly shelter to avoid arrest. His solicitor says that as soon as bail is arranged for, so that the doctor can appear without fear of arrest, he will face the music and pay off the cost dollar. His liabilities, if information at hand is reliable, will not exceed $30,000, and it is believed he has the wherewith to wipe it out. The warrant precipitated the collapse, and as the news spread the creditors flocked in. It is sincerely hoped by his many friends all over the country that he will be able to meet his obligations.

Dr. Faulkner is one of the best-known men in the county. Of late years he has been known as a private banker and grain buyer, carrying on the last mentioned business in company with Mr. Tulloch.

As stated, the doctor's liabilities will be covered by $30,000. His principal creditors are:—

McKay, Montreal	$ 700
McLaughlin Bros., Toronto	100
Alexander Anderson, Toronto	106
Traders' Bank	2,800
P. R. Palmer, Belleville	5,000
Bank of Montreal	4,000

E. D. O'Flynn, Madoc, is said to be a creditor, but how much is not known, but he has ample security. The Bank of Montreal, Traders' Bank and Mr. Palmer are said to be secured also.

Strangled Herself.

LINDSAY, Oct. 24.—A very distressing circumstance occurred on the 8th concession of Eldon on Saturday last whereby Mrs Alexander McCuaig, of Cardon, while under a fit of insanity, committed suicide. It appears that her husband was taking her to Lindsay jail and that he left her in charge of his brother while he returned to look after his family. Mrs. McCuaig was left in a bedroom, and was supposed securely tied, but managed to free herself. When found it was seen that she had strangled herself by fastening the rope to a nail in the wall. It was considered unnecessary to hold an inquest.

SHELLED VITU VILLAGES.

AN EAST AFRICAN POTENTATE TO BE BROUGHT TO TIME.

The London Murder—Emperor William Delivers a Characteristic Speech to the Staff Officers of the "Invincible Army" of the Fatherland.

BERLIN, Oct. 27.—Official advices from East Africa state that the Sultan of Vitu refused to appear before the English and German consuls, or to deliver the natives implicated in the recent murder of Germans and that hostilities have been begun by the English admiral Fremantle, who has burned several villages on the coast.

At dawn on Sunday the Admiral admiral advanced to Vitu with 1000 men, his advanced posts having been attacked Saturday night when three sailors were wounded. He proposed to attack Vitu Sunday night.

SIBERIAN CONVICTS REVOLT.

Several Sailors Wounded in an Encounter With the Insurgents.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 27.—Advices from Yakutsk, Siberia, report another mutiny of Siberian convicts.

The outbreak occurred on board a steamer on the River Lena, there being many convicts on the vessel. The inhabitants of a village which the steamer was passing came to the convicts' assistance and helped them to disarm and bind the guards of the escort.

The vessel was then set adrift. The governor of the province sent troops in pursuit, who killed two of the fugitives and recaptured five.

THE GERMAN ARMY.

Young William Delivers a Characteristic Speech to His Staff Officers.

BERLIN, Oct. 27.—Emperor William in addressing General Field Marshal Count von Moltke at the gathering of the general staff officers yesterday said: "I thank you in the name of those who fought together with you for all you have done for my house and the greatness of the fatherland. I greet you as a leader who has created in the army a spirit of invincibleness. The presence of the King of Saxony on this occasion recalls the time when he and you fought for Germany's greatness. All here feel gratitude to a chief who has not been content to stand alone in greatness but who has been active in forming a school of army leaders for all time to come."

The Railways Made the Record.

LONDON, Oct. 26.—The delivery of the American mails of last Wednesday week in London on Wednesday morning of the week makes a record. The British postoffice, however, seem to have had little to do with it, except to receive the letters when brought to them. The Irish and English railway companies arranged the matter and ran a special train from Cork to Dublin, a special steamer from Kingstown to Holyhead and a special train from Holyhead to London. This is minus the public has been vainly asking for years, but the postoffice always steadily refused.

English papers speak of this as a six days mail service from New York to London, supposing the letters posted in New York on Wednesday evening. In truth, the mail closed in New York at 3½ o'clock on Wednesday morning; practically, Tuesday evening. The Teutonic, which brought no mails, arrived two hours ahead of the City of New York, making the record five days nineteen hours. The Teutonic thus holds the record for both Eastern and Western voyages. Had the Teutonic brought the mails they would have caught the regular express from Cork to Dublin, and been delivered by the first post on Wednesday morning.

The special service by which the City of New York profited was organized in the interest of Queenstown as against Southampton. Its success is the more striking because the Werra's mails, leaving New York a day earlier, were not delivered in London till the evening of Wednesday. The agents of the Hamburg-American line, which calls at Southampton, have written a letter on this subject, which most of the papers print this morning. They say quite truly that this delivery of mails within seven days, now extolled as remarkable, has been accomplished all this season by the express steamers of this company. They forget, however, that the British postoffice prefers slow service by English ships to quick service by German ships.

LIVELY TORONTO.

Shooting Affrays, Drowning Accidents and Other Pastimes.

TORONTO, Oct. 26.—Charles Donnelly, a sailor, engaged in a dispute near Osgoode Hall with Cabdriver Robert Trimble last night, and drawing a revolver fired at Trimble, but missed him, the ball passing through his own hand. He was arrested.

A stonemason named Robert Douglas, who has been employed in Oxford-street, was found in the bay this morning. He is a widower and is supposed to belong to Kingston. The body was identified by one of the jury after the inquest had been opened. The body had been in the water two weeks.

The resignation of Ald. Boustead, chairman of the Executive Committee, was accepted at the meeting of the council to-night, and it was also decided to reduce the number of wards in the city from 12 to 6, and to elect aldermen for a term of three years, one to retire each year.

ARRESTED FOR BLACKMAIL.

An Intended Victim Who Was Too Smart for Them.

BROCKVILLE, Oct. 27.—A man and wife named Winburn have been jailed here on a charge of blackmail. It appears the woman purchased an organ from J. Curtin and when he called to collect payment talked loosely. A few days later her husband called on Curtin, accused him of having committed an indecent assault upon his wife, and said that unless the matter were settled he would make it hot for him. Curtin placed the matter in the hands of the chief of police. A plan was laid for entrapping the couple into an open admission and last night, under the impression that Curtin was going to yield to their demands, they visited his place of business. In the meantime the chief and two other witnesses occupied positions behind some organs where they could overhear all that transpired. The husband said he would take a certain piano in the store and two hundred dollars in cash to settle. He further said that he wanted to settle the matter right and would give Mr. Curtin writings that no further claim would be made. At this juncture the chief of police came to the front and arrested both Winburn and his wife. The woman tried to make a bolt, but was prevented and both were placed in the cells. Since the arrest was made the authorities have heard of a number of other blackmailing operations in which this couple have figured, some of them against prominent citizens, and it is not improbable that some of them may be called upon to give evidence, in which case some startling developments may be anticipated.

A RELIGIOUS SENSATION

Caused in Prince Edward Island—Extreme High Church Methods.

HALIFAX, Oct. 27.—A sensation has been created in religious circles by a sermon just preached in Charlottetown, P.E.I., by Bishop Courtney of Nova Scotia, formerly of Boston. The bishop is reported to have said: "It is not the people's place to watch if their rector teaches orthodox doctrine or to criticise his preaching as if they were the shepherds and not the sheep. They should be willing to learn from their minister. They should receive him as Jesus Christ himself. When they meet him on the street or invite him to their homes they should feel that Christ was meeting or supping with them. Then," exclaimed the Bishop, with vehement emphasis, "Would you dare to criticise Jesus Christ?"

It appears that the congregation of St. Paul's to whom the bishop was preaching, had recently frozen out their rector for his High church methods. The bishop rewarded the rector by making him an archdeacon. The sermon has given great offence.

The Island Guardian severely criticises Dr. Courtney and speaks contemptuously of "The pitiable spectacle of a bishop magnifying the office of the ministry and stirring up the dying embers of discord." It says: "The Bishop of Nova Scotia is a gentleman whom nobody would think of characterizing as a humble follower of the lowly Nazarene. If he speaks the truth in love, his deliverances are at the same time marked by an assumption of authority which might almost be expected to substitute 'mine' in the description 'thine is the kingdom and the power and the glory.'"

THE CAT FED ON THE CORPSE.

Horrible Discovery in the House of a Montreal Widow.

MONTREAL, Oct. 27.—A horrible discovery was made last evening at 144 St. Denis-street. Madame Deblouin, an elderly widow lady, has been living alone at this address for some time past. Since last Monday the neighbors noticed that there was no stir about the house; that Madame Debloun tid not make her appearance as was her wont; and that the door was locked. Last evening the lady's son-in-law called for some things he had left. He could not get in. Alarmed, he brought the police, and the door was broken in. Proceeding to the lady's bedroom, a frightful discovery was made. Madame Debloun was dead on the bed; her body was black and fearfully swollen, and her face eaten away by the cat which had been her sole companion. Death resulted from syncope of the heart. It is believed that the deceased has been lying dead since last Monday. The mutilation of the face was such that very few could bear to look upon it.

An Unprofitable Suit.

CHESLEY, Oct. 23.—Some time ago Collector of Taxes Cribbs skipped out, leaving the township of Amabel in the lurch to the extent of some $3000. The council then brought an action against Cribbs' son, on the ground that the property had been made over to him with fraudulent intent. But the council failed to make out its case and the township has been saddled with the expense of the suit.

Brotherhood Men Afraid that the Capitalists Will Go on Without Them.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—Something important is going on among the local Players' League capitalists. All of them are keeping very quiet, but nevertheless it is known that since the recent meetings at the Fifth-avenue Hotel they have been meeting in secret and have had many long talks over something in connection with baseball.

Saturday a great deal of talking and traveling were done by the magnates. Al Johnson spent three hours with President McAlpin of the Players' League, and President Robison of Cleveland had a quiet little chat with Director Talcott. Later Mr. Talcott, together with Treasurer Robinson of the New York Players' club and Al Johnson had a talk in an uptown restaurant. J. Earle Wagner of Philadelphia stood in front of the St. James Hotel talking with Al Johnson at 6 o'clock.

From a reliable source it was learned that some time during the day the Players' League men had a general conference.

It is evident now the capitalists are going ahead without consulting the players. They have an understanding with the National League men to this effect and nothing will be divulged until the whole thing is settled. There will not be a conference between the National and Players' leagues and the American Association for some time, if ever again, but the rival club owners in the cities where there are conflicting clubs will negotiate toward a settlement immediately.

The Brotherhood players are beginning to distrust their backers more than ever before, and some action on the part of the Brotherhood is expected daily. As one player expressed it yesterday, "The capitalists are going to throw us down, and we'll have to get ready for it."

Al Johnson told me something Friday night that if true is really worthy of commendation. He said that Ed Hanlon of the Pittsburg Players' club has played during the entire season without receiving a cent for his services. Hanlon is a stockholder in the Pittsburg club, and has paid his assessments without a murmur. Mr. Johnson is authority for the statement that there isn't another ball player in the country who has done as much to help along the cause of the Players' League as Ed Hanlon.

Telegraphers Strike.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Oct. 27.—All the operators, 37 in number, in the Western Union Telegraph Company's office here struck at 8 o'clock and all the commpany's wires into the city are idle. The walk-out is on account of the discharge by the company a few days ago of six operators supposed to belong to the brotherhood. The discharged men called on Supt. McMichael in Minneapolis to-day to try and effect an agreement, but were not recognized and the strike is the result.

PELLY AND BIRCHALL.

THE FORMER ARRIVES AT SAFFRON WALDEN.

His Enthusiastic Reception—He Thinks Birchall Tried Three Times to Murder Him—He Suspected His False Friend—He is Reticent Respecting Mrs. Birchall.

SAFFRON WALDON, Eng., Oct. 27.—Seldom indeed does it fall to the lot of a young man to meet with such unenviable experiences as Mr. Douglas Pelly, the son of the vicar of Saffron Walden, who was so nearly connected with the Benwell murder case, which has created so much excitement, not only abroad but at home, and who ran so narrow a risk of himself being a victim.

Mr. Pelly, anxious to return to his family, whose anxiety since the first intimation of the murder has been very great, left Woodstock half an hour after the verdict had been given in the trial, and crossed in the Majestic to England, arriving at Liverpool on Wednesday morning. He was met there by his father, and the meeting was naturally an affecting one. They journeyed to London almost immediately, and catching the 5¼ train ex-Liverpool-street, arrived at Walden just before 7 o'clock. The knowledge of the arrival had become known, and the result was that a crowd of some thousands had assembled in the vicinity of the railway station in order to give a welcome to the returned voyager. The arrival of the train was signalled by a feu de joie. Mrs. Pelly, with Miss Geraldine and Miss Daisy Pelly, were on the platform, and the greetings between mother and son, sisters and brothers, were very warm. These over, a move was made for the carriage in waiting, and as soon as Mr. Douglas Pelly appeared on the outside of the station he was received with prolonged and deafening cheers. The horses were unharnessed and the car was drawn to Walden-place by willing hands, preceded by the Excelsior band playing "Rolling Home to Dear Old England," and men carrying lighted torches. In addition to the large following, crowds had assembled all along the line of route, and as the carriages passed along the occupants were repeatedly cheered. Flags were hung from various private houses, and the residence of Mrs. Bellingham was illuminated with colored lights.

At the entrance to Walden-place a triumphal arch had been erected, having on the front the words "Welcome Home."

On Thursday morning a representative of The Observer had an interview with Mr. Douglas Pelly.

What is your opinion with regard to Mrs. Birchall?

I cannot help thinking that she must have known a great deal about it, because I don't see how it could have been otherwise. My suspicions were aroused, so how much more must hers have been, living as she was in such close relationship with him. Of course she must have known about the fraud part of the business, or one would think so.

But not about the actual crime?

It is a difficult thing to say. One would not like to accuse anyone of that sort of thing. Look at it in this light. She knew there was no farm and no business, in fact nothing at all, and yet she allowed Benwell to go off with Birchall on the understanding that he was going to see a farm, the neighborhood where it was, and be introduced to friends, knowing there was no such place at all. As to her idea of what was going to occur that day it is impossible to speak, but there must have been something in her mind. I never expected to see Benwell back that day and I cannot conceive where she imagined he was going to, because she knew that as soon as Benwell arrived up there he would find there was no such place as mentioned.

How many times do you think you escaped being a victim of Birchall?

Well, looking at things now, I think I had three pretty narrow escapes, leaving the cigar business out. Once he took me down—I had been suspecting him of being a fraud, and was waiting until I had some specific grounds to go on, because one could not make a charge of that sort without strong reasons. I spoke to him, telling him I thought he was different to what he had made out and the representation he had made before starting seemed to be absolutely without foundation. He made a shuffling explanation and I mentally decided to give him another week, and unless things were in full swing by the end of the week I would leave him. Of course, before the week was over he was in prison. We were walking along the railroad which goes from the village up to the Niagara Falls—this was about 10 minutes after I had quarrelled with him—when we came to a place where a good many years ago some religious body used to hold their camp-meetings, and it was thought it would be nice to bathe in the river, so a stairway was made straight down the cliff with the idea that they could go down it to bathe, but it was found impossible to bathe there because the current was so strong. Birchall said, "Oh, you have never been down here; you ought to go, it is the best view of the falls." I told him I should like to go down, and went down first, but soon noticed what a rotten, wretched-looking place it was, and, curious to say, there was a man waiting at the bottom of the stairway. No one had been down the stairs for years. I could not say exactly I had any grave suspicions at that moment, but I did not like the look of the place, so I went back. In the light of after events, knowing he had murdered Benwell, and that it was to his highest interest to get rid of me, it seems he must have intended to put me away. Well then, another time he took me down to the cliffs close to the cantilever bridge. Underneath this bridge you cannot be seen; you get in between the brickwork of the span and the edge. Well, he took me in there so as to get a better view of the rapids. He tried to persuade me to stand close by him at the edge, but becoming suspicious, and noticing something in his manner that I did not like, I felt frightened and would not go near the edge, but made some excuse and went away. That was the second time. It would have been so easy for him: a little push, and there you are, gone into the rapids, and just there is the place where bodies are never found. I had for some days seen a heading in the papers about a murder near Woodstock, but had never read or taken any notice of it until the Friday, when first mention was made of the cigar case having been found. On that day, early in the morning, Birchall wanted me to go up at once to Princeton to see if it was Benwell's body. I was in fact completely frightened, got a revolver, which I put in my pocket and never moved without it, feeling so sure there was something wrong. We went to the station, but there was no train, and the things he said to me, which appeared in the papers, no doubt made me feel there was something wrong with him, and that he knew something about Benwell's disappearance. I wanted to telegraph to New York, thinking Benwell was there, but he refused to do that, and decided to go over to the American side where he had opened a banking account. It began to rain while we were there and he wanted to stay on the American side, but it seemed absurd because his wife was at the boarding house still and would expect us back that same night. I would not stay on that side of the bridge, and as we were walking across the lower suspension bridge exactly over the commencement of the whirlpool rapids he wanted me to go to the edge of the bridge, the balustrade of which was only about eighteen inches high, and nothing would have been easier than to push anyone over. He made a weak excuse for asking me to join him at the edge, but it was a sort of revelation to me and I would not go. He was very cross and white, but said nothing. I believe if I had gone to the edge of that bridge I should never have got across. Of course naturally one sees all these things afterwards in a more pronounced light than at the time.

Sealskins Advance 100 Per Cent.

CHICAGO, Oct. 27.—A cablegram from London says sales of Alaska sealskins to-day were made at an advance of 100 per cent. over last year's sale. At this time each year the skins of the seals caught during the year are put upon sale. The skins sold to-day will be in the market next April. Though to-day's prices do not affect directly the goods now on the retail market, owners of skins, it is said, will raise the price at once 100 per cent. The increase in prices is due to the small catch. The Alaska Company had 99,000 skins on the market this day a year ago and only 21,000 to-day.

SEVEN TEST QUESTIONS

IRRESPECTIVE OF THAT OF HOME RULE FOR IRELAND.

Gladstone Defines the Issues Before the People—Bulgaria Cited as an Example of the Beneficent Effects of Home Rule—Lord Salisbury and the Pope.

EDINBURGH, Oct. 27.—A meeting of Liberals was held here to-day. Mr. Gladstone delivered an address and said the Liberals were prepared to wait for an expression of Scotland's opinion regarding home rule before announcing a premature scheme. He urged the people to closely watch the naval and military expenditures of the government, which he declared have gone beyond all grounds of economy.

Speaking of the pressure of business before the House of Commons, Mr. Gladstone said the Liberal idea to relieve this pressure was to give subordinate bodies a large property in of the work with which parliament is now encumbered.

Referring to the foreign policy of the Government Gladstone blamed Lord Salisbury for sending an accredited envoy to the Vatican. Similar action, he said, had never been taken since the Pope lost temporal power. The sending of General Simmons to consult with the Pope regarding the rights of the Catholic Church in Malta came dangerously near to supporting the papal claims to clerical dominion over a part of Italy.

Continuing Mr. Gladstone said that the accounts of internal oppression in Russia raised feelings akin to abhorrence, and he trusted that the world would soon be favored with better reports regarding Armenia and the misrule of the Porte. The long series of outrages committed by Turks on Christians might eventually seal the doom of the great Turkish empire. Armenia was in striking contrast with Bulgaria. The latter country offered a promising and pleasing prospect of what would happen under the gift of local government. What was good for the west would be equally good for the east.

Seven Test Questions.

Referring to home politics, Mr. Gladstone said there were seven test questions apart from that of home rule for Ireland, viz.:

Temperance.
A working day of eight hours.
The disestablishment of the church in Wales.
Woman's suffrage.
Home Rule for Scotland.
Allotments.

But he cautioned the Liberal party against dividing one large army into seven small ones by declining to support a candidate who does not accept a particular test. He defended the Opposition against the charge of obstruction and indicted the Government's work in parliament which ended with the withdrawal of the bill for the compensation of publicans in order to avert defeat.

Mr. Gladstone praised Lord Salisbury's South African arrangement as the best that the circumstances permitted.

Referring to the oppression of the Jews in Russia he said he was convinced that such cruelty was abhorrent to the Russian Minister and to the Czar and added: "I earnestly hope that we will be able to bring some knowledge of these things to the authorities in Russia."

Mr. Gladstone made no reference to the new U.S. tariff.

Killed the Porter.

HOUSTON, Texas, Oct. 27.—Yesterday an unknown negro boarded Conductor Marshall's train on the Houston & Texas Central Railroad at Navasota. He refused to pay his fare and had some words with the colored porter. The conductor threatened to put him off the train, when he drew a revolver and fired three shots at the porter, killing him instantly. He then pulled the bell cord and as the train slowed up jumped off and escaped.

Two Men Badly Burned.

GUELPH, Oct. 27.—This morning a few minutes after S Stewart's planing mill was shaken from top to bottom by an explosion in the boiler room. Two of the employes, James Condy and Levi Peer, were badly burnt. They were assisting in cleaning out the boiler. Condy was inside and had used some crude oil to cleanse the tubes of scale. He called for the light, and Peer was handing the candle in through the manhole when it ignited some gas which apparently had generated in the boiler and the explosion occurred, the fine sawdust which had accumulated in the roof and round taking fire and kindling the wooden beams, etc. The flames were speedily extinguished. Both injured men were sent home at once and had their burns attended to. Peer is badly scorched about the head, face and neck, while Condy's face and hands suffered most. It will be a couple of weeks before they will be round.

The Faulkner Affair.

BELLEVILLE, Oct. 27.—An arrangement has been come to between Dr. Faulkner, the Tweed banker, and Mr. Tulloch, whereby the latter withdraws the charge of fraud against Dr. Faulkner, and a settlement will be reached. The Doctor was in town this afternoon arranging his affairs. The arrangement by which was made by Mr. F. O'Flynn, counsel for Dr. Faulkner, who told Mr. Tulloch that the Doctor had procured bail and was preparing to surrender himself. Mr. Tulloch then stated that all he wanted was that the Doctor should surrender his estate, and this having been done proceedings were stopped.

Problems of Taxation.

Ottawa Evening Journal.

One of the aldermen of Vancouver has given notice of motion to instruct the City Assessor not to assess the improvements on real estate. In other words, to tax land only, not the buildings on it. For instance, if the new buildings which Symbold and Gibson and R. J. Devlin are putting up in Ottawa, were being erected in Vancouver, the alderman would tax the land on which the buildings stand, but not the buildings. He argues, as all upholders of the land tax argue, "Why tax the things which enrich and beautify the city?" One man or estate has a land lot on a central business street, upon which stands a ramshackle wooden shanty. It is an eyesore, a nuisance, a danger and a discredit. It depreciates the value of all other property around it. People ask the owner why he does not tear down the shanty, and put up a decent building like his neighbors. He replies that he is not able; if he tears down his $500 shanty and puts up a $50,000 block, he will have to pay taxes on $50 000 instead of $500. He says the situation of this property is so good that he can get a good rent for it anyway, and meanwhile, through the push and enterprise of his neighbors in building their fine stores, his lot is daily increasing in value. Perhaps some one remarks that a $50,000 business block in a progressive city is a paying investment, notwithstanding taxation. Well, let us call it so, and change the argument from the business portion of the city to the residential part. A dwelling is not a paying investment. It brings no revenue to its owner. It beautifies the city and benefits it, and the construction gives profitable employment to hundreds of the people of the city. Say that two well-to-do men own adjoining vacant lots on Metcalfe street in Ottawa, worth perhaps $5,000 each. Our taxation is two cents on the dollar, or $100 on each of these two lots. One of the owners decides to put up a house for himself. He gives an architect an order for plans for a house to cost $20,000; advertises in the newspapers for tenders; awards contracts to masons, bricklayers, carpenters, plumbers, plasterers. He puts his $20,000 into circulation, gives employment to all the rest of us, adds a superb ornament to the city, increases the value of the property of all his neighbors in short, proves a public benefactor. How do we reward him? By making him pay $400 more taxes a year. Instead of the $100 a year he paid before on his vacant lot he now pays $500 on lot and house. But the other fellow, who hangs on to his vacant lot waiting until the push of other around him will make it more valuable and enable him to sell it for a fat price, who cares nothing that he retards the progress of the city or that he leaves an eyesore in its most beautiful part—he continues to escape with merely nominal taxation. If he does by any accident build, he builds as cheaply as possible in order to escape a heavy assessment.

Do you hear a still further objection? That perhaps the man who puts up the 20 000 house may let it for a handsome rent? Well suppose this fine building is not a private residence any more than a business block. Suppose it is the Y.M.C.A. building, or a public library, or a mechanics' institute, or a first class gymnasium, or any other institution put up, not for profit, but for the good of the people. All the same we tax it heavily, while we allow the man who sits on his adjoining vacant lot at an exorbitant price, hoping that the fine building going up alongside will increase its value and get him what he wants—we allow him to escape with a trifling tax. By these processes in Vancouver it is evident the alderman who wants to stop the taxes on improvements on real estate has a good deal of public support and will have a fair following in the council. We do not think it likely his motion will pass. It is too serious an experiment that a young city like Vancouver will probably hesitate to be the first in America or the world to try it. Although the tax is being discussed all over the English-speaking world, and by many practical men very favourably, it is not yet reduced to practice anywhere.

Omemee.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

COLD, GLOOMY WEATHER.—The flannel shirt is packed away, the sealskin sacque brought out, and the thin and willowy summer girl begins to grow quite stout.

The question of the hour, shall I take my coat or umbrella?

Many farmers are teaming their grain to Peterborough, making good wages, owing to the good prices; and people are generally rejoicing over the prospects of Peterborough becoming a city in the near future.

East South Victoria will be redeemed by Mr. Londesborough, the Reform candidate, is certain, from the fact that the late A. Hudspeth, one of the most popular and rampant Conservative members, only won by 44. People want a change in Government, as affairs can't be much worse. Numbers of our young men have been obliged to go away to the United States to make a living, and amongst them some of them sons of our most prominent Tories.

The first anniversary services in connection with the new Presbyterian church, Omemee, proved a grand success. The Sabbath services were conducted by the Rev. B. C. Jones, Port Hope, and Mr. Edgar, of Knox College, Toronto. Collections, $95. The festival on Monday, managed by the ladies of the congregation, was largely attended, realizing about $75. The Rev Messrs. B. C. Jones, W. G. Mitchell W. Johnson, Omemee, were the speakers, affording considerable amusement, be sides a profitable time. The choir of the church gave excellent service, being considered one of the best outside of the cities. Everybody was well pleased, and the event will always be looked forward to by the public generally with interest.

Fight on an Engine.

The Engineer and Fireman Grapple in a Death Struggle.

A fight, to the death, between the engineer and fireman of an express train, speeding through the country at night, is a bull component of a modern novelist.

The fireman is jealous of the engineer; one night, crazed with drink, he heaps on fuel until the boiler is likely to explode. The engineer pleads with him, then expostulates, and at last attempts to prevent further action. Then the fireman grapples the engineer and tries to throw him from the engine; a terrible struggle ensues. The fight is for life! They speak no word, but with teeth clenched strive one to precipitate the other to the ground.

Meanwhile the train rushes on. The engineer, finally growing weak, endeavors to reach the regulator to stop the train and summon help. Too late! The crazed fireman guesses his plan, stuffs him back by a superhuman effort, hits the exhausted engineer from his feet, exclaiming:

"Ah, you want to stop the train! Now, out you go!"

With this he flings the engineer out—but the latter clings to him, he cannot shake him off, so both go out together! Down under the wheels, they are found headless, two bloody trunks clinging in a death embrace! And the train, ungoverned, rushes on in the darkness!

Here the story ends; the fate of the train is left to the imagination. It is easy, to see that the chances are a hundred to one it runs on to destruction. So with the person having chronic kidney complaint it is almost certain to result in Bright's disease, then death, for the doctors admit they have no cure for it. But a certain cure may be had. Note what Sumpter Heard, of Frederick, Md., says, in a letter of May 19, 1890:—"For five years I had been the victim of Bright's disease, at times suffering the severest pains. I tried many kidney remedies, and consulted as many physicians, but was not benefited and at length became tired of what seemed to be and was a useless expenditure. I certainly Warner's Safe Cure was recommended to me. The first bottle relieved me greatly, but I took only with the above remedy, which I god as the best of proprietary medicines."

A Scene in Court.

SANDWICH, Oct. 25.—At the assizes here yesterday an incident happened that has occurred only twice before in Canadian courts. During the hearing of the civil case of Corbett v. Mason, Mr. S. B. Osler, Q.C., who was representing the plaintiff, remonstrated against the abusive manner in which defendant's counsel, Mr. G. T. Blackstock, was cross-examining his client. Mr. Blackstock still pursued the same line of cross-examination, when he asked witness if he had been drinking.

Mr. Justice MacMahon warned him that such language must cease. Mr. Blackstock, flushed with anger, remonstrated against the judge's ruling.

The judge slowly and firmly said that such a question should never have been asked.

Mr. Blackstock's temper had not abated, and he said that on account of the judge's conduct he would be obliged to withdraw from the case, and walked out of the room.

Mr. Osler, for plaintiff, said he did not want to take any advantage of the defendant as the judge sent the case over to the spring assizes.

Mr. Justice MacMahon, Mr. Osler and Mr. Blackstock were all engaged in the Birchall trial at Woodstock.

Died at a Political Meeting.

WIARTON, Oct. 26.—T. Sherbano of Purple Valley, nine miles from here, attended a political meeting in the hall here yesterday and was saying how well he felt. He then sat in a chair when he was seen to gasp and in two minutes he was dead. Deceased was 45 years of age. He has one brother in Michigan, one in Colorado and another in Ontario.

His Foot Cut Off.

GRAVENHURST, Oct. 26.—In the station yard here yesterday a brakeman named John Baldwin of Allandale, aged 20, while going to open a switch caught his foot in a cattle-guard. Being unable to extricate himself in time he threw his body clear of the track and the approaching train passed over his ankle, crushing it so badly that amputation was necessary.

Fell to His Death.

STREETSVILLE, Oct. 26.—Kenneth, son of Councillor Thomas W. Robinson of this place, fell from a wagon Friday. The boy did not complain much and it was not thought he had been injured. During the night he seemed to sleep as well as usual, but when Mrs. Robinson went to his room yesterday morning the injured boy could not be awakened and it was found that he was dead.

The Behring Sea Question.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—State Department officers say the published statement that the Behring Sea fisheries question has been submitted to arbitration is untrue, at least arbitrators have not yet been selected. Correspondence is still passing between the United States and Great Britain on this subject and a conclusion is not yet in sight.

Alone and Unattended.

CORNWALL, Oct. 26.—Agnes Hunter, a domestic in the employ of Dr. Harrison, was discovered Friday lying helpless and dying on the kitchen floor, where she had lain all night. She was alone in the house, and in the evening had been attacked with an apoplectic fit, and had remained unconscious. She cannot recover.

Ben Butterworth Not Silenced.

CHICAGO, Oct. 26.—Benjamin Butterworth was very emphatic in his denials yesterday of the story that he had been silenced in his advocacy of reciprocity. "The story is absolutely false," said the secretary. "I always have been, am now, and expect to be, an advocate of the reciprocity doctrines. One of the last things I did before leaving Congress was to plead with Major McKinley to incorporate my bill favoring free trade with Canada in his."

The Megantic Outlaw.

MONTREAL, Oct. 26.—One of the St. Vincent de Paul Penitentiary officials was in town yesterday. Falsey and Naogele, the ex-detectives, are still hale and hearty, the former now an experienced baker and the latter a good carpenter. Donald Morrison, the Megantic outlaw, is employed in the change room. The wound in his hip has not healed yet completely and he still limps.

Purify Your Blood

The importance of keeping the blood in a pure condition is universally known, and yet there are very few people who have perfectly pure blood. The taint of scrofula, salt rheum, or other foul humor is hereditary and transmitted for generations, causing untold suffering, and we also accumulate poison and germs of disease from the air we breathe, the food we eat, or the water we drink, nothing effectively more than the positive power of Hood's Sarsaparilla over all diseases of the blood. This medicine, when fairly tried, does expel every trace of scrofula or salt rheum, removes the taint which causes catarrh, neutralizes the acidity and cures rheumatism, drives out the germs of malaria, blood poisoning, etc. It also vitalizes and enriches the blood, thus overcoming that tired feeling, and building up the whole system. Thousands testify to the superiority of Hood's Sarsaparilla as a blood purifier. Full information and statements of cures sent free.

You might ask, why are Gough's anxious to sell? Here's a pointer. The Montreal Wholesale Clothing Market was never so low as at present. Owing to the McKinley Bill, English Manufacturers are shipping all their goods to the United States. Consequently it is a matter of impossibility to get goods wholesale. Goughs saw this squeeze coming, and bought $25,000 worth of the finest goods to be had in Canada. The goods are here. They have to be paid for. You have to pay for them, by paying us for your share. CELEBRATION OF THE ANNIVERSARY OF SIR ISAAC BROCK'S DEATH.

An Object Lesson in Patriotism and Love of Country--A Page from the Old Third Reader Emblazening the Story of Death and Victory.

Monday, 13th October 1890, the 78th anniversary of Sir Isaac Brock's death day, was celebrated in Toronto by the pupils in the public schools. The success of this first celebration of the kind in the province should be the means of stimulating patriotism and love of country, and of awakening in the breasts of Canadian children a desire to honor all of our historical landmarks as their anniversaries come round from time to time. The now obsolete old Third Reader furnishes many examples of the fields of Canadian valor, and the history of the Dominion therein to be found cannot be too often perused by our young people, and, although as literature the lessons are not masterpieces, they are dear to very many boys and girls who have long since passed out of the schools. The brave story of the comes to us now as the page of a forgotten book. The superannuated old Campbell's Third Reader thus tells the story:

The 13th October, 1812, is a day ever to be remembered in Canada. All along the Niagara River their greatest excitement had prevailed; many of the inhabitants had removed with their portable property into the back country; small bodies of soldiers, regulars and volunteers, were posted in the town and villages; Indians were roving the adjacent woods; and sentinels, posted along the banks of the river, were looking eagerly for the enemy that was to come from the American shore, and attempt the subjugation of a free, a happy and a loyal people. In the village of Queenston, that nestles at the foot of an eminence overlooking the mighty waters of Niagara on their way to Lake Ontario, two companies of the 49th regiment or "Green Tigers" as the fearful Americans afterwards termed them, with 100 Canadian militia, were posted under the command of Captain Dennis.

When tattoo sounded on the night of the 12th, the little garrison retired to rest. All was silent but the elements, that raged furiously throughout the night, the howling of the wind and the sound of falling rain mingled with the distant roar of the great cataract. Dripping with rain, and shivering with cold the from time to time casting a glance over the swollen tide of the river towards the American shore. At length when the gray dawn of morning appeared a weary sentinel descried a number of boats filled with armed men, pushing off from the opposite bank, below the village of Lewiston. Immediately the alarm was given, the soldiers were aroused from their peaceful slumbers, and marched down to the landing place. Meanwhile, a battery of one gun posted on the heights and another about a mile below, began to play upon the enemy's boats, sinking some and disabling others. Finding it impossible to effect a landing in the face of such opposition the Americans leaving a few of their number to occupy the attention of the troops on the bank, disembarked some distance up the river and succeeded in gaining the summit of the height by a difficult and unprotected pathway. With loud cheers THEY CAPTURED THE ONE GUN BATTERY, and rushed down upon Captain Dennis and his command, who finding themselves far out-numbered by the enemy, retired slowly toward the north end of the village. Here they were met by General Brock, who had set out in advance of reinforcements from the town of Niagara, accompanied by two officers. Placing himself at the head of the little band, the gallant general cried "Follow me," and led his men back to the height from which they had been forced to retire, amid the cheers of regulars and militia. At the foot of the hill the general dismounted under the sharp fire of the enemy's riflemen, who were posted among the trees on its summit, climbed high stone walls, and waving his sword, charged up the hill at the head of his soldiers. This intrepid conduct at once attracted the notice of the enemy; one of the sharpshooters advanced a few paces, took deliberate aim and shot him in the breast. It was a mortal wound.

THUS FELL SIR ISAAC BROCK

the hero of Upper Canada, whose name will outlive the noble monument which a grateful country has erected to his memory. The fall of their beloved commander infuriated his followers, with loud cries of "Revenge the General" they pressed forward up the hill, and drove the enemy from their position. But reinforcements were continually pouring in from the American shore, and after a deadly struggle in which Col. Macdonnell, Captain Dennis, and most of the other officers fell, these brave men were again compelled to retire. They took refuge under the guns of the lower battery, there awaiting the arrival of reinforcements from Niagara. About mid-day the first of these arrived, consisting of a band of fifty Mohawks under their chiefs Norton and Brant. These Indians alike boldly engaged the enemy and maintained for a short time a sharp skirmish with them, but finally retired on the main reinforcement. The latter in the course of the afternoon under the command of Major-General Sheaffe, instead of meeting the enemy on the level ground, the officer now in command moved his whole force of 1,000 men to the right of the enemy's position, and sent forward his left flank to attack the American rear. This left flank was of a very varied character, consisting of one company of the 41st Regiment of the line, a company of regular militia, a body of volunteer militia, and Indians, united, in spite of their difference of colour and race by loyalty to the British crown, and heart-hatred to foreign aggression. The division advanced in column of route, after delivering a volley the white line red and black charged the enemy, and drove in their right wing at the point of the bayonet. General Sheaffe now fell on the main body, and forced the latter victorious Americans to retreat precipitately over the ridge. The struggle on their part was of short duration. In front was a foe thirsting for revenge, behind the steep bank and swiftly flowing water of the Niagara. "The Green Tigers," the Indians, their once despised slaves even, and last, but certainly not least, the gallant Canadian militia, were objects of terror to them. Some few in despair threw themselves over the precipices into the river, but the majority of the survivors surrendered themselves prisoners of war, to the number of 930, among whom was their commander, General Wadsworth. The leader of the expedition, General Van Rensellaer had retired to Lewiston, as he said, for reinforcements in an early part of the day. The loss of the Americans in this memorable action was about 300 killed and wounded, while that of the Canadian forces amounted to 150. Throughout Canada the news of the victory of Queenston Heights awakened universal joy and enthusiasm, second only to that which the taking of Detroit was hailed, but the joy and enthusiasm were damped by the sad tidings that he who had first taught Canada's sons the way to victory, had given his life for her defence and slept in a soldier's grave with many of her best and bravest.

Beautiful Women.

Beauty is, perhaps, the greatest power the world holds. It has in all ages controlled the actions of men, and swayed the destinies of nations. Woman with her fatal gift of beauty has always been able to "smile men down imperiously as Venus did the waves." But many women do not fully realize the power of beauty, or they would never allow the roses to be stolen from their cheeks, the light to die from their eye, the fawn-like gracefulness to depart from their step. They would at once fly to the great and universal cure for the many weaknesses and irregularities common to women, Beecham's Pills. w44-d

"If it be well to wash the skin—and we never heard the proposition questioned—it is well also that we should be familiar with the means by which that purpose may be most efficiently attained.

"We once knew a beautiful woman, with a nice complexion, who had never washed her face with soap all her life through; her means of polishing were, a smear of grease or cold cream; then a wipe, and then a lick with rose water. Of course we did not care to look too closely after such an avowal, but we pitied her, for soap is the food of the skin.—

Life Insurance Policy Holders SHOULD READ THIS!

THE PERCENTAGE OF LAPSES.

The large increase in the amount of life insurance written by purely Canadian companies, and terminated by surrender or lapse, during the past year, has naturally attracted the attention of insurance men. So unexpected and unwelcome an increase—$1,708,612 in the amount of lapsed policies credited to Canadian companies during a period when American companies doing business in this country showed a decrease under this heading of $318,904, could not fail to excite comment; so that the figures have been eagerly scanned to discover how such a condition of affairs was brought about.

Further this is most easily shown in tabular form by giving the net amount of insurance in force on the books of each of our principal Canadian companies and the percentage of lapsed and surrendered policies they are responsible for. In this case they rank as follows:—

Company.	Net amount in force.	Percentage of Surrender and Lapse.
Canada Life	$48,984,376	3.07
Confederation	17,874,988	5.31
Ontario Mutual	13,071,600	10.29
Federal	10,056,537	10.35
Sun Life	11,670,817	10.36
North American	8,470,620	10 68
Temperance and General	2,984,972	17 84
Ottawa	2 097 956	20.15
Manufacturers' Life	5 723,100	20 12
London Life	1,644,295	30.61

From this table we can see that while such companies as the Canada Life and Confederation have actually decreased the amount of their lapses, some of the weaker companies have largely increased theirs, so that, although one company shows under four per cent. one under six, and four under eleven, the average percentage of lapses for the whole ten companies is 15.78 per cent.

The only moral we can draw from these figures is that the stronger and more widely known a company is, and the more of its patrons it will retain permanently on its books, while the weaker companies must, perforce, witness the defection of a certain proportion of their customers to their more powerful rivals. That so large a proportion as 30 per cent. of policy holders should entirely abandon the advantages of insurance in one year is hardly probable in these days of popular education. We can therefore only fall back on the hypothesis that the bulk of the lapses of the weaker companies must arise from their policy holders transferring their allegiance elsewhere. It is in fact a case of the wealthier and more widely known (even if not more progressive) companies absorbing the cream of the permanent business, and leaving only the transitory, and therefore less desirable risks, to their humbler competitors. By the aid of clever management and attractive methods, a weak company may be able to absorb a fair share of new business; but it is evident from these figures that the superior prestige of their older established rivals is certain to attract a proportion of their customers in the long run, and that thus their percentage of lapses will always be heavier.

The lawyers have a choice morsel to gloat over—a breach of promise case, the parties two well known persons—the young lady in defendant, changing her mind at the last moment. It appears that the course of true love had run so smoothly that the day was set, a house rented, and house-keeping details discussed. But the young man's resolve and broke off the match because her affianced would not promise to buy the necessary supply of tea at hawley bros. She rightly reasoned that the young man who hadn't sense enough to know what was best to them was not the man for her. An thousands confirm this sensible young lady's judgment.

A New Phase of the Fight.

The Bell Telephone Company is entering into the war with the Ontario Company in no half-hearted way, and they are being met in an equally determined manner by their local opponents. The struggle promises to be interesting. The "latest" in the seat of war," is that the Bell Company are offering to put in telephones free of charge, and after the 1st of November all present subscribers are not to be charged for their instruments. This is fighting with a vengeance. The Ontario company's rates remain the same, and they are confident that the town people will support them and that eventually they will remain in possession of the field.

Another Fire at Kinmount.

KINMOUNT, Oct. 27.—A destructive fire again visited Kinmount to day. This time the saw mill, owned and occupied by C. J. Smith, about two miles up Burnt river, was destroyed. The fire is still burning but is now well under control, but not until the mill, storehouse, boarding house, supply store, 2000 cords of wood, and 20 000 ft. were consumed. The estimated loss is about $12,000. The insurance is not yet known. The fire was undoubtedly an incendiary one, as it was started in several different places. If the wind changes to the east the loss will it is feared, be augmented by at least 2 000 cords of wood and 2,000,000 feet of lumber

Other Veterans.

Mr. W. Kingdon joined the forces for the suppression of the rising, at Cobourg in 1837 and served, under Capt. Coughlin, afterwards Sheriff of Peterborough, on picket duty till the trouble was over. He is now in his 84th year.

Mr. John B. Sullivan, of Ennismore, who is verging on his 90th year, writes that he did service in suppressing the rebellion of 1837 38.

Mr. Thomas Harrington, of Ennismore, served in the rising of 1837 8. He enlisted in Peterborough under Capt. Frazer, and served during the unpleasantness. He is now nearly 90 years of age. He is also a veteran of the Burmese war.

A Memorable Church Memorial

The Smith Baptists Dedicate Their New Church With Successful Services—A Rare Gathering of Pioneer Representatives.

Sunday, Oct 26th, 1890, and the following Monday evening, will be memorable days in the history of the Smith Baptist church. On Sunday the new edifice, known as the Gilmour Memorial Church, was solemnly dedicated to the service of God in the customary way, by special sermons and an afternoon meeting of children. The sermons were preached by Rev. J. F. Barker, of Ingersol (brother of the pastor), and in the afternoon Rev. J. B. Hough, of Westport, the late pastor, and Mr. R. J. Colville, secretary of the Y M C A., delivered addresses. Needless to say, the services were all largely attended, every meeting being crowded.

THE CHURCH.

Since the laying of the corner stone, details of which appeared in the EXAMINER, the work has been pushed with the utmost vigour, and never has the interest of pastor or congregation for one moment flagged, and the church building has marched steadily onward with the advance guard of civilization and religion, and the formal dedication on Sunday was an evidence of the zeal and practical Christianity of its members. Rev. Mr. Barker, the new incumbent, has been in charge of the flock for only a short time, but already his popularity is large and there is no room for doubt that a new era of prosperity has dawned upon the Smith Baptist church.

As is already well known, the new Gilmour Memorial church perpetuates the honored name of the first pastor of the small band of consecrated Christian pioneers who gathered together to worship their God. It is over fifty years ago that the veteran evangelist and pioneer pastor, Rev. John Gilmour, organized a congregation at this point, and erected the old church which stands along side the new structure. The new church is of brick, and in the Romanesque style of architecture, is size 37x57 in area, with a tower at the southeast corner, and a pediment gable at the northeast corner. The basement and auditorium proper, are of the same size, and both completely finished, and both provided with a vestry in the rear, that of the basement being used, as occasion may require, for culinary purposes. The interior is nicely finished. The floor is sloped, the wood ceiling domed, the cherry-stained seats arranged amphitheatrically, radiant chandeliers pendant from above, the cathedral-stained windows frosted, with the upper portions of coloured glass, every seat supplied with a draw, the aisles and pulpit are handsomely carpeted, and the pulpit furniture of handsomely designed walnut. A departure is made from the usual system in churches, by having the choir and organ placed in front of the sacred desk. The church is heated by hot air furnaces, and its seating capacity, including draw-seats, 400. The work has been satisfactorily done by the contractor, Mr. J. G. Jopling, and those whom he employed. The stone-work was done by Mr. H. Sherwood, the brick work by Mr. McFadden the plastering by Mr. S. S. Delong, Peterborough, and the tin work and heating by Mr. Geo. Hutchinson.

The cost of the building was close on to $3000, and in vivid contrast to most modern church finances, this is not only paid but there is over $200 of a surplus in the hands of the building committee. This financial condition is in no small degree due to the energy of its members, who furnished their material and did a considerable amount of free work. The proceeds of the dedication services and the tea meeting were altogether $270

The building committee was composed of Messrs. Jas. Mann, sr., Jas. Tindle, Wm. Graham, Jas. H. Mann and Nathan Taylor.

A MEMORABLE GATHERING.

At the tea meeting and entertainment on Monday night there was a very large attendance, the church being crowded to its utmost capacity. It was a most representative occasion. There were representatives present of the sturdy old pioneers who organized the church, and whose descendants have ever since continued their adherence to the religion and house of worship their forefathers. Among these old family representatives may be mentioned, Miss Gilmour, of Peterborough, whose grandfather, Rev. John Gilmour, was the first minister of the congregation; Mr. John McKee, whose father, Mr. Wm. McKee was one of the first members; Mr. E. B. Edwards and Miss. Edwards, whose father was the first church clerk, and their uncle the second pastor; Miss Watson, whose father Mr. John Watson, was too feeble to be present, but who was the first member to be baptized, and who besides being a constituent member of the church, was one of the first pioneers in Peterborough, settling in 1818, when he cut the first bark for taking off the trees where his house on Hunter street now stands, and with Rev. John Armour, did all the logging upon what is now the central part of the town, for the primitive Episcopal church building which Mr. Armour was the first rector. Mr. Isaac Garbutt, of Lakefield, ex-Reeve of the township, and one of the first members of the church, with his family; Deacon Mann and his family, all old members; Wm. and Thos. Graham, whose parents were among the first to join the church; the Cauls, Youngs and Darlings, of Smith, representatives of those old families which have been connected with the church from its inception; Mr. Roberts and Miss Roberts, of Selwyn, whose father was the third pastor; Mr. Bell, Peterborough, father of Mr. F. J. Bell, Division Court Clerk, himself one of the first members of the Selwyn church and sufficiently old to walk on wise to the Smith church on Lord's day and also to attend, on foot, at Monday nights meeting; Mr. Geo. Hutchison, whose father was one of the early deacons; these and other representatives of the first old Baptist families in Smith were present at the grand reunion Monday night. It was a memorable memorial indeed. Among the audience were about 75 people from the Baptist churches of Peterborough, Lakefield and Selwyn, branches of the parent church in Smith, and all prosperous. But of all the original constituent members of the church only two are alive to-day, Mr. Wallace of Peterborough, and Mr. Watson Robinson, of New York state, one of whose sons, born in Smith, is a member of Congress. Of the old families who had given their unwavering adherence to the Smith Baptist Church, scarcely any but were represented Sunday night. They were some present from Toronto, Burnt River, Kinmount and other places all over the district. Rev. Mr. Hough in his address made touching reference to the grand work of the venerable pioneers who laid the foundations of the church, and whose descendants were so nobly continuing the good work they had begun.

THE TEA AND ENTERTAINMENT.

The ladies of the church were kept busy from four to nine o'clock, serving supper to the guests. And such a supper it was! Fowl of every feather, and every known style of cookery; pastry in endless variety, and delicious abundance; jellies, condiments and dishes galore. The ladies were such excellent providers that the 400 people whom they fed failed to exhaust the supply, and a social is to be held Wednesday night to finish the provisions.

It was nine o'clock before the programme was begun in the church. Mr. Armstrong, of Stouffville, a friend of the pastor's, was in the chair.

The programme was opened with the doxology and prayer. During the evening the choir rendered several selections in good style. Miss Graham sang a solo, and the Messrs. Barker gave two duets, Miss Walton the organist of the church, accompanying the singers. Several addresses were given, by Rev. J. F. Barker, of Ingersoll; Rev. D. S. Rock, Methodist minister, of Bridgenorth; Mr. R. J. Colville, Secretary of the Y M C A; Rev. J. B. Hough, of Westport; Rev. Mr. Shillaugby, a Christian minister, of Stouffville; and Rev Mr. Frazer, of Fenelon Falls.

It was half-past eleven o'clock before the votes of thanks were passed to those who had contributed towards the programme.

Then there was a great rush for the carriages which filled up the roadway and yard. The Peterborough contingent returned in the busses which had carried them out.

A Big Bag of Small Game.

The Brownscombe Yelland party returned home from the north with a large quantity of fish and partridge and a few ducks. They did not try for deer, but report that deer are running quite plentifully at the vicinity of Long and Trout lake, two or three being killed every day by the parties of Dummer hunters who have bivouacked there. Large game appear to be more abundant at that point than farther north, where most of the hunters congregate.

THE NEW TOWN TIME PIECE

Serenely Ticks away the Hours at the Council Meeting.

The Edison Co's Railway Siding Decided upon—Gates for the Crossings—The Fire By-law must be Observed—A Drain for Weller Street—A Large Amount of Tongue Chaff Amongst the Business Wheat.

When the town councillors assembled last night in the chamber where the weighty business of this burg is usually transacted with "neatness and despatch" (?) their attention was taken by the regular "tick, tick," of a large new clock which had been placed on the wall. Immediately the keen sense of humor, which is so prominent a characteristic of the civic sons, seized upon the clock as a fit subject for joking. One councillor thought the clock was intended to keep the Mayor informed as to the arrival of the hour of eleven, after which no business can be legally transacted. Another thought the Chairman of the Property Committee had been making himself "solid" for the next election with some local watchmaker; still another was of the opinion that the chronometer was intended to relieve the proverbial dullness of council proceedings and infuse a little cheerfulness by its open countenance and pleasant pendulations. The Mayor frostually silenced all comments by remarking that the clock was for the purpose of warning loquacious councillors that they were overstepping their time, and he would have to call them to order if they occupied the floor too long. This looked like a reasonable supposition, and the council settled down to business—the first order of which was to waste considerable time in discussing whether general business should be taken up or not at a special meeting.

Mayor STEVENSON was in the chair. The councillors present were Messrs. Hartley, Rutherford, Langford, Moore, Dawson, Ashdall, R. S. Davidson and H. C. Wiseh.

THOSE RAILWAY GATES.

A communication was read from Mr. J. G. Mackin, Chief Engineer, G.T.R., enclosing the copy of an agreement between the town and the railway company regarding the placing of gates on railway crossings in the town of Peterborough. The agreement in brief was to the effect that the railway company agreed to place gates on Bethune st Brock and Charlotte streets, and place a man to guard it every day between six o'clock and nine at night; the remaining nine hours to be provided for by the town. There was some discussion among the councillors previous to the meeting, and the majority of them were of the opinion that the agreement was not in accordance with the understanding arrived at between the corporation and the company on the occasion of Sir Joseph Hickson's visit. They thought that Simcoe and Charlotte streets were most in need of gates, and that the railway company was pretty cute in proposing to protect Brock street, as there was a man constantly there at the present time to flag the trains, and he could look after the gate without incurring extra expense to the railway. The councillors though Brock street was well enough protected already, and that Simcoe street should be substituted for Brock street in the agreement. The matter was left in the hands of the Finance Committee.

A PRINTER'S COMPLAINT.

Mr. W. H. Robertson, of the Times, in a communication complained that the agreement by which he was to receive a fair share of the town printing had been violated by the Chairman of the Printing Committee. In the absence of that gentleman the matter was not much discussed, though Mr. Moore explained that Mr. Robertson could not expect cordial treatment from the council on account of some disparaging and discourteous remarks which appeared in his paper some time ago. Mr. Dawson and Mr. Rutherford thought there was some ground for complaint. The communication was referred to the Printing Committee.

OTHER COMMUNICATIONS.

Mr. G. A. Woods applied for the privilege of selling peanuts, popcorn at the corner of Simcoe and George streets.—Referred to the License Committee.

Mrs. Donaldson asked for a pass for herself and two children to Owen Sound, which would cost $5.90 each.—Referred to the Charity Committee.

Mark Leamington asked to be allowed to open a shooting gallery on Water street.—Referred to the License Committee.

A request was read from Mr. L. Deno, asking for a sidewalk on Romaine street to his residence, and a culvert on the drain in front of his residence.—Referred to the Street and Bridge Committee.

A communication was read from Thos. Tait, Gen ral Superintendent of the division of the C.P.R., requesting the council to pass a by-law to prevent hackmen from encroaching too far upon the platform at the station and interrupting traffic. On motion the matter was referred to the Finance Committee, Mr. Moore suggesting that the by-law be made to include the wharves and G.T.R. station as well as the C.P.R. station.

THE FIRE BY-LAW.

Mr. E. Green appeared before the council with sketches to some improvements to be made upon his market square block. A mansard roof had been built, and in order to extend the roof at the back on the same level the rear wall had been built up of wood and sheeted. This it seemed was a breach of the fire by-law, of which he was ignorant, and an action had been entered against him. Mr. Green complained that he had not been notified of the fact until the work was nearly finished.

Inspector Pope was heard, and he said that before the building had been begun, Mr. Green and Mr. Fitzgerald (the contractor) had promised to carry out the by-law.

Messrs. Langford, Dawson, Rutherford and others thought the Inspector ought not to be interfered with and the matter was dropped.

PARK LOTS.

Mr. Langford presented a by-law to close up the road-way allowance between park lots 15 and sixteen, in lot 15, Con. 12 Monaghan, (now in the town of Peterborough) to sell and convey the same, and open up a road on the north part of lot 15. The by-law was passed.

THE EDISON CO.'S SIDING.

Mayor Stevenson reported progress of the special committee appointed to select a route for the Siding into the Edison Co.'s works. There were two routes open but there were difficulties in securing the right of way. Both the C. P. R. and G. T. R. companies were willing to put in the siding, on condition that the siding is connected with their lines. Which ever company had the option would build the siding and charge the other company tolls. The corporation had the offer of the right of way through Mr. Hilliard's property for $6,000, to connect with the C. P. R. Another proposal was to connect with the G. T. R. by passing through the Brooks Co's and other properties, which would cost $3,700. Mr. Tait, Supt. of the C. P. R., and the engineer of the road, Mr. Henderson, had been in town, and had agreed to the route connecting with their line, as also had the G. T. R. engineers for the other route.

Mr Moore said he had it on good authority that Mr. Hilliard's property could be secured for $2 750, and he considered that the most practicable.

Mr. Cahill said the Grand Trunk railway men were willing to proceed immediately with the siding if it was switched on to their line, and as it was necessary to act promptly in this matter, unless the C. P. R would agree to proceed at once he thought the Grand Trunk route should be selected. Mr. Tait had not promised to begin the work at once, but says he must lay the matter before the board. That would take time that should not be lost. Besides, it was possible that if the C. P. R. route was selected they would have to buy more property than Mr. Hilliard's.

Mr. Dawson was in favor of the route through the Hilliard property, because it was more profitable and cheaper.

Mr. DAVIDSON thought the Edison Co.'s interests should be protected by making it impossible for either railway company to take advantage of the other, and in case of a war between them withdraw the privilege of using the switch. The Mayor explained that it was impossible for one company to take advantage of the other or interfere with the Edison Co.'s railway facilities.

Moved by Mr. Moore, seconded by Mr. Dawson, that the Manufacturing Committee be instructed to purchase a right of way through lots No. 12 and 13, west of George street and south of Townsend street, and lots 12 and 13 west of George street and north of Rink street, in Peterborough, for a sum not exceeding $2,750, as a right of way from the C.P.R. to the Edison works, of a width of at least 20 feet.

Mr. MOORE explained that if the Committee found it necessary to purchase a small corner through which they would have to pass, the council would, no doubt, uphold them. The motion was carried.

FIRST CLASS CARBONS.

Mr. DAVIDSON called the attention of the council to the excellent performances of the carbons in the electric lamp which furnished light for the council chamber. There had not been a single "skip" during the whole night. The carbons were part of a new batch recently turned out by the Company, and it was evident that a first class article was being manufactured. He was pleased to notice the fact. The Mayor and Mr. Moore endorsed Mr. Davidson's remarks.

NEW MARKET SCALES.

Moved by Mr. Cahill, seconded by Mr. Davidson,—That the Market Committee be authorized to purchase an inside scale for the market building.—Carried.

WELLER STREET DRAIN.

Mr. LANGFORD brought up the question of laying down a drain on Weller street, which it was estimated could be done for $58, a much smaller amount than it was thought it would cost. He wanted to know if the Street Committee should go on with the work, as it had already been recommended.

Mr. Moore, Mr. Dawson and Mr. Rutherford supported Mr. Langford, and urged that the houses on Weller street were untenable, but Mr. Davidson and Mr. Cahill claimed that between Sherbrooke and Bolivar streets the ground was also flooded with water, and if Weller street was drained into the lower part of the town it would only aggravate the condition of affairs in the South Ward, and the people there were already threatening to bring actions for damages. If anything was done in this way, it should begin at the foot of the evil.

After considerable discussion, the First Ward councillors being ranged against the representatives of the Third and Fourth Wards, the committee was authorized to proceed with the work at once.

The council adjourned at twenty minutes to eleven o'clock.

Miss Mather's Wound.

Inflicted by a Dagger that was not of the Regular Stage Pattern.

(New York Sun, Oct. 14th)

The wound that Miss Margaret Mather inflicted on herself while playing Juliet in "Romeo and Juliet," at Peterborough Canada, several weeks ago, has not healed yet. She is now at the Victoria Hotel, and she has had to call in a physician since she came to the city.

"It was a very painful affair, I can assure you," she said one evening while describing the accident. "I had been accustomed to using a trick dagger, but that was stolen with some other trifles at Kingston by a drunken janitor who had just been discharged by the proprietor of the theatre. Its loss was not discovered until we were well on our way to Peterborough. In fact, I did not know of it until I was in my dressing room at the theatre. Then I suddenly became aware of it and asked our property man if he had one. He said he had, and produced one that was of an entirely different pattern. He warned me that it was sharp and did not fold up like my own. He asked me particularly to bear this in mind, but when the time came I forgot and struck the dagger as my heart with full force. The audience could not have seen better acting than that which followed. The dagger pierced my dress and corset and cut into the flesh. The pain was severe, and I thought I had inflicted a serious wound. I was determined, however, not to give up, and I continued with my part until the curtain was down. The pain was intense, I must admit that my fears for the consequences was not less so. When I fell I cried for assistance, and Mr. Canter and Mr. Willoughby responded in time to carry me to my dressing room. My robe and corset were discolored with blood, and the wound was bleeding profusely.

"The dagger entered right here," Miss Mather said, laying her hand on her left breast, about two inches below the heart. "I felt quite weak when the doctor came. He said that my corset had saved my life. There was a cut an inch deep and two inches wide in my breast. He did what he could for me and said that I would be all right if blood poison ing did not set in. The wound became angry back and discolored afterwards that I became alarmed, and when I came to New York I saw another physician, who prescribed for me. I think I will be all right soon."

"She had lots of nerve," Mr. Canter remarked, "for she kept on using the same dagger in playing Juliet until we came here."

"I had no other", Miss Mather added. "As soon as I came here I secured a folding dagger."

Self Application of Electricity

FOR MEDICAL PURPOSES

BY THE

DORENWEND ELECTRIC BELT

And Attachments.

THE WORLD'S BEST.

ALL diseases curable by Electricity can be treated at home by the Dorenwend Appliance. The Dorenwend is the only legitimate Electric Belt made which fulfils the requirements of Electro-medical science. It is a complete BODY BATTERY. It has an independent Battery, which generates a mild, continuous current of Electricity (without shocks) and can be regulated to suit the strongest man or the weakest child. It is a CURRENT of QUANTITY, not merely a sensation current, and the quantity current is the greatest curative. It is a successful treatment for INDIGESTION, RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, SCIATICA, LUMBAGO, LIVER AND KIDNEY TROUBLES, WEAK BACK, SPINAL DISEASE, HEART DISEASE, NERVOUS DEBILITY, PARALYSIS, VERTIGO, FEMALE COMPLAINTS, IMPOTENCE, SEXUAL DECLINE and all diseases of the Nervous and Muscular Systems.

Remember that the DORENWEND BELT is the very latest invention in this line, and was invented by a competent electrician, and ranks as the best in the world; we defy anyone to bring proof to the contrary.

Do not class this Belt with the humbug combinations of leather and metal with which the country is being flooded. If you wish to experiment with cheap articles, buy THEM; but, if you want to procure a genuine Electric Belt and one that will be a benefit get a Dorenwend Belt.

Send name and address for Illustrated Book on Home Electro-medical treatment and mention this paper. The Dorenwend Electric Belt and Attachment Co., C. H. DORENWEND, Electrician, 103 Yonge St., Toronto, Canada. eod w

The new business of the SUN LIFE was the largest ever secured in the Company's history and was equalled by but one Canadian life company. The surplus accumulated during the THREE years of the current quinquennium far exceeds the amount earned during any previous FIVE years, and the profits to Policy-holders cannot fail to be highly satisfactory. The prosperity of the Sun Life is no doubt largely due to its issuing unconditional policies and paying its claims promptly. Canadians should also remember that by patronizing a Home Institution, which invests all its funds in the Dominion, they are benefiting themselves by reducing the rate of interest here, and are helping to build up our own cities rather than those of foreign states.

SAYS HE DID THE MURDER

A NEW VERSION OF THE SWAMP OF DEATH TRAGEDY.

Birchall Exonerated by a Mythical Personage Who Styles Himself "The Colonel," and Who Claims to Have "Settled It Then and There"

TORONTO, Oct. 28.—The Mail this morning follows in the footsteps of The Globe as a manufacturer of Birchall fiction by publishing a letter which it is alleged Birchall received from some mythical personage who style himself "The Colonel." No credence is placed in the letter here. It is looked on as a fake engineered by Birchall or a Mail reporter for the sake of a mom entary sensation and is regarded as a stupid imitation of The Globe's clever yarn. Following is The Mail's article:

Woodstock, Oct. 27.—On Saturday last the following letter, which throws a flood of light on the case of Reginald Birchall, at present confined in the jail at Woodstock under sentence of death for the murder of F. C. Benwell, was received by Birchall. The letter is on note-paper, and is written in pencil. The handwriting is that of a comparatively illiterate man. The envelope is addressed in ink, and to "Reginald Burchall, Woodstock, Ont." is stamped "Jackson, Michigan, Oct. 24 5 30, 4-30 p.m.," though the letter is dated Oct. 5th.

THE LETTER.

"JACKSON, Mich., Oct. 5, 1890.

"To REX.—Well, Rox, my dear boy, I have been watching you ever since that fatal fifth of February, and I see the Canadians have got you in their clutches at last. Well, I must say I am sorry for you, although you know you are partly to blame as well as me. You no doubt wonder where I am, and where I went to after leaving you. You can bet I made quick tracks out of Canada, and have been around considerable. At present I am in Jackson, Michigan, where I intend to stay until about the middle of next month. I won't peg the letter until the day I leave here, for fear some stay detectives might get the drawn on me. By the time you get this I will be where I will have naught to fear from Canadian or American law. I see some of your own statements that you knew Benwell had a revolver. If you had told me that he had a revolver this whole business never would have happened, and you would have been free man to day.

"To make a long story short, and a half-a-one at that, let me say that as soon as I left you I began to see it was not going to be an easy job to get that fellow settled on a farm for even two weeks or any length of time. I never got up to that old rowdy with him, and I don't think I could have found it any way. It would have been easy enough if you hadn't told him you owned the place. We struck into that notorious swamp just for fun to see if there was could see anything, and while in there the devil seemed to come over me, and I told him straight out that it was a clear case of swindle. I told him that the whole farm up till the time in Canada was a swindle and wanted him to chum in; as he was well connected with the Old Country we could all make a big thing out of it by using his name, and get a lot on a string, and that what he would lose now would soon be made up again. Well, Rex, you ought to have seen him. Great Scot' didn't he get up? Swore. Threatened to shoot me on the spot, and he would, too, if I hadn't drawn my revolver. My blood was up. I pressed him with him and did all I could to get him around, but no go. We talked the matter over for perhaps half or three-quarters of an hour, sometimes quietly, sometimes otherwise. At last he jumped up, said he would not expose the whole deal, left us, and started for the road. I followed, and, knowing what exposure would mean, I settled it then and there. Now you know it all. I'm sorry I did it, and never thought of getting you into trouble of the kind you are now. Forgive me, Rex. His watch and revolver are now in Chicago, over a safe. He didn't have much money with him. I should have thought that any lawyer could get a lower rig on it. Rex, I think you would stand your chance of getting the bauble. I do hope the Canadian people will treat you fairly and at least give you a rehearse. If so I will write you again and give you my address and will expect to get a letter from you. Please burn this as soon as you have read it, and don't give my true name to anyone. You have kept it to yourself well and I thank you. It would do no good now. I bid you a long farewell, but still hope to see you in this world once more. I hope you are prepared for the worst. The love of money and excitement has caused me much trouble, but I hope to do better in the days to come.—Good-bye, ever yours,

"THE COLONEL.

P.S.—I see that 'smarty' we met in London last January has been trying to get his carving fee. If I meet him out here, he'll get a different box from the one you offered him in the theatre that night, and he'll get it just as cheap, too."

TWO WEEKS IN A SHOCK OF CORN.

Her Only Food Raw Pumpkins and Chestnuts

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Oct 28.—Mrs. Breneu, the St. Louis woman who escaped from a passenger train near here nearly two weeks ago by running from a car while in a fit of sudden insanity, was discovered in a shock of corn in a field on the farm of a man named Dennis Early, this morning. Mrs. Breneu was in a terrible condition from exposure to cold and wet as well as from starvation, and must have died had her rescue been delayed a few days longer. After she had been removed to the Clarksburg jail and medical aid had somewhat restored her, she detailed during conversation something of her experiences, which have been of a startling nature. She said she knew some one was going to murder her, and after jumping from the train she ran a long distance through the woods, wading a creek, and finally stopped exhausted at the point where she was discovered. During the time she effected an entrance into the centre of a shock of corn and remained there during the whole time, only going out in the dusk of the evening to gather chestnuts, which, with raw pumpkin and corn, constituted her only food.

THE UNKNOWN DEAD.

A Floater Washed Ashore Near Reamsville

REAMSVILLE, Oct. 28.—The body of an unknown man apparently about 35 years of age was found washed ashore near here this morning. The man had a sandy moustache, was 5 feet 9 inches high, and on light shoes, navy blue shirt, serge coat and vest and checked bottle green trousers. An anchor was tatooed on the left arm. The pockets contained a silver watch and chain, a bunch of keys, one of which was stamped with the name "W. H. Kent." On a plate attached to the key ring were the words "Toronto General Key Trust Company, 798." There was no hat on the corpse.

INTERESTING DAMAGE SUIT.

Liability of a Ball Club for Injury to Spectators.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—In the Court in General Term Justice Hagner delivered the opinion of the court in the case of A. H. Potts against the Washington National Baseball Club, remanding the case for trial. This is a suit for damages received by plaintiff having his nose broken by a ball in the baseball grounds during the progress of a game. On his trial below the defence claimed that the plaintiff, not being on the stand, and being at the time in a portion of the ground not set aside for spectators, he could not recover. The case was taken from the jury and the plaintiff appealed. The court decides that the club is responsible for the safety of its patrons and remands the case for trial.

HE WAS A HOWLING SWELL.

But When Arrested Was Engaged in Doing the Family Washing.

BRANTFORD, Oct. 28.—Carl Eugene Miller, alias Cline, is a successful professional sneak thief and swindler. About Oct. 3 he made his appearance in Frye's neighborhood, Blenheim Township. He was dressed in a buckskin suit, which he stole from the reserve here. He claimed to be a genuine cowboy and took the place by storm. He exhibited coin which amounted in value to $350; 000. He purchased several farms in the neighborhood, with stock and implements thereon, at a high figure, and gave his note for the amounts, stating that he could not at present get his checks cashed. Among the farms purchased were Mr. Frye's, Mr. Hagey's and Mr. Shelby's. Immediately on taking possession of the farms Miller began selling chickens, turkeys, ducks and geese and taking them to market. He also sold whatever he could. His notes did not mature until Nov. 1, and he was getting rid of every available article.

Miller made love to a daughter of Charles McNally, a respectable farmer. The conquest was consecrated by marriage. Chief Vaughan, on reading of the exploits of the supposed cowboy, turned up the description book at the Brantford police station and found the following entered on Oct. 4: A. G. Smith of the Indian reserve reported to the Brantford police that one Carl Eugene Miller, alias Cline, had stolen from him one buckskin suit, a road cart, pony and harness, also a quantity of smaller articles from George P. Martin and Peter Newhouse. This gave the chief a clue, and yesterday he sent P. C. Adams up to Blenheim, where he was successful in locating and capturing his man, who proved to be the Miller wanted here. He is a German by birth, speaks broken English and is 25 years of age. When P. C. Adams arrested him yesterday he was washing in doing the family washing, and took the matter very coolly. His wife, however, went into hysterics. The Police Magistrate remanded Miller.

SHOT DEAD BY HIS BROTHER.

Careless Handling of a Rifle Results in a Terrible Tragedy.

HOLLAND, Man., Oct. 28.—As the two sons of Paul Barker were at work yesterday afternoon the rifle which was being carried over the shoulder of one of the boys was from some unknown cause discharged, the charge striking a third son. The ball, after striking the rib, turned and could not be found by Dr. Latimer, who was called. Young Barker died this morning of internal hemorrhage.

A ROLAND FOR THEIR OLIVER.

A Gang of Hoodlums Attack a Man and One of Them is Shot.

AMHERST, Oct. 28.—Saturday night at midnight eight men went to the house of one Thomas of Tidnish and began pounding the door. When the door was opened by Thomas, one of the gang named McDonald discharged two shots from a revolver at him. Thomas thereupon opened fire with a gun into the crowd, the shot lodging in McDonald's leg, bowels and hand, mortally wounding him. Warrants have been issued for the arrest of the other men.

The Two Supposed Professional Crooks Captured in Montreal.

MONTREAL, Oct. 28.—The two shoplifters arrested here last night are believed to be professional crooks. At 5 yesterday the man and woman entered the jewelry store of Messrs. Henry Birks & Co. and asked to be shown some diamond rings. Mr. Birks produced several, which the man examined carefully, finally selecting three rings which he announced his intention of purchasing. Producing first a $1000 United States bill and then a $500 bill he asked if they could make change. Mr. Birks not quite liking the appearance of the couple replied they had not sufficient change. Upon this the man stated that he would return for the rings in the morning and requested that they be laid aside for him. The couple then left the store. Immediately after their departure Mr. Birks examined the trays and found that a worthless ring with paste stone had been substituted for one of his diamond rings valued at $180. The police were notified and the parties arrested in the Pullman on the outgoing 5.5 train for Toronto. The man gave his name as Walter P. Hayes and the woman as Nellie Connell, wife of Hayes, stating further that she was a French Catholic and a native of New Brunswick. They refused to say where they came from or where they were going. When searched Hayes was found to have some $500 or $600 on him, but no trace of the $1000 nor the $500 bills which he had exposed when at the jeweler's could be found, nor did they have in their possession the diamond ring or two gold chains supposed to have been stolen from Mr. Birks. Mrs Hayes wore, besides several diamond rings, a diamond bracelet worth $1000. The man had a lot of paste jewelry and some real, in all worth some $3000 to $5000, most of it apparently new.

The male prisoner is 25 or 26 years of age, of fair complexion, smooth shaven, dressed in the height of fashion and of rather gentlemanly appearance generally. The woman is also well dressed and more than ordinarily good looking.

Sunday School Convention.

BRANTFORD, Oct. 28.—The twenty-fifth annual provincial convention of the Sabbath School Association of Ontario opened to-day in Zion Presbyterian Church. The preliminaries having been got well through the real and active work of the convention began this afternoon at 3 o'clock. The opening exercises were performed by the pastor of the congregation, Rev. Dr. Cochrane. The delegates present, who would probably number about 250, were badges and occupied the centre of the church. When all have arrived the ladies and gentlemen will represent constituencies amounting in all to about 400,000 persons, being something like 41.30th one born and 350,000 scholars.

BALFOUR IN MAYO.

SURPRISING RECEPTION TO HIM IN CATHOLIC ACHILL.

The Peasants Cheer Him and Express Their Gratitude—"The Greatest Benefactor Ireland Ever Had"—General European News.

DUBLIN, Oct. 28.—Mr. Balfour received an ovation on landing in Achill. He said he was glad to meet the people and expressed sorrow for the failure of their potatoes, which he knew would cause them much suffering. He was glad he had been able to sanction the construction of a railway within seven miles of the island, which he said would give them employment and he hoped to be able to extend the line to the island. A number of peasants escorted Mr. Balfour to various fishing stations and after dark escorted him over the mountains. Mr. Balfour promised to finish a bridge between two points on the island and to defray the expenses out of his own pocket. The peasants cheered him and expressed their gratitude. On the route back to Westport a triumphal arch was erected at Mulsany and Mr. Balfour was cheered by knots of people at various points.

One of the local priests at Newport said Mr. Balfour was the greatest benefactor Ireland had ever had, and they looked to him to bring peace and prosperity to the country.

At Westport to-day Mr. Balfour received a deputation of citizens headed by a priest, who drew his attention to the coming period of distress. The priest said the system of affording relief adopted on former similar occasions had a demoralizing tendency and suggested that the people be employed in the construction of light railways and other works. Mr. Balfour expressed his concurrence in this view.

Yates' Gossip About Kings, Dukes, Lords and Ladies.

LONDON, Oct. 28.—The Prince and Princess of Wales, who arrived last evening at Wynard Park, will remain the guests of Lord and Lady Londonderry until the end of the week, when they go to Sandringham, where they will entertain a succession of visitors during next month. As they are to be in constant residence at the hall until Dec. 8, the Prince of Wales has excused himself and the Princess from attending the royal wedding at Berlin, and they are to be represented at the ceremony by the Duke of Clarence.

For the first time since the death of Emperor Frederick the Imperial standard on his palace in Unter den Linden, Berlin, which is now the residence of Empress Frederick, was hoisted Sunday week without any mourning crape on it.

The officials of the Russian court have already drawn out a program of fetes, which are to take place at St. Petersburg at the celebration of the silver wedding of the Emperor and Empress, who were married in November, 1866. The Prince and Princess of Wales, King and Queen of Denmark, Duke and Duchess of Edinburgh, Grand Duke and Grand Duchess of Mecklenburg-Schwerin, King and Queen of Hellenes, and the Grand Duke of Hesse will be among the royal guests of the Emperor and Empress at the fetes.

O'Connor Lets the Cat Out of the Bag.

LONDON, Oct. 29.—A correspondent of The Cologne Gazette has had an interview with T. P. O'Connor. O'Connor said the Parnell Dillon mission to America had nothing to do with the potato famine, which was the business of the British Government. "Our only concern," he said, "was to get money for political purposes. The mission counts upon getting £100,000. He himself would probably go to Canada, Dillon and O'Brien not daring to risk arrest there."

The Ring is Dead—Officially.

THE HAGUE, Oct. 27.—At to-day's session of the Dutch Parliament, all members of both Houses being present, Dr. Mackay, Minister of the Colonies, announced that in the opinion of the doctors who had examined the king His Majesty's health was such that he was incapacitated for performing the duties of government. He therefore asked parliament to make the declaration that the constitution prescribed. A decision will be announced to-morrow.

"Long Live Russia! Long Live France!"

PARIS, Oct. 28.—The marriage of Mlle. Mohrenheim, daughter of Baron Mohrenheim, the Russian ambassador to France, to Lieut. Des Eze took place to-day and was attended by Madame Carnot, wife of the President, and all the ambassadors in Paris. A crowd gathered outside the church in which the ceremony was performed, and as the bridal party came out they were greeted with cries of "Long live Russia." "Long live France!"

An Innocent Man Hanged.

LONDON, Oct. 28.—Startling evidence has been discovered in the case of Daniel Gorrie, who was hanged a few weeks ago for the murder of a fellow-workman in a bakery at Herne Hill. Gorrie steadily maintained his innocence to the last, and now facts have come to the knowledge of the authorities showing that he was guiltless of the crime.

His Zeal Was Excessive.

BERNE, Oct. 28.—While the Lugano Conservatives and Liberals were celebrating with fireworks the results of the elections the commander of the federal troops ordered them to depist. The people resisting they were attacked by the troops and several were wounded on both sides. The commander is blamed for excess of zeal.

Collision on the Thames.

Balfour and Morley to Testify.

DUBLIN, Oct. 28.—Chief Secretary Balfour and John Morley have been subpœnaed as witnesses at the trial of Mr. Harrison, M.P. for the middle division of Tipperary, and others on the charge of assaulting a policeman at the opening of the Tipperary conspiracy trial. It is expected the trial will be held either at Maryborough or Omagh.

Gladstone on Free Trade.

EDINBURGH, Oct. 28.—Mr. Gladstone in an address to the workmen of the Pumpherston Oil Works to-day extolled free trade. Personal Liberty vs. Physical Slavery.

We are all free American citizens, enjoying our personal liberty; but most of us are in physical slavery, suffering from scrofula, salt rheum or some other form of impure blood. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the great blood purifier which dispolves the bonds of disease, gives health and perfect physical liberty.

RUINED BY PROSPERITY.

A Toronto Bricklayer's Sad Journey for His Deserted Daughter.

VANCOUVER, Oct. 28.—A case of a somewhat distressing nature came to light yesterday at the Canadian Pacific Railway station. An old man named Edward Jobins, who is earning his daily bread as a bricklayer in Toronto, was taking home his daughter, a woman of about 21 years of age, who had been deserted by her husband. Some years ago Jobins, after long toil at his trade, saved up sufficient money and started a shop in Queen-street. His eldest daughter was married four years ago to a young carpenter named Montague. The father concluded to take his son-in-law into partnership with him and enlarge his shop. He did so, and for a while things boomed with them, but Montague was unable to stand prosperity and began to spend his money in riotous living. The result was that the business became involved and one day the old man woke up to find that his son-in-law and daughter had left for parts unknown and that the sheriff was in possession of his shop. He saw the work of years overthrown and went back to his trade to support himself and remaining daughter. He did not hear from the runaways for months, but finally got word that Montague had deserted his wife and that she was utterly destitute in Tacoma. He decided to come out himself and take her back home, and he did so. The young woman looked so careworn and ill yesterday at the station that she attracted general attention, and a lady who was on the platform was so moved by her condition and her thin apparel that she gave her a heavy woolen shawl which she had with her.

CARRIED DOWN TO DEATH.

The Insatiable Whirlpool Rapids Claimed Another Victim Yesterday.

NIAGARA FALLS, Oct. 28.—About 9¼ o'clock this morning the attention of the gatekeeper at the railway suspension bridge was attracted to a small flat-bottomed boat coming down the swift current under the Cantilever bridge. In the boat was a boy. The frail craft was soon in the whirlpool and as soon as it struck the rapids it upset and the boy sank beneath the water. Several boys from Suspension Bridge, N.Y., are in the habit of going up the river in boats duck-shooting. The victim is believed to be one of them.

Diphtheria Among Birds

PARIS, Oct. 28.—Diphtheria, which has been lurking about Paris ever since the influenza epidemic, has attacked the birds. The discovery seems to have been made at the Jardin des Plantes. The men of science are said to be satisfied that these birds do not communicate the disease to mankind. It has prevailed amongst pigeons, and some pigeons in the markets were proved to have suffered from it, but in no case did the disease spread to persons who came in contact with the infected birds.

The Daily Examiner.

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 29, 1890.

THE Government party doubtless regard the coming session of its Imperial Parliament which opens next month, with apprehension. There are several questions which will test the stability of the Government, and may precipitate a dissolution, which, judging from the indications of the bye-elections, will give the Salisbury Government a vacation.

THERE seems to be no limit to the agressiveness of the temperance movement. Owing to inherent defects in the Act itself the Scott Act, as a prohibitory measure, became discredited and suffered popular condemnation. Differin County repealed the Scott Act by a small majority, and two townships that gave majorities in favor, Amaranth and East Luther, are taking advantage of the local option law enacted by the Ontario Legislature at its last session. The campaign is being carried on with vigor, and the outcome of this local contest will be watched with much interest.

HAVING assumed that continental free trade implies the acceptance by Canada of the McKinley Bill, the protectionist journals, says the Montreal Witness are indulging in abuse of advocates of reciprocity, who, they falsely declare, seek to impose upon Canada a tariff a hundred per cent. higher than that which it now has. Now if it is good to have a tariff at all, it should surely be better to have a very high one. If the producer pays the duty, and a tariff creates a home market, and we have only to tax ourselves in order to get rich, why should not the foreign manufacturer pay sixty instead of thirty per cent. for the privilege of manufacturing for us, and the sixty per cent. home market be a better one than a thirty, and a tax of sixty per cent make us rich twice as fast as one of thirty? If a thirty per cent. tariff is better than a sixty, why is not a five per cent. tariff better than either, and a tariff which imposes duties only upon articles subject to an excise tax best of all?

THE Week vigorously combats the correctness of the position of those members of the Dominion Cabinet, and of the Canadian press, who persist in alleging that the tariff legislation of the United States is conceived in a spirit of hostility to Canada, and with the distinct purpose of compelling her to sue for admission into the Union. Referring to the McKinley Act the Week points out that had Canadian annexation been the aim, or even one of the chief aims of the framers and supporters of the Bill, it is inconceivable that the fact should not have cropped out in the course of the debate. Politicians who could seriously believe in the possibility of being able to coerce Canada into the Union by such means, and could enact hostile tariff legislation with that end in view, would scarcely even care to conceal their purpose throughout a warm and prolonged discussion, much less could succeed in doing so. They might well suppose that their object would be promoted rather than retarded by letting their aim be made known. By permitting the object of the Bill to appear they might reasonably hope, not only to secure its readier passage (assuming that the desire to secure Canada was general in Congress and in the country), but to accomplish that object the sooner by showing the Canadian people the futility of hoping for a lowering of the tariff wall until their political absorption should have been accomplished. As a matter of fact there was throughout the debate an utter absence of any clear note of the kind indicated.

Bowen's Brother in Crime.

Cattle Stealing in Victoria County.

A brother in crime, of Thos. Bowen, the cattle lifter, whose depredations in this county exceeding over a couple of years, were terminated by his arrest and committal to penitentiary, has been brought to justice in Lindsay. The Lindsay Post says: For the past four or five years stock, consisting of horses, cattle sheep and pigs, have mysteriously disappeared at intervals in the north-west part of Eldon and on the boundary of Thorah, and all efforts to trace the missing stock proved unsuccessful. About seven weeks ago suspicion became directed towards one Dan. Davis, who resided in the vicinity, and a warrant was sworn out for his arrest and placed in the hands of two constables to execute, but owing to the careless manner in which they set about making the arrest Davis got wind of their object and escaped. He made his way to the house of a family named Grant, in Thorah (who are supposed to have been accessories in his thieving operations) and there he remained for some time. An attempt was made by Constable McMillan, of Beaverton to effect his arrest, which if it had been followed up properly would have been successful, but he again escaped. The people having now become thoroughly aroused at the culpable laxity displayed in enforcing the laws of the land, appealed to their reeve, Mr. A. Staback, and through his efforts Constable Short, of Lindsay was despatched to the scene to ferret out the thief, who was thought to be still in hiding in the neighborhood. Constable Short, who know the country thoroughly, discovered Davis' haunt to be a strip of poplar swamp about eight miles in length, and soon made himself acquainted with its "innardness" by exploring it by daylight, meanwhile shadowing the house of Davis' friends by night. A week's search discovered no Davis, and as the only suspicion he had of his being in the vicinity was based on the conduct of the members of the Grant family, he came to the conclusion that his man had not gone into hiding, but had skipped the country. However, on expressing his opinion, some of the farmers residing in the vicinity were not satisfied, and proffered their services to make a thorough search of the swamp. On Monday morning Constable Short arrested the Grant's as accessories and placed a guard over them, and then at the head of some eighty men plunged into the swamp. After eight hours of hard work, the searching party came to the conclusion that Davis "was not in it." On returning to Grant's, Constable Short advised the men who had lost articles in the past to keep their eyes open, and very soon Mr. Cameron, of Beaverton, identified a logging chain. This one of the Grant's declared was his own property, but when arraigned later on for the theft, he pleaded guilty, and was committed to Whitby gaol to await trial.

Harvey.

From Our Own Correspondent.

TEA-MEETING.—A tea in aid of the Presbyterian church, South Harvey, was held on the evening of Wednesday last. After the company had partaken of a sumptuous repast, served in the Orange Hall they withdrew to the church. A very interesting programme was then begun, Mr. Robert Renwick occupying the chair. The musical part of it was ably attended to by the local choir, led by Miss Sivila Chase, while Mr. D. P. Oswald took a prominent place among the speakers. A reading by Miss Ella Weir was admirably given, considering her youth. Mr. E. Middleton also gave a reading, while two duets by Miss Maggie Weir delighted the audience. The proceeds of the tea amounted to $26.50 The congregation took the opportunity to present Mr. Oswald with a gold chain and a similar one for Mrs. Oswald. He made a reply suitable to the occasion speaking for Mrs. O. as well as himself. His reply was a very feeling one, and showed clearly that it is with pain

SIR JULIAN PAUNCEFOTE.

Anxious to Settle the Newfoundland Fishery Dispute.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—A Washington despatch says: Sir Julian Pauncefote has returned to Washington and on Secretary Blaine's return on Thursday will renew the negotiations concerning the Behring Sea controversy. "It has been asserted," said Sir Julian last evening, "that in company with Sir Robert Bond, Colonial Secretary for Newfoundland, a visit was recently paid to Gloucester, Mass., and an address delivered there as to the establishment of reciprocal fishery relations between the United States and Newfoundland. I can only explain that story by saying that not long ago I received a notification from the Imperial Government that Sir Robert Bond had a proposition to submit regarding the wishes of the Newfoundland people in respect to the fisheries question. It was desired to have the matter presented to Secretary Blaine, and as I was absent from Washington at the time the secretary courteously received Sir Robert informally and listened to what he had to say, it having been understood that I would present the matter to him officially upon a later occasion. From Washington Sir Robert came to Magnolia, Mass., where I was stopping, and stated that he had several letters to gentlemen at Gloucester and wished to obtain their sentiments on the fisheries question. I furnished him with a conveyance and he went alone to Gloucester, whence he returned to his home. I did not go to Gloucester or any other place in Massachusetts to talk to either business men or to fishermen on this question; nor did Sir Robert do anything more than talk informally, with a view to learn the drift of sentiment. So that is all there is to the Gloucester story," said the British Minister. "There is no doubt," he added, "that the people of Newfoundland desire to establish reciprocal relations with the United States, and that is the substance of Sir Robert Bond's proposition, which I shall submit to Secretary Blaine this week. If these suggestions are accepted by Her Majesty's Government it would certainly manifest a friendly desire to co-operate with the United States Government and that of Russia in the protection of the seal rookeries and the prevention of any violation of the laws. These proposals have been framed in a spirit of justice and conciliation, and with an earnest desire to terminate this controversy in a manner honorable to all parties and worthy the great nations concerned. Now, if Secretary Blaine is disposed to discuss the matter on this plan," Sir Julian added in conclusion, "there will be shortly an end to the Behring Sea fisheries trouble." Regarding the Behring Sea question, continued Sir Julian, "I shall renew to Mr. Blaine my proposition for arbitration, for that is the only sure remedy for the existing complexion of affairs. There is urgent necessity for a mixed commission of experts who should be allowed at least two years to make a thorough examination of this question and submit the results of their findings to the Governments interested as speedily as possible."

A DUEL TO THE DEATH.

Two Neighbors Quarrel and the Handy Gun Ends it.

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 27.—A duel to the death was fought near Danielsville on Saturday, in which William Sanders, a prominent planter, was killed, and William Martin, his neighbor, fatally wounded. For some time there has been bad blood between the men. Each had appeared in court as a witness against the other and several times serious difficulties have taken place between them. The trouble culminated on Saturday when the men met and began firing. Martin emptied both barrels of his five-shooter at Sanders. Four shots took effect. Any of them would have been fatal. Sanders shot at Martin five times, three from a pistol and two from a gun. Three of these took effect. Martin will die.

Purify Your Blood

The importance of keeping the blood in a pure condition is universally known, and yet there are very few people who have perfectly pure blood. The taint of scrofula, salt rheum, or other foul humor is hereditary and transmitted for generations, causing untold suffering, and we also accumulate poison and germs of disease from the air we breathe, the food we eat, or the water we drink. There is nothing more conclusively proven than the positive power of Hood's Sarsaparilla over all diseases of the blood. This medicine, when fairly tried, does expel every trace of scrofula or salt rheum, removes the taint which causes catarrh, neutralizes the acidity and cures rheumatism, drives out the germs of malaria, blood poisoning, etc. It also vitalizes and enriches the blood, thus overcoming that tired feeling, and building up the whole system. Thousands testify to the superiority of Hood's Sarsaparilla as a blood purifier. Full information and statements of cures sent free.

SUNDRY AIDS TO CONVERT THE FORMER INTO THE LATTER.

The Home Laundry—Economical and Toothsome Dishes—Wearing Shoes Alternately—Window Draperies—Care of the Throat—Farmer Workem's Wife.

The work of the day has been faithfully done,
Down in the west sinks the blood-red sun;
The farmer sits in his cottage door,
His land and his stock he is thinking o'er,
While his good wife toils at her busy round
Where early and late she is sure to be found.

The fields are all planted, the waste slope laid down,
The hands of the farmer are rugged and brown,
He has toiled in the sun in the long spring day,
But now he is taking his rest on his way,
And he smokes his pipe in the open door,
While he tells his plans for the morrow o'er.

The good wife puts the last dish down,
On her low, white brow you can see a frown;
There's a basket of mending and many things more
That lightened must be for the morrow's store,
She would like the rest that she cannot know
In the treadmill round where she still must go.

"I wonder my Jane has faded so fast,"—
The farmer's eyes are open at last:—
"I know she was hearty and hale years ago.
Now what is the matter I'm sure I don't know;
We both have worked hard,—'tis a farmer's life,—
But I'm sure I don't know what ails my wife."

The good wife is withered and old and gray,
And the farmer keeps on in his old-time way:
She toils at the dairy, the kitchen and all,
The work of three men on her broad shoulders fall;
For, reckoning the children, I'm sure they'd despair,
If they had but a third of her labor and care.

'Tis a hard, troubled world, as most of us know,
And early our dreams must put off their bright glow;
But give us a little of change and of rest,
Who by burdens so many are sadly oppress,
And a little thought for the work that is done,
(And never is finished from sun to sun.)

Mother's Little Cowboys.

Some Economical Dishes.

Beef Stew.—Take the bones and hard, tough parts left from a roast of beef. Remove all the meat from the bones, and cut it in small pieces. Put it in very little fat and set all in a stewpan to fry. When it begins to brown, put in half a carrot, one small turnip, and two onions, cut fine. Stir over the fire for ten minutes. Take out the fat and vegetables, and put the bones in the bottom of the kettle. Add the meat and cooked vegetables, but not the fat. Dredge well with salt, pepper, and flour, shaking in at least half a cupful of flour. Add three pints of water, and simmer gently one hour; then put in six potatoes, sliced and pared. Simmer one hour longer. Taste to see if it is seasoned enough. Draw forward where it will boil more rapidly. Stir the stew, and put in the dumplings. Cook just ten minutes. There should be about two pounds of meat for the stew, of course not counting the bones.

Shepherd's Pie.—One quart of any kind of cold chopped meat, eight large potatoes, one small onion, one cupful of boiling milk, salt, pepper, and nearly a pint of gravy or stock, thickened with one tablespoonful of flour. Season the meat, and put into a deep earthen dish. Grate the onion into the gravy, and pour over the meat. Pare, boil, and mash the potatoes. Add the salt, pepper, and milk, and one tablespoonful of butter. Cover the pie with this and bake gently half an hour.

Escaloped Meat.—Chop the meat rather coarse, season with salt and pepper. For one pint of meat use a half a cupful of gravy, and a heaping cupful of bread crumbs. Put the layer of meat in an escalop dish, then a thin layer of crumbs; and continue this until the dish is full. The last one should be a thick one of crumbs. Cook in a hot oven from fifteen to twenty minutes. All kinds of cold meat can be escaloped, but beef is so dry that it is never as nice as mutton or veal.

Wearing Shoes Alternately.

It is true economy for every person to have several pairs of shoes and to wear them alternately. In the first place, by so doing, corns and other soreness of the members may be to a considerable degree avoided. These come from continous friction or pressure at a certain point, and as no two pairs of shoes "draw" on the feet quite alike, the change breaks up the continuity and obviates or prevents the unpleasant result. It is also better for the shoes themselves. Do not wear them, in ordinary weather, if the best service is desired, more than three or four days or a week at most before giving them a chance to become thoroughly dry. Many, if not most, feet emit sufficient moisture to affect the shoe, giving it the sticky, unpleasant feeling which is so familiar, but to which we not often give a second thought. Contrast this feeling with that of a shoe which has been standing unused for a week or a month, and notice how grateful the feeling of thorough dryness in the last named. Perhaps the reader never thought of that before.

The Latest in Window Draperies.

In the new draperies for windows and doors special regard is had for the grayish greens, the continental blues and the delicate old-rose colors. The colonial style of house-furnishing in ivory and gold being popular, carpets have been designed to match in patterns and tones. The Scotch Axminster, from the looms of Templeton and Glasgow, are in tints as rich and soft as the tintings of certain sea shells; then there are carpets with plain centers in all the popular colors, surrounded by rich borders in floriated and set designs. A novelty is a Scotch Axminster in orchid de-

IRELAND.

The Extent of Country Suffering From the Potato Rot.

When Sir Walter Raleigh introduced the potato plant, which he had taken with him from this country into the British isles, while conferring on Englishmen a new luxury which was scarcely appreciated, the hungry Irishman seized on the new food stuff with avidity, and has ever since then cultivated the potato in the midst of conditions often unfavorable, and made it his staff of life. The reason of this lies in the fact that given a piece of land planted with potatoes, it yields more food to the acre than the ordinary cereals. There is, moreover, no trouble in preparing it for food, except dumping it in hot ashes, or embers; besides which, it is wholesome, palatable, and, one may add, filling. It is easily cooked and is preserved without difficulty, and but little trouble or expense is required for its cultivation. Under these circumstances the poor Irish peasant may be forgiven for depending almost solely on the potato crop for his subsistence, even though he knows that its failure means death. He has had several warnings on this head, and still with horror looks back on the famines of 1739, 1822, 1831 and "black '47."

Our illustration shows the extent of country suffering, either wholly or in part, from this dreaded scourge—the dark parts of the map being those of the districts affected. While the threatened famine of this year will not, it is said, be as bad as that of '46 it will, unless speedily relieved, cause fearful and widespread suffering, and will bring starvation to the door of thousands. It will extend along the whole western and south-western coasts, from Donegal in the north to Kerry in the south.

New seed is essential, and it appears that Sir Thomas Brady, who has at his disposal some relief funds, has with eminent success started a scheme for advancing small loans, of say £3, to enable the peasant to purchase new seed. The security for its return is obtained from the peasantry themselves by the parish priest, and apart from other measures of relief it would seem that the government could not do better than imitate Sir Thomas Brady's successful work in this direction.

One thing, however, is abundantly clear, viz., that measures for the relief of the famine, which is imminent, must be taken immediately, if they are to be of any use. There are those who think that the worst may be staved off till Christmas—well, Christmas is within nearly a couple of months of us, and then famine, fever and death! That is the prospect!

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

"If it be well to wash the skin—and we never heard the proposition questioned—it is well also that we should be familiar with the means by which that purpose may be most efficiently attained.

"We once knew a beautiful woman, with a nice complexion, who had never washed her face with soap all her life through; her means of polishing were, a smear of grease or cold cream; then a wipe, and then a lick with rose water. Of course we did not care to look too closely after such an avowal, but we pitied her, for soap is the food of the skin.—

Soap is to the skin what Wine is to the stomach;

Life Insurance Policy Holders SHOULD READ THIS!

THE PERCENTAGE OF LAPSES.

The large increase in the amount of life insurance written by purely Canadian companies, and terminated by surrender or lapse, during the past year, has naturally attracted the attention of assurance men. So unexpected and unwelcome an increase—$1,709,612 in the amount of lapsed business credited to Canadian companies during a period when American companies doing a like amount in this country showed a decrease under this heading of $316,304, could not fail to excite comment; so that the figures have been eagerly scanned to discover how such a condition of affairs was brought about.

Perhaps this is most easily shown in tabular form by giving the net amount of insurance in force on the books of each of our principal Canadian companies and the percentage of lapsed and surrendered policies they are responsible for. In this case they rank as follows:—

Company.	Net amount in force.	Percentage of Surrender and Lapse.
Canada Life	$43,984,376	3.07
Confederation	17,676,823	5.21
Ontario Mutual	13,671,469	16.39
Federal	10,056,837	10.25

From this table we can see that while such companies as the Canada Life and Confederation have notably decreased the amount of their lapses, some of the weaker companies have largely increased theirs, so that, although one company shows under four per cent., one under six, and four under eleven, the average percentage of lapses for the whole ten companies is 15.78 per cent.

The only moral we can draw from these figures is that the stronger and more widely known a company is, and the more of its patrons it will retain permanently on its books, while the weaker companies must, perforce, witness the defection of a certain proportion of their customers to their more powerful rivals. Then so large a proportion as 30 per cent. of policy holders should entirely abandon the advantages of insurance in one year is hardly probable in these days of popular education. We can therefore only fall back on the hypothesis that the bulk of the lapses of the weaker companies must arise from their policy holders transferring their allegiance elsewhere. It is in fact a case of the wealthier and more widely known (even if not more progressive) companies absorbing the cream of the permanent business, and leaving only the transitory, and therefore less desirable risks, to their humbler competitors. By the aid of clever management and attractive methods, a weak company may be able to absorb a fair share of new business; but it is evident from these figures that the superior prestige of their older established rivals is certain to attract a proportion of their customers in the long run, and that thus their percentage of lapses will always be heavier.

A Big Deal.

The report is current about town, the Napanee Express says, that the Rathbun Co. of Deseronto, have received an offer from a syndicate of English capitalists for the purchase of their business, including all their timber limits. E. W. Rathbun sailed for Eng and this week, and it is reported his trip is in connection with the proposed sale. The figures mentioned are an offer of four million dollars, but the company ask six millions. Another version of the report is that the Rathbun Company is negotiating for the purchase of the Gilmour mills at Trenton, and their limits. The particulars are no doubt entirely conjecture, though there seems to be no doubt in the public mind that an immense deal is impending.

They played as one man on a single instrument of many tones and shadings. Their rendering of the two Serenades was incomparably brilliant and satisfactory." Prices 50 and 75 cents. South Ward St. John's.

A formal reception was tendered the new lay reader of St. John's South Ward Mission, Mr. Loucks, by the ladies of that congregation Tuesday night. The building was gayly decorated with flowers and bunting, and the reception room thronged with people. Mr. Loucks received infallible assurances of his unbounded popularity with his flock. The ladies arranged themselves into reception, decoration, refreshment and other committees, so that nothing was lacking to make the evening a delightful success. An informal programme was rendered, consisting of choruses by the girls of the Guild, and solos by Miss Byrne, Miss Davidson and Mr. Loucks (who was heartily encored). Refreshments were also served. Before the gathering dispersed Mr. Loucks gave a brief address, in which he thanked his friends for the cordial manner in which he had been received, and remarked that the new mission building was in a fair way of progress, the brick walls being already six feet high.

Hymeneal.

At half past two o'clock this afternoon a quiet wedding took place at the residence of Mr. J. P. Saunders, Water street, when his daughter, Miss Nelly, was married to Mr. H. S. Dixon, of Toronto. Only the relatives and a few intimate friends of the contracting parties were present. Rev. J. H. Lockhart, pastor of the George Street Church, performed the ceremony, the office of bridesmaid being filled by Miss Lang, of Port Hope, and that of groomsman by Mr. Alf. Pearson. Mr. and Mrs. Dixon leave at six o'clock for Toronto and the west, returning after a brief honeymoon tour to reside in the Queen City. Both young people spent the early part of their lives in Peterborough, and are well and favourably known. Mr. Dixon is an exemplary and industrious young man, who is certain to succeed in Toronto, while the bride, in her private life and semi public career as an elocutionist of local celebrity, had a host of warm friends, whose hearty wishes for her future happiness found expression in the great variety of valuable and useful presents of which she was the recipient.

Their Dormitory Disturbed.

This morning a young man named Thomas McGinty was was taken in off the street-corner by the police, who kindly relieved the monotony of his occupation of doing no thing and charged him with vagrancy in the hope that he might find something to do at the county gaol. Mr. McGinty took his arrest quite cheerfully, and said he would not be in the gaol very long; he would "play Lynch" and escape. He is well known in town and has been in the police court before on a similar charge. He complained to the police in an injured tone that last night he could not get into a barn which was his usual place of nocturnal retreat; and later the gentlemen who owns the building dropped into the court room and said that yesterday he had all the entrances securely boarded up. He said that the barn had had become a regular resort for vagrants and tramps, and the hay had been trodden into chaff. This will be unconfortable news for the homeless gentry who made it their headquarters. They will be compelled to seek new quarters for the winter.

It Struck Work.

A scene very trying to the equine nimity of a humanitarian took place on Hunter St. A man attempted to start his horse homeward but the animated bone yard could scarcely be forced to move. It hobbled along for a few steps, and in spite of the persuasive influences of a whipstock liberally applied, the animal refused to move more than a few paces, every motion of its lank, bony carcass impressing the beholder with a fear that its skin would burst and its whole anatomy fall to pieces. Finally the carter unhitched the beast and himself dragged the vehicle to the roadside. The horse when deprived of the support of the shafts tottered a little, but it had sufficient strength to move alone when its owner caught the bridle and led the poor thing away. Whether the horse's decrepitude was caused by deficiency of oats or surplus of years cannot be said, but the sight of such a wreck attempting to work was pathetic in the extreme. No wonder it struck.

The Veteran Roll Call.

Continuation of the Examiner's Thrilling Story, "The Veterans of 1837"—One of the Survivors a Centenarian.

The EXAMINER has received the following letter:—

PORT HOPE, Oct. 28th, 1890.

Jas. Collins, a volunteer of 1837, called upon me to-day to say that he was told there was some movement on foot re volunteers of 1837 and that your paper contained a notice about it.

I am a volunteer of '37. I belonged to the Cobourg Rifles, and there are only four survivors out of nearly six-ty, viz., Lieut. Henry Covert, Port Hope; Lieut. H. H. Meredith, Port Hope; Jas Calcutt, Port Hope; Henry W. Jones, Minneapolis, Minn. I also know of others in different branches of the service—Ely Ward, Port Hope; Ely Crowley, Port Hope; Geo. Grierson, police magistrate, Oshawa; and Private Jas. Collins, Port Hope.

Yours truly,
JAS. CALCUTT.

Mr. W. J. Dixon, at present a resident of Otonabee, volunteered to serve in the rising of 1837-8, at Peterborough, serving under Capt. Erickson. Mr. Dixon is now 77 years of age.

Mr. Thomas Dixon, of Otonabee, enlisted in Peterborough, performed the memorable march to Toronto, and served there during the winter under Col. Williams. His age is now about 73.

Mr. J. H. Capel, of the township of Harvey, in the county of Peterborough, was amongst the volunteers and held the position of sergeant under Capt. Cowal, who was afterwards promoted to the office of Colonel, in command of the Peterborough Battalion, which was called out to do service during the Mackenzie Rebellion.

Mr. William Claxton, of Otonabee, took part in the suppression of the rising of 1837-38. He enlisted in Peterborough, and marched to Toronto. He is now close on to the century, being in his 99th year, and still active. He is a native of Ireland, and was six years of age at the time of the rising in which the battle of Vinegar Hill was fought and Scollabogue barn was burned. He is still active in body and his mental faculties are unimpaired.

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

Last evening Mr. Isaac Richardson presided over a most enthusiastic meeting of the devotional committee. Much thanksgiving was expressed to God for the blessings we are receiving, and by His grace we propose to push our spiritual work vigorously this fall and winter.

Special attention will be given to the Week of Prayer—Nov. 9-15. The pastors of Ashburnham and town have consented to preach special sermons Sabbath 9th, reception St. John's, when next Sabbath Rev. A. Pitman, of St. George's, Toronto, will preach to men, instead of the 9th. It is very encouraging to see how heartily the pastors of all the churches are co-operating with us to make this week of prayer a season of great blessing to us all. Each afternoon and evening from Nov. 10th to 15th special services will be held, afternoon for the public, evening for men only.

Invitation and reception committees will meet this evening at 9.

Emily.

Tuesday morning last St. Luke's church, Downeyville was crowded by a large gathering of parishioners and Lindsay friends, who assembled to witness the marriage of Miss Mary Ellen Scully, second daughter of Mr. Dennis Scully, one of Emily's best known and most prosperous farmers, to Mr. Peter Tully, of Lindsay. The impressive nuptial ceremony was performed by Rev. Father Connolly, parish priest. The fair bride, who looked charming indeed, was supported by her sister, Miss Isabella, as bridesmaid, while Mr. John O'Loughlin performed a like duty for the happy groom, with commendable self-possession. After the ceremony, and "congratulations all round," the newly-wedded couple and friends repaired to Mr. Scully's comfortable homestead, where an elegant wedding breakfast was awaiting them, and where the balance of the day was spent in various amusements. The happy couple left for the west by the six o'clock train on their bridal tour, accompanied by the congratulations and good wishes of a host of friends. The presents bestowed upon the bride were unusually numerous and handsome, and afforded practical testimony of the high esteem in which she is held by a large circle of friends.—Post.

High Court of Justice.

The Peterborough Fall Assizes—A Blank Criminal Calendar—Civil Business—His Lordship's Brief Charge.

WEDNESDAY, Oct. 29.

The fall sittings of the Assize Court was opened at the court house to-day by Mr. Justice Falconbridge. There was a fair attendance of the public. The civil business before the court was reduced by settlement, etc., to six cases.

The bar was represented. W. R. Riddell, Q.C., Cobourg; W. A. Stratton, J. W. Bennet, G. H. Watson, Q.C., Toronto, E. H. D. Hall, Hugh O'Leary, Q.C., Lindsay, E. B. Edwards, R. R. Hall and G. M. Roger.

THE GRAND JURY

were empanelled as follows:

C. R. D. BOOTH, Foreman.

J. B. Brown,	H. Calcutt,
R. Bergen,	R. J. Donell,
M. Blewett,	Robt. Hall,
Thos. Eson,	Chas. Kindred,
S. Edwards,	R. J. Lee,
R. Hope,	W. H. Stevens,
Thos. McKee.	R. Shaw,
J. T. Stenson,	T. W. Robinson,
W. Crough,	Jas. Moore.
Jas. Covert.

His Lordship in addressing the Grand Jury congratulated them and the county on the absence of crime, as shown by the criminal side of the calendar being a blank, and further signalized by the sheriff presenting him with the traditional pair of white kid gloves. This was in most gratifying contrast to what he and other judges of the High Court had experienced on circuit. It spoke loudly for the observance of law and order in the county. His Lordship then dismissed the jury to their duty of inspecting the public buildings.

SCOTT VS. PRESTON was first disposed of by settlement, verdict being agreed to. In this case James Scott sues John Preston to recover the sum of $300 damages for wrongful conversion of goods, and for work and labour done, $600. The verdict consented to ordered the restoration of the goods and chattels claimed and $200 for work. Sawers & Stone for plaintiff; J. W. Bennett for defendant.

The Westwood Stabbing.

A Sequel to the Affair Reported From Campbellford.

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 28.—The sequel to the stabbing affray at Westwood is supposed to have occured here in the following events: The day after the Norwood fair a girl, calling herself Wilson, arrived in town and found employment as a domestic with a family here. She said she was an Irish immigrant, and to account for having no trunk, stated that in her haste to meet her brother, who was said to be on a farm near Hastings, she forgot to look after her trunk and baggage at Quebec, and her employer requested the Grand Trunk agent here to write the Allan Line agent at Quebec to see if the baggage could be found. Everything one did was under instructions, so she said, from her brother, who told her to engage for two weeks only, till she would see if she liked the place. On Friday last the reputed brother appeared with a pair of eyes heavily draped in mourning. She called him Robert Wilson, but there was no apparent resemblance to denote relationship. Wilson hung around all day Friday, and towards evening left, ostensibly to take the 6 o'clock train for Hastings. While the family were at tea the girl was heard conversing in an undertone to some one, and when the mistress asked for her it turned out that she had skipped presumably with Robert and taken what little clothing she had with her, having been employed just one week and not having received any pay. No trace of their whereabouts is known at present. From these circumstances it is pretty generally supposed these are the Westwood parties.

Young's Point.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

HUNTING.—A party composed of six of our local sportsmen, spent a week at the head of Stony Lake, returning home on Wednesday, bringing with them two fine deer and an excellent sample of fish. The genial proprietor of the Carleton House carried off the honours in regard to the fishing, while our young friend "Pete" displayed his skill with the rifle. Several parties were camped in the vicinity, and all had the good luck to secure several deer. They report deer to be plentiful, while ducks and partridges are rather wild.

IMPROVEMENT.—Canoeists have been put to a great deal of trouble in "carrying over" the long and rough portage at this point, but this long felt inconvenience has at last been partly remedied. The Trent Valley Engineer superintended the erection of a canoe-slide, the upper end of which rests upon a pier above the dam, while the other end is supported by a pier in the mill-race. The slide will be supplied with rollers, while a rubber end a floating platform has been built, to avoid any inconvenience occasioned by the rise and fall of the water. This slide will be very convenient during low water, but he who would attempt such a passage during high water must have no little experience in the management of a canoe.

MILLING.—The saw and shingle mills are shut down, after a very successful season's cut. Mr. Young is making preparations for putting a camp into the woods to secure timber for next season. The miller also is very busy at present, farmers bringing their grain in on all parts of the township to a mill where they know they will receive full value.

Eloped from Campbellford,

A Young Girl Well Known in Peterborough Creates a Mild Sensation.

The following despatch has been received:

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 28.—Miss Rose O'Sullivan, aged 17, and Mr. Charles Dryden, aged 19, having been keeping company for some time recently, and on Sunday last went for a drive. It has transpired to be an elopement, as they drove to Stirling and were married, going thence to Deseronto, Dryden's former home. The girl is reputed to be worth some $7,000, part of which is a farm near Toronto, valued at $4,000.

Miss O'Sullivan, or Rose Kent, as she was best known here, was up till this summer a pupil at the Convent here. She left during the holidays and went to live with her adoptive parents at Campbellford. The elopement will be a surprise to the girl's relatives and acquaintance here.

South Monaghan.

From Our Own Correspondent.

GOING AHEAD.—The new store is going ahead nicely; every success is due to the builders.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT.—Do not rush into matrimony, girls, even if you have a chance. Remain single until you are well in the twenties, when body and mind are alike well developed. You cannot over-estimate the importance of a thorough knowledge of the man whom you design to marry. Uprightness, fixedness of principle and unselfish and ungenerous disposition with good business abilities, should be regarded as indispensable. Do not be won by trifles.

Otonabee.

A House Social at Zion.

From Our Own Correspondent.

One of the most pleasant events which has taken place in Otonabee for some time was that of a house social, which was held at the residence of Mrs. Gage at Zion. Miss Dolly Gage, with her fascinating accomplishments, rendered it a most enjoyable evening. Refreshments were served around, which consisted of cakes and milk. The proceeds were for the benefit of the church at Zion.

Keene.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Saturday evening Mr. Alex. Campbell, one of our oldest and most respected residents, fell down stairs. He some time ago hurt his ankle and it was still weak, when this fresh accident occurred. He was picked up at the foot of the stairs apparently not much hurt, but it was not long before unconsciousness set in, with other symptoms, indicating concussion of the brain. His advance age makes his recovery doubtful. Mr Campbell is one of the earliest residents of Keene, and is well known as a former business man of prominence in the village.

THE LION PROVIDENT.

The Ontario Government Institutes an Enquiry into its Affairs.

TORONTO, Oct. 28.—A most searching enquiry has been instituted by the Ontario Government into the doings of the Lion Provident Life and Live Stock Association. The commission is Mr. Hamilton Irving, Q.C., and the prosecutor for the government Mr. James Haverson. The general charge is that the association continues to do business although it knows very well it is insolvent and cannot pay its debts. There are a number of executions in the sheriff's hands unsatisfied and a large number of Division Court judgments are still unsettled.

The association endeavored to mislead the public by offering a reward to anyone who could prove it was not incorporated under chapter 167 of R.S.O., thus giving the impression it was an insurance company. It is incorporated under chapter 167 of the statutes of 1877 referring to benevolent societies and not under 167 of 1887, which refers to insurance companies. It is not a bona fide insurance company, has never made a deposit with the government or received a license.

The prosecutor, Mr. Haverson, is now engaged in hunting up more specific evidence of the association's transactions. The commission sat on Monday and examined into the act of incorporation and other documents connected with the history of the institution. The manager, William Jones, could not furnish any account of the risks taken, and the commission adjourned until Friday at 10 a.m. at the association's office, 45 King-street east, to enable him to produce the books relating to the risks.

Electric Lights Healthy.

It has been remarked, as showing what a powerful element of health the electric light is, that the general health of those who use it improves, their appetite and their ability to sleep increases, and the visits of the doctor become less frequent. This is especially apparent in the statistics of the attendance of working people in factories and other places.

In the Savings bank in Queen Victoria Street, London, where 1200 persons are employed, the absences from illness have been so far reduced that the extra labor gained is said to have paid for the electric light. The influence of artificial light on the eyes has also a very important sanitary bearing. It has been asserted that the injury to the eyes, of which the growing shortsightedness of the day is but one result, is due to the heat rays and not to the light rays.

If that be so, the electric light is less injurious than any other. If the eyes are exposed to the strong light of the arc lamp its ultra-violet rays have a painful effect, but no one has ever complained of the influence of a steady glow lamp upon the sight, and it is possible to read and write many hours by such a light without experiencing the least fatigue.

A Good and Cheap Penwiper.

"See that potato?" said the clerk, in one of the large hotels, as he pointed to a huge specimen gracefully balanced on a box of toothpicks.

"Yes, sir; what of it?"

"That is my penwiper. I find it the most improved penwiper of the age. When a guest signs the register, I take the pen and hurl its point into the potato. In an instant the pen is perfectly clean and ready for the next signer. The juice in the potato keeps the nib of the pen soft and free from dirt. After the potato gets too old it can be thrown away and replaced by another. I have tried about everything in the market, but I think nothing in the line of a penwiper can compare with a good old potato."

Mourning in White.

Votaries of funeral reform might in Corea find a fruitful field for their efforts. Among the very poor the law's demands are altogether beyond their purses, and the gaols, we are told, are being filled in consequence. It is required that in Seoul every one shall dress in white for a fixed length of time after the occurrence of death. Some of the poorer classes are able with difficulty to comply with the requirement, but others less fortunate cannot possibly conform, and immediately they appear in the street in any other than the prescribed garb they are arrested and sent to jail. The prisons are said to be overflowing with offenders.—Chicago Times.

The Littleness of Man.

Look at those stars, how beautiful! how cold! how innumerable! They have looked down with the same passionless eyes on all the follies, hopes, dreams, ambitions of the past and they will look down with the same bright impassive gaze on the revels, shipwrecks, marriages, divorces, great and little deeds of the future. They make me feel so small that I could creep into yonder copse and shrink into nothingness. But that here," tapping his breast, "there is a voice which tells me I was not born to die. That is all we have, Man, as one of our old poets says, 'to his own best star'—good-night."—Nicholas Flood Davin, in The Week.

TORONTO TOPICS.

TORONTO, Oct. 28.—A writ was issued at Osgoode Hall yesterday by D. McGibbon of Milton on behalf of Isabella Armstrong of that town against George A. Morphy, a Toronto solicitor, asking for $2000 damages for the alleged seduction of her daughter.

Mr. Joseph Golding, one of the oldest employes in the custom house, and residing at 16 St. Patrick-street, dropped dead of apoplexy last evening about 5 o'clock at his house. Mr. Golding was well advanced in years and in good health up to the time of his death, finishing the mission which closed in St. Patrick's Church on Monday night.

He Belonged to Grimsby.

BLENHEIM, Oct. 28.—The body found in the Eau last night is that of W. J. Farrell, a young married man of Grimsby. He with some friends came here two weeks ago to enjoy duck shooting. Yesterday morning young Farrell, in company with Frank Warner, went out in the Eau about 8 o'clock. Farrell complained of being cold and determined to return to Warner's, where he was staying. This was the last seen of him alive.

Kicked a Boy to Death.

GUELPH, Oct. 28.—Frank McFarquhar, son of Mr. John McFarquhar, was on his way to work the other day when three boys gathered around him and started to quarrel with him. One seized him by the leg and threw him to the ground. The three then pounced on him and frightfully bruised his head. The boy didn't realize the nature of his injuries and proceeded to his work. That evening on reaching home he suffered from chills. Erysipelas and blood poisoning have now set in as a result of his beating about the head. There is very little hope entertained of saving the boy's life.

A Breach of Promise Suit.

The lawyers have a choice morsel to gloat over—a breach of promise case, the parties two well known persons—the young lady the defendant, changing her mind at the last moment. It appears that the course of true love had run so smoothly that the day was set, a house rented, and house-keeping details discussed. But the young lady rebelled and broke off the match because her affianced would not promise to buy the necessary supply of tea at hawley bros. She rightly reasoned that the young man who hadn't sense enough to know what was best for them was not the man for her. And thousands confirm this sensible young lady's judgment.

Hogs as Money Makers.

"Even allowing two dollars as purchase money for each pig, I can make pork with whey and shorts for three cents per pound," said an extensive dairyman to us just recently. He raises Berkshires and Yorkshires, and of course only expects such returns through summer feeding. The above assertion others will find endorsed in their experience. Whey from cheese factories, or skim milk, fed with shorts, is cheap feed, and given to the right sort of pigs will yield good pork and a large profit. Fed to "elm peelers" it runs to hair, snout, and legs, the least valuable of all parts of a marketable hog. Any farmers near a cheese factory, with whey in abundance, are making the mistake of their lives if they do not purchase a pure bred boar and raise grade pigs to turn that whey into money. We have no breed in particular to advocate, as all have certain distinct qualities of their own, but we would urge those with facilities at hand to place their order with a reliable breeder for a vigorous young boar. The raising of pigs is within the reach of all, as the outlay is small and the returns quick and large. Fifteen or twenty dollars sunk in purchasing a pedigreed boar will pay those handsomely who have the common facilities for pig raising.

What is a Pacer:

What is the pacer? is the question that just now is being discussed freely by many writers in the columns of the American sporting press. Hank Comstock, who discusses intelligently every subject he tackles, is evidently not very clear in his own mind on the subject. He alludes to a statement made by Mr. L. Broadhead, of Woodburn Farm, to the effect that in time the breeding of trotter upon trotter was in danger of converting trotting stock into pacing stock unless some counteracting influence was used, and he suggested that crossing in thoroughbred blood would be likely to check the pacing tendency. We will now direct Mr. Comstock's attention to a sire in whose progeny the pacing instinct seems to be about as strong as the trotting one. The horse we allude to is Old Clear Grit, now dead, and his breeding certainly does not bear out Mr. Broadhead's suggestion to use thoroughbred blood to check the pacing tendency. Clear Grit was by imp. Lapidist, thoroughbred, out of a mare said to be by Cock of the Rock, that was also half thoroughbred, and of the six of his representatives in the 30 list three of them are pacers.

Milk For Fowls.

Since milk is the only article of food known to contain within itself all the elements necessary to the prefection of growth and vigor in an animal, it is not strange that it should be found to be one of the very best egg producing materials that can be supplied to poultry. Given two flocks of fowls, and treatment, location and original stock being equal in all respects save one, says The Poultry World, and it will be found that those having skimmed milk as a portion of their daily food or drink will give more eggs weekly and for a longer term of weeks than those whose treatment is exactly the same with this single exception.

GLADSTONE ON M'KINLEY

HE SPEAKS AT FORFARSHIRE'S ROYAL BOROUGH, DUNDEE.

The Effect of the McKinley Tariff Must Be to Elevate and Improve the Taste of British Manufacturers—Admiral Fremantle Burns Vitu Village.

ZANZIBAR, Oct. 29.—Vice-Admiral Fremantle, commander of the British fleet, who sailed on the flagship Boadicea to Vitu, East Africa, to co-operate with the Germans in punishing the natives for massacreing Germans, has captured Vitu. The town was burned to the ground. Three European sailors were wounded.

GLADSTONE AT DUNDEE.

He Characterises Protection as a Misnomer. A Delusion and a Snare.

DUNDEE, Oct. 29.—Mr. Gladstone arrived here at noon to-day and was met at the station by the provost and councilmen. Immense throngs surrounded the station and extended far along the approaches thereto.

Mr. Gladstone remarked that protection plundered and defrauded the people of the country which adopted it. He said every country giving greater stringency of protection within its borders, though damaging us within its own market, gave us a freer and broader field in other markets. It was not possible for Great Britain to receive a vital or profound injury from any of these operations abroad. France and Germany threatened retaliation. England should not be led into such suicidal folly [Cheers.] There were still capital and plants of resources in this great country to hold and keep its place in the markets of the world.

Mr. Gladstone objected to the plan of a zollverein of the whole British empire, including the colonies and dependencies, against all foreign countries. He doubted much whether the whole empire would consent. It would be hard upon countries pursuing free trade with England to punish them because some particular country had adopted a restricted system of commerce. The zollverein would to some extent enlarge commerce with the colonies, but it would contract commerce with the rest of the world. The amount of imperial commerce was £187,000,000 yearly, whereas the foreign commerce amounted to £334,000,000. It would be a most inglorious policy to clog British energy and enterprise in a market of £334,000,000 yearly in order to enlarge action with a market of one-third that amount.

The operation of the McKinley tariff might not disturb trade so much as some expected. America must get paid for her exports to England and must take payment either in British manufactures or in foreign or colonial goods through English markets. One effect of the McKinley tariff would be to direct the attention of British manufacturers toward the production of finer goods, because the before the least intolerable protective rate The result would be to elevate and improve the taste of British manufacturers, to spur them on and stimulate their ingenuity [Cheers.]

The probable tendency produced by it by the tariff among Americans would be towards manufacture of coarser goods, thus degrading their productions. Although America had gone on tightening her protective system, she had not lessened English trade. In spite of protection commerce between America and Great Britain had rapidly and greatly increased. The experience of the past ought to dispel alarms that the McKinley law would effect material injury The harm to English commerce would be fractional compared with that done to people of the protected country.

The word protection was a misnomer. I ought to be oppression. It was a delusion and a fraud. America was the country that could best afford to try this strange and astonishing experiment. Her natural wealth, soil, minerals and immense territory made her a world in herself. With the vast amount of free trade within herself nothing could interfere The possession of these enormous advantages helped to disguise the truth from American reasoners But the adoption of the McKinley law would involve a fearful waste of sources by which her people ought to be made strong and happy. [Cheers.] He advised that we should not complain so much of injury to ourselves; first, because it was impolitic, and next because it would be mainly untrue. [Cheers.] Substantial injury could not be done to us, though occasional injury might here and there result.

In conclusion Mr. Gladstone said: "If we have faith in the economic and moral truth of free trade let us have faith in their vindication west of the Atlantic as well as east. People so acute as the Americans will find the way to results best for themselves sooner and more effectually if respectfully left to themselves, especially by the people of England, who ought to show that as much as they value America's commerce they value her friendship and regard still more."

HONORS COME HIGH.

The French Republican Scheme for Making Royalists Pay for Their Rank.

PARIS, Oct. 29.—Moreau's bill looking to the abolition of titles in France by taxing them heavily proposes an annual impost thus graded: For prefix "De," 500 francs; for title of "Baron," 5000 francs "Vicomte," 10,000 francs; "Comte," 20,000 francs; "Marquis," 50,000 francs; "Duke," 80,000 francs and "Prince," 100,000 francs, while for Duke or Count with prefix "Highness" 300,000 francs, and Prince with same prefix 250,000 francs. The scheme is ingeniously devised, but scarcely practical, as if the Republican majority should deem it politic to deprive descendants of old nobility of the prestige new left them they would probably vote to do so directly.

THE PROPER KIND OF AID

Balfour Loses No Time in Constructing West of Ireland Railways.

DUBLIN, Oct. 29.—Mr. Balfour has pushed forward the arrangements for the construction of railways in the distressed districts in the west of Ireland. The work of building the roads will furnish employment for a host of laborers, besides those living in the districts through which the roads will be built. Men coming from a distance can, if they desire, have a part of their wages remitted free of charge to their families.

Mr. Balfour and party, occupying seats in Mitchell Henry's brake, visited the villages of Omey Island, ending the trip at Cliftden the proposed terminus of the new railway At this place Mr. Balfour addressed 200 people in the open air. The party then returned to Kylemore. At every place visited Mr. Balfour was accorded a cordial reception.

American Espionage.

BERLIN, Oct. 29.—The Confectionair, the organ of the manufacturers of woolen wearing apparel, asserts that the Ministry of Commerce has warned the manufacturers against the espionage of American commissioners. It appears that recently the American consuls, when legalising invoices tried to obtain information regarding the cost of producing these goods, and on other matters.

Was Gabrielle Hypnotised?

PARIS, Oct. 29.—The Eyraud trial promises to be of peculiar interest. One scientific subject will be very thoroughly threshed into, and that is hypnotism. Maitre Henri Robert, the counsel for the woman, Gabrielle Bompard, has decided to make a test question of the issue whether his client was or was not hypnotised, as she claims, by her accomplice. To decide the matter he will call Drs. Charcot and Voisin, and these gentlemen will, it is said, make hypnotic experiments in open court. The contention of M. Robert is that Gabrielle was not responsible for her actions, having been hypnotized by Eyraud, and so remained during the entire period of their intercourse.

Disasters to Ships.

LONDON, Oct. 29.—The new British bark Hazelbank, Captain Manson, from Tacoma, June 1, via Queenstown for Hull, has been sunk in the Channel. Her crew have arrived at Dover. The Hazelbank is firmly fixed on the southeast spit. She went ashore with her sails set. Captain Manson visited here to-day with a tug, but returned, as it was impossible to board her. She is full of water.

A Finnish Jack the Ripper.

HESINGFORS, Finland, Oct. 29.—For some time a series of atrocities similar to those committed by "Jack the Ripper" has started society here. Several fallen women have been found dead in their beds, having been killed by being strangled. The police were for a long time unable to obtain the least clue to the murderer, but the man has at last been found. His name is Haapaoja, and he has been known to the police for several years as a scoundrel of the worst class.

Sir Thomas Freake Settles Up.

LONDON, Oct. 29.—The charge of assault brought by Mr. Edward Cousins Gibson against Sir Thomas Freake, two other men and a lady has been compromised. In order to get possession of certain letters Sir Thomas, it will be remembered, decoyed Cousins into the cellar of an empty house and there took from him the keys of his club letter-box. Sir Thomas Freake has settled all the four actions by the payment of £1400 and £100 costs. The imputations made by the two sides against each other have been withdrawn.

The Fisheries Question Settled.

LONDON, Oct. 29.—The Newfoundland delegates, Sir William Whiteway and Mr. Harvey, have succeeded in arranging a satisfactory settlement of the fisheries question After numerous protracted interviews Lord Knutsford and other members of the Government announce a solution of this exceedingly knotty problem.

The Council of State Will Govern.

THE HAGUE, Oct. 28.—The Dutch Parliament by a vote of 109 to 5 to-day declares that the King was incapable of governing The Council of State has been temporarily invested with regal powers.

A BRUTE OF A HUSBAND.

A Sister's Search for a Woman Who Found Marriage a Failure.

DETROIT, Oct. 29.—Mrs. Victoria Ford of Toronto arrived here last evening in search of her younger sister, Miss Myra Herron who is destitute and lying very ill somewhere in the city. Miss Herron lived in Toronto and there met William Nixon, an employe of the Ontario Straw Works. Three months later the girl told Mrs. Ford she was married to Nixon. They came to Detroit last June Three weeks ago Mrs. Ford received a letter from Myra relating a terrible tale of brutal treatment at the hands of her husband, followed by a divorce. She appealed for aid but gave no specific address. Mrs. Ford sent two registered letters to the general deliver, but got no reply. She has searched the hospitals without result.

THE NORTHWEST ASSEMBLY.

The Lieutenant-Governor Refers to Various Matters Affecting the Territories.

REGINA, Oct. 29.—The Northwest Assembly was opened to-day by Lieut.-Governor Royal. In the speech from the throne he referred to the abundant harvest and railway development of the country, to the visit of the Duke and Duchess of Connaught to the vigorous immigration policy being pursued, expressing the hope that the visit of the British farmer delegates would prove beneficial. He intimated that statistics would be presented combatting the assertion made that crime was increasing in the territories. Credit was given the Mounted Police for their services in suppressing the illegal liquor traffic and in other ways.

Educational matters were referred to. There are 193 schools in operation with 23 teachers and 5389 pupils, an increase of 31 schools and 924 pupils. Allusion was also made to the public works and water supply of the territories.

DUG HIMSELF A GRAVE.

Attempted Suicide of a Father at His Children's Tomb.

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y., Oct. 29.—Dr. C. C. Crosby, a well-known druggist of Pleasantville, attempted suicide to-day in the cemetery at Chappequa, where lies the bodies of his two children. He was found unconscious stretched across their graves.

Dr. Crosby was about 40 years old and his domestic life had been most happy until the death of his children, a year ago. His grief settled into a melancholy which seemed daily to grow deeper. Latterly he had exhibited signs of insanity and his friends kept him in sight as much as possible. Every one who knew him understood that grief on account of his bereavement was destroying his reason. Sometimes when the names of his dead children were mentioned he became hysterical and of late his family has studiously avoided every subject of conversation that would call them to mind.

This afternoon he was missed from his store. He was traced to a livery stable, where he had hired a carriage, and thence to the cemetery at Casspeqna. It was his custom to make frequent visits to his children's graves, and of this these who were looking for him were well aware. But they were not prepared for the pathetic spectacle that met their gaze when they arrived there.

Dr. Crosby had dismissed the carriage on entering the cemetery. He was such a familiar figure there that the keeper paid little attention to him. What the searchers saw when they arrived made his motive appear as clear as daylight He came to dig himself a grave beside those of his children and leave them no more. A gravedigger's spade was close at hand and he struck it into the sod beside one of the little graves. He threw up the earth until there was a pit deep enough to hold his body. Then he took from his pocket a vial of laudanum, drank the contents and lay himself down in the grave which he had dug.

This was what his friends saw when they arrived on the scene. He was unconscious though the size of the dose had produced nausea and prevented speedy death. He was taken home, where he lies at the point of death, and the doctors say he may never know that he was removed from the grave he dug for himself beside those of his children.

THE CAT AGAIN.

Three Deaths in a Family by Black Diphtheria—Smitten by a Stray Cat.

DODGEVILLE, Wis., Oct. 29.—The family of Robert Paul at Middleton, has been afflicted with diphtheria. Four weeks ago a stray cat went to the house and one of the children played with it, although it was noticed at the time that it discharged at the nose and mouth. Nothing was thought of it till soon afterwards when the little boy was taken down with black diphtheria which the doctor said he had caught from the cat. The boy died. Then a second son took the disease and died. The father, mother and daughter were also stricken down, but recovered. Allen the only remaining son, and the support of his parents, cared for them all through their sickness holding one of the boys when dying and preparing them for burial. When the others were recovering he was taken sick and died.

A MADMAN RUNS AMUCK.

Fatally Wounds Two Men With an Axe and is Shot Down by Villagers.

LACOLLE, Que., Oct. 29.—Last week a man by the name of Leblanche, who was working for Joseph Gregoire in the village, threatened to shoot and kill Gregoire and his family. Monday he was arrested, when it was discovered that Leblanche had lately made his escape from a Michigan insane asylum. The officials have been keeping him confined in Joseph Largesse's house, but without handcuffs, and after breakfast this morning he ran out of Largesse's house and seizing an axe struck Largesse, cutting him on the head in a most frightful manner. Bailiff E. D. Lareau started in pursuit, and when he had overtaken him Leblanche attacked him furiously with the axe, also hacking him up so badly that he is not expected to live. After this he ran amuck through the streets, the axe in one hand and a revolver, which he took from Lareau, in the other. The villagers, armed with shotguns and clubs, gave chase and opened fire on him. Nine of the shots lodged in his legs and body, but he is not seriously wounded.

Was He Buried Alive.

NEW PHILADELPHIA, Ohio, Oct. 29.—F. M. Leider, who took an overdose of morphine Oct. 25 and was supposed to have died, was buried on the 27th. His brother came to-day and wanted to see the body. When the coffin was opened it was found Leider had been in a stupor and had come to life in the casket. His face was scratched and the glass on the coffin was broken.

TORONTO TOPICS.

TORONTO, Oct. 30.—Salvation Army Captain Cicero Jones of Uxbridge died suddenly last Sunday after having attended a meeting in one of the city barracks. Deceased had been in the Home of Rest, Yonge-street, for some time in an ailing condition. On his return home Sunday afternoon he was seized with hemorrhage and died before medical assistance could be procured.

The body of the man found at Beamsville has been identified as that of William Munroe, caretaker of the Royal Canadian Yacht Club of this city.

The Prison Commission, after a rest of a few weeks, met in the Private Bills Committee-room at the Parliament Buildings yesterday morning. Those present were: Mr. J. W. Langmuir (chairman), Hon. Charles Drury, Dr. Rosebrugh, A. F. Jury and Hon. T. W. Anglin, the secretary. This is the concluding sitting for the purpose of taking evidence.

The witnesses were:

JOHN MILLER of Owen Sound, jailer, and C. J. MOORE, sheriff of Grey.

ALEXANDER SUTHERLAND, jailer, and THOMAS BOWLES, sheriff, Dufferin.

ANDREW JACKSON, jailer, Victoria.

ALEXANDER LANG, jailer, and Deputy-Sheriff SMITH of Simcoe.

JOHN GREEN, governor of Toronto jail.

The evidence adduced showed the necessity for better classification of prisoners. The present jail buildings would be capacious enough for good classification if the counties would provide poorhouses for vagrants and the sick and decrepit. The cost of erecting and maintaining these poorhouses stood in the way in spite of the government's allowance of $4000. In some counties the councillors from the towns and villages favored their construction, but those from the rural parts objected.

The chief causes of crime were held to be intemperance, idleness and ignorance. Sheriff Moore (Grey) complained that the Truancy Act was not enforced and that many children were growing up in ignorance and drifting towards crime.

The Central Prison was described by Jailer Jackson (Lindsay) as a terror to evil-doers on account of the strict discipline and Jailer Miller (Owen Sound) said that it had a deterrent effect, and that many criminals preferred the Kingston Penitentiary, where the work was not so severe.

A number of Belleville's leading citizens give notice in the Ontario Gazette of an application for incorporation under the name of Lloyd's Power Transmitter Company of Belleville limited. The capital of the company is $25,000. By the Lloyd process the face of iron, wooden and paper pulleys are covered with what the inventor designates Lloyd's power transmitter;—being a covering of cotton and cement so blended as to form a perfectly smooth and hard surface, which from its composition possesses the adhesiveness necessary to prevent any slippage of belts. Already most complimentary endorsations have been received from Electric Light Companies lumber and planing mills where the transmitter has been used.

Birchall Wanted as a Witness.

TORONTO, Oct. 30.—Messrs. Meredith & Co. set on foot a motion for leave to examine Reginald Birchall at the Woodstock jail. On the 20th inst. a writ claiming damages for libel was served on behalf of Governor Hood Graeme on The Globe Company. The plaintiff in this action now asks for leave to examine Birchall as a necessary and material witness on his behalf. The plaintiff avers that he believes Birchall did make say as was stated by the defendants in the article complained of, that he was an accomplice with Lamb in the murder of Benwell, or that he had anything to do, directly or indirectly, with the murder. The motion will likely be argued to-day or to-morrow.

Solicitors representing some of the daily papers of this city were yesterday making anxious enquiries around Osgoode Hall as to whether any order for replevin had been issued on behalf of Birchall against them. It is said that some letters which were entrusted by the prisoner to some one of those engaged to procure evidence on behalf of the prisoner have not been returned to him, but have been left with one or more of the Toronto editors, who refuse to give them up, and proceedings have been threatened on behalf of the prisoner. No order had been issued by any of the judges at the time the offices closed.

STANLEY'S RECITALS.

MEN WITH HOLES IN THEIR BODIES ALIVE WITH MAGGOTS.

He Replies to the Strictures of Major Barttelot's Friends—Emin Bey Says Stanley Lived in High Style While Other Officers Ate Negro Fare.

LONDON, Oct. 30.—In an article in The Contemporary Review, Dr. Peters, who claims to be authorized by Emin Bey, asserts that Mr. Stanley more than once threatened to force Emin to accompany him to the coast.

Peters accuses Stanley of drinking wine with his dinner served in European fashion, while the others at the same table were without wine and ate negro fare.

In an interview published in The Telegraph, Mr. Stanley, still indulging in innuendo and evading the charge that he left the scum of his men with Major Barttelot, declares that the bad state of the rear column was due to occurrences too horrible to describe in all their barbarity. If fully described they would make an Englishman's blood boil and his cheeks flush with shame. Being asked what caused the wholesale deaths there, Mr. Stanley excitedly asserted that he saw men with holes in their bodies alive with maggots. In answer to Troup's charges Mr. Stanley asked whether if they were true his own return would have caused enthusiasm and revived hopes in the rear column as it did. He accuses Troup of jealousy and ambition, and says the failure of the officers to protest against Barttelot's action to justify themselves compelled him to include all four in the same condemnation. Mr. Stanley says he possesses letters of 16 pages from Troup containing matter which it is impossible to publish, and that Troup refuses to modify it.

In reply to the charge that he sought fame and riches Mr. Stanley says he spent £12,000 on the expedition before the start was made, and distributed £4000 among the members of the expedition on their return for the admirable services they rendered during the African trip. After describing in a graphic manner the death of Major Barttelot he concluded by emphatically declaring that he knew nothing of the alleged immorality in the rear column and that the trouble was something entirely different.

WILL STRIKE AT THE TRAFFIC.

Secretary Windom About to Strike a Retaliatory Blow at Canadian Trade.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—Secretary Windom's annual report will contain a recommendation that the privileges now enjoyed by the Canadian railways in transporting freight for this country shall be materially abridged. In a communication to the Senate concerning this subject Secretary Windom said:

I am informed that since the completion of the Canadian Pacific Railway goods arriving at Vancouver, British Columbia, from Asiatic ports destined for the United States have been placed in the cars of that company, which were then sealed by the United States consul at that port and forwarded to their destination in the United States. I find that this practice has been acquiesced in by this department in so far that the customs officials at the frontier ports of arrival have respected the consular seals and allowed the cars to go forward without entry and examination of their contents if the seals were found intact.

I am of the opinion that it was the intent of the law to confine the privileges of the consular seal to cars containing merchandise of the contiguous country, and that such privilege does not extend to cars containing imported merchandise landed in the contiguous country for transit through it to the United States. In this view of the law it is in contemplation to restrict the privilege to cars containing merchandise of the contiguous country.

It is well understood that the administration is determined in some way to bring Canada to terms for her arbitrary conduct in the matter of the Behring Sea and North Atlantic fisheries. It is believed that this end may be secured by striking at the system of Canadian railways, and especially their transcontinental route. The business which these roads secure from the United States forms a considerable part of their entire transactions.

The administration argues that if the railways are made to see how dependent they are upon the good-will of the Washington Government they will use their influence to secure a satisfactory adjustment of the pending international controversies. What form the recommendation will take cannot at present be stated There is no doubt, however, that the Administration is very much in earnest in the matter and that the Secretary's utterances will represent the wishes both of President Harrison and his constitutional advisers.

DEATH HELD THE TILLER.

A C.P.R. Passenger Poisoned by Carbolic Acid.

WINNIPEG, Oct. 29.—A second-class passenger named Bright, coming from Victoria over the C.P.R. to Duluth, to-day, drank some carbolic acid which was stored in a closet in a colonist car, mistaking it for whisky. This was about 40 miles out of Winnipeg. He had been drinking pretty heavy all the way down. Officials gave the sufferer emetics and Bright was taken to the hospital on arrival here. He died shortly afterwards. Deceased was formerly C.P.R. policeman at Gretna.

W.C.T.U.

KINGSTON, Oct. 29.—At the W.C.T.U convention to-day Mrs. H. L. Platt, Picton presented a report from the department of scientific temperance instruction which stated that excellent work had been done in the department for the past year. Much progress has already been made as is shown by the fact that in 1888 the number of public school pupils taking up the subject increased from 71,525 to 141,592, and in 1889 there is a further increase of 2992.

The report on provincial press work was read by Mrs. Carman, press superintendent All were agreed in the influence of the press for good or evil and it was a duty and responsibility to make that influence tell for the good of humanity.

A memorial was read from the Toronto district, W.C.T.U., stating its withdrawal from the union of the county of York, and asking the provincial union to recognize it as a district one.

Sunday School Convention.

BRANTFORD, Oct. 29.—At to-day's session of the Sunday School convention a series of addresses were delivered. Rev. John McEwen spoke upon "Sabbath School Work in Rural Districts."

Mr. Lewis C. Peake, chairman of the Executive Committee, discussed the question "normal classes," in relation to teaching and teaching. Dr. Birchard advocated normal teaching.

The annual report of the convention was submitted by the general secretary, Mr Day. Numerically and financially the association is stronger to-day than ever During the past three years 437 new school have been added to the convention, while 6963 new teachers and 65,430 new scholars have come forward to teach and be taught during that same period. The report forcibly suggests the sub-division of the work into districts of about 12 equal parts. It is argued that the division of labor and responsibility would materially assist in the advancement of the work.

A Bailiff Found Dead.

GUELPH, Oct. 29.—George Mellis of Glenallan was found dead in the lane on his farm last Saturday morning. He had been suffering from a tumor in the neck, which troubled him for years and which, it is supposed, caused his death. He was bailiff of the Sixth Division Court for 20 years or more and was a man well known and respected all over the county.

The Church Attacks Whisky Smugglers.

QUEBEC, Oct. 29.—Cardinal Taschereau has issued a letter to his flock on the evils of the liquor traffic, in which he strongly condemns smugglers, who are henceforth to be deprived of the benefit of the sacrament.

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 20, 1890.

THE convention of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union was opened on Tuesday, in Kingston. The President reported that the sentiment in favor of total prohibition was growing, and that legislation in that direction would be sought at the next meeting of the Dominion Parliament. The financial report showed a balance of $174 on hand.

The Dark Continent, says an exchange, will soon be dark no longer, for a railway is about to make a permanent opening into its interior. In August last the first sod of the British East African Company's projected line from Port Reitz, on the coast, to the Victoria Nyanza was turned by the wife of the British Consul-General at Zanzibar. The line will be 600 miles in length, will cost $3,000,000, and when completed will be the great trade route to Central Africa. Port Reitz, which is north of Zanzibar, is the best natural harbour on that part of the coast, being land-locked and capable of holding a large quantity of shipping. Tais is, doubtless, says the Mail but the beginning of railway enterprise in Central Africa.

SIR JOHN THOMPSON has recommended the disallowance of two ordinances of the Legislative Assembly of the Northwest Territories. One of these provided that nobody but a resident of the Territories should practice law therein. The destruction of this protectionist measure must have been a painful duty for the protectionist Government. The other was an ordinance establishing a close season for certain kinds of game, and was disallowed because it interfered with the treaty rights of the Indians. So long, remarks the Globe as the Dominion Government confines its disallowing energies to cases like this it is not likely to get into any trouble. The good old days when the Ottawa Minister was ready to tackle one Mr. Mowat's bills have apparently gone never to return.

THE London Times of the 18th gives Canadian restrictionists some good advice with regard to the attempt that is being made to discover new markets:—"There are one or two very necessary lessons which Canada has yet to learn if she is to play her part as a trader, under the altered conditions of the game, with most advantage to herself. She must remember, in the first place, that if she wishes to sell her products to other countries, she must be willing to buy from them in return. It is true that international trade very frequently takes a round-about road, and that it is consequently not possible to show the balance of imports and exports by examining the trade relations of a country with any single one of her foreign customers or suppliers. But that the balance in question must be struck somehow, whether in a round-about or in a direct way, is among the most certain and best established truths which a competent financier always takes into account."

Eggs and the Tariff.

A despatch has been received at Washington from Ottawa to the effect that the officers of the Customs department of the Dominion have concluded after an examination of the McKinley Tariff Bill, that they may venture to claim that eggs under it are entitled to free entry. The statement is that they make this claim because in the list of free goods is the item, "Eggs of birds, fishes and insects." It is said that Mr. G. W. Jessop, Dominion customs appraiser, and the greatest authority on tariff matters in the Dominion, maintains that if there was such a provision in the Canadian customs law, the importer could successfully maintain that eggs were entitled to free entry, and that a hen is a "bird." This Canadian customs appraiser is evidently not familiar with the construction of American tariff laws, or with that general provision as to articles not otherwise not specifically enumerated. The construction which is given is that when an article is specifically mentioned in the dutiable list it cannot claim to be exempted because of any phrase which would seem to qualify it, either in the free list, or in what is called the basket clause. Eggs are especially enumerated in the agricultural schedule at five cents per dozen. They were made a subject of debate both in the committee and in the proceedings of the two Houses. There is no possible question that it was the intention of the framers of the bill that the eggs of domestic fowls should pay five cents per dozen, and whatever might be the construction of the phrase in the list, or by the customs officers of the Dominion, it is very evident that no United States appraiser will declare that a hen is a bird, and that the eggs of a hen are entitled to free entry as the eggs of a bird. Eggs are to remain upon the dutiable list at five cents, and the effect is already very noticeable in the United States. There is a marked increase in the price of eggs, and farmers are already talking of increasing their stock of hens.

What Cures?

Editorial Difference of Opinion on an Important Subject.

What is the force that cures disease; and which is the most convenient apparatus for applying it? How far is the regular physician useful to us because we believe in him, and how far are his pills and powders and tonics only the material representative of his personal influence on our health?

The regular doctors cure; the homœopathic doctors cure; the Habnemannites cure; and so do the faith cures and the mind cures, and the so-called Christian scientist, and the four-dollar-and-a-half advertising itinerants, and the patent medicine men. They all hit and they all miss, and the great difference—one great difference—in the result is that when the regular doctors lose a patient no one grumbles, and when the irregular doctors lose one the community stands on end and howls.—Rochester Union and Advertiser.

Nature cures, but Nature can be aided, hindered or defeated in the curative process. And the Commercial's contention is that it is the part of rational beings to seek and trust the advice of men of good character, who have studied the human system and learned, as far as modern science lights the way, how far they can aid Nature and how they can best avoid obstructing her.—Buffalo Commercial.

It is not our purpose to consider the evils that result from employing the unexamptions, the ignorant, charlatans and quacks to prescribe for the maladies that afflict the human family. We simply declare that the physician who knows something is better than the physician who knows nothing, or very little indeed about the structure and the conditions of the human system. Of course the doctor does not know it all."—Rochester Morning Herald.

I have used Warner's Safe Cure and but for its timely use would have been I verily believe, in my grave from what the doctors termed Bright's Disease.—D. F. Shriner, senior Editor Scio Gazette. Chilliothe, Ohio, in a letter dated June 30, 1890.

Danger, perhaps death, lies in a neglected case of cold in the head. Why run any risk when Nasal Balm will instantly relieve and thoroughly cure you. eod99-w

Mind your own Business.

Those men always succeed best who mind their own business. The reason is probably because they meet with such little opposition. Imperial Cream Tartar Baking Powder is the most successful baking powder in the market because it attends to its own business. It sells on its own merits, not by abusing other similar preparations. 8 th s-w

A Wonderful Machine.

Our readers will admit that forty thousand dollars is an enormous amount of money for one piece of machinery, yet this is the price to be paid by the publishers of the Family Herald and Weekly Star, Montreal, for a new printing press to be added to its magnificent equipment, to supply the enormous constituency. This would stagger most of our American contemporaries. The Family Herald and Weekly Star, Montreal, is a newspaper success truly marvellous.

Purify Your Blood

The importance of keeping the blood in a pure condition is universally known, and yet there are very few people who have perfectly pure blood. The taint of scrofula, salt rheum, or other foul humor is hereditted and transmitted for generations, causing untold suffering, and we also accumulate poison and germs of disease from the air we breathe, the food we eat, the water we drink. There is nothing more conclusively proven than the positive power of Hood's Sarsaparilla over all diseases of the blood. This medicine, when fairly tried, does expel every trace of scrofula or salt rheum, removes the taint which causes catarrh, neutralizes the acidity and cures rheumatism, drives out the germs of malaria, blood poisoning, etc. It also vitalizes and enriches the blood, thus overcoming that tired feeling, and building up the whole system. Thousands testify to the superiority of Hood's Sarsaparilla as a blood purifier. Full information and statements of cures sent free.

Self Application of Electricity

FOR MEDICAL PURPOSES BY THE

DORENWEND ELECTRIC BELT

And Attachments.

THE WORLD'S BEST.

ALL diseases curable by Electricity can be treated at home by the Dorenwend Appliance. The Dorenwend is the only legitimate Electric Belt made which fulfils the requirements of Electro-medical science. It is a complete BODY BATTERY. It has an independent Battery, which generates a mild, continuous current of Elec tricity (without shocks) and can be regulated to suit the strongest man or the weakest child. It is a CURRENT OF QUANTITY, not merely a sensation current, and th quantity current is the great cural tive. It is a successful treatment for INDIGESTION, RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, SCIATICA, LUMBAGO, LIVER AND KIDNEY TROUBLES, WEAK BACK, SPINAL DISEASE, HEART DISEASE, NERVOUS DEBILITY, PARALYSIS, VERTIGO, FEMALE COMPLAINTS, IMPOTENCE, SEXUAL DECLINE and all diseases of the Nervous and Muscular Systems.

Remember that the DORENWEND BELT is the very latest invention in this line, and was invented by a competent electrician, and ranks as the best in the world; we defy anyone to bring proof to the contrary.

Do not class this Belt with the humbug combinations of leather and metal with which the country is being flooded. If you wish to experiment with cheap articles, buy THEM; but, if you want to procure a genuine Electric Belt and one that will be a benefit get a Dorenwend Belt.

Send name and address for Illustrated Book on Home Electro-medical treatment and mention this paper. The Dorenwend Electric Belt and Attachment Co., C. H. DORENWEND, Electrician, 103 Yonge St., Toronto, Canada. eod w

The new business of the SUN LIFE was the largest ever secured in the Company's history and was equalled by but one Canadian life company. The surplus accumulated during the THREE years of the current quinquennium far exceeds the amount earned during any previous FIVE years, and the profits to policy-holders cannot fail to be highly satisfactory. The prosperity of the Sun Life is no doubt largely due to its issuing unconditional policies and paying its claims promptly. Canadians should also remember that by patronizing a Home Institution, which invests all its funds in the Dominion, they are benefitting themselves by reducing the rate of interest here, and are helping to build up our own cities rather than those of foreign states.

A HOGGISH EXPERIMENT

AND THE PRACTICAL RESULTS OBTAINED AT THE O. A. C.

Corn Ensilage and Roots as Food Factors in Swine Feeding, Describing the Animals, Their Preparation and Feeding—And the Net Results.

This experiment was commenced at the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, on January 10th, 1889, and terminated on March 26th, thus covering a period of 77 days. Its primary object was to ascertain the value of corn ensilage and roots, both essentially and relatively, when used as food adjuncts in feeding swine in the winter season. Several other facts of great interest and much value to the farmer were, however, brought out in the experiment, such as the large profits from the judicious feeding of swine, the rate of the daily increase in weight which results from such feeding, and the extent of the mistake in keeping them simply on a maintenance diet.

THE ANIMALS SELECTED.—The animals chosen for the experiment were grade Berkshires, bred upon the farm from a pure sire, and out of three different dams from the same litter. They were divided into three groups. Each group contained three animals, two barrows and one sow. The individuals of each group were from different dams, and one of each of the three was in every instance from the same dam. They were all in good store condition. The conditions therefore at the outset were very similar.

PERIOD OF PREPARATION.—Two weeks prior to the commencement of the experiment each group was put in a separate pen 6 ft. by 10 ft. (all the room available), after having been carefully weighed. They were at once put upon the food ration which was to be given them throughout the experiment. At the commencement of this period the pigs in group 1 fed on meal, weighed 618½ lb; those in group 2 fed on roots and meal, weighed 583½ lb; and those in group 3 fed on ensilage and meal, weighed 603½ lb. During this preparatory period the pigs in group 1 gained 32 lb., those in group 2 gained 12 lb., and those in group 3 lost 12 lb., as they did not take kindly to the ensilage.

FOOD AND FEEDING.—The pigs in group 1 were fed 13 lb. of meal per day for a time. Toward the close of the experiment this was increased to 19½ lb., which however proved a larger quantity than they would eat clean and so cloyed their appetites that the quantity had to be reduced to 12 lb. per day. The average amount fed per day throughout the experiment was 15½ lb. This meal ration consisted of ground oats, ground barley, ground peas and wheat middlings in the proportions by weight of 1, 1, 2, and 1 respectively. Those in group 2 were fed all the sliced turnips they would eat clean, which was 90 lb. per day on an average. They took rather more toward the close of the experiment than at the outset. To the roots was added a meal ration similar in kind to that given to the pigs in the first group, but only one-third of the amount. It averaged therefore 5½ lb. per day, and when fed it was sprinkled upon the sliced turnips. The pigs in the group 3 were fed daily 35 lb of ensilage on an average. The meal fed was similar in quantity and kind to that fed to the pigs in group 2, and was likewise sprinkled upon the ensilage. When feeding, the ensilage was masticated by the pigs, but a large proportion of it was not swallowed by them. It had been cut in 1½ inch lengths, which is manifestly too coarse for feeding swine. The food was given in three feeds per day and all the water was supplied that the pigs would take. Those fed on roots took but a small quantity; those fed on ensilage required more. The water given to the pigs in group 1 was poured on the meal when it was put in the trough.

VALUE OF THE FOOD.—Estimating oats to be worth 28 cents per bushel, barley 40 cents, peas 55 cents and wheat middlings $15 per ton, the average value of the meal ration per pound was seven-eighths of a cent. The roots were valued at 8 cents per bushel and the ensilage at $2.50 per ton.

The following table gives the relative increase in weight and the cost of food during the experiment for each group:

Weight at commencement	lb. 655½	595½	590½
Weight at close	lb 926	735	671
Total gain	lb 270½	139½	80½
Average daily gain of one animal in each group	lb 1.170	.604	.348
Cost of feeding for 77 days	$11.11	9.67	7.07
Cost of food for one animal per day	cts. 4.81	4.27	3.06

The next table gives the relative values at the beginning and at the close of the experiment, and the net gain or loss:

Value at commencement of the experiment	$29.50	26.80	26.51
Valuent close of the experiment	$48.61	36.75	31.81
Advance in value	$19.11	9.95	5.30
Net gain or loss	gain.	gain.	loss
	$ 8 00	08	1.71

The pigs were all valued at 4½ cents per pound live weight at the beginning of the experiment, as this was the price given for such pigs at the time in the Guelph market. At its close those in group 1 were sold at 5¾ cents per pound live weight, those in group 2 were valued at 5 cents per pound and those in group 3 at 1¾ cents per pound. It may be well to note here that the direct profit, arising from feeding the pigs in group 1 for 77 days were no less than 27.11 per cent on the investment, while the direct profits on fattening the steers refered to in Bulletin xlix. was only 9.69 per cent. on the investment in 119 days. The value of the manure made in feeding the pigs would considerably more than pay the cost of the labor. The pigs in groups 2 and 3 were fed for 41 days after the close of the experiment. They were given the same meal ration as before, and each group took on an average 22lb. per day. They were sold at 5½ cents per pound live weight on May 9th. During this period the group 2 increased in weight at the rate of 1.58 lb. each per day, and those in group 3 at the rate of 1.96 lb. each. Those in group 2 were ripe sooner than those in group 3, and this may account for the less rapid gain per day of the former. The total profit on the pigs in group 1 for 77 days was $8.00, that on those in group 2 in 118 days was $7.10, and that on the pigs in group 3 for 118 days was $6.38. In the first instance this whole percentage of profit was 27.11 per cent., in the second 15.69 per cent. and in the third 23.63 per cent.

CONCLUSIONS.—The following conclusions may be fairly drawn from the above experiment:

1. That it pays the farmer handsomely to fatten store pigs in winter on a meal ration such as that used in this experiment, when the prices of food and pork bear the same relation to each other.

2. That it does not pay the farmer sufficiently well for the trouble to feed store pigs on a ration of roots in the winter when the meal ration used is a small percentage of the whole ration.

3. That when store pigs are fed in winter on corn ensilage and a meal ration, which is but a small percentage of the whole ration, they are fed at a loss.

4. That it will pay better to use a meal ration in winter that will ripen store pigs for market in 77 days, than to first use a ration which tends mainly to develop bone and muscle during that period, followed by a meal ration that will ripen them for market in 41 days.

5. That in fattening pigs it is a serious mistake to attempt to hasten the process by giving any more food than will be eaten clean when it is given.

The Home Laundry.

To Wash Black Goods.—If the material of a dress be washable at all the black dye can practically be rendered a fast color by the help of a salt-water bath before washing it. After such treatment, a black dress will seldom fade in the washing. I have tried this with a black cashmere gown, and found my dress an excellent color afterwards. Make the salt bath strong.

To Whiten Clothes.—Refined borax used instead of soda, crystal, or pearline, in the proportion of a large handful of powder to ten gallons of boiling water will make the clothes beautifully white, and not injure the texture of your goods. It is splendid for washing blankets or woollen goods.

About "Stamping"—Take the goods with the rough side of the pattern on the surface. After pinning carefully, rub over lightly with corn starch, using a soft cloth. Remove the pattern carefully, and outline with a colored pencil. A good stamping powder with half resin and half Persian blue. With either the starch or the powder the pattern needs no cleaning. Flour is as good as starch.

How to Wash Flannels.—Now that winter is hovering near us, it may not be amiss to mention the best mode—the writer at least has found in washing flannels. Before washing woollen garments, dust and shake them well, and never apply soap, but make strong suds. Do not rub the flannels on a board, for the rubbing shrinks them. Draw them up and down through hands and suds and rub lightly between the wrists the particularly soiled places, such as neck band, waist band, etc. Rinse twice in tepid water and wring and shake thoroughly before you hang the articles on the line. Then pull them into shape as well as you can and twist every drop of moisture out of them.

ON SOAP,
IN RELATION TO THE COMPLEXION.
FROM AN ARTICLE BY
Dr. ANDREW WILSON, F.R.S.E.,
Lecturer on Health under the "Combe Trust;"
Lecturer on Physiology at the Edinburgh University;
Editor of "Health."

"One important caution should be given, and that is concerning the use of soaps. I would strongly advise all who care for their skin to eschew the use of common soap, which simply roughens and injures the skin, and, if you will be advised by me, I would say never buy those artificially coloured and odoriferous abominations commonly sold under the name of 'Scented' or 'Fancy Soaps' which are the frequent causes of skin eruptions. If I am prepared to recommend any one soap to you, as a satisfactory and scientifically prepared article, I would certainly advise you to buy and use 'Pears' Soap.' Not merely from personal use can I recommend this soap, but I am well content to shelter myself under the names and authority of the late Sir Erasmus Wilson, F.R.S., President of the Royal College of Surgeons; of Doctor Stevenson Macadam, or of Professors Redwood and Attfield, the eminent analytical and chemical lecturers at the Pharmaceutical Society of Great Britain, who testify to its entire purity. Furthermore, I believe it to be very economical, for it contains no free water, and in this respect differs from all other soaps; hence a cake of 'Pears' is really all soap and not soap and water. I know cases of irritable skin which the whole tribe of much-vaunted 'Fancy Soaps' failed to allay, but which disappeared under the use of Pears' Soap, and for the nursery and for the delicate skin of infancy no better or more soothing soap can possibly be used. There can be no doubt that in respect of the care of children, attention to the skin is specially required. If common soaps are irritating to the skin of the adult, (as they unquestionably are), they are doubly and trebly injurious to the delicate skin of the infant and young child. I can vouch that the soap I am recommending is not merely a safe but an advantageous one. It does not irritate the skin; but, while serving as a detergent and cleanser, also acts as an emollient."

Life Insurance Policy Holders
SHOULD READ THIS!
THE PERCENTAGE OF LAPSES.

The large increase in the amount of life insurance written by parsely Canadian companies, and terminated by surrender or lapse, during the past year, has naturally attracted the attention of insurance men. So unexpected and unwelcome an increase—$1,708,512 in the amount of lapsed policies credited to Canadian companies during a period when American companies doing business in this country showed a decrease under this heading of $813,394, could not fail to excite comment; so that the figures have been eagerly scanned to discover how much the condition of affairs was brought about.

Perhaps this is most easily shown in tabular form by giving the net amount of insurance in force on the books of each of our principal Canadian companies and the percentage of lapsed and surrendered policies they are responsible for. In this case they rank as follows:—

Company.	Net amount in force.	Percentage of Surrender and Lapse.
Canada Life	$48,984,376	3.07
Confederation	17,674,625	5.31
Ontario Mutual	13,071,490	10.29
Federal	10,065,957	10.25
Sun Life	11,676,317	10.26
North American	5,470,820	10.68
Temperance and General	2,994,973	17.94
Citizens	2,087,966	20.15
Manufacturers' Life	5,723,100	20.12
London Life	1,644,226	30.67

From this table we can see that while such companies as the Canada Life and Confederation have actually decreased the amount of their lapses, some of the weaker companies have largely increased theirs, so that, although one company shows under four per cent, one under six, and four under eleven, the average percentage of lapses for the whole ten companies is 15.78 per cent.

The only moral we can draw from these figures is that the stronger and more widely known a company is, and the more of its patrons it will retain permanently on its books, while the weaker companies must, perforce, witness the defection of a certain proportion of their customers to their more powerful rivals. That so large a proportion as 30 per cent. of policy holders should entirely abandon the advantages of insurance in one year is hardly probable in these days of popular education. We can therefore only fall back on the hypothesis that the bulk of the lapses of the weaker companies must arise from their policy holders transferring their allegiance elsewhere. It is in fact a case of the wealthier and more widely known (even if not more progressive) companies absorbing the cream of the permanent business, and leaving only the transitory, and therefore less desirable risks, to their immediate competitors. By the aid of clever management and extensive methods, a weak company may be able to absorb a fair share of new business; but it is evident from these figures that the superior prestige of their older established rivals is certain to attract a proportion of their customers in the long run, and that these their percentage of lapses will always be heavier.

Small Blaze at the Look Works.

About eleven o'clock last night Mr. Geo. Stevenson, Secretary of the Look Works Co., while on his way home observed smoke issuing from the roof of the boiler room. He at once gave the alarm and the fire brigade was called out. The fire had evidently been caused by a spark from the cupola of the moulding shop, as the engineer says he did not leave the premises until half past ten o'clock and everything appeared safe then. The fire could easily have been extinguished with a few pails of water, but the firemen turned on the hose for a minute or so.

Another Industry Obtainable.

The Campbellford Herald states that the Dominion Organ and Piano Co., of Bowmanville, has decided to remove from Bowmanville to some place not yet selected offering better facilities and inducements. The Herald thinks Campbellford ought to get it. Now, with all due deference to the Herald's opinion, there is a better location. Peterborough, with all its unrivalled facilities, is just the place for an establishment of this kind. The Manufacturers' Committee ought to open negotiations at once, if they have not already done so.

The Creditable "Canadian Grocer."

The current number of The Canadian Grocer and General Storekeeper, Toronto and Montreal, contains 52 pages important information for business men. Its market reports are its great feature—they have been accepted as official in the courts. It is noted for its short, spicy articles, which aim to keep its readers abreast of the times. The American Grocer says it is "the brightest and liveliest trade journal in Canada." It makes its advertising columns of unusual interest; in them are to be found announcements of leading wholesalers and manufacturers. It costs 2 cents per week, and he is a poor retailer who cannot get that much out of it. Subscribe or send for a sample.

A Breach of Promise Suit.

The lawyers have a choice morsel to glut over—a breach of promise case, the parties two well known persons—the young lady the defendant, changing her mind at the last moment. It appears that the course of true love had run so smoothly that the day was set, a house rented, and house-keeping details discussed. But the young lady rebelled and broke off the match because her affianced would not promise to buy the necessary supply of tea at hawley bros. She rightly reasoned that the young man who lacks sense enough to know what was best for them was not the man for her. And thousands confirm this sensible young lady's judgment.

Other Veterans.

Mr. Robert Glass, of McDonnell street, Peterborough, served in the forces organized for the suppression of the rising in Quebec. His company officer was Capt. M. Kellop, Inverness, P.Q., and the officer commanding the regiment was Col. Gore. He was regularly discharged, but his papers have since been destroyed by fire.

Thomas Cassidy, of Young's Point, aged 75 years, served along the frontier under Capt. Thomson and Colonel Kingsmill, of No. one company, in '37 and '38.

Patrick Young, sr., of Young's Point, aged 80 years, served in Peterborough under Adjutant Armour, Capt. Kirkpatrick and Colonel McDonald during the troubles of '37 and '38.

A WORD in Season.

The concomitants of a joyful Thanksgiving Day are fun and a good dinner. When these have been enjoyed there is still the evening to fill in. This time such a want is supplied by the Thanksgiving Day evening concert in George street church. A capital programme—just such music as people like to hear. Not too good, but plenty good enough. The choir of 40 voices will sing choruses and anthems, and there will be solos, and duets, and trios by lady and gentlemen singers. Then, in addition, Dr. Davies will play organ solos, as only he can play. The admission is 25 cents, children 15 cents. Read the programme and buy your tickets from members of the committee. 1d102

Defrauding the Church

One would think that church proceedings at least, would be held sacred in the eyes of practical jokers, but it seems that even there they find opportunity for their tricks. Frequently the church wardens, deacons or trustees, as the case may be, in counting over the collections, find spurious and worthless coins among the contributions of money, in the majority of instances enclosed in envelopes. The treasurer of one of our town churches has quite an accumulation of these vainless coins, the refuse of about two years' collections, which comprise ten Yankee nickels, four Yankee cents, one Yankee 3c. bit, a battered and unrecognizable brass coin, a lead 50c piece, an old carnival medal, a Yankee half-dime, a circular piece of zinc about the size of a 5c bit, and a copper which has been so often under car wheels that the banks will not accept it. What the object is in putting such articles on a church collection plate, it is hard to say; there is nothing to be gained by it. These "gonks" are probably the outcome simply of an irrepressible spirit of mischief.

Accidental Deaths.

A statement of the deaths caused by accidents in Canada during the past year have been tabulated by the government. It appears that there were 18,283 deaths last year in the 29 cities and towns reporting to the government. Eight occurred in Peterborough. Of these 569 were caused by accidents of various kinds. This is 31.12 deaths per thousand deaths. In England the ratio is 30 per thousand; in Scotland, 31; in France, 15; in Germany, 16 and in the United States 39 per thousand. The deaths by accidents on railways, street cars, steamboats and vehicles numbered 54, or three in every thousand deaths against four in England. The most destructive cause of accidental death was suffocation, from which cause there were 100 deaths, or 17.6 of the total number of deaths from accident. There were eight deaths from sunstroke and two only from freezing, four time as many from heat as from cold. Death from suffocation by gas is reported in only three cases. There were 26 deaths from accidental poisoning, about five per cent., or just double the ratio in England.

The Provincial Women's Christian Temperance Union is in session at Kingston.

The secretary gave a report of the progress of the year. The report presented an aggregate of 146 unions that had been reported, with a membership of 3,937; 2,576 meetings were held; 80 Bands of Hope were organized, with 10,613 children in attendance; literature was distributed in 74 unions; 31 unions have a flower mission; 19 unions hold meetings in gaols and prisons; 51 unions have circulated petitions; 55 did press work; 41 unions did fair work; scientific temperance was taught in 160 schools; 22 unions have held gospel temperance meetings, at which 3 037 signed the pledge. Peterborough union had 36 members and the Band of Hope 140 children. Of the unions reported, seven were newly organized. Twenty one unions were not reported to the corresponding secretary and were allowed a membership in accordance with affiliation rates. These make an addition of 381, which brings the membership to 4,318, with 175 unions heard from, leaving 64 unions from which no reports were received. The treasurer reported cash on hand of $173.74.

UNFERMENTED WINE.

It is interesting to observe the number of churches which are using unfermented wine. Carleton reports that all its churches are doing so. Prize Provincial Plowmen.

Results of the Provincial Plowing Match—A Good Contest in Three Classes—Some "Dandy" Competitors From a Distance.

The Provincial Plowing Match Wednesday was an interesting agricultural event, and fully as successful as these contests usually are. During the day there were about a thousand people, the great majority of them farmers, present to watch the match, and see how proficient it was possible to become in the handling of the plough. The day was favorable, though a drizzling rain at the close somewhat marred the comfort of the crowd, and some excellent work was done. The main contest took place on the Howden estate, alongside the Central Exhibition grounds, the boys' match being run off on Mr. Alex. Donelly's farm adjoining. Each man was given about a third of an acre to plow, with five hours and a half in which to do it. The allotted time was about exhausted in each case, the competitors vieing with each other in endeavoring to do the best work, and as some of the finest plowmen in the province were engaged—men who have been prize-winners for years—the results were most gratifying to an agricultural eye. The prizes offered amounted to over $300.

ALL COMERS' MATCH.

In class I, open to all plows and plowmen, there were five entries—Messrs. F. Waldron, Lakefield; Thos. McLean, York Mills, York Co.; Wm. Milliken, Hagerman's corners; Geo. Marquis, Sunderland; Jas. McNeil, Tyrone. All of the plowmen, with the exception of Mr. Waldron, used old country styles and makes of implements, Mr. Waldron worked with the machine plow with which he has won a large number of medals in the past. The contestants were pretty evenly matched, so much so that the judges had some difficulty in reaching a decision. Finally first prize, a handsome gold medal valued at $40, was awarded to Thos. McLean; 2nd prize, a $6 cistern pump, presented by Jas. Payton, and $15 cash, to Geo. Marquis; 3rd prize, a $3 binder cover, presented by J. J. Turner and $12 cash, to F. Waldron; 4th, a $2 50 clock, presented by Clark & Gibson, and $7.50 cash, to Wm. Milliken.

THE LOCAL EXPERTS.

Class II, open to walking plows without wheels, and plowman who have not taken a prize in any plowing match since 1885, brought out a large field of local competitors: Job Wheeler, Warsaw; Jno. Henderson, Lang; D. D. Henderson, Lang; Wm. Renwick, Lakehurst; Walter McKee, Lakehurst; John Chastie, Lakefield; Jas. Forsyth, Trenton; John Freize, Peterborough. In this class also good work was done, the winners and some others using plows made by Mr. Peter Hamilton. One man used one of Mr. Wyke's make. First prize, a $6 set of solid gold cuff buttons, presented by Mr. John McClelland, and $24 cash, was awarded to John Henderson; 2nd prize, a $15 plow or root cutter, donated by Mr. P. Hamilton, and $7 cash, to D. D. Henderson; 3rd prize, silver sugar bowl valued at $4, presented by Mr. W. A. Sanderson, and $12 cash, to John Freize; 4th prize, horse collar valued at $3, presented by Mr. W. J. Devlin, and $8 cash, Job Wheeler.

THE BOYS' DEPARTMENT.

Class III, open only to boys under 18 years of age, was not filled and no contest was held.

Class IV, for stubble plowing, open to boys under 17, brought out four entries: Frank Buck, Otonabee; Jos. Duffin, Otonabee; Michael Duffin, Otonabee; John Marquis, Sunderland. The work of the last named elicited warm praise from all observers. For a boy he plowed remarkably well. He took first prize, a plow, presented by Fleury & Sons (T. Cochrane, agent, Peterborough), valued at $15, and $13 cash; 2nd, $18 cash, Frank Buck; 3rd, $12 cash, Jos. Duffin; 4th, $8 cash, M. Duffin.

MANUFACTURERS' EXHIBITION.

The first two events took place on the Howden estate, where the soil, a loam, was splendidly adapted for the purpose, though the surface was rather rough. The stubble plowing took place on the Donelly farm, where also a practical exhibition of plows was given by several manufacturers. Mr. Peter Hamilton showed two sulky plows of his own make, Mr. T. Cochrane exhibited one of T. Fleury & Sons' make, and Mr. E. E. Bowis, a Cockshutt plow.

SCORES.

The judges were: Messrs James Cameron, Roseneath; Adam Bell, Cambellford; and Joshua Smithson, Graystock. Their conscientious decisions gave general satisfaction.

There should have been a larger number of Peterborough county plowmen in the contest. There is no doubt but that there are plenty of men in the surrounding townships who can do just as good work as was done Wednesday, but they allowed themselves to be frightened by the outsiders, who they imagined, having come a considerable distance, were invincible. A little courage would have resulted in the retaining at home of the best prizes in Class I.

Secretary Collins, who gave his time and labor unselfishly to the committee, had a tent on the ground, where he transacted his business. It was kindly loaned by Mr. J. J. Turner.

The committee in charge of the match have every reason to feel satisfied. The committee comprised Messrs. R. Vance, Ida; H. Humphries, Hastings; J. C. Snell, Edmonton; P. R. Palmer, Belleville; Wm. Rutherford, chairman, and Wm. Collins, secretary.

Our joker sees a chance for a "rise" in even a matter-of-fact plowing match, and he gets in his work as follows: Question—"In what respect did this field plowed up on Wednesday resemble the countenance of a man with a large family and a small salary?" Answer—"Because it was furrowed with care."

High Court of Justice.

The Will Case Still in Progress—The Grand Jury's Presentiment.

The case of Humphries vs. Brown, regarding a will, which was begun at the opening of the court yesterday, is still on at the Assizes. It will be finished this afternoon.

GRAND JURY'S PRESENTIMENT.

This morning the Grand Jury made their presentiment as follows:

To His Lordship, the Hon. Mr. Justice Falconbridge:

The Grand Jurors at the present assizes for the County of Peterborough, beg leave to present:

That they have in accordance with their duty examined the gaol, and in every respect find it is in a very satisfactory condition.

The find confined within it several able-bodied men undergoing sentence, and they feel that, if possible, some system should be adopted by which the county might derive some advantage and benefit from their labor.

They have visited the Nicholls Hospital in the town of Peterborough, and St. Joseph's Hospital in the village of Ashburnham, and cannot but feel the great benefit and importance to this community of such institutions, the former being an enduring memorial to the charity of a lady of this town, lately deceased, and the latter an indication of the benevolence of our Roman Catholic citizens; and we respectfully recommend that the latter hospital should get a grant from the Government.

The Grand Jurors desire to add their congratulations to those expressed by Your Lordship to the County of Peterborough upon its apparent freedom from crime, more especially as in many other sections of the Province very grave and serious crimes have prevailed. They have reason, however, to congratulate this province that within it the administration of the law is such that sure and swift justice is meted out to all criminal offenders.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

CHARLES R. D. BOOTH, Foreman.

His Lordship replied briefly to the effect that the Jury's presentment would be forwarded to the Government and their recommendations considered. He thanked them for their attendance, and the able manner in which they had discharged their duties and dismissed them.

Provincial S. S. Convention Notes.

Rev. John McEwan, of Lakefield, dealt with the subject of "Sunday School Work in Rural Districts."

The contribution of Peterborough to the convention funds was $50, much above the average. There are $273.29 to the credit of the Association.

Peterborough is recommended as one of the fourteen districts into which it is proposed to divide the Province of Ontario, for the sake of the better organization that could be effected, and consequently more systematic work.

The American Dairyman, in a late issue, truthfully says that there is far too much hand-to-mouth practice on the farms, and this applies especially to crops and the make of the dairy. If the farmer has one good year of potatoes the next year he will go into potatoes strong. So it is with the dairyman. If it is a good butter year, and the cheese factory returns but small dividends, he is about certain to desert the factory next year and go into butter strong. Now, the better plan is to first determine what make of goods and what character of product the farm and surroundings are best fitted for, and work on, year after year, on that line, always improving your conditions to do better in that line. Let the market take care of itself, which it certainly will do in the long run. If prices are low this year, they are pretty certain to be much better next year; or, if they are bad two years in succession, they are almost certain to be extra good the third year, so that the market price in a series of years will just about equalize itself in any one product of the farm or dairy. If you keep jumping from one to another of cheese and butter, you are just as apt to miss it as to hit it, and thus you become a speculator or a gambler in a mild way, with the chances about equal, and the farm no better in the end than it was when you began. The reputation alone that a persistent man makes in a series of years is far more valuable than all the profits he will ever make out of the good luck of hitting two good seasons by a change in management.

Fall Manuring.

The American Cultivator has the following good advice in a recent issue: Notwithstanding the great amount of rainfall in late spring and early summer there is a great difference observable in hoed crops where manure was applied on the surface last fall or winter, as compared with that manured just before plowing. Wherever drought prevails, late manuring, especially with coarse, strawy manure, often does more harm than good. There would be much more winter and fall top-dressing but for the common and mistaken notion that the manure wastes by exposure thinly spread to the atmosphere. Some loss there may be by rains washing away the manure, but there is none except of water by evaporation. The manure does not ferment while spread thinly, and therefore no ammonia is given off. Yet many a farmer keeps manure heaps piled up and heating around his stable doors lest by drawing and spreading them their strength should evaporate. It is very difficult to keep manure in heaps from losing ammonia, but the same manure spread out, especially on grass lands, merely dries. When the rains come all its strength is there and whatever is soluble will be carried down to the soil. If grass land mown now is to be plowed for corn or potatoes next spring, there is no better time to top-dress it to do the crop the most good than now.

A Maniac at the Throttle.

READING, Pa., Oct. 29.—Shortly after midnight an unknown stranger rushed into the dispatcher's office of the Reading Railway here and demanded a free pass to Lebanon. When it was refused he threatened to fight the official and rushed out into the train gallery, where two engines and an empty passenger train of cars were standing. At the pistol point he drove off the engineer of one of the engines and mounted the cab himself, keeping off an officer with drawn pistol. The man with his other hand pulled the throttle and the engine started with a rush. The locomotive crashed into a passenger car train, pushed it and engine ahead, and off they started for Lebanon at a high rate of speed. After going half a mile an officer, who had jumped on the train, shut down the brakes and stopped it just as a posse of officers caught up to the rear engine. The desperate man then leaped from the cab and escaped in the darkness.

Married His Father's Wives.

MARTINSVILLE, Ind., Oct. 29.—John Biconnot of Columbus, Ind., has been married seven times and all his wives are living, six having secured divorces. Two of them were his stepmothers, having separated from his father, who was married 8 times. His seventh wife has just given birth to triplets. Biconnot is only 40 years old and is a hard working laborer. He has a large family of children as the result of his marriages.

A Bowmanville Elopement.

BOWMANVILLE, Oct. 29.—George Deshane has skipped to the other side in company with a young girl, leaving his wife with four little children. At the council meeting Josie Cook, on behalf of his unfortunate daughter, applied for assistance to secure quarters for the children in one of the homes in Toronto.

Asphyxiated by Gas.

OWEN SOUND, Oct. 28.—A young man named Peter McLean of Lake Linden, Houghton, Mich., was found dead in his room at the Selden House yesterday morning. Before retiring the night watchman showed McLean how to use the gas, but notwithstanding this he had evidently after lighting the gas either blown it out or turned it on again after turning it out.

He Evidently Deserved Hanging.

PERRY, Ga., Oct. 28.—Tom Woolfolk, who murdered his father, step-mother, six other members of the family and Mrs. Temple West, who was staying at the house, was hanged at 1¼ to-day. The motive for the crime was Tom Woolfolk's enmity for his step-mother and his desire to have undisputed possession of his father's property.

Plead Guilty to End the Suspense.

CHATHAM, Oct. 29.—At the Kent Assizes to-day Gustavus Park pleaded guilty to the charge of manslaughter in having killed one Barr in June, 1889. He was tried a year ago on the same charge, but the jury disagreed. Prisoner was remanded for sentence.

Declined the Call.

KINGSTON, Oct. 29.—The Presbytery has considered the call from West Presbyterian Church, Toronto, to Rev. Dr. George of John-street Church in this city. The call was supported by Rev. R. P. McKay of Parkdale Presbyterian Church, Rev. D. J. Macdonnell of St. Andrew's, Toronto, and Elders R. Gourley and McCall of West Presbyterian Church. There was a strong representation of John-street church against the call being accepted. To the speeches made the Toronto representatives made no response. The call was then handed to Dr. George and the large congregation was so hushed that the suspense they were under was plainly manifest. The doctor's reply was grave but brief. He had never before in all his experience been called upon to undergo such an ordeal as the present. He felt the responsibility of his position and had given it much prayer, and the conclusion he had arrived at was that he could not respond to the call. The suspense was relaxed and the congregation rose to go. Many pressed forward to speak to their pastor and the remainder waited at the door to greet him as he passed from the building.

Floods in Mexico.

CITY OF MEXICO, Oct. 29.—Heavy floods have done much damage throughout the state of Jalisco. At Capotlan a number of houses were carried away. At Ameca several persons were drowned and several dwellings were carried away. At Tamaseup after 50 hours of rain many houses were destroyed. At San Gabriel a stone bridge gave way and at Zacoalco many houses were ruined. Great destruction of crops is reported and the losses through the floods are very heavy. The Government is aiding the inhabitants of the flooded districts.

Woodstock Criminalities.

WOODSTOCK, Oct. 29.—George McCabe of Toronto was committed for trial by Judge Finkle to-day on a charge of burning the barn of Charles Scott, his brother-in-law. McCabe conducted his own defence.

Judge Finkle refused an application for the bail of George Whitmore, the Detroit photographer, charged with shooting Mrs. Wilcox of Delmer.

A DISHONEST WAITER.

His Trunk Filled With Goods Taken From Travelers' Sample Cases.

TORONTO, Oct. 30.—Henry Heming, aged 19, a young Englishman who for 3½ years was a waiter at the Reform Club, Toronto, and subsequently was employed for 6 months at the Toronto Club, was sent to the Central Prison for 4 months here to-day for several larcenies at the Dunham House, where he has been employed as barkeeper. Among the parties robbed was J. B. Booth, traveler for Bailey, Watson & Co., Toronto. There is no doubt while he was so employed at the Dunham House he reduced stealing to a system. His trunk was filled with articles such as travelers carry as samples. Heming had also in his possession about a dozen odd keys, three of which were skeleton keys and would open every lock in the Dunham House.

A PRISONER'S PLEA.

Affected the Presiding Judge and He Handed Over $10

BARRIE, Oct. 30.—Thomas Fallbroke was brought before Judge Ardagh charged with setting fire to Thomas Dunsmore's barn on the Penetanguishene road. He admitted that he had set the barn on fire, but not purposely.

The man promptly offered to make restitution for the damages done to the extent of his ability and gave $20, the judge supplementing it by a subscription of $10.

Fallbroke was then discharged. Immediately afterwards he was arrested on a charge of carrying unlawful weapons. On this charge he was convicted and sentenced to two months imprisonment in the common jail.

GAVE HIS LIFE FOR HIS FRIEND.

Greater Love Hath No Man Than This—Drowned in Sight of Many People.

St. John, N.B., Oct. 30.—Frederick Mundle, aged 19 fell over the railway wharf to-day. Fred Young, aged 17, leaped in after him and held him above the water. The tide was running strong and there was a heavy sea on. A number of mill hands left work and went to the rescue. A boat was launched, but was broken to pieces against the rocks. A life-buoy was sent out to the drifting boys, but they could not reach it. After keeping Mundle up half an hour Young and the other went to the bottom.

Hanged Himself.

BROCKVILLE, Oct. 30.—William Taylor, an eccentric old man living near Antwerp on the Gouverneur road, was found hanging in his house where he lived alone. It was plainly a case of suicide.

Used a Jack-Knife

LINDSAY, Oct. 30.—Oliver Lithgow, aged 70 who has for years been an inmate of the Home for the Aged here, this morning attempted suicide by cutting his throat with a jack knife. He will recover.

Assessment Case.

LONDON, Oct. 30.—The Massey Manufacturing Company of Toronto appealed against their assessment of $5,000 on personal property on the ground that they manufactured all their machines in Toronto, and merely used their premises in London as a point from which to supply their goods, and that they were assessed for all their personal property in Toronto. Judge Elliott held that the company had a branch of their business in London and he confirmed the assessment.

Increased Cattle Shipments.

MONTREAL, Oct. 30.—In three weeks the St. Lawrence will be closed to steamship navigation. The number of cattle which will have been exported from Canadian ports to Great Britain from the beginning to the end of the season will show a grand total of 121,000 head. Last year the number was 75,686. This is an enormous increase, and shows the importance of the cattle industry.

Razors as Arguments.

TIMONSVILLE, S.C., Oct. 30.—While Edmond H. Deas, colored, candidate for Congress from this district, was addressing a crowd of negroes here to-day J. Gully Jackson drew a razor on Deas and split his mouth open on one side nearly to the ear and would have killed him but for Col. H. T. Morris who pressed up to make peace. Jackson then turned upon Morris and cut him severely on his left cheek.

A NOVA SCOTIA BURGLAR.

Killed Over Two Years Ago in Lynn—The Case Now Coming to Light.

LYNN, Mass., Oct. 30.—On the morning of [illegible], three burglars attempted to [illegible] into the grocery store of Henry F. [illegible] at Cliftondale. The burglar alarms [illegible] the clerks, who slept upstairs, and the result was the clerks and burglars exchanged shots from revolvers. One shot took fatal effect in the body of one of the burglars, who died soon after. His remains were brought to Lynn, viewed by hundreds and buried as unknown. An excellent authority to-day reveals the fact that the burglar was Frank Sabens, an escaped prisoner from a Nova Scotia prison, where he with his father, Charles Sabens, were serving two years' sentence. At the time her son lay dead in Lynn the mother came and identified the body as that of her son, but did not say a word. The mother returned home to Nova Scotia and there told of the facts which were brought to this city by a gentleman now employed here.

A CURE FOR CONSUMPTION.

Professor Koch to Announce His Great Discovery Shortly.

BERLIN, Oct. 30.—The National Zeitung announces in the most positive manner that Professor Koch, whose researches as to the existence of bacillus in consumption have already given him a European reputation, is now ready to announce to the world, having concluded certain important experiments in which he has for some time been engaged, his cure for that malady.

The new remedy, it is said, resembles the lymph in vaccination, it being proposed by its use to so inoculate the patient that the tuberculosis bacillus can no longer exist, and this without any detriment to the patient's general health or causing the slightest pain.

Professor Koch will be ready to practically introduce his invention in about six weeks.

IS BIRCHELL A DEAD MAN?

A Peculiar Motion That is Down for Argument at Osgoode Hall.

TORONTO, October 30.—Lawyer George Hilton yesterday obtained from the master in chambers leave to serve short notice of motion in the action of Graeme v. The Globe for an order for the examination of Birchall in the Woodstock jail, as intimated yesterday. Mr. Hilton also filed an affidavit of his own, in which he says that the defendants have appeared to the writ of summons and that the statement of claim was delivered on the 20th inst. The affidavit also states that Birchall has been communicated with and is willing to be examined and that the jail authorities have no objection to the examination being held.

The ground on which the examination is asked is that Birchall is a necessary and material witness on behalf of the plaintiff and that he will be unable to establish his case without Birchall's evidence. The motion will be opposed on the ground that Birchall is, in the eyes of the law, a dead man and therefore unable to testify. It is true that his rights civilly are gone, but it is a question if he cannot still testify on behalf of another.

The motion will be argued to-morrow unless an enlargement is obtained by the defendants.

Mrs. Birchall and the Petitions.

WOODSTOCK, Oct. 30.—Petitions praying for a commutation of Birchall's sentence are now in circulation in almost every town and city in the dominion. Mrs. Birchall held an interview with her husband this afternoon and to-morrow she leaves for Toronto in the interest of the petition. Her health is somewhat improved and she is making brave efforts to do all in her power to obtain executive clemency. The petitions are returnable next week and will be taken to Ottawa by Mrs. Birchall on Tuesday.

Birchall states the "Colonel" came to America last February, ten days before he sailed with Beswell and Pelly. The "Colonel" was to have sailed on the first ship preceding the Birchall party, but it will be remembered Birchall was delayed, hence another sailing intervened. The prisoner states when he met the "Colonel" at Morley's hotel he was stopping with his father-in-law, Mr. [illegible] and merely took much care of him at the hotel. He did not know his name further than he was called the "Colonel." His explanation of the reason that in [illegible] the guests very frequently do not register but are known to the landlord by the number of their room.

WOODSTOCK, Oct. 30.—Mr. Birchall had an interview with her husband this afternoon and to morrow she leaves for Toronto in the interest of the petition. The petitions are returnable Monday and will be taken to Ottawa by Mrs. Birchall on Tuesday.

Mr. Bengal McMaster, one of the prisoner's counsel, will leave for Montreal to-night and in reference particularly with respect to the "Colonel" letter.

Birchall received a few days ago a long telegram from Detective Binet denying that he had given any information to any one and advising prisoner to prepare for his death by a clean breast of the crime.

Louisiana Lottery Tickets

OTTAWA, Oct. 31.—The Customs Department in answer to an enquiry from one of the ports has ruled that Louisiana lottery advertising and [illegible] may be received by the various [illegible] the person in whom they are sent will be subject to prosecution by the legal authorities.

The Sunday School Convention.

BRANTFORD, Oct. 30.—The Sunday School convention concluded its labors to-day. The next session will be held at Ottawa in 1891.

An Inspector in the Mud.

MARKHAM, Oct. 30.—Police Inspector George Jennings was examining a bridge for repairs and was trying to get a view of what was wanted from the bridge, when he missed his balance and fell head first into the water, a distance of about 15 feet. Councillor Ash found him insensible, covered with water and stuck in the mud. He succeeded in getting the insensible man ashore. Jennings is in a critical state.

SPALDING AT THE HELM.

He Will Likely Stand at the Head of the Combination—About the Franchise.

CHICAGO, Oct. 30.—It is probable that nothing further will be done towards settling the differences of the National and Players' Leagues until the meeting of the latter at Pittsburg, Nov. 11. As far as the consolidation of the two Chicago clubs are concerned matters seem to be at a standstill, although such a move is still among the possibilities. President Addison argues, with a certain show of reason, that the younger organization is entitled to a much, a very much, larger slice of the pudding than the old league.

"The Players have the call with the people," he says, "and possess a far better plant and franchise."

In case of a consolidation Mr. Spalding will probably stand at the helm. He is in every way fitted for the place by keen business ability and years of experience. This the Players' officials do not seem to wish to deny. The question, as it now stands, is but one of dollars and cents. Sentiment has been thrown to the winds. It is said that the Players want the consolidation effected on a basis of 70 and 30 per cent., they, of course, getting the 70. They are not willing to admit but that these terms are fair, taking all things into consideration.

Meanwhile the public will rise and sing, "What Will the Harvest Be?"

FRANCE EXCITED.

Canada is in the Right.

PARIS, Oct. 31.—The questions at issue between the Dominion of Canada and the United States are receiving the attention of foreign experts. Dr. Geffeken, the celebrated publicist, writes to The Revue de Droit International with regard to the fishery treaty of 1818, which the United States Senate rejected: "It is astonishing that the Senate of the United States, which country would have had the whole benefit of the treaty, should not have ratified it. One could not comprehend such attitude if one did not remember that all foreign questions are considered in Congress with reference to the interests of political parties. The Republicans, forming a majority of the Senate, were unwilling to leave to the Democratic President the advantage in the approaching presidential election of having settled this thorny question." After a discussion of the Behring Sea question he says: "The seizure of the English vessels on the high seas is absolutely unlawful; the claim that the Behring Sea is a closed sea will not bear examination, is contrary to the Russo-American treaty of 1824, and is no stronger for the assertion of the Americans that England claims sovereignty over the Gulf of Nanar, between the Arabian Sea and the Gulf of Bengal in order to carry on the pearl fishery there. If that is the case, that claim is unlawful, and does not justify that set up in respect of the Behring Sea." The writer does not take these views because he is troubled with Anglomania, for he attacks the British position on the Newfoundland question, and says the colonists are right.

Toronto Topics.

TORONTO, Oct. 31.—The Ontario Prison Commission continued its session yesterday. The Prison Commission continued its session yesterday, Mr. J. W. Langmuir in the chair. Among the spectators was Mr. J. T. Carey, president of the Dominion Trades and Labor Council. The witnesses were:

W. VAN ALLEN, jailer, and M. CLEMENTS, sheriff, of Halton.
J. COOK, jailer, and M. SPRINGER, sheriff, of Waterloo.
C. MERLIN, jailer, and H. MCKIM, sheriff, of Wellington.
A. B. CULVER, jailer, and L. O. PROCTOR, sheriff, of Northumberland and Durham.
J. MORELAND, jailer, of Peel.
D. M. DECKER, jailer, of Ontario.
W. A. DOUGLAS, of Toronto.
J. K. FERGUSON, of Toronto.

The evidence to a great extent was the same as that taken the day before. The causes of crime were generally assigned to be intemperance and poverty. But Sheriff Proctor thought heredity and association were greater factors than intemperance. Jailer Cook, Sheriff Springer and Jailer Decker laid great stress on parental neglect as a cause of crime.

The question of classifying prisoners was carefully inquired into, and it was seen that this was more effectively done, even with the present buildings, where there were poor-houses. Sheriff Springer said the poorhouse system had enabled the jailer to make a better classification of prisoners and had a very good effect otherwise. The poorhouse, as conducted in Waterloo, had not the slightest tendency towards pauperization. Jailer Cook added there are now between 90 and 100 inmates and the system works well. The county has had a poorhouse for a great many years and could not get along without it. Counties without poorhouses are compelled to place the vagrants and deserted in the common jail. This interferes with the discipline to a considerable extent, and as a consequence the number of tramps in some counties has quickly increased, especially in Halton and Peel.

Mr. J. E. Pell, Secretary of Toronto St. George's Society and of the associated charities, found that there is always a large class of improvident people out of employment during winter and believed it neither right nor legal to send these people to jail. There are charitable institutions here—the house of industry and the house of providence—but they are private and the magistrates cannot send paupers there. The poorhouse ought to be of a public character and the magistrate given power to commit there. One year he was able to get a lot of stone for breaking and was satisfied that many people were saved from jail by it. Sending people to jail must increase the number of petty thefts. Poorhouses do not tend to pauperize the public and if they are properly conducted. Intemperance undoubtedly is a great cause of crime, but so is idleness. If Ontario had a system of poorhouses, and if work was provided there and this discipline good, Toronto would be greatly relieved. If waifs were not brought out by Dr. Barnardo, Miss Rye and others, more Canadian waifs would be absorbed by farmers and others here. He was doubtful whether the medical inspection of the waifs brought from England was effective.

There are now three vacancies in the Toronto Custom House—the collectorship, a clerkship and a landing-waitership.

A Ray of Hope

For all who are held by the chains of scrofula or other diseases of the blood comes from Hood's Sarsaparilla, which by imparting the elements of good health and strength to the vital fluid, dissolves the bands of disease and sets the captive free. No other remedy in existence combines the positive economy, the peculiar merit and the medicinal power of Hood's Sarsaparilla.

FROM OVER THE SEA.

BALFOUR CONTINUES HIS TOUR IN IRELAND.

Sir Michael Hicks-Beach on the McKinley Tariff—Brigandage in Hungary—Scientific Scandal in Toulon—The Mayor Jailed.

KILMARNOCK, Oct. 31.—Sir Michael Hicks Beach, president of the Board of Trade, delivered a speech here yesterday. He said Mr. Gladstone's torrent of words did not afford his followers the slightest guidance. The speaker did not fear a general election. The Government would continue its Irish policy and would uphold the Scottish Church. He objected to any meddling with the working hours of adult labor even in the case of miners, but he warned railway companies that the legislature would interfere if they overworked their men to the danger of the public. He exonerated America from any desire to injure England with the new tariff law.

Similar attempts in the past, he said, had only expanded our trade, and it was not likely that we should have to put up our shutters now.

The heavy duties on tin plate would be a detriment to the American fruit trade. Some changes in the tariff would tell distinctly in our favor, such as the freeing of raw sugar, which besides giving an impetus to West Indian trade directly would benefit our trade. Then we would benefit from increased trade with Canada. So long as we avoided labor troubles and continued our endeavor to open new markets we would have nothing to fear.

Mr. Balfour's Irish Tour.

DUBLIN, Oct. 30.—To-day Mr. Balfour traveled from Kylemore, a distance of 50 miles, to Carrarce, one of the poorest villages in a typical congested district. He drove through the wildest part of Connemara, abounding in lake and rock scenery. During the latter part of the journey Mr. Balfour rode on the outside of the cars and the journey was without incident. The few people seen were apathetic. Before the party arrived at Costello Lodge, where they were the guests of Police Commissioner Byrne, all were drenched with rain. They will visit Galway to-morrow and will thence proceed to Dublin.

At a League convention in Limerick to-day John O'Connor warned Mr. Balfour not to misinterpret Irish respect and try to make political capital out of his visit, or he would be treated as the Prince of Wales was.

Stanley Has Nothing Further to Say.

LONDON, Oct. 31.—The Times publishes a parting interview with Henry M. Stanley. Stanley adds nothing to his previous statements. He accuses Troup of using violent language and making vague charges. He says all the rear officers were offended by his first report to the Emin Relief Committee on the condition in which he found the rear column, that he cannot modify the censure he then expressed and that it remains for those officers to tell their own stories.

Co-operative System to Become General

LONDON, Oct. 30.—The dockers' union has issued a manifesto forbidding any strike on account of the dock companies' proposed changes. The document expresses the conviction that the companies have no intention of enforcing a lockout or depriving the men of the benefits secured to them by the Mansion house agreement. It says that if any are unjustly dismissed they must complain to the union, which is now called upon to prove its stability by thorough discipline. The manifesto expresses the belief that the co-operative system will soon be generally adopted.

Thomas Maun, who has been appointed president of the new federation of the unions of employes in all the shipping industries, has received a letter from the dock companies disclaiming hostility to the dockers' union, and saying they anticipate no difficulty next week. They add that it will be the men's own fault if things do not work smoothly. The directors offer to establish the co-operative system if the details can be agreed to. This offer refers to the Albert and Victoria dockers, but other companies are expected to follow.

A MAYOR LOCKED UP.

The Mediterranean Seaport More Excited Than When Sacked by the Saracens.

TOULON, Oct. 30.—The scandal here growing out of the arrest of the mayor, M. Four out, on a charge of being a party to a conspiracy to procure a criminal operation upon his mistress, Mde. Jonquires, has occasioned much comment owing to the high standing of the persons involved. Madame Jonquires is the wife of Capt. Jonquires of the French navy and daughter-in-law of Admiral Jonquires. She is also sister-in-law of Admiral Coulombeaud, commander of the French Touquin squadron. M. Fourout is a retired naval officer. The mistress of the case, who, together with Madame Jonquires, is also under arrest, is named Laur, and it was at her house that the illegal operation is alleged to have taken place. The intimacy between the mayor and Madame Jonquires ceased two months ago, and the latter came to Paris. From this city she wrote to Mayor Fourout demanding money, and upon refusing to comply with her demand she reported the case to the Procureur at Toulon. An official enquiry was made into the matter, the arrests following.

MURDER AND PILLAGE.

Two Entire Families Murdered by Brigands in Hungary.

PESTH, Oct. 30.—The residents of the village of Lachaza, 22 miles southwest of this city, are greatly excited over a terrible crime that has been committed there. A corn dealer named Bleier, accompanied by his wife, two children and a maid-servant, were at the railway station awaiting the arrival of a train, when a number of brigands made an attack upon the party, all the members of which were killed and robbed of whatever valuables they had about them.

The house of Juhas, a tax collector of Erlau, was entered by burglars last night and Juhas and his housekeeper were murdered by the thieves.

The Tichu Council.

BERNE, Oct. 30.—The Grand Council of Ticino met in Bellinzona to-day. The members of the extreme left were absent. M. Fogazetti was elected president. In a speech after paying a tribute to the memory of Councillor Rossi, who was killed in the recent revolution, the president endeavored to argue that the recent votes showed that the majority of the people were satisfied with the government, but he was interrupted by angry shouts of dissent from the galleries. Councillors Respino and Bonzaingo announced their resignations and government messages with reference to attempts to effect party conciliation were referred to a committee.

The Locust Hill Disaster.

WHITBY, Oct. 30.—Michael Roche, foreman of the Claremont section of the C.P.R., in which is situated the stone culvert through which an engine plunged on June 17, carrying to their death Engineer James Atton, Fireman George Oliver, Bridge Inspector Wanless of Toronto and Sectionmen Jeremiah Moriarty and Hiram Lott of Locust Hill was placed on trial for manslaughter in not properly guarding the culvert, at the assizes here this morning before Mr. Justice Street. Mr. Louat, Q.C., of Toronto, and Crown Attorney Farewell of Whitby have charge of the case for the crown and Mr. G. T. Blackstock, Q.C., defended the prisoner.

David Sigbs-Landler, who miraculously escaped death at the accident, was the principal witness. He detailed the trip from Locust Hill Station to the culvert and the final plunge of the engine, his escape and the meeting of Roche up the track, west of the culvert, after the accident.

A South Victoria Pumpmaker Meets with a Terrible Death.

MANILLA, Oct. 30.—Pumpmaker George Bull was working at the bottom of an old well 41 feet deep yesterday morning when the curbing gave way. His feet became fast. Every effort was made to relieve him until 3 p.m., when he ceased to breathe. All who can possibly work have been digging unremittingly ever since, and are now within 15 feet of the body.

WINTER VENTILATION.

Everybody is making preparation for fortifying his home against the inroads of the coming winter, a very prudent and proper thing to do. There is, however, a prudent, proper way to do it. Many persons seem to think that if their house is hermetically sealed to the exclusion of as much frosty air as possible they have done well; they make no count on ventilation. The consequence is that in such homes there is winter comfort, but spring consequences—March mortality. It is an unfortunate fact that many who congratulate themselves on the snugness and tightness of their homes in winter, have a much snugger and tighter home in the early spring—a coffin. The close confinement in homes during the winter is accountable for many a death in March, so much so that "the March death rate" is becoming a standard term in sanitarian nomenclature. In view of the overwhelming importance of the subject of winter ventilation, the following admirable and pertinent article on the subject, from the Canada Health, Journal should not only be closely read and re-read in every home, but should be clipped and committed to memory:

"In this temperate climate the dwelling houses are all closed up about this season of the year, for the winter, and in most cases with double windows. Many thousands of people, indeed a large majority of the people, are closed up in the dwellings, or in shops or offices, and from this until April or May breathe but little of the pure, fresh, invigorating outer air, but breathe daily, over and over again, the same, often overheated, atmosphere of the closed rooms. The consequence is that in March and the early part of April—just when the beautiful, cheery spring has already broken up the winter frosts and almost everything in nature is full of vigorous life—we have in Canada, every year, as shown by statistics year after year, the highest death-rate of the year, in all ages and classes, with the most sickness, especially lung diseases, "colds," etc. There is no doubt whatever about the relation of cause and effect in this matter. The debilitating effect of breathing and re-breathing the same foul air of closed rooms for a few months, renders the human system an easy prey to disease of various sorts, and more especially to disease of the respiratory organs, which are so directly affected by the foul over-warmed air of the rooms. The wonder is that so many can tolerate the foul air and that so many survive. This can only be explained by the well known power of the human organism to suit itself in a large measure to circumstances and environment. Night and day the foul air breathing goes on. While some get a respite for an hour or two a day in the open air, many, as of the women and children, but rarely go out at all. And as the British Medical Journal (of Sept. 27 '90) puts it, whilst the importance of keeping pure the air of living-rooms during the day is recognized by a large majority of the educated classes at the present time, it is to be feared that there are still very many who by preference sleep at night in closely shut bedrooms. "The conviction that night air is unwholesome, and should be rigidly excluded, once so prevalent, probably now only survives among the unlettered and the ignorant. It doubtless had its origin in times when undrained swamps and malaria-breeding mists, arising at nightfall, were characteristic of large tracts of rural England, and is thus a survival of a belief founded more or less on the results of observation and experience; but at the present day it cannot be too strongly asserted that . . . night air is as wholesome as that of the day, and may even be said to be purer, as it is more free from dust and spores raised from the ground by winds, human traffic, and evaporation." The occupation of close bedrooms the Journal continues, putting it very mildly, creates an atmosphere often sufficiently vitiated to cause weariness and drowsiness in the early morning, instead of that feeling of renewed life and vigour that should be experienced, and much of the headache and neuralgia so constantly met with may be reasonably ascribed to the same cause. If anyone will take the trouble to return to his shut up bedroom after spending ten minutes in the fresh morning air outside he will be surprised to find how close and disagreeable is the atmosphere in which he has spent the last eight or nine hours.

What is the remedy? Ventilate—provide means for letting out or drawing off the once breathed, foul air and letting in the drafts, creating a vacuum within, enough pure air will come in through the cracks and crevices about windows, doors, etc. Often a window should be opened a little, too. This is not a first class method of ventilating, but if it alone were commonly practised, it would prevent a vast amount of sickness and save very many lives. When there are outer or storm windows, have them so arranged as to open wide (the so-called small ventilator in the lower bar of the sash is hardly worth naming or using), and open all doors and windows once a day and flush the rooms. Do this for just a minute or two or longer, daily, when the fires are good and walls all warm, and little or no discomfort will be felt, even by an infant. Whatever you do get the fresh air to breathe constantly in some way.

A LOCAL CENTENNARIAN.

On Wednesday the EXAMINER published in its list current of veterans of 1837 S, the name of Mr. William Condon, of Omanbee, who is verging on the age that will constitute him a centennarian. People who live the span of age beration after they should have died, according to the Psalmist's standard, are very rare; but this case is well attested, though the absurd claims often advanced to the standing of centennarians makes one rather doubtful and sceptical in the acceptance of testimony on the subject. We have come to regard the narratives respecting Herbert Jenkins, reputed to have died in 1670 at the age of 169, of Old Parr, who is said to have died in 1635, at the age of 152, of the Countess of Desmond at 140, and the like, as myths, but since that time a more systematic attention to the registration of births and deaths, has afforded frequent instances of persons reaching the age of 100 years. Whether such prolongation of life is an advantage to the possessor is a debatable question. We have been accustomed to associate with such advanced age a great deal of decrepitude, weakness of body and imbecility of intellect, but in the case of Mr. Condon these conditions are absent and he is a type of bodily and mental vigour. And the results of investigations based upon the inquiries made by the Collective Investigation Committee of the British Association it is shown that not only do many persons reach the age of 100 years (women more often than men) but that these persons are blessed with such a singular vitality and robustness of constitution, that the evening of their days is passed in tranquility and comparatively free from the ills and maladies commonly associated with old age. "In many, or, perhaps, most, instances their ending is peaceable, and they, in many cases, pass away without struggle, and without the tedium of long illness. The candle often goes out with scarcely a flicker. The old man is comfortable and happy one day and is gone the next. Perhaps he goes to sleep and does not wake, or a slight cold, or indigestion, a little over-fatigue, even a fit of choking or coughing takes out life's flame, and brings about the dissolution after a manner much to be envied by those who traverse the longer and more painful roads to the same end."

A CASE IN POINT.

Our loyalists for revenue, and our Red Parlour patriots make light of the McKinley tariff as regards its effect upon Canadian trade interests. When the destruction of our egg trade with the United States, involving the export of over fourteen million dozen of eggs and over two million dollars, is regretted, the farmers' wives are airily told that they can send their eggs to England, a market already supplied by other countries. When the fact of the injury to the barley market is mentioned, we are told that, in the course of several years, when we can grow the kind of barley the English brewers want, we can find a market for a grain that now annually finds its way to the United States to the tune of nearly ten million bushels, of the value of nearly six million, five hundred thousand dollars. And so on with other products. But the horse trade is a poser to them. They can't send over horses to England, because we do not breed the kind of horses required in that market, and the McKinley tariff shuts our horses out of the United States and destroys the Canadian trade, as shown by the practical testimony of Peterborough dealer as referred to in a paragraph published in our local columns. And this trade is of no inconsiderable importance. During the last 16 years the value of the horses exported into the United States from Canada has amounted to $25,065,470—the figures in 1889 being $2 170,722, and in 1874, only $570,544, showing a rapid increase in a trade capable of almost limitless development. Does the practical destruction of this trade mean nothing to the farmers of Canada? Does the practical subtraction of about $10 000 from the receipts of the farmers of this county (for that is the average value of horses exported to the United States) mean nothing? In the past many a farmer who needed a little ready money and had a spare horse, found the United States market a very great convenience as well in one in which he could sell his horses at a very good profit. Trade restriction is not by any means to the advantage of the farmer, and the sooner we can secure enlarged trade trade relations, the better, for the farmer, especially.

Mind your own Business.

Those men always succeed best who mind their own business. The reason is probably because they meet with such little opposition. Imperial Cream Tartar Baking Powder is the most successful baking powder in the market because it attends to its own business. It sells on its own merits, not by abusing other similar preparations. t th s-w

Purify the impurities in the blood in the spring when the condition is especially known, and yet there are very few people who have perfectly pure blood. The taint of scrofula, salt rheum, or other foul humor is hereditary and transmitted for generations, causing untold suffering, and we also accumulate poison and germs of disease from the air we breathe, the food we eat, or the water we drink. There is nothing exclusively proven than the positive power of Hood's Sarsaparilla over all diseases of the blood. This medicine, when fairly tried, does expel every trace of scrofula or salt rheum, removes the taint which causes catarrh, neutralizes the acidity and cures rheumatism, drives out the germs of malaria, blood poisoning, etc. It also vitalizes and enriches the blood, thus overcoming that tired feeling, and building up the whole system. Thousands testify to the superiority of Hood's Sarsaparilla as a blood purifier. Full information and statements of cures sent free.

Self Application of Electricity

FOR MEDICAL PURPOSES BY THE

DORENWEND ELECTRIC BELT

And Attachments.

THE WORLD'S BEST.

ALL diseases curable by Electricity can be treated at home by the Dorenwend Appliance. The Dorenwend is the only legitimate Electric Belt made which fulfils the requirements of Electro-medical science. It is a complete BODY BATTERY. It has an independent Battery, which generates a mild continuous current of Electricity (without shocks) and can be regulated to suit the strongest man or the weakest child. It is a CURRENT of QUANTITY, not merely a sensation current, and the quantity current is the greatest curative. It is a successful treatment for INDIGESTION, RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, SCIATICA, LUMBAGO, LIVER AND KIDNEY TROUBLES, WEAK BACK, SPINAL DISEASE, HEART DISEASE, NERVOUS DEBILITY, PARALYSIS, VERTIGO, FEMALE COMPLAINTS, IMPOTENCE, SEXUAL DECLINE and all diseases of the Nervous and Muscular Systems.

Remember that the DORENWEND BELT is the very latest invention in this line, and was invented by a competent electrician, and ranks as the best in the world; we defy anyone to bring proof to the contrary.

Do not class this Belt with the humbug combinations of leather and metal with which the country is being flooded. If you wish to experiment with cheap articles, buy THEM; but, if you want to procure a genuine Electric Belt and one that will be a benefit get a Dorenwend Belt.

SCIENCE AND PROGRESS.

The Right Way is the Easy Way To Break a String.

It is easy to break a string if you know how. Women need not hunt for a knife or a pair of scissors after tying a bundle, nor saw the string over the edge of the counter. The grocer's loop does the business. Hook the first finger of the left hand over the string, giving the finger a twist, or, rather, bringing the palm upward. Then roll the finger over backward until it is tight against the bundle, drawing tight the cord, which is held in the right hand all the time. Press the thumb hard against the loop; then jerk the cord suddenly with the right hand, and the string cuts itself.

ELECTRICAL PROGRESS.

Quebec is to have 1000 electric lights.

Chattanooga has 572 telephones in use.

Lenox is to try the electric light next season.

Vienna has put electric lights into its palaces.

Memphis has kicked out the street car mule for electricity.

An electrical gyroscope has been devised in Paris and applied to show the rotation of the earth and to correct ships' compasses.

Electrical mining apparatus and the magnetic treatment of iron ores are exciting no small degree of interest among mining engineers.

An iron elevated railroad, much like the New York pattern, six miles long, is now in process of construction in Liverpool. The cars are to be operated by electricity.

An electric welding machine for making chain cables is among the latest applications of electric welding. It has been found possible to weld two links at the same time.

The Electrical Review is led to exclaim: "Seven hundred million dollars added to the wealth of the country by means of electricity, and nineteen-twentieths of this in the last ten years! Just think of it!"

Miss Percy Goodyear, daughter of the late M. W. Goodyear, was struck by lightning recently. In relating her sensations Miss Goodyear said that without any preliminary warning she felt suddenly as if submerged in roaring waters and with the sound of a cataract in her ears. Her next memory was when consciousness returned.

The Ideal Sanitary House.

The picture of the ideal sanitary house is a pleasing one. The house will stand facing the sun, on a dry soil, in a wide, clean, amply sewered, substantially paved street, over a deep, thoroughly ventilated and lighted cellar. The floor of the cellar will be cemented, the walls and ceiling thickly plastered and white-washed with lime every year, that the house may not act as a chimney to draw into its chambers micro-organisms from the earth. Doors and windows will be generous in size, so as to admit of plenty of air. The outside walls, if of wood or brick, will be kept thickly painted, not to shut out the air, but for the sake of dryness.

The inside walls will be plastered smooth, painted and varnished. Interior wood work, including floors, will be varnished. Movable rugs, which can be shaken daily in the open air—not at the doors or out of the windows—will cover the floors. White linen shades, which must be clean or they become unsightly, will protect the windows. The furniture will be plain, without upholstery. Mattresses will be covered with oiled silk; blankets, sheets and spreads—no comforts or quilts—will constitute the bedding. There will be as little plumbing as possible, and what there is will be exposed. The hot air furnace which heats the rooms will take its supply from above the top of the house instead of the cellar, and, we are told, the "spring" cleaning will be twice a year.

By-Paths of Science.

The following method of making paper transparent for copying drawing has been found very serviceable: Place a blank sheet of paper over the drawing and rub it lightly with pure benzine. The tracing can then be readily made, and the benzine, upon evaporating, leaves the paper as opaque as before.

Prof. Pickering thinks that the term canal, applied to the marks on the surface of Mars, is a misnomer, and that there is no proof whatever of any one containing water. Had there been anything like a watery vapor his own powerful instrument would have developed it.

It has been suggested that the study of the influence of diet and habit upon the color of hair in different nations of men may cause discoveries by which the color of the hair in the human race may be modified by judicious treatment.

After some forty years of immersion in the waters of the pool of Echoschacht, not far from Hermannstadt, several human bodies have been brought to the surface in a state of perfect preservation.

The Academie des Sciences has submitted a new system of musical notation in which 27 characters replace the 903 symbols now employed to represent the seven notes of the gamut in the seven keys.

Terrestrial Magnetism.

M. Camille Flammarion, writing from the Observatory at Juvisy, says:—"M. Moureaux has just determined the condition of terrestrial magnetism at the observatory of Juvisy. He had found noticeably that the declination of the magnetic needle at the lowest point is 15 deg. 58 min. This value surpasses that of Paris. Therein we find an unexpected discovery. The geological formation of the land does not explain this anomaly. To what then is it due? That is what subsequent observations may reveal, but the fact of the existence of this anomaly tends to show us that the distribution of terrestrial magnetic curves is not nearly so simple as has been imagined up to now. Our observatory at Juvisy has lately been much added to, and a new cupola built on to it, where we have built an office and library for the assistant whom I have lately been enabled to engage to aid me in my observations."

Purifying Water.

A prominent Toronto doctor recommends the following plan for making water safe to drink during typhoid or other epidemics arising from drinking impure water: "Take a glassful of water and add as much alum as the water will dissolve; a few drops of this about six) add to a pailful of water will render the water perfectly pure and harmless. The action of the water is to precipitate all suspended matter, which at once falls to the bottom. The presence of the alum is not felt, as the remedy is assured in parts of 1 alum to 100,000 water. The boiling of water renders it insipid to the taste, as the oxygen is all driven out."

SALT IS GOOD.

A Few Things It is Useful For, With Reasons Why.

"Salt is good." It is the language of inspiration as well as of therapeutics. In all the range of the household materia medica there is no remedy half so valuable as common salt, both because of its real curative properties and of its immediate availability. And, moreover, it has this advantage over more pretentious remedies, that seldom in case of overzeal or mismanagement can it be made to do mischief. If it doesn't heal, it won't kill, at any rate. Here are some of the things it is good for:

Heated dry and applied to the outer surface over the seat of inflammation or congestion it will give almost instant relief; while applications of a strong hot solution of salt in water or vinegar acts like magic upon toothache, earache, neuralgic headache, and all that brood of distressing ills.

For catarrhal affections and sore throat a spray of warm water and salt is almost a specific, and is one of the standard prescriptions of the "nose and throat" specialists. For hay fever and those other slighter forms of nasal sensitiveness that induce a constant sneezing there is no remedy more quickly palliative, and often curative, than the vapor of heated salt and alcohol.

For those who have sensitive gums, inclined to bleed on the slightest provocation, a mouth-wash of salt and cold water used once or twice a day will harden the gums and prevent soreness. As salt is a styptic any slight bleeding may usually be checked by treating the part with salt and water. Persons with tender feet will find them growing much less sensitive day by day if they treated them to a daily brisk rubbing with cold salt and water.

Beside all this salt is good for the stomach. A pinch of it in hot water, taken either just before or just after a meal, is a valuable aid to digestion, and a cupful of very hot salt water will sometime quiet the most persistent nausea.

Anything more that salt will do? Yes, the most grateful of all—cure the toothache sometimes. "Will it really do that?" A little girl who was told to put some in an aching tooth says so. "I just put in a little salt," she said, "and in a few minutes I felt the naughty, aching nerve curl right down and go to sleep."

But there is one caution to offer. However beneficial the therapeutic action of salt may be, there is no question but salt taken into the system with the food in too great quantities is extremely hurtful. It was the excessive use of salt, quite as much as the nervous strain of his campaign, that killed Horace Greeley, and there be those who declare that with many women the use of salt is a species of dissipation. Too much salt in the system dries up the blood and the healthy moisture of the membraneous surface, and is evidenced by a dead yellow pallor of the skin, with a blanching of the lips and cheeks, and a morbid craving for the condiment which nothing but its use in enormous quantities will satisfy.—New York Evening Sun.

The Care of the Throat.

This is the time of year when school children begin to tie silk handkerchiefs about the throat. It is not well to do this, if one can possibly do without the muffling, for, if once begun, it must be carried through the entire season, or colds will result. Then, too, covering the throat is apt to make it sensitive. The muscles of the throat can be strengthened by reasonable exposure. But singers and speakers should always cover the throat after singing or speaking, when going into a cool room, or into the open air. A light bit of lace, or any open-work covering for the neck that will admit of ventilation, is the best protection.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

THE ONLY TESTIMONIAL HE EVER GAVE.

"If it be well to wash the skin—and we never heard the proposition questioned—it is well also that we should be familiar with the means by which that purpose may be most efficiently attained.

"We once knew a beautiful woman, with a nice complexion, who had never washed her face with soap all her life through; her means of polishing were, a smear of grease or cold cream; then a wipe, and then a lick with rose water. Of course we did not care to look too closely after such an avowal, but we pitied her, for soap is the food of the skin.—

Soap is to the skin what Wine is to the stomach;

An "Englishtown" Auction.

This morning there was great excitement in "Englishtown." Two neighbours got into a controversy over the weather, one saying that we had had Indian summer—the other saying it was yet to come. They came, at length, to blows, and were damaging each other badly, when their respective wives took a hand in and assisted the row. But that was not the best of it. When peace was restored, they all agreed that hawley bros.'s teas were the best and cheapest in town, like their coffees and glassware. dw

The city papers have from time to time contained accounts of the death of Robert Hardie, in Arizona. He was ambushed and slain by the Indians some time ago. The young man, the Norwood Register says, was a son of Rev. David Hardie, a Methodist minister, who laboured in Norwood twenty years. Robert Hardie, himself resided in Norwood at one time, and during Mr. Wright's term of office, temporarily filled the position of the High School there. Deceased was a personal friend of Dr. Ford. It is supposed he was prospecting in Arizona when he was killed.

The Coming Symphony Club Concert

Don't neglect on any account in making your engagements for the next few days to reserve Friday evening, Nov. 7th, for the grand concert of the Boston Symphony Orchestral Club. The splendid programme to be presented on the occasion will be published in the EXAMINER to-morrow evening. A perusal of it will show what a treat is in store, and the expectation of pleasure the programme warrants will be more than warranted and surpassed by the magnificent rendering the club will give it. Reserve your seats at Greatrex's drug store.

Other Veterans.

Mr. Thos. Reynolds, of Emismore, writes the EXAMINER that he gave his services to aid in suppressing the rising of 1837 38 He shipped on board the schooner Nautilus, under command of Capt. Graham, R.N. He says he can give a good description of what service he rendered. He adds that he came up from Quebec, and gave his services freely

Mr. Jas. Buckley, of Douro, enlisted in Peterborough in 1837 38, and served here six months under the last Capt. Benson. In the company of which the late James Wason was sergeant. Mr. Buckley is now about 69 years of age.

The Rangers.

There was no march-out of the 57th Battalion last night, the storm of the afternoon making the roads too muddy for a street parade. There was a rather scant turn-out of the volunteers, not over 150 in all. The regiment was drilled, and orders read for a full dress street parade and inspection next Tuesday evening. The final drill before the annual inspection, Thanksgiving Day.

Among the orders read was a notice of promotion of Pte. J. E. Johnston, "C" company, to the rank of corporal, vice F. Hall, resigned.

Sunday School Statistics.

The statistical returns presented at the Provincial Sunday School Convention showed:—4 236 Sabbath schools, an increase during the past three years of 437; 41 718 officers and teachers, an increase of 6,893, and 357,921 scholars, an increase of 25 430. About one-fifth of the whole population is found in the Sabbath schools, and a Sabbath school exists for every 500 inhabitants. The school population of Ontario, between 5 and 21, according to the returns of 1885, is 615,252, of whom 100,000 are estimated as Roman Catholics, leaving in round numbers 158 000 Protestant youths to account for. Peterborough's invitation for the holding of the next annual convention here, was declined in favour of Ottawa.

An Immense Firm

The Bobcaygeon Independent says:—The purchaser of supplies for the Edison Electric Company, has visited the village looking for lumber and bill stuff for the erection of the Edison Company works that are in course of construction in Peterborough. The Company's premises will be on a very large scale and will be an important addition to Peterborough's business prosperity. An idea of the extent of the buildings may be gathered from the fact that they have arranged with local Peterborough brick makers for over half a million bricks. The Company manufactures everything connected with their business, from the largest casting to the smallest piece of mechanism. Besides the material for electric lighting and telephones, they will manufacture every description of electric motors. In a few years these motors will be used for everything, from running an egg beater to a railway train.

Thirty Dollars a Head,

No Market for Horses this Fall—Knocked Out by the McKinley Bill.

This is the time of year when, as a rule, the horse market is at the height of activity. Every fall and winter buyers from Montreal and other places, as well as several local men, have done a thriving business in horseflesh, and large sums of money were left with the farmers in exchange for their stock. But the market has been knocked endwise by the McKinley Bill, that practical rejection to the Foster Tariff Bill of our own wise Government. The already heavily handicapped farmer will be further deprived of this considerable source of revenue.

The EXAMINER on Thursday had a conversation with a local buyer, who has for years shipped horses from this county.

"How is the horse market this fall?"

"How is it? Well, it isn't at all," was the concise reply. "The McKinley Bill has put a stop to the trade altogether. We can't pay $30 a head duty, and sell our horses on the other side. Of course you know that the American market is practically the only one we have for horses. Canadian horses are not the kind wanted in England, and when we are shut out of the American market we can't do any business worth speaking of."

"Are there no buyers here now?"

"No, not there won't be until McKinley's $30 duty is got rid of. The local trade does not amount to anything, worth mentioning."

An Awful Fate.

Forced to Stand Still while the Water Slowly Rose and Strangled Him.

On Wednesday afternoon, says the Cannington Independent, Mr. Jeshom Bull, pump maker, Manilla, went down into the well at the old Skinner house, kept by Mr. John Moore, to make some repairs to the cribbing, when by some means or other part of the support gave way, letting in a quantity of quick sand, which rapidly caused the unfortunate man's legs. This, with the water, which also became filled with the material, evidently as in a vice. An alarm was immediately raised, and one hundred willing hands were at once at work to assist in delivering the unfortunate man from his terrible position, but all efforts proved unavailing. After some hours the water began to rise, and at 5 o'clock death by

The Rev. Mr. Lloyd spoke cheering words to the unfortunate man, but his replies there were barely audible no body about 40 feet below the surface. The body, as we go to press, is still in the strange prison, and it is said that it will take some days to recover it. This sad event has cast a gloom over the village and vicinity.

A Wonderful Machine.

Our readers will admit that forty thousand dollars is an enormous amount of money for one piece of machinery, yet this is the price to be paid by the publishers of the Family Herald and Weekly Star, Montreal, for a new printing press to be added to its magnificent equipment, to supply the enormous constituency. This would stagger most of our American contemporaries. The Family Herald and Weekly Star Montreal, is a newspaper success truly marvellous.

High Court of Justice.

Continuation of the Assizes—The Will Case Finished at Last—Two Other Cases Settled.

The will case, Humphries vs. Brown, which has occupied the time of the court for two days, went to Jury shortly before noon. Some twenty five witness were examined, and the case was one of unusual length.

The plaintiff, Thos. Humphries, is a son-in-law of the late Duncan Cameron, of Aspodel, who died in May 1889, and executor of the latter's will. The defendant is one of the married daughters of the deceased.

Duncan Cameron was a prosperous farmer of Aspodel, 73 years of age in June, 1888, when he went to visit his son-in-law. While there the will was drawn up by Henry Humphries, brother of Thomas, and signed by deceased. In the will he left one of his farms, known as the Otonabee farm, to a son of Thos. Humphries, and the homestead he left to his son John, during his life time only, and in the event of John not marrying it was to go to another son of Thos. Humphries. The devise to the sons of Thos. Humphries is subject to payments of certain legacies at long intervals of time to the children of the testator. The widow of the deceased was properly provided for in the will, but the two married daughters, both widows are not provided for, except a legacy of $350 to each, payable in 11 and 14 years after the testator's decease. They have resisted probate of the will, alleging the exercise of undue influence and coercion upon the testator. The plaintiff the executor, seeks to have the will established.

The evidence on one side went to prove the soundness of his mind and his perfect freedom of will in the matter; the defence sought to show that deceased was weak-minded, and was influenced to make the will as he did.

The Jury returned a verdict for plaintiff with costs.

Stratton & Hall, and W. R. Biddell, Cobourg for plaintiff; Hall & Hayes, and Watson, Q.C., Toronto for the defendant.

CASES SETTLED.

JOHNSTON VS JOHNSTON et al.—An action brought by Thos. Johnston, of Belmont, against his sons, Samuel and Joseph, and Bank of Montreal, to set aside the assignment and transfer of a certain deposit receipt for $3 000. The case was settled on the following terms:—The defendants, Johnstons, to pay over to the plaintiff the amount of the deposit receipt in question herein on deposit in the Bank of Montreal; the plaintiff to pay the said defendants their costs of suit herein, and also the costs of the other defendants, the same to be a claim upon the said fund. John Burnham for plaintiff; Sawers & Stone for defendants Johnstons, and Hall & Hayes for Bank of Montreal.

JOHNSTON VS. JOHNSTON.—An action brought by Thos. Johnston, Belmont, and father of the defendant, Samuel Johnston, to set aside a certain deed of conveyance of land in Belmont. The case was settled on these terms:—The plaintiff to convey to the defendant all his estate in the land in question herein, free of encumbrance, and to pay the defendant his costs of the suit; the defendant to pay the plaintiff $400 within thirty days from the date hereof, subject to payment of said costs, and to the three daughters of the plaintiff, Ann Howson, Elizabeth Pickens and Mary Longmore, $200 each. John Burnham for plaintiff; Sawers & Stone for defendant.

The case of Hall vs. Goodwin was taken up this afternoon without a jury.

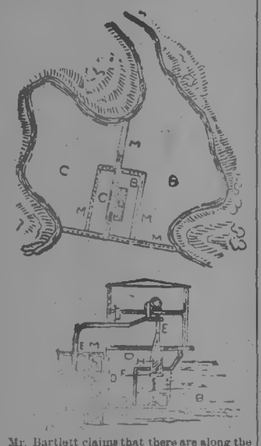
ENSLAVING THE OCEAN.

MAKING HIGH SEES SUBSERVIENT TO MAN'S SERVICE.

Model Plan to Make Tidewater Produce Motive Force—Millions of Horse Power Now Wasted to be Rendered Useful for Big Work.

Make the ocean tides serviceable to man! The idea seems so preposterously colossal that many at first glance will be inclined to ridicule it. Still more erratic plans of inventors have succeeded ere this, and C. M. Bartlett, of Chicago, thinks he has succeeded in accomplishing the task.

Briefly stated, Mr. Bartlett's idea is based upon the law of gravitation, the incontrovertible fact that the fall of a body produces force. Hence he has come to the conclusion that the power of the ocean tide can be made useful. This is to be accomplished by a compound system of reservoirs to be constructed in ocean bays and inlets more or less confined by promontories of land. The practical operation of this plan includes the use of turbine water wheel stripped of all its ordinary attachments and nearly turned inside out. Such a plan, Mr. Bartlett claims, is practicable and so simple in its construction that ordinary intelligence can readily comprehend it, while, on the other hand, it attracts the attention of the hydraulic engineer on account of its ingenuity.



Mr. Bartlett claims that there are along the coast between Boston and New York a large number of locations that contain all the way from a thousand to ten thousand horse power force, if the latter were developed by his system of compound reservoirs; that that section of the country can be run by the invention, and that the returns from the capital required for practical operation will double yearly. In brief, Mr. Bartlett's plan is as follows:

A dam two feet above high water mark is first constructed across a tidal inlet between two land promontories in such a way as to inclose as large an area of water as possible within the predetermined cost of construction. This space is then divided by a partition dam or crib work into two reservoirs of as nearly like capacity as possible on account of the topography. In each of these two reservoirs, in the right angle junction of main and partition dam, a small reservoir is then constructed as indicated in the diagram. The small reservoir is designed to increase the capacity of the large one adjacent to it by 25 per cent. It is used only at high water, supplies the machinery directly from the ocean and reserves the water in the main reservoir until the tide has lowered to the standing head of water upon which the basis of power has originally been figured. At this time the gates between the ocean and the small reservoir are closed, and the gates between the latter and the large reservoir are opened at low water. The outline cut beneath the diagram shows this system reversed.

The explanation of the diagram is simple. A marks the ocean; B the set of reservoirs which are kept as full as possible; C, the reservoirs kept as empty as possible, known in engineering as "tail race;" D marks the float; E, the siphon pipe; F, the inverted turbine wheel; H, the cone; M, the crib work. For such an arrangement Mr. Bartlett claims:

A combination of reservoirs insuring a constant fall of water in one direction.

A combined float and siphon adjusting itself automatically to the rise and fall of water, utilizing every inch of head and dispensing with the use of stationary gates and turbines.

The automatical balancing of the turbine by placing it in an inverted position in the upward flow of the siphon, thus opposing the force of the stream to the gravity of the wheel and shaft, and avoiding a large percentage of the friction and wear that constitutes the bete noir of hydraulic engineering in placing turbines where gravity and the force of the stream act in the same direction.

The inventor is willing, for the purpose of a practical test in a large scale, to give the first offer for a plant not exceeding 5,000 horse power the right to operate the same during the lifetime of the patent for $1, provided the plant is completed within one year.

FELL DEAD LIKE SHEEP.

French Soldiers in Senegal Repulse a Desperate Assault.

PARIS, Oct. 30.—A desperate effort was recently made by the natives under King Ahmadou to capture Koniakara, the advanced post of the French army in Senegal. The post was commanded by Lieutenant Valentin with scarcely half a hundred effective men and two small cannon. The natives advanced in great force and in deep columns, many of them carrying ladders with which to mount into the block-house, but the fire from the fortress was so well directed that the attack was repulsed, the brave black soldiers falling in heaps. It was estimated that the natives lost about 600 men. Only two of the French were slightly wounded.

10,000 Rupees Offered for the Capture of Sultan Bakari.

LONDON, Oct. 30.—Advices from Mombasa state that 500 seamen and mariners and 120 Indian troops took part in storming Vira, which was captured and burned Tuesday by the forces sent there to punish the natives for massacreing a number of Germans. Many of the natives were killed. A few members of the British forces were wounded. A reward of 10,000 rupees has been offered for the capture of Bakari, the Sultan of Vira.

The trouble arose over the massacre of a number of German planters by the natives on Sept. 15. Four men were killed outside the gate of Vira, and three others after a pursuit of several miles. When the British authorities attempted to call the natives to account for it, the Sultan rebelled and called his tribes together for hostilities. He also refused to appear before the English and German consuls, and active operations were begun by the English Admiral.

The Boar Gored the Archduke.

BUDA PESTH, Oct. 30.—The Archduke Otto, while hunting at Holies, was thrown from his horse and attacked by a gigantic boar, which buried its tusks in his right foot and tore away some of the muscles. He was rescued from his perilous position by the gamekeeper, and surgeons were summoned, who have declared the wound to be somewhat dangerous.

The Behring Sea Question.

LONDON, Oct. 31.—Commenting on the Behring Sea matter The Times says: We think the question of mare clausum, which Mr. Blaine appears to desire to throw into the background, must be dealt with before progress is possible. When that question is settled England will be perfectly ready to co-operate with America in dealing with Behring Sea matters.

Home Rule Not a Panacea.

LONDON, Oct. 30.—Leonard Henry Courtney, M.P. for the Bodmin division of Cornwall, who has just returned from a protracted tour in Ireland, in an address to his constituents to-day said he was more than ever convinced that Home Rule was not a panacea, but he agreed with Mr. Parnell, Mr. Morley, Lord Spencer and others that the land question ought to be settled by the British Parliament.

Mr. Harrison has brought action against Magistrate Caldell of Tipperary for assault and excluding him from the court house.

M. Roche, Minister of Commerce for France, yesterday explained the new tariff bill to the Tariff Committee. The object of the maximum and minimum system, he said, was to avoid inconveniences connected with the most favored nation clause in any treaty with a foreign power. Under the present bill any country getting minimum tariff privileges must grant considerable reductions in existing duties, besides placing France in as favorable a position as any other nation.

her person at will. She also enters a large tank and sports in the water with a huge trained alligator as her companion.

In the exhibition three snakes, two alligators and two crocodiles are used. The audience one evening recently got an extra amount of fun for their money. A new alligator escaped from custody, and crawling along the stage to the footlights attempted to make friends with the extremely unwilling members of the orchestra. The madame captured him just as he had opened his mouth to make a remark to the bass drum artist.

The Fourth Finger.

It is a generally known fact that the fourth or ring finger of the human hand is not on a par with the other fingers, it being the weakest, the least flexible and the most rebellious in action. Scientific men explain this feebleness by the theory that the lateral tendon joining the ring finger to the others composing the hand in a measure paralyze its movements. To the majority of people it matters little that one of the fingers should be inferior to the rest in strength, as a scientific oddity, however, it is worthy of note; to the pianist or the player of stringed instruments it is a source of considerable inconvenience. As art can, in the present day, remedy most defects which incommode us, a medical man has thought that something could be done to free the ring finger. He informs those interested in the matter that if they wish to have a strong, flexible fourth finger they have but to submit to a surgical operation, which consists in dividing the teodons of the hand. The operation, which is very simple, scarcely deserving of the name, has recently been performed on several New York, Boston and Brooklyn pianists.

NEARLY 100 LIVES LOST.

TWO VESSELS COLLIDE OFF THE NEW JERSEY COAST.

Both Sunk Within Seven Minutes—Terrible Tales of Suffering by the Survivors of the Wreck.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—The Spanish steamer Vizcaya, bound for Havana and Santiago de Cuba, Colon and other Central American ports with a general cargo of merchandise, was run into and sunk by an unknown schooner 6 miles off Barnegat, on the Jersey coast, at 5 o'clock Thursday evening. The night was clear, the moon shining brightly, the sea smooth. In seven minutes both vessels were at the bottom of the sea and with them sank 81 of their passengers and crews. All the passengers of the Vizcaya were lost. Their names are:

Senor Juan Pedro, a partner of the firm of J. M. Cobaltes & Co. of New York, and one of the owners of the lost steamer.
M. R. Calvo, wife and son. M. A. Ruiz.
M. Purr and two children. Jose Acabiia.
Pancra Alvarez. Juan F. Hedman.
Lugo Pellon. Oscar Islam.
Jose M. Garcia.

Twelve of the crew were saved from the steamship. The fate of the crew of the schooner is still unknown. The first news of the disaster was received here when the steamer Humboldt of Brazil arrived at Brooklyn having on board the survivors of the catastrophe.

Capt. Black of the Humboldt said that at daybreak this morning his ship was off Barnegat light. Suddenly from off their port bow came a cry for help. Peering in that direction through the mist of early morning the officers of the Humboldt saw three masts sticking out of the water and clinging to the yards and rigging people were seen. A boat was quickly lowered and rowed to the scene and the unfortunates were rescued. The rescued men belonged to the Vizcaya and their names are as follows: Felipe Hozas, Chief officer Gabriel Cuvo, second officer; Francisco Sierra, first engineer; Andres Rico, surgeon; Serano Galvos and ten seamen.

The rescued sailors were chilled to the bone from exposure to wind and wave, and could have held out but little longer. When they were brought to this city they were taken to the office of J. M. Cobaltes & Co., 91 Wall-street, the owners of the Vizcaya.

Thrilling Account of the Wreck.

None of the survivors could talk English, and for some time it was impossible to obtain a correct account of the wreck. From Dr. Rico the best account was obtained. He said: "Everything was working nicely. It was about 8 o'clock when I was on deck, and took a few turns back and forth while smoking a cigar. I did not see any vessel near us. The ship was in charge of the first officer, who was on the bridge. I went down to the saloon then and there met Mrs. Calvo. We sat down and began talking. Suddenly I heard the bell going in the engine room ring the stop signal. Before I could even wonder what it was for, there came an awful shock, a crashing, scraping sound on the deck over our heads and the steamer rolled well over on her port side. Everybody in the saloon was thrown down. All was excitement. Men, women and children shrieked for help. Mrs. Calvo seized my hand and begged me to find and save her boy. I told her I would. I went up to the deck to find him. There a terrible scene of confusion met my eyes. The bridge, deck house and fore rigging were all torn away. There was a great gash in the starboard side, just abaft the coal bunkers, and through this opening water poured in. Close by on our starboard beam was a big four-master schooner with her bowsprit and fore rigging gone and her bows stove in. She, too, was filling rapidly. Men were running here and there all over our decks shouting all kinds of orders and I can remember seeing the crew of the schooner doing the same thing on their vessel. The next thing I knew the water was washing over our decks. The steamer was fast sinking. With a wild idea of saving ourselves several of us scrambled up the port fore rigging.

"Down went the steamer and up we climbed, we reached the foretop gallant yard and just then the hull reached the bottom. Not all is just above the surface of the water but every swell washed over our lower limbs. There were 12 of us in the rigging. Some of our crew had tried to reach the schooner, but she had gone to the bottom just as quickly as the Vizcaya had, and as far as we could see there was not a soul in sight to bring us succor.

"One of the men on the yard said that while climbing the rigging he had seen a boat lowered from the schooner and seven men get into it and row away. We looked around but could not see anything. Then, in the hope of attracting the attention of some passing vessel or some one on the shore, we cut the tarred ropes on the yard into pieces one or two feet long, and lighting these shook them in the air as long as they lasted. The lights brought no one to our rescue and all through the long night we clung to that yard, growing colder and stiffer as each hour passed. Towards daybreak a cold fog settled on us and made matters worse. When one of the men on the yard said he thought he heard a steamer passing we all ballooed as loud as our enfeebled voices would permit. Then a boat was seen and we were taken on board the Hurn bold.

From the second officer some more facts were obtained. He was standing on the upper deck under the bridge when the collision occurred. He said the steamer's lights were burning all night and the watch on deck were at their post. He did not see the schooner until the first officer on the bridge rang the bell to stop. At the time he rang Capt. Cunnell had just come from supper and was going up on the bridge. Before we had time to move the schooner struck us and, as far as I could see, instantly killing Capt. Cunnill.

Senor Calvo, who perished with his wife and son, was a partner in the house of Francisco & Co. of Havana, the biggest and richest sugar house in Cuba.

The vessel's cargo was valued at about $150,000.

The Other Vessel Was the Hargrave

LEWESDELL, Oct. 31.—The tug Hercules arrived this evening and reports that it was the schooner Cornelius Hargrave which collided with the Vizcaya off Barnegat. Ten men from the Hargrave and seven from the Vizcaya were picked up by the schooner Isaac L. Davis and were transferred to the Hercules. The tug Rattler, which has been at the scene of the wreck, picked up the body of a woman, supposed to have been the stewardess of the steamer. The survivors report nearly 100 people were clinging to the wreck at one time.

The schooner Hargraves Captain Allen, cleared from this port Oct. 27 with a cargo of coal for Fall River, Mass.

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—The general board of appraisers to-day decided against the assessment of ¼ of one cent per pound on herring and ⅝ of one cent per pound on fresh fish imported from Canada. "THAT MAN DONE IT."

The Strange Remark of Henry Crout Before He Dropped Dead

STRATFORD, Oct. 31.—Harry J. Crout, for many years city bill poster, died suddenly at his residence, Argyle-street, at about 11 o'clock last night. He was around yesterday afternoon distributing sale bills and was as cheerful and talkative as usual. Crout went to bed soon after supper last night, as he did not feel well, and shortly before 11 his wife was aroused by two loud screams from her husband. Crout got out of bed and seizing the bedstead in one hand and the door in the other, exclaimed: "That man has done it. Send for a doctor; I am going to die." Medical assistance was sent for, but before it arrived he was dead. When asked what was meant by the exclamation: "That man has done it," Mrs. Crout said he had reference to the man who had beaten him in a dispute over a drain last summer. She says her husband has always complained of pains in his side since that time. The doctor who attended him said the cause of his death was heart disease. Crout had been a bill poster in Stratford for 30 years.

THE "COLONEL" LO ATED.

The Stupid Michigan Yarn Proves to be a Hoax, of Course.

LONDON, Oct. 31.—The famous "Colonel," the alleged friend of Birchall, is Col. J. E. Lewis of 11 Wall-street, New York, who was in London at the time of the murder. Col Lewis was for many years a broker in New York and Philadelphia and made financial arrangements for the building of waterworks in the United States. Two years ago he was one of a syndicate which undertook to build a railway in Peru at a cost of £32,000,000. He went to Peru and was completing arrangements for the railways when one of the partners in New York failed and Lewis was obliged to abandon the project.

He lived at Morley's with his wife and two daughters for six months. Lewis is now in New York. At Morley's Birchall was introduced to Col. Lewis as the son-in-law of Mr. Stephenson of the London and Northwestern Railway. He invited Birchall to dine with him and his family, and introduced him to a friend of his engaged in the railroad equipment business. Birchall afterwards called at the latter's office with Benwell and made an appointment for three days later. The gentleman kept the appointment, and then he learned that Birchall had left suddenly for Canada. When Birchall left Morley's he left his baggage in Lewis' room and the latter turned it over to the manager of the hotel. The attempt to connect Lewis with the case must fall to the ground, as scores of friends who met him every day during the first six months of the present year will testify.

MISPLACED SYMPATHY.

Thousands of Montrealers Signing the Birchall Petition.

MONTREAL, Oct. 31.—More interest seems to be taken in the Birchall case here than in any other place in Canada. The fact that the Archbishop and such prominent citizens as Sir Donald Smith, Sir Joseph Hickson and many others have signed the petition to the Government for the commutation of the sentence has had great effect on public opinion and the feeling in favor of the prisoner is steadily growing. Mr. Dugald MacMurchy arrived from Woodstock this morning and has been in consultation with Mr. Donald MacMaster, Q.C., during the day. The defence evidently intend to fight the case to the end. Mr. Stevens will probably tell the story of what he knows about Benwell's movements in London along with the Colonel.

The Action For Libel Against The Globe.

TORONTO, Nov. 1.—Mrs. Birchall arrived in the city yesterday, and accompanied by Jailer Cameron, called at Attorney-General's office, where Mrs. Birchall had an interview with Deputy Attorney General Hardy and Mr. Blackstock, whom they accepted an invitation to luncheon.

Mrs. Birchall and Mrs. West-Jones, under the escort of Mr. Blackstock, had an interview with the Attorney-General in the afternoon.

Mrs. Birchall and her sister will return to Woodstock to-day.

The case of Graeme against The Globe, in which it is asked to examine Birchall as a witness on behalf of the plaintiff, came on before the master-in-chambers at Osgoode Hall yesterday. Mr. T. Langton, Q.C., appeared on behalf of The Globe, and asked to have the motion enlarged till Tuesday of next week. The enlargement was vigorously opposed by Mr. Hilton, who appeared for the plaintiff, on the ground that at present Birchall was willing to be examined, but there was no telling how long this mood would last, as his tone on earth was getting short, and as a man approaches death, it is not reasonable to suppose he will care to be troubled with such matters. He also urged that the point on which the examination was sought was so simple that there should be no delay and that an enlargement was unnecessary. Mr. Langton contends that the defendants had not yet delivered their answer and would be unable to do so for a few days, owing to absence from the city of a gentleman whom it would be necessary to consult. He said it might be unnecessary to examine Birchall, as the defendants in their defence might admit that Birchall had not told them what was published as his confession, and this was the only point on which it was sought to examine him. He further stated that he had authority to the effect that Birchall could not be examined at all, but this case Mr. Hilton said, was an old one and was not now followed.

The Master here asked Mr. Langton if he thought that if a man were about to be tried for murder and Birchall was a very material witness he could not be examined in such a case. Mr. Langton contended that the authority was otherwise and pressed for an enlargement. The master finally enlarged the motion till Monday, when if the defendants are still not ready to go on they must notify Mr. Hilton and the case will stand till Tuesday.

The Attorney-General was served with notice of the motion and the affidavits, but was not represented on the motion.

Dies From Morphine Poisoning.

YONKERS, N.Y., Oct. 31.—A man who registered at the Getty House here as "George Smith" of New York, and who is supposed to have committed suicide by taking morphine, was last night identified by P. H. Sumner, a New York broker, as James H. Edgar, a wealthy druggist of London, Eng. Edgar lived with two nephews, George H. Edgar and Robert Roe, in a flat in Ninth-avenue, New York. James H. Edgar was worth $90,000. Mr. Sumner paid him $4,00, the result of a business transaction, two weeks ago. There was still a balance due him of $15,000, which was subject to his order. Mr. Edgar used to wear a gold Howard watch. He had this on his person when last seen by Sumner. When his body was found in the Getty House he had a silver watch and only 66 cents in his pocket. A leather satchel which Edgar had always been in the habit of carrying was missing. Mr. Sumner says the letter the suicide left for the proprietor of the Getty House is not in Edgar's handwriting. Mr. Sumner unhesitatingly pronounces it a forgery and he is positive there has been foul play.

SAGINAW, Mich., Oct. 31.—William Mcnay was arrested here to-day for a burglary committed at Ingersoll, Ont., two months ago. He will be taken back to Canada.

NOT THE MAN FOR GALWAY

BALFOUR GREETED WITH CHEERS FOR O'BRIEN.

Revolt of Russian Peasants—One Hundred German Soldiers Courtmartialed for Drawing Their Bayonets on a Crowd—The Demented King of Holland.

GALWAY, Oct. 31.—Upon his arrival today Balfour received a large number of representatives of the local trades, who made suggestions to him for remedying the distress in the western counties of Ireland. Mr. Balfour said he was glad the present government was instrumental in bringing into effect the projects which had hovered before their eyes as a dream for many years past. A crowd assembled at the depot and gave hearty cheers for O'Brien and Morley as the train with Mr. Balfour left for Dublin.

RIOTOUS GERMAN SOLDIERS.

One Hundred Court Martialed for Drawing Swords on Citizens.

BERLIN, Oct. 31.—A hundred soldiers quartered at Thorn were summoned before a court-martial for rioting and drawing their swords on the citizens.

Herr Wittstartt, the manager of the orchestra, is lying at the point of death from sword wounds received during an encounter with the drunken soldiers, and a city policeman named Rummler was attacked by a party of 14 soldiers after he had ordered them to release a respectable girl whom they were dragging to the barracks. Rummler killed one of the soldiers and fatally wounded four others in the dispute.

A RUSSIAN REVOLT.

Troops Sent to Suppress the Uprising Defeated.

VIENNA, Oct. 31.—Information reaches here that the Russian authorities of St. Petersburg and Odessa are making every effort to suppress the circumstances connected with the outbreak of the peasantry in Southern Russia. The revolt is said to have originated in stringent enforcement of the conscription, from which the rich landowners find ways to secure exemption, and in the cruelties exercised upon the peasants by the petty officials, with the view of breaking the spirit of the people. The elders of villages, men held in veneration by their neighbors, have been brutally flogged for alleged offences, and the knout has been used on the slightest pretence. The outbreak originated 50 miles from Kharkov, being prompted by some act of judicial cruelty, not fully known. The peasants, not having firearms, seized any weapons at command, drove the magistrates from the place and began a campaign of murder and arson against the officials and the aristocracy. The first detachment of troops sent against them was defeated and forced to retire, and General Dragiermeroff ordered six regiments of infantry and two of cavalry to the scene. These, at last accounts, had not yet encountered the peasants, said to be swollen to vast numbers and very resolute, though badly armed.

A RETIRED MONARCH.

William III, King of the Netherlands, Deposed by Act of the Dutch Parliament.

THE HAGUE, Oct. 30.—At to-day's session of the Dutch Parliament the question regarding the fitness of the King to govern in view of the condition of His Majesty's health was put to vote, in accordance with the section of the constitution providing for a declaration by Parliament in the event of the King becoming incapacitated. By a vote of 55 to 5 Parliament declared that His Majesty was incapable of governing. Mynheer Pyanppel protested that the vote was not justified by the condition of the King's health, and the members of the Ministry confirmed the statement of Mynheer Pyanppel. The Council of State has been temporarily invested with regal powers.

The Deposed King.

William III., King of the Netherlands, was born Feb. 19, 1817, and succeeded his father, William II., March 17, 1849. His mother was a sister of Nicholas I., Czar of all the Russias. William married in 1839 the Princess Sophia, daughter of the King of Wurtemberg, by whom he had two sons, both of whom are dead. The old Queen Sophia should be remembered by Americans as the firm friend of John Lothrop Motley, who wrote much of his history of "The Rise of the Dutch Republic" in her delightful chateau the "Huis in t' Bosch" in the house in the wood on the road between The Hague and Scheveningen.

William III., while Prince of Orange, was madly in love with Malibran, the unrivaled singer. After the death of his wife he made a favorite of Mlle. d' Ambre, and again of Mme. Musard. But with all his lapses from princely and kingly decorum William was a shrewd and wise sovereign and did much to render his country prosperous and his people contented. He was, however, disliked by the Dutch on account of his irascible temper and arbitrary manner. In Amsterdam he has been well hated, because he would only live in his palace there during a few days in the year when he was obliged to do so by law.

Queen Sophia died in 1877, and on Jan. 7, 1879, William married Emma, Princess of Waldeck-Pyrmont, a beautiful, amiable and most able woman, who speedily made herself beloved by the Hollanders. In 1880 she gave the old king a daughter, the Princess Wilhelmina, and thus insured the succession to the throne. The young Princess will, if she lives, become Queen of the Netherlands, but in the meantime the Council of State will doubtless be succeeded by Queen Emma as Regent. On the death of the King the Grand Duchy of Luxemburg becomes separated from the Crown of Holland and passes into the hands of Duke Adolph William, son of Prince William of Nassau. Whether the deposed King will be now considered dead to the extent of giving legality to this transfer remains to be seen.

Government Appointments.

These appointments are gazetted: John Elley Harding, Q.C., of Stratford, to be local master for the county of Perth in the room of Judge Lizars, resigned. Thomas Johnson of Gravenhurst, barrister-at-law, to be district attorney and clerk of the peace for the united provisional judicial district of Muskoka and Parry Sound in the room of Alexander Adair, resigned.

Telegraphic Taps.

Hillbourne's boot and shoe store at Tilsonburg was damaged to the extent of $2500 by fire yesterday.

For some time past Mrs. Hinman, No. 8 James street, Hamilton, has missed various articles of ladies wear including ribbons, laces, gimps and jet ornaments. A woman yesterday evening named Alice Burton, a clerk, on the charge of stealing these goods.

Cable Flashes.

The new German African Company, formed to plant colonies in Southwest Africa and in Morocco and Tripoli, hopes to divert the stream of emigration.

It transpires that Mr. Gladstone had an extremely narrow escape while inspecting the new fifth of Forth bridge on Saturday. While he was on a car examining the foundations of the structure a train rushed by at a high rate of speed, causing the experimenters to fight and cling to the uprights to keep from being thrown into the water. The sudden rush of the train frightened Mr. Gladstone's horses with the above result. He saves a wife [illegible]

Impaled on a Pitchfork.

CORNWALL, Oct. 30.—A young lad named Charles Winters, while playing in a haymow at Goldfield, fell to the barn floor alighting on a pitchfork which was standing end up against the mow. One of the tines of the fork entered his abdomen and pierced clean through the body. He lived two days.

A Call Boy Killed.

LONDON, Oct. 31.—Patrick Kinsella, aged 15, a C.P.R. call-boy was struck by a yard engine while walking along the track at 3½ this morning. His left arm was cut off near the shoulder and he also received serious injuries about the head. He died at the hospital at 9 a.m.

Diphtheria at Markham.

The Great Majority

Of cases of scrofula and other blood diseases are hereditary, and therefore difficult to cure. But we wish to state in the most positive, emphatic manner that Hood's Sarsaparilla does cure scrofula in every form. The most severe cases too terrible for description, have yielded to this medicine when all others failed. If you suffer from impure blood in anyway, take Hood's Sarsaparilla.

DIED IN A DRAIN.

The Effects of Hereditary Taint—No Old Country Waifs Wanted

TORONTO, Nov. 1.—Samuel Toy, an Englishman who has been in Canada five years, died suddenly from heart disease whilst working in a drain on Thursday. He was 35 years of age, and had been digging in rear of 81 Shuter-street, and was seen thus employed at 4.45, a quarter of an hour before the time for quitting work. Some surprise was expressed when he did not return to his boarding-house and the reason of his absence was not discovered till yesterday morning, when his employer found his dead body in a crouching position in the drain.

The Prison Commission at its sitting yesterday completed the examination of all the sheriffs and jailers in the province except Sheriff Mowat and the officials of the Central Prison, the Mercer Institute and the local police stations. They will be examined after these institutions are inspected next week. The commission at the conclusion of the evidence adjourned to the call of the chair.

The witnesses were:
DR. DANIEL CLARK, Toronto Asylum.
DR. J. H. RICHARDSON, surgeon of the Toronto jail.
JOHN CAMERON, jailer Oxford.
ALFRED KITCHEN, jailer, Wentworth.
H. NESBITT, jailer, Peterboro.

The most interesting evidence was the observation of Drs. Clark and Richardson upon those who came before them. Dr. Clarke, speaking of the effects of heredity, said that it was very rare that bodily deformities were transmitted to off-spring. He scouted the idea that particular vices could be inherited, but held that children born of parents whose passions were strong and ungoverned would have a weakness which in time would develop. An hereditary moral taint will follow a child to this country. Take a thousand infants from London slums before environment has anything to do with them, bring them under good influences and a larger proportion of them will go astray than of those of better birth. Still, a large number of them may be recoverable if taken at a tender age. But children from 4 years upwards ought not to be brought here because it is astonishing how young children learn evil. It is absurd to dump children in this country when we have so many waifs of our own.

Drunkenness the doctor believed to be a deterioration of character rather than a disease. There are two classes of drunks: Those who get drunk habitually are to a certain extent diseased and ought to be put under medical treatment. Those who get drunk at intervals are not diseased, but their physiological condition has become deteriorated by heredity. He never knew a man who got on intermittent drunken bouts who had not inherited weakness in that direction.

"It is absurd to take these drunken men and say a dollar and costs or thirty days. It is inhuman and unbecoming a Christian country to dump our drunks into jail. They ought to be put under restraint until their will power is restored. I agree with Mr. Langmuir that drunks should not be put into prison with criminals, but into a place of industry where they might do something towards the support of their families and be kept there until it was believed they had reformed. If they are kept in for six months or a year a larger number would be reformed."

Jailer Cameron of Woodstock gave the views of the Jailers' Association, of which he is president, upon reforms needed in prisons. The head jailor should have the appointment of his subordinates in his own hands. At present he was responsible for the safe conduct of the jail, but his subordinates were appointed by the council and thus his authority was weakened. The Government should see that the salary of the jailors is fixed and not subject to reduction by the council. Jailers should have statutory holidays, a system of promotion should be adopted and the officials put on the same basis as other Government officials. He recommended the appointment of truant officers to compel the attendance of children at schools, for he found idleness and want of education a fruitful source of crime. The Government should compel counties to erect poorhouses, which would be better for the vagrants and the old and at the same time enable the prisoners to be properly classified. He believed that crime would be reduced if the Government assumed control of all the jails, for then prisoners could be properly classified. The association believed there would never be any real reform in prison management until the control of them was assumed by the Government.

BRADSTREET'S WEEKLY REVIEW.

Freer Movement in Cotton, Wheat and Sugar—Trade Generally Good.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Special telegrams to Bradstreet's point to a liberal volume of merchandise in process of distribution, in few, if any, instances less than a week ago. The movement of produce is freer than it has been so far as wheat, cotton and sugar are concerned, but less so with reference to Indian corn and oats. Although the return flow of currency from the south and west to New York has not set in with any appreciable force, the demand on New York for currency to go to these central districts has been checked. The improvement in the bank statement last week was due to other causes than increased supplies of funds among clearing-house banks. There has been no greater ease in the money market, time money continues scarce and call loans are firm at 5 to 6 per cent. Stock speculation at New York is feverish and unsettled, the threatening position of western railway affairs and the litigation in connection with the sugar trust, being the principal causes to bear attacks and declining tendencies in prices. Bank clearings at 53 cities for the week ended Oct. 30 are $1,277,711,753, an increase over this week last year of 6.9 per cent. Business failures have been disappointing at prolonged delay in the appreciation of iron prices. At some points in the west the request for iron, crude and structural has actually declined. Steel rails are not so firm as last week. Philadelphia worsted spinners are said to be buying and Fall River manufacturers in several lines at Boston are confidently counting on stiff higher prices. Hogs with free arrivals were are 10c lower and cattle are also lower on prevalence of light-weight loads. Coffee is dull and weak on report that Brazil will remove export duty, and notwithstanding reports of crop shortages in other parts of the world. Sugar moves off lifeless and ruled 16c lower on refined and 1-16c on granulated. The world's sugar crop of 1890 is estimated, however, to exceed that of this year by 1,000,000 tons. Exports of wheat (and flour as wheat) for the week continue large, thus adding to owning to arrive movement from the Pacific coast ports. The total amount this week is 4,000,000 bushels, against 1,782,883 bushels last week and 1,466,552 bushels in the like week last year. The total exported July 1 to date is one-third of the cereal year, approximates 52,570,998 bushels against 51,000,000 bushels in like portion of 1889, and 44,000,000 bushels in 1888. Breadstuffs are in moderate demand in regular lines. Auction sales of Am rican silks and price concessions by jobbers have induced a large distribution. Woollens in good demand and unchanged. Manufacturers are well supplied. Stocks are smaller than usual at this date. Cotton is weak and 1-16c lower on large movement, depressed foreign advices and restricted demand. Business failures reported to Bradstreet's number 164 in the United States this week, against 207 last week and 176 this week last year. Canada had 30 this week against 33 last week. The total number of failures in the United States, January 1 to date, is 8,586 against 8,963 in a like portion of 1889.

THE SUN LIFE ASSURANCE CO.

We publish in this issue the report of the annual meeting of the shareholders of the Sun Life Assurance Company, which is most interesting reading to those who take an interest in life assurance conducted on a stable and safe basis. The report shows a condition of thrift and progress, indicative of the application of sound principles to the management of its business, and careful guardianship of, at once, the interests of the public and the shareholders. This success and this progress had not been achieved independently of a course that commanded the public confidence. A perusal of the report shows that during 1889 there were received 2,755 applications for life insurance, and 1,363 in the accident branch. The applications granted in both departments reached the handsome total of $6,523,010.00. The company's income is $563,140, while the assets amount to $2,233,322.72, and the president's report mentions a fact that adds to the significance of these figures—namely, that the quality of these assets is very high. Another fact, indicating commendable care in the selection of risks, is that the death claims fell far short of the estimate.

A feature that possesses particular interest to the policy holders is the steady improvement of the Sun Company in profit-earning power. The profits, it is well known, are distributed amongst policy holders every five years. The net surplus for the five years, closing with the fiscal year of 1881, was $824,824.07, and for the three year ending with '89, over twice as much, namely $156,536 64. All these considerations combined, constitute a strong appeal to the confidence of the insuring public, and that portion of it in the Peterborough district will suffer no diminution of confidence from the knowledge that the affairs of the Company will receive ample justice from the able and attentive management of Mr. W. H. Hill district agent and his efficient staff of assistants.

A Prosperous Institution.

Annual Report of the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada.

The annual meeting of the Sun Life Assurance company was held at the company's office, St. James street, Montreal, on Friday 7th inst. Mr. Robertson Macaulay, president, occupied the chair. The attendance was large and the meeting enthusiastic.

The following highly satisfactory report was presented.

The Directors have pleasure in presenting their Report of the transactions of the Company for the past year. An examination of the accompanying statements of accounts will show that the progress made has been rapid, solid and in every way satisfactory.

During the year we received 2,755 applications for life assurance, amounting to $4,102,710.55. Of these 2,504, for $3,732,331.15 were accepted, and policies issued thereon, the balance being declined or withdrawn. The total $706,226.99 in advance of the previous year, and the passing of the four million line marks another mile post in the Company's history.

In the accident department the applications were 1,363, for $2,420,300.00 and the policies issued 1,347, to $2,376,300.00. The combined applications of the two branches thus reached the handsome total of $6,523,010.55.

The assurances in force at the close of the year were as follows:—

Life	8,951	$13,347,983 08
Accident	7,064	3,820,400 00
Total	11,015	$17,161,383 08

The financial position of the Company is very gratifying. The income has increased until it now amounts to $563,140 52, or nearly $2,000 for every working day in the year. The death claims which fell in were $5,538 40 less than in 1888, although in actual cases they should have increased. An additions of more than a quarter of a million has been made to the assets, bringing their total up to $2,233,322.72. The cash surplus has also advanced to $219,036.64 or $156,530 64 beyond all liabilities and capital stock. And last, but by no means least, is the fact which does not show on the surface, but to which we can testify, that the quality of the assets is exceptionally high. In view of this prosperous condition of affairs, there is no risk in predicting that the surplus to divide among Policy-holders at the end of the present quinquennium will be large and satisfactory.

The premises which the Company has occupied since its foundation being now entirely insufficient for the requirements of our rapidly extending business, we some months ago purchased the property on the corners of Notre Dame, St. Alexis and Hospital streets. On this it is proposed to erect a building which will be a Home Office worthy of the Company, and will provide the additional accommodation which is now a necessity. The site is very central and unusually well lighted, and as it was obtained at a low price, it is expected to prove a good investment.

It is with the deepest regret that we have to chronicle the death of our late President, Mr. Thomas Workman. The loss to the company was a very heavy, while each of the directors has lost in him a warm personal friend. Mr. Workman has been President of the company since its inception. He took a deep interest in everything which affected it, and was proud of its prosperity. There can be no doubt but that the wide-spread influence of its name and character contributed in no small measure to its success. In view of the parliamentary and other engagements of the Vice President, Hon. A. W. Ogilvie, the Board, on the motion of Mr. Ogilvie, unanimously elected Mr Robertson Macaulay, the Managing Director, to the vacant Presidency. Mr. James P. Cleghorn, President of the Board of Trade, and the acting partner of the wholesale firm of J. G. MacKenzie & Co., has been appointed to the directorate in Mr. Workman's place. The Actuary, Mr. T. B. Macaulay, has also been appointed Secretary.

The directors who retire this year are:—Messrs A. Macpherson, James Tasker and M. McKenzie, who are all eligible for re-election. Mr. Cleghorn's name also comes up for confirmation.

The undersigned Committee of Directors appointed by the Board to examine the Mortgages, Debentures, and other Securities held by the Company, beg to report that we have done so very carefully in detail, and that we have found everything correct and in the most perfect order and in exact accordance with the foregoing statement of accounts.

W. J. WITHALL
JAMES TASKER,
A. MACPHERSON,
M. MCKENZIE,
} Directors.

Montreal, February 6 1890

To the President and Directors of the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada:

GENTLEMEN,—We have much pleasure in reporting that we have audited the accounts of your Company for the year ending 31st December, 1889, and have certified the various statements and accounts as above.

We have verified the receipts of Revenue from the various sources as far as possible, and are satisfied that the same have been fully accounted for. The Disbursements are also fully sustained by vouchers.

As in past years, we have procured acknowledgments from parties that have received money on Mortgages on Real Estate, admitting the correctness of the amounts at their debit in the Company's books on the 31st December, 1889. Respectfully submitted.

P. S. ROSS & SONS,
Chartered Accountants, Auditors,
Montreal, 3rd March, 1890.

Many gentlemen expressed their great pleasure at the very prosperous condition of affairs which this report indicates. The unconditional policy of the Company, and its honorable and liberal treatment of the policy holders have been, undoubtedly, the chief factors in bringing about its success and popularity. The rapidity of the growth may be judged from the fact that the yearly income is now about twelve times as large as it was in 1872, and more than double what it was even as late as 1884. The increase in the assets during the one year 1889 is as large as the total income of the year 1884 which had been accumulated during the previous fourteen years. And while the progress has been very marked as regards size, the improvement as regards profit earning power has been even more noticeable.

The surplus is distributed among the policy holders every five years, and the amount divided, at the end of the two last quinquennials was as follows:—

Net surplus 31st December, 1881 (five years)	$ 64,824 07
Net surplus 31st December, 1886 (five years)	94,452 97
Net surplus 31st December, 1889 (three years)	156,536 64

The profit accumulated during the last three years alone is thus greatly in excess of the corresponding amount earned during any previous term of five years. There is no doubt, therefore, but that the policy holders will be more than satisfied with the results of the next division.

The following shows the increase in some of the features of the business of last years:

	Income.	Assets	Life Assurances in force
1872	$48,210 91	$ 96,451 95	$1,054,350 00
1876	106,822 14	715,944 64	2,211,863 00
1880	141 502 31	914 33 23	3 281 4 9 14
1884	278 379 55	1 274,397 24	5,841,0.0 04
1888	5.5,.74 38	1 974 316 21	11,931,316 21
1889	563 140 53	2,4 3 322 72	13,337,383 08

An "Englishtown" Auction.

This morning there was great excitement in "Englishtown." Two neighbours got into a controversy over the weather, one saying that we had had Indian summer—the other saying it was yet to come. They came, at length, to blows, and were damaging each other badly when their respective wives took a hand in and settled the row. But that was not the best of it. When peace was restored, they all agreed that hawley bros.'s teas were the best and cheapest in town, like their coffees and glassware. dw

Purify The importance of having pure blood cannot be too widely known, and yet there are very few people who have perfectly pure blood. The taint of scrofula, salt rheum, or other foul humor is hereditary and transmitted for generations, causing untold suffering, and we also accumulate poison and germs of disease from the air we breathe, the food we eat, the water we drink, nothing is more conclusively proven than the positive power of Hood's Sarsaparilla over all diseases of the blood. This medicine, when fairly tried, does expel every trace of scrofula or salt rheum, removes the taint which causes catarrh, neutralizes the acidity and cures rheumatism, drives out the germs of malaria, blood poisoning, etc. It also vitalizes and enriches the blood, thus overcoming that tired feeling, and building up the whole system. Thousands testify to the superiority of Hood's Sarsaparilla as a blood purifier. Full information and statements of cures sent free.

100 MEN WANTED.

I want one hundred persons, male or female, each to buy a piece of property from me during the next few days.

Rich men are advancing the prices of their property from 10 to 50 per cent., but poor men cannot afford to hold, and have to sell even at a loss. Their loss will be your gain, and now is your time to make money.

A hundred dollars in a Saving Bank will return you four dollars in a year. The same amount invested in properties which I have for sale, I am confident will yield in the same time from 25 to 50 per cent., and you must know that there is no safer investment in a rising town like Peterborough.

Reader I know you cannot but feel that Peterborough is destined to be a large city and that property must advance in price, then why do you hesitate in buying? Hesitate no longer. Come in and invest $25 or $50 and I feel safe in saying that I will double it for you within one year. Are you too honest to make money so fast. Come in and investigate. I want you to understand what I have to sell and that it is to your interest to buy. I will be in my office to meet you any time you name to 9 p.m.

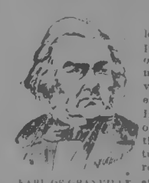
PEERS IN PARLIAMENT.

JUSTIN McCARTHY'S OPINION OF BRITAIN'S LORDLY LEADERS.

Lord Granville, the Leader of the Liberal Party—The Duke of Argyle a Great Academic Orator—The Earls of Rosebery and Lytton.



EARL OF GRANVILLE.

Lord Granville, the leader of the Liberal party in the House of Lords, is in manner and person the very type of a Liberal leader of the House of Lords. He ought to belong to the eighteenth century, and to have represented England at the court of Versailles in that century.

He is, writes Justin McCarthy in Youth's Companion, the most genial, the most graceful, the most delightful old gentleman it is possible to imagine. No, I will not call him old; he could not be old; there is nothing of age about him but years and, what some one has happily called, "a genteel deafness."

He was born in 1815, a month before the battle of Waterloo. Therefore he is now seventy-four years old; but what does that matter? He still retains all the freshness and grace of youth—that is, of elderly youth.

He is, for a man doomed to the House of Lords, an ideal debater. He never speaks at too great length, he never misses a point, he always introduces some humorous anecdote or witty illustration for all his graciousness and his blandness he can give a sharp cut now and again, that reminds one of a sudden blood-drawing stroke from the paw of a cat who, up to that moment, had seemed the gentlest and most harmless of creatures.

He never even attempts rhetorical eloquence, but his style of speaking is pure, forcible and graceful. He is one of the few Englishmen who can speak French like a Parisian, and, indeed, there is much about him that reminds one of an accomplished French Duc or Marquis in the dead days of the old noblesse.

Lord Granville ought to have been Prime Minister of England some time or other. Twice he was offered the chance; each time he declined for reasons most honorable to himself.

Now I suppose Lord Granville will never be at the head of an English Government. I am sorry for it. I think it is a pity he should not have held that commanding position.

He is not a man of genius, he is not an orator; he is not exactly a wit; but he has a great deal of talent, a good deal of a certain kind of eloquence, and a good deal of wit and humor. As a professional romancist, I am bound to call Lord ——— be imaginative; but I have not imaginative power enough in me to imagine the possibility that Lord Granville might some time do an ungraceful or an ungentlemanly act.

In a speech he once introduced a pretty and fanciful conceit, which he modestly said was taken from some French author, but which certainly gave a charming illustration of his own life and his own type of character.

Describing his past career, he said that in his early day he was, when he entered the House of Commons, the youngest member there; then when in consequence of his father's death he was transferred to the House of Lords, he was the youngest member there.

"And in fact," he added—and here came in the pretty little conceit—"no one ever was so young as I was then." The words were spoken with a dash of tenderness and melancholy in their humor that made them very touching.

The greatest academic orator in the House of Lords is the Duke of Argyll. His elaborately prepared discourses always draw an audience. I have heard it said by an eminent public man, who is very familiar with the French ways of thought, that a member of the French Academy would be sure to think the Duke of Argyll the finest speaker in either House of Parliament.

DUKE OF ARGYLL.

I think the idea was just. The Duke of Argyle is an orator after the heart of an academician. The matter of each speech is admirably composed. The arrangement, the "lucid order," to cite a classic phrase, of the arguments compel admiration. The words are well chosen; the delivery is very effective, although of the pompous kind, which a true academician ought to love. The self conceit that shines through every sentence is decidedly imposing. A new listener is overborne by the Duke of Argyll's stupendous self-conceit. Of course this feeling does not last—I have long got over it myself. I have been listening to the Duke of Argyll's speeches off and on for nearly twenty years, and the Duke's own admiration of himself no longer affects me in the least.

I like very much to hear him speak, and I am always ready to encounter the two minutes' walk from the House of Commons to the House of Lords whenever I hear that the Duke is going to deliver an oration.

But I know that he is not an orator, that he is not a statesman, that he is not a man of genius, that he has not in him one spark of celestial fire of any kind. If he had not been born a nobleman he probably would have made a successful, fashionable and very pedantic schoolmaster.

Lord Rosebery speaks with great eloquence and great humor; his speeches are full of fire, he has courage and force of character, he has rank and his wife has fortune—she is a daughter of the house of Rothschild; he has charming manners and every body likes him.

He is just the man who might properly aspire to be a Liberal Prime Minister of England. It is quite possible that he may hold that position yet; but if he does, it will be only in a sensational sort of way.

A real Prime Minister of England cannot any more be in the House of Lords. The House of Lords is too far away from the actual field of strife; it has too little influence on the fortunes of a political cause or a political party. No matter how capable the man in the House of Lords, it is on some man in the House of Commons that success will depend.

Therefore I am afraid the great and genuine capacity of Lord Rosebery will never have a fair field on which to display itself. He is only forty-one, which in England we consider youthful for a statesman, and he might have such a career before him if he were only in the House of Commons.

I certainly do not regard Lord Tennyson as a leader of the House of Lords. The post has never, I believe, opened his mouth in the august assembly of which he is assuredly one of the most distinguished members. Lord Tennyson is, I think, the only professional author in the House of Lords, for I hardly look on Lord Lytton as anything more than an amateur.

EARL OF ROSEBERY.

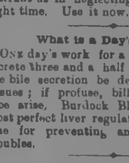
I do not know whether or not Lord Lytton ought to be called a leader in the House of Lords. He does not have much to do with that assembly. He was Viceroy of India, he is British Ambassador at Paris. He has written some charming verse, a great many verses that are very poor, and a novel.

He has made some elaborate speeches in the House of Lords; he is very winning and persuasive in manner, and those who know him intimately feast that he has splendid statesmanlike powers, which one day will come out and proclaim themselves.

Well, it is about time they were coming out and proclaiming themselves. Lord Lytton is fifty-seven years old. The statesmanlike powers ought to be "hurrying up," or they will run the risk of not showing themselves in time to get recognized.

There is a very considerable number of lawyers in the House, most of them men who have held the office of Lord Chancellor. When a man is made Lord Chancellor he is invariably raised to the Peerage. Perhaps a year or two after he enters the House of Lords his party is turned out of office, and he ceases to be Lord Chancellor; but he remains a member of the House of Lords all the same, and thus the House is constantly receiving little reinforcements of lawyers.

Eminent lawyers who have not held the position of Lord Chancellor are not uncommonly made peers, as, for example, Lord Coleridge.



EARL OF LYTTON.

There is a fair sprinkling of military and naval officers in the House. Then there are the Princes: The Prince of Wales, the Duke of Edinburgh, the Duke of Cambridge and the rest. The parliamentary achievements of the Prince of Wales are, I believe, limited to the presentation of a petition in favor of the repeal of the law which prohibits marriage with a deceased wife's sister.

The Prince of Wales and the other Princes sit on what are called the "cross-benches"—two or three rows of benches facing the woolsack and the Lord Chancellor. The ordinary benches, like those of the House of Commons, stretch along each side of the chamber. The cross-benches are supposed to be occupied by peers who maintain a general neutrality as regards political partisanship.

The Duke of Cambridge speaks pretty often on military subjects, and speaks in a bluff, straightforward, soldierly sort of way. The Duke has a habit of expressing aloud the thoughts or notions, or whatever there may be, which are passing in his mind at a time when he is supposed to be silent. Those who sit near him are often amused or amazed when they hear the Duke's opinion frankly expressed with regard to the general character or the personal appearance of some noble lord who sits near by.

The House of Lords contains one member who is unquestionably insane, or who, at all events, has many moments of insanity, and it is a pity that it should be so, for he is a kindly, well meaning and well-read man.

Lately taking offense at something another Peer had said in the House, he publicly invited the supposed offender to cross over to France with him and fight a duel. This bold challenger is more than eighty year old!

Finally, the House of Lords has two or three members who are never likely to attend the sittings, because no one in the House would speak to them or sit near them, if they were to attend. Indeed the House of Lords has lately been considering the expediency of introducing some legislation which should give the hereditary chamber the right to purify itself now and then by the expulsion of members who have made them a disgrace to the assembly.

ONE day's work for a healthy liver is to secrete three and a half pounds of bile. If the bile secretion be deficient, constipation ensues; if profuse, billiousness and jaundice arise. ON SOAP,

IN RELATION TO THE COMPLEXION.

FROM AN ARTICLE BY

Dr. ANDREW WILSON, F.R.S.E.,

Lecturer on Health under the "Combe Trust;"
Lecturer on Physiology at the Edinburgh University;
Editor of "Health."

"One important caution should be given, and that is concerning the use of soaps. I would strongly advise all who care for their skin to eschew the use of common soap, which simply roughens and injures the skin, and, if you will be advised by me, I would say never buy those artificially coloured and odoriferous abominations commonly sold under the name of 'Scented' or 'Fancy Soaps' which are the frequent causes of skin eruptions. If I am prepared to recommend any one soap to you, as a satisfactory and scientifically prepared article, I would certainly advise you to buy and use 'Pears' Soap.' Not merely from personal use can I recommend this soap, but I am well content to shelter myself under the names and authority of the late Sir Erasmus Wilson, F.R.S., President of the Royal College of Surgeons; of Doctor Stevenson Macadam, or of Professors Redwood and Attfield, the eminent analytical and chemical lecturers at the Pharmaceutical Society of Great Britain, who testify to its entire purity. Furthermore, I believe it to be very economical, for it contains no free water, and in this respect differs from all other soaps; hence a cake of 'Pears' is really all soap and not soap and water. I know cases of irritable skin which the whole tribe of much-vaunted 'Fancy Soaps' failed to allay, but which disappeared under the use of Pears' Soap, and for the nursery and for the delicate skin of infancy no better or more soothing soap can possibly be used. There can be no doubt that in respect of the care of children, attention to the skin is specially required. If common soaps are irritating to the skin of the adult, (as they unquestionably are), they are doubly and trebly injurious to the delicate skin of the infant and young child. I can vouch that the soap I am recommending is not merely a safe but an advantageous one. It does not irritate the skin; but, while serving as a detergent and cleanser, also acts as an emollient."

A High Death Rate

According to the registrations of births, marriages and deaths at the Town Clerk's office last month, the mortuary returns are abnormally high. There were registered 21 births, 10 marriages and 20 deaths—the highest number of deaths ever registered in a single month in Peterborough. It is difficult to account for this remarkable increase. There has been no epidemic in the town, and the weather has not been especially unfavorable. A glance at the causes of death will show that a variety of diseases have been at work. Of the twenty who died in Peterborough last month, 10 were infants under six months. Bronchitis claimed 3 victims, general debility 2, still born 2, typhoid 1, convulsions 1, drowned 1, found dead 1, heart disease 1, inflammation of bowels 1, cancer 1, pneumonia 1, malarial fever 1 and inanition 1.

Report From the Chase.

Mr. H. L. Otton who has been out in the northern wilds with the Winch hunting party, returned home last night for business reasons. He reports that up to last night the party, (which will return to-night) have had good success, six deer having been bagged, (not counting the results of to-night's run) including several fine ones and a large number of partridges etc. There was some splendid fishing. To Mr. W. Crane, of Erie, Pa., who was of the party, this trip was his first experience of Canadian sport, and he is delighted with it, which is not to be wondered at, for he had the pleasure and honour of bringing down two deer—one a magnificent buck. He was also a most favourable opinion of the Connaught and their good fellowship of Canadian sportsmen. It would not be surprising to see Mr. Crane become a naturalized Canadian, unless the contskerous McKinley places a prohibitory export duty on such jolly good fellows as Mr. Crane, for the sake of keeping them in the country.

St. John's Anniversary.

To-day is the anniversary of the re-opening of St. John's church, and the event will be commemorated in a fitting manner tomorrow. The services—at 8 30 a.m. 11 a.m and 7 p.m.—will be marked by no special musical features, indeed, the music at the evening service will be of the simplest character possible, in order to give the congregation an opportunity to join in heartily. The sermon will be specially addressed to young men, for whom the middle rows of seats in the church will be reserved. This service is under the auspices of the St. Andrew's Brotherhood, and a large turn out is expected. The preacher for the day will be Rev. Allan A. Pitman, of St. George's church, Toronto. Rev. Mr. Pitman resigned an important position in England at the call of his Bishop for work in the Canadian church, and has already done striking service in Toronto, his unique style of oratory and his devotion, having attracted and impressed large numbers of persons and professional men in Toronto. As one who is thoroughly acquainted with the phases and needs of men's life he has special qualifications for the work in which he has been so successful.

President of the Curlers.

The Globe to-day publishes a brief biographical notice of Dr. Boucher, of Peterborough, President of the Ontario Curling Club, accompanied by a portrait. The Globe says:

Dr. R. P. Boucher, who was elected president of the Ontario Branch of the Royal Caledonian Curling Club at the semi-annual meeting in this city last week, has long been well-known in connection with the king of winter games. He is a member of the Peterborough club, and has for many years been the representative of that club in the deliberations of the organization whose chief office he now fills. For the past two years he has been a vice-president of the branch, and his fellow-curlers have every reason to believe that the affairs of his present high office will receive the attention their importance deserves.

A Sad Case.

At the police court this morning a girl 18 years of age named Martha Johnston was remanded to gaol till Wednesday on a charge of vagrancy. The girl's story is a sad though oft-repeated one. She lived until five months ago with her father in Galway township, J. K. Johnston. She became acquainted with a young man named Geo. Kimble of that township, with whom she became improperly intimate. To hide her shame she came to Peterborough, and got work in a hotel, but the evidences of her sin became apparent, and she was given to understand that she could not remain in her position. Having no friends or place of refuge she applied to the police for committal to the county gaol, where she might be cared for during the period of maternity. The magistrate remanded her until Wednesday. He did not feel like imposing a burden of charity upon the county which rightly belonged to the township of Galway and sent her up for a few days until steps could be taken to have her properly looked after.

Hallow E'en.

How the Boys and Girls Enjoyed Themselves—Youthful Pranks.

Friday night was the boys' night out. They gathered in groups on shady street corners, put their heads close together and conversed in low tones with many a quick backward glance over their shoulders as if they expected to see the burly form of a policeman looming up in the distance; then with an air of profound mystery and sort of Jesse James bravado they sneak stealthily down the dark street with many a suppressed chuckle of delight in anticipation of the fun ahead of them. Then a loud bump is heard, followed by the rattle of pans against doors and windows, then a series of wild yells and whoops and the scurrying of feet over the sidewalk as the boys run away and laugh at the enraged landlord who emerges in haste from his castle to repel the invaders and in the darkness kicks his shins against the hall stove and pinches his finger in the door.

The boys were pretty quiet during the night. A few gates and signs took legs unto themselves and wandered into divers out of the way places, stray waggons left the yards and ran out into the ditch of their own accord, and pumpkins and turnips dislodged themselves from their earthy attainments and hurried gleefully forth to join in the gaiety. The inevitable pea shooter was also on deck, and in the hands of the small boy became a weapon of dread to nervous people. Masks and false faces surrounded by youthful grins and strange noises were grunted and squealed forth in imitation of some nameless monster which had been conjured up in the boys' mind. Boys exchanged clothes with the girls, and then they played tricks on their parents; bewildering the good people with their strange appearance and still more strange conduct.

Inside the home, there were taffy-pulls, games, suppers and all sorts of "going-on" appropriate to the occasion, while the old folks sat around the fire and recalled reminiscences of active by-gone days, when every Hallowe'en they had "larks as was larks," compared to which the customary celebrations of the present time were tame and uninteresting.

The policeman's solitary beat was not much disturbed by the youthful pranks which have of late years been wisely discarded by the rising or more sensible generation. The mischievous proclivities inherent in youth must find an outlet, however, and sometimes the boys are not particular as to the means they adopt to make "fun." When they do actual damage it is time to call a halt. For instance, a window in a new house being built on the corner of Dalhousie and Rubidge streets by Mr. VanEvery was added with stones last night. Such conduct is most reprehensible, and Mr. VanEvery would willingly part with $5 to learn the offenders' names. They would be severely punished, as they deserve to be.

A more harmless and amusing incident occurred on Hunter street. A young woman was entertaining a party of friends, when some mischief makers secured by fastening the door from the outside with screws and bolts. Had there not been an unusually athletic young man in the party, who climbed out of the window, and worked his way along the wall to the door by means of the verandah railing, the party would still probably be enjoying itself inside.

The Ashburnham "boys," with no fear of a summons to appear before the magistrate upon their tricks unmasked, the Fall's home-stead has much of its original sweetness and its beauty was considerably marred by a shower of tired hen-fruit. Mistress Farley was compelled to stand guard the greater part of the night to prevent the boys from carrying their depredations further. At the bridge a buggy was left with the half of it dangling over the water, Gates took summary vengeance and other antics were acted by the boys unmolested. Parties returning from "hoe-downs," held in or near the village, during the wee sma' hours of the morning, held high carnival on the principal street, and awoke the residents with their shouting.

High Court of Justice.

Conclusion of the Fall Assizes—Only Three Cases Come to Trial.

Of the ten cases entered at the Assize Court only three came to trial, the remainder being settled out of court or consent judgment passed. The court was concluded before noon to-day.

HALL VS. GOODWIN.—In this case W. H. Hall brings action to recover $1,500 damages for the closing of his sawmill at Bookhorn. In the year 1886 87 Geo. Goodwin, of Ottawa, the defendant, was the Government contractor for the building of the locks at Lovesick, and during those years Mr. Hall's mills were closed down for a considerable time by orders of the Trent Valley Canal engineers to facilitate the construction of the locks. At the conclusion of the evidence judgment was delivered for defendant on the ground that Mr. Goodwin was not liable to Mr. Hall for damages, the orders for the closing down of the mills having been given by the Government engineer in charge of the Trent Valley Canal, and the plaintiff not considering, on his own admission, Goodwin personally liable therefor. Ponsette & Johnston, for plaintiff; A. Ferguson, Q.C., Ottawa, for defendant.

AN ASSAULT CASE.

W. A. Fobert, (son of L. G. Fobert, Bridgenorth) brought an action claiming $1.000 damages for assault from R. J. McKelvey, Asa. Austin, Norman Goodman, Wm. Eastman and Jas. Morrow. It seems that about the middle of March last, W. A. Fobert was sent to take possession of the hotel owned by R. J. McKelvey, in Minden, on which a chattel mortgage was held by Messrs. Elliott & Tierney and H. Calcutt. Fobert's instructions were to allow McKelvey to still manage the business while he (Fobert) was in possession of the premises. On the evening of March 25th McKelvey bought Fobert was too officious about the place, and they had an altercation, which resulted in the two men clenching. A crowd of men and boys came in so "see the fun," and Fobert ran through the open door into the middle of the street, where he was set upon by a number of men and badly beaten—his eyes blackened, and, as the claim reads, "he was assaulted and beaten and so much bruised about the head and face that he was rendered unfit for several days to attend to his business." The plaintiff alleged he recognized the defendants, Austin, Goodman, Eastman and Morrow, as well as McKelvey, as being among his assailants. Defendants denied the assault—Goodman said he was not present, and the others denied having assaulted and beaten him, as alleged.

Jury brought in a verdict allowing $1 damages against the defendant McKelvey, and no judgment against the others. His Lordship directed that the plaintiff recover Division Court costs as against McKelvey, and that the defendant McKelvey have a right to set off Superior Court costs against the plaintiff; and that the other defendants be entitled to recover their costs against the plaintiff.

Dumble & Leonard for plaintiff; J. A. Barron and Stratton & Hall for defendants.

FOBERT VS. MORTIMER.—This case depended largely upon that of Fobert vs. McKelvey, though the assault alleged was committed the day following, March 26th. Judgment was entered by consent for one shilling damages, each party to pay his own costs.

LUNDY VS. MOHER was settled out of court.

EVENSMORE VS FLOOD.—This was an action brought by the township of Evensmore against Mr. John Flood, the owner of the south halves of lots 6 and 7, Con. 9 Evensmore, for obstructing the concession road between concessions 8 and 9, and also for obstructing the communication road as it runs across concession 9 between lots 5 and 6. The township asked for a mandamus or order compelling Mr. Flood to remove his fences and all stones and obstructions on these roads.

Judgment by consent was entered for the township and a mandamus granted ordering the removal of the obstructions; no proceedings to be taken on such judgment until after the 20 h November. Stratton & Hall for plaintiffs; John Barnham, Q.C., for defendants.

Obituary.

The Late John Sullivan.

This (Saturday) morning one of the oldest, perhaps the very oldest, settlers in the county of Peterborough passed away in the person of Mr John Sullivan, who died at his residence, "Poplar Grove," at the ripe old age of 77 years. He had been in his usual vigorous health up to within a fortnight, when he was attacked with inflammation, from the effects of which he died this morning. The deceased gentleman was a native of County Tipperary, Ireland, and in the year 1834. He came to Canada with his father's family in 1825 when the present site of the town of Peterborough was inhabited by only one family, that of Adam Scott, and settled in the township of Douro, of which he has been a continuous resident for 66 years, living most of the time upon the farm upon which he died. The late Mr. Sullivan was a most enthusiastic and successful farmer and achieved great success in that occupation. He practised mixed farming—grain, horses and hogs, and with marked success. He died possessed of a large property, amassed by intelligent industry. Mr. Sullivan was an earnest patron of agricultural exhibitions, having been from time to time a director of the local society, and having been a very successful competitor and large prize-winner at the several exhibitions in the county. He attended to his business in person till within the last seven years, when he retired from active work and passed the sunset of his days in the peaceful enjoyments of the fruits of his labours. In 1839 Mr. Sullivan was united in marriage to Miss Joanna Daly, who bore him a family of nine children, all of whom are living, except one, and comfortably settled in life and enjoying the benefits of their beloved father's industry and prudence. Mr Sullivan was in no sense a public man; he sedulously attended to the duties of his calling. He could recount many striking incidents of the toils and hardships incident to the early years of his life in Douro. As an example, it may be mentioned that he made the journey to Toronto on foot for seven years in succession to make payments on the purchase price of his farm. In politics, he was a most staunch Liberal, never once swerving or wavering in his allegiance to Liberal principles during the more than half century he enjoyed the franchise. He had the honour of casting the first Liberal vote in the township of Douro—at a time when a man ran considerable risk of physical injury in casting his vote on the side of Liberalism. In this first occasion his vote was cast for Dr. Guichrist. Though then in such decided minority, Mr. Sullivan lived to see the day when the overwhelming majority of this township was in favour of Liberal principles. Mr. Sullivan was a member of St. Joseph's R.C. Church, Douro, and assisted in drawing the timber for the erection of the old church. He was a kind and obliging neighbour, a thoroughly good citizen, and lived and died in the enjoyment of the high respect and esteem of the whole community.

To-day (Saturday) Mr. Robert Walton came to town to meet a consignment of two thoroughbred pedigreed "Yorkshire White" pigs, purchased from E. D. George, Putnam, Middlesex county. While in town he also made arrangements for shipping to Mrs. St. George, Furness Falls station of Irondale, Bancroft and Ottawa Railway, a highly bred Jersey bull calf.

Harvey.

A Thriving "Olive Branch."

Mr. William Curtin, of lot 10 in the 16th concession of Harvey, is the proud possessor of an infant which was six months old on Oct. 28th, and at that time weighed 28 lbs. and 3 oz. It seems quite unnecessary to place a township that can produce bouncing babies like that, in the free grant list in order to induce settlement.

WITH A DEAFENING REPORT.

Terrific Boiler Explosion at Belwood—Much Damage Occasioned.

FERGUS, Oct. 31.—The demo of the boiler in connection with Hugh McDonald's sash factory at Belwood was blown off yesterday. The roof of the engine and boiler house got a complete scattering, and the smokestack was also blown down. A piece of the boiler about 100 pounds in weight was seen whizzing through the air, and in lighting crashed through the roof of James Forster's residence. Smaller pieces, including the whistle, were thrown in different directions. Boards from the roof of the engine-house were blown as far as the Town Hall, 150 yards from the scene of the explosion.

The new business of the SUN LIFE was the largest ever secured in the Company's history and was equalled by but one Canadian life company. The surplus accumulated during the THREE years of the current quinquennium far exceeds the amount earned during any previous FIVE years, and the profits to Policy-holders cannot fail to be highly satisfactory. The prosperity of the Sun Life is no doubt largely due to its liberal unconditional policies and paying its claims promptly. Canadians should also remember that by patronizing a Home Institution, which invests all its funds in the Dominion, they are benefitting themselves by reducing the rate of interest here, and are helping to build up our own cities rather than those of foreign states.

ONLY 11 DAYS TO LIVE.

DEATH HAS NO TERRORS FOR MURDERER BIRCHALL.

How He Spends His Time in Jail—A Fondness for Canned Peaches—No Further Communication with Newspapers to be Allowed.

TORONTO, Nov. 2.—The latest theory in connection with the Benwell murder comes from Dr Richardson, the well-known Professor of Anatomy in the University of Toronto and one of the witnesses for the defence in the Benwell murder trial. The Doctor said he had been going over all the evidence in the case very thoroughly and had come to the conclusion that Benwell had been stunned before he was shot. It will be remembered that the doctors who made the post-mortem testified at the inquest that they found the external gun shot wound but no other external bruise, however, when they opened the skull at the top of the head they found on the inner side of the skull bones signs of a bruise and all the tissues below it torn. Such an internal wound without external appearances could only have been made by a heavy blow with a stick or, still more likely, a sandbag, which gives such a wound The Doctor is now convinced that Birchall first stunned Benwell and then shot him after he had fallen down. This theory, says Dr. Richardson, is the only one to account for the fact that the two bullets were put into the one hole. This would have been impossible if the victim had not been lying on his face on the ground, for if he had been walking and shot from behind he would certainly have immediately fallen forward and the second bullet would have hit in some other quarter.

If the theory is correct it completely upsets the Colonel's story that he shot him as he was walking along, for no marksman however expert could achieve the feat of putting two bullets into the same wound in a walking or falling body.

The wound on the inside of the skull, Dr. Richardson says, could not have been caused by the man falling. It was the result of a direct blow and must have had the effect of stunning Benwell.

HOW BIRCHALL SPENDS HIS TIME

Jail Life of the Man Who Has But Two Weeks to Live.

Woodstock, Nov. 2.—Birchall has now but 11 clear days to live unless the Government interferes, of which there is little probability. Until the order from the Attorney-General that no further, manuscript from the prisoner to a newspaper would be allowed his daily routine was as follows:

He retires about 5 o'clock every morning and sleeps until noon. Then he rises, dresses himself with great care, takes a turn up and down the corridor to increase his circulation, drinks a glass of water and about 1 o'clock eats his breakfast. The meal consists of oatmeal porridge, followed by sausages, canned salmon or chicken, potatoes and a cup of coffee. He then takes a few turns up and down the corridor, and reads the morning papers. Then his correspondence is handed to him by Jailer Cameron, who first examines it to see that everything is all right. Birchall spends an hour or so over the correspondence, which is very voluminous, and has many a hearty laugh over the ravings of some cranks who are constantly writing to him. At 6 o'clock he dines on beef-teak or pork-chop, omelet or poached eggs, with vegetables, tea and dessert of canned fruit, principally peaches, of which he is very fond. He then smokes another cigar, chats with the guard and Turnkey Forbes until about 10 o'clock. Then he puts himself together and starts to work on his autobiography. He writes and sketches steadily through the night until between 4 and 5 in the morning. He turns out from 10 to 15 pages of closely written foolscap during this time. He writes slowly and with great care. He then retires and sleeps until the noon-day bells arouse him. Such is the manner in which he spends his time. He is in the best of health, sleeps well, and has a first-class appetite. He has no hope that his sentence will be commuted.

The Colonel Fake Again.

JACKSON, Mich., Nov. 2.—Several people here claim to recognize one James Graham as the "Colonel" who wrote the letter to Birchall, the Woodstock murderer. The "Colonel," or Graham, registered at the Hurd House Oct. 7 with his wife from Toronto, Ont. He only remained one night there and then went to a boarding house, where the couple remained some days. They departed as quietly as they came. The "Colonel" spoke in a decided English accent and was over-dressed. He was quite thick set and about 50 years old.

New York, Nov. 3.—The mystery of who was "The Colonel" in the Birchall case and what was his connection with the murder of Benwell was yesterday cleared up by your correspondent, who had a long talk with Col. J. F. Lewis of No. 11 Wall-street. He knows Birchall, but has hitherto kept his name out of the affair.

Col. Lewis has an office at No. 11 Wall-street. He is engaged in building waterworks and similar undertakings. He employs British capital, and his business takes him to England from time to time. It was upon one of these trips that he met Birchall. But from a desire to avoid publicity he would have exploited the latter's theory long ago. When a reporter met "the Colonel" yesterday he said: "I want to put a stop to all this mystery once for all. I went to Europe with my family in the Lahn and arrived in London on the 1st or January of this year, and went to Morlet's Hotel in Trafalgar-square, where I stop, until the 8th of January. Birchall and his wife arrived at Morlet's some time after I had been there, and he stayed there perhaps a week or a little longer. I believe I met him accidentally in the smoking-room, where we had a conversation. He impressed me as a devil-may-care sort of a man about town. He told me casually that he had been in Canada. I found that he was a son-in-law of Traffic Manager Stephenson of the London & Northwestern Railway, and met his wife, Stephenson's daughter. She impressed me as a refined and cultivated Englishwoman, but seemed to be worried and anxious about something.

"How about the baggage Birchall left with us?

"It was hardly deserving the name of baggage, said Col. Lewis, "as it was only a small hand satchel which he had left in my room, saying he would send for it. I turned it over to the proprietor of the hotel. I know nothing about him further than any casual acquaintance of a week might know. I never saw him before or since, and am very much annoyed by the way he has been using my name. That letter from Jackson, Mich., signed 'the Colonel,' is evidently intended to mystify the case. Birchall probably wrote it and smuggled it out of the jail. There was never any talk between Birchall and myself about mutual business interests in any scheme."

Attempted Suicide.

BROCKVILLE, Oct. 31.—Peter Steep became insane in a camp near Madawaska River. He jumped into a river, was nearly drowned and much injured. Over $100 was found on his person, which was taken charge of by the authorities until the man recovers or some legal representative takes possession of it. Steep is a resident of the township of Sebastopol, where he is the owner of a couple of farms.

Of the 500 persons lost on the Ertougroul the bodies of 250 have been washed ashore.

Lifeboat Man Drowned

BERLIN, Nov. 2.—Eleven German lifeboat men were drowned to-day while trying to rescue the crew of the British vessel Erik Berendsen, which was wrecked off Slesvig. Only one of the vessel's crew was saved.

THE LIBERAL UNIONISTS.

Lord Hartington Urges the Party to Define an Irish Policy.

EDINBURGH, Nov. 2.—A meeting of Liberal Unionists was held here yesterday. Lord Hartington delivered an address, in which he said that the results of the recent bye elections had shown the necessity for increased activity on the part of the Liberal Unionist associations, although it was a mistake to predict the issue of the next general election from the bye elections.

He feared that unless the Liberal Unionists presented their policy more clearly and showed greater activity and vigor the cause of union would be much endangered. The Irish policy of the Liberal Unionists had never been developed as a whole. Hitherto they had been compelled to prevent the cure too much as a restoration of order in Ireland. The remedial side of the policy must clearly be placed before parliament and the country, thus giving the country a chance for its approval, unaccompanied by vigorous condemnation of the unscrupulous tactics of its opponents.

Lord Hartington devoted his evening speech to a general defence of the Government against Mr. Gladstone's criticisms. He said that the Union was rescuing the Irish people from league tyranny and had been more valuable than the widest local government. He would not accuse Dillon and O'Brien of cowardice, but their action had thrown strong light on the condition of affairs in Ireland. The league had nearly ruined once prosperous Tipperary. Only the crimes act and prevented such things from being repeated throughout the length and breadth of Ireland. The present Government had perhaps made mistakes, but their work on the whole had been creditable. He was proud that they had the courage to face unpopularity. He would far rather bear reproaches for administering needfully severe laws than the responsibility which Mr. Gladstone incurred in exciting breaches and hatred of the law.

Mr. Courtney (Liberal-Unionist), Deputy Speaker of the House of Commons, had a mixed reception at a meeting of his electors this evening. He contended that a universal scheme of land purchase for Ireland was unnecessary. A resolution expressing confidence in Mr. Courtney was rejected by a large majority.

LONDON, Nov. 2.—Mr. Gladstone's McKinley tariff speech at Dundee has had one remarkable effect. It has reconverted The Times into an advocate of Mr. Gladstone and a friend to America. It is not long since that journal said that after the passage of the McKinley tariff talk about kinship and friendship with America was out of date. Now the same authority says: "We are greatly mistaken if the American people as a whole are not pleasantly impressed by the perfect tone and temper of Mr. Gladstone's observations and by the sincere and even enthusiastic nature of the feelings he entertains and which our entire nation shares with him for the great English-speaking republic across the Atlantic." No doubt Mr. Gladstone has friendly moods toward America, but the expression of them in his Dundee speech is sometimes peculiar. The McKinley tariff is, whatever its merits or defects, an American tariff, an act of American policy, adopted and approved by the majority of the American people. I am not, says Mr Gladstone, "about to bring railing accusations against the American people." Before he has finished the sentence he describes the policy of the American people as a policy of plunder and fraud, and in describing it as a monstrous injustice. Later still, he says: "The word protection is a miserable misnomer. Call it oppression. Call it delusion. Call it fraud."

The main object, however, of this ingenious address is to convince England that the McKinley tariff will do her no harm. His argument is summed up in this fine sentence: "Gentlemen, we do not deal with this country or with that country; we deal with mankind." The effect, he says, of the Act must be to raise prices in America, hence to diminish her power of exportation and hence to reduce her competition with England in the other markets of the world. If England is undermined in one of her twenty markets she gains in the other nineteen. "So," continued the great Cobdenite, "even if we go all round the world, it remains true that each country which gives greater stringency to protection within its own territories is thereby, though damaging us in its own market, giving us more command in every one of the other nineteen markets of the world." It would be a beautiful argument if the other nineteen markets were not each one of them, British colonies included, Protectionist. Mr. Gladstone, in any case, is true to his Free Trade faith. He denounces retaliation as suicidal, and clings with touching fidelity to his hope of a Free Trade millennium. Evidence averse to his own view, overwhelming though it may be, has not more effect on his mind in fiscal than in political matters. Yet all he now ventures on by way of prediction with reference to America is that a signal triumph may "possibly" be reserved for his free-trading friends in the United States. His free-trading friends here think that but cold encouragement. Some English Free Traders go so far as to doubt the wisdom of all this lecturing of Americans. One remarks: "If an American were to call Mr. Gladstone's comments impertinent we could hardly object."

Mr. Balfour's visit to Ireland had a practical object. He went to see for himself what things looked liked in those districts where the danger of famine has been supposed to be greatest. It is a remarkable tour, remarkable for nothing more than for the friendliness of his reception by the very poorest classes of the Irish people in the most congested districts. Mr. Balfour takes, it is now seen, a practical view of those responsibilities with reference to the famine which he publicly accepted some weeks since. He had then very information from others. He adds to it what can be seen with his own eyes. He went with practically no escort, of none capable of protecting him against any organized violence. The result is yet to be seen; but Mr. Balfour said at Galway that he meant to push large railway schemes in Mayo, Donegal, Cork, Kerry, and elsewhere. He will spend a million and a half in Galway. A line along western Ireland will be opened up by these railways. He returned to Dublin yesterday.

Mr. Mudie, who died this week, will always have a celebrity of his own as the founder of the present lending library system of Great Britain. He conceived the idea of lending books to the general public on payment of a small yearly subscription. He had some literary gifts, a sort of instinct for what people would wish to read, and remarkable business talents and organizing power. He created an enormous business out of nothing, modified to a considerable degree the whole course of the publishing trade in England, kept up the published price of books, and fixed in the English public the habit of borrowing instead of buying books. He even found time to form opinions on the morality of books as they came out, and set up a kind of censorship which has not done much harm or good. Mudie's is now a limited liability company with a hundred thousand subscribers, but still managed by the founder's younger son. It is noted among Mr. Mudie's claims to remembrance that he knew Emerson and published the first English edition of Mr. Lowell's poems.—G. W. S.

A Baroness a Thief.

VIENNA, Nov. 2.—Society here is greatly scandalized over the result of the trial of Baroness von Becke, who has been tried and found guilty of defrauding hotel-keepers and jewelers out of 30,000 florins. She has escaped with a nominal sentence of three weeks' imprisonment, after having made restitution of the property, on the recommendation of King Charles of Wurtemburg. The woman's real name is Amelia Beck. She boasts that the king is the father of her daughter, aged 16, who is living in Paris under the name of Frieda Fritz. Both women receive large incomes from His Majesty, but are not allowed to live in Stuttgart. The mother's insane extravagance led her into crime. She is 36 years of age and is still very beautiful.

The O'Shea Divorce Case.

LONDON, Nov. 2.—A straw that shows which way the wind is blowing is the reported resignation of Sir Henry James, Q.C., who held Captain O'Shea's brief in the pending divorce suit, on the ground of ill-health. This is generally considered as only an excuse on the part of the learned counsel, as it is known that he is quite able to prosecute the case should he so wish. The natural inference is that Sir Henry, on looking through the papers, has discovered facts that decline him to have anything further to do with the matter. Mrs. O'Shea, her friends say, has become strongly determined to conduct her part of the approaching great divorce case in person.

A YOUNG WOMAN'S CRAZY ACT.

Throwing Two Children From a High Bridge—One of the Victims Killed.

BUFFALO, Nov. 2.—One of the most terrible murders ever known in the history of Erie county was committed at Akron, 24 miles east of this city, last night. Sarah McMullen, aged 19, formerly of Buffalo, but who recently lived with Mrs. Patrick Brown, in Akron, enticed Delia Brown, aged 6, and Nellie May Connors, aged 10, on the Akron Cement Works Narrow Gauge Railroad bridge, which spans Murder creek at a height of 65 feet. Suddenly she pushed the Brown child over the side of the bridge and then grabbed Nellie May Connors and hurled her over into the abyss. Nellie was instantly killed, but, fortunately, little Delia Brown lived to tell the tale. Her arms and legs are broken and she is terribly bruised, but will, it is believed, recover. Last night the people of Akron searched for the missing girls, and at about 2 o'clock this morning succeeded in finding them. For several hours little Delia had lain on the stones at the side of the creek, unable to move. The murderess afterwards attempted suicide but was rescued vs.

Personal Liberty
Physical Slavery.

We are all free American citizens, enjoying our personal liberty; but most of us are in physical slavery, suffering from scrofula, salt rheum or some other form of impure blood. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the great blood purifier which dissolves the bonds of disease, gives health and perfect physical liberty.

DEATH HELD THE TILLER.

PARTICULARS OF THE WRECK OFF NEW JERSEY COAST.

The Death List Falls From 90 to 65—Nearly All the Hargrave's Crew Rescued—Not a Passenger on Board the Vizcaya Saved, However.

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—Seventeen more survivors of the Hargrave have been recovered, so that only one man aboard that vessel was lost.

The death list is thus reduced to 65. It is charged that the captain of the Hargrave went away in a boat with only four others, leaving the remainder of the crew to their fate. Sixteen bodies have been washed ashore on the New Jersey coast.

The passengers on the Vizcaya were only sixteen in number, including three women and four little children, and not one of them was saved as far as can be ascertained. The most distinguished and wealthy sugar king of Havana was among the lost.

Juan Pedro was thrice or four times a millionaire. He was the owner of the La Conchita, acknowledged to be the richest and most valuable sugar plantation in the island of Cuba. It is furnished with the latest improved machinery, including electrical appliances, and its value is placed by experts at $3,000,000. M. Pedro owned in addition L'Assumption, another valuable plantation in the Vuelta-Abajo region, and several smaller sugar-growing tracts. His wealth is estimated at several millions of dollars. He was born in Spain, but spent most of his life in Cuba. He was 58 years old.

M. A. Calvo, who like his friend M. Pedro, is among the dead, was a sugar merchant in Havana and was head of the firm of Francke, Sons & Co. With his wife, his baby boy of 5 years and a maid, he boarded the homeward bound trip which proved to be the tomb of himself and family. He was a millionaire and a native Cuban.

Raymon Alvarez was a wealthy Spaniard of Havana. Iscar Iaur was an Arab workingman on his way to labor on a sugar plantation. Juan Headman was a Cuban cigar-maker returning home from New York.

One of the saddest cases of all was that of Mrs. Parr and her three children. The Parrs were Germans. The husband secured a situation in the Havana waterworks about a year ago and sent for his wife. Mrs. Parr and her children arrived from Europe recently, and not stopping to rest, boarded the Vizcaya immediately. One of the children was 2 months old, another about 20 months and still another 2 years.

HANGED HIMSELF IN JAIL.

The Lacolle Madman Does Away with Himself.

ST. JOHN'S, Que., Nov. 2.—The man Blais, who has been in custody here since his murderous assault upon Sheriff Larcau and Constable Lajeunesse at Lacolle last Wednesday, committed suicide in the jail yesterday. The turnkey, in going his usual rounds this morning about 11 o'clock, discovered Blais suspended in the corridor, he having made a rope out of his bed sheets and made them fast to an iron girder.

The latest advices from Lacolle state that his victims are still in a precarious condition, both having been frightfully hacked about the head with an axe.

SHOT BY A COMPANION.

A Hole the Size of a Teacup Bored in a Boy's Shoulder.

PORT CREDIT, Nov. 2.—David Reid and 15-year-old John Kevill were out shooting in the woods near here. The surgeon in attendance on the injured boy will endeavor to save the arm. After the accident Kevill pluckily walked nearly a mile to the nearest farm house.

Alleged Abduction of a Boy.

HAMILTON, Nov. 2.—Benjamin Smith, a former from near Bonnet's Corners, was charged with abducting James Lennox, an 11-year-old boy, on Saturday, Oct. 18. At the Police Court yesterday James Lennox, the boy alleged to have been abducted, testified: "Mr. Smith met me and said he would give 25 cents for each bag or 25 cents if I stayed with him till he sold his potatoes. After we got through selling the potatoes he kept promising me the quarter, but said he could not get change. I wanted to get out when we returned to Concession-street, but he said, 'Wait till we get to the top of the mountain and get your quarter. I want to be honest.' When we got to the top I tried to get out, but he put his arm around me and struck the horse with the whip. We met Willie McDonald and Willie McDonald in a buggy. They said 'Hello!' I was going to call out to them and he said, 'You had better shut up or I'll knock you over.' We then went on and he asked me a lot of questions about my father. After we got to a place he took a lantern and showed me the work I would have to do around the barn next morning. I had to work at shoveling beans, barley and stuff while the threshing was going on."

The magistrate considered that a prima facie case had been made out and the prisoner was committed for trial. The magistrate also declined to take bail.

A Remarkable Performance by a Western Carrier Pigeon.

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 1.—The best speed that has ever been made by an American pigeon for the distance of 100 miles and the best speed ever made to any loft west of Philadelphia from any distance has been attained by a Milwaukee bird.

The bird, the b.c.c. Apology, belonged to the Tower loft and was liberated for the last race of the season with five entries from Green Bay, Wis.

The start was made at 9½ a.m. and the winner returned at 9:58 a.m., making an average speed of 1375 yards per minute, winning the President's cup, the Commercial Pigeon Flying Club's prize of $25 in gold and diploma. The second was Zalesky's Jack Daisy, average speed 1236 yards, winning the club's purse of $10 and diploma. The third was Rostock's Rich Now or Never, average speed 1201 yards, winning the purse of $5 and diploma.

Two Wives to Support.

KINGSTON, Nov. 2.—Mrs. J. A. Kincaid of Alexandria Bay, N.Y., is seeking a divorce and alimony on the ground of cruelty. The defendant charges her with infidelity and asks for an absolute divorce for himself. The pair have been married 17 years and until a few years ago he maintained his wife. His father was a wealthy citizen of Brockville, Ont., but refused to support his son. When the latter died he left a large insurance sum, and the wife wants some share in the windfall. Kincaid is said to have a Canadian wife, who is now receiving $800 per year alimony from the States.

MONTREAL, Nov. 2.—A demented deaf mute, almost perished from hunger and cold, was found at Logan's schoolhouse and was placed in the lockup here over night, being subsequently committed to Stratford jail. A few hours later a relative of his appeared upon the scene and took him away, stating that the unfortunate man's name was Stewart and that his home was in Grey, near Brussels. He had left home on Sunday, and his friends had been searching for him since that time.

At the conclusion of the crown testimony Judge Street decided that Roche had received no notice that the fatal culvert was out of repair on June 17 last, and the jury was dismissed without the railway company having to call a witness.

OTTAWA, Oct. 28.—William Lawson of Billings' Bridge was in the city yesterday attending to business, and was apparently in his usual health and spirits. Upon reaching home he did not complain of feeling unwell, but while talking to his wife he suddenly rallied upon his elbow
